COL. WILSON FOR MAYOR

NOMINATED BY BOROUGH DEMOCRATS SATURDAY NIGHT.

A Complete Ticket Put in the Field Against the Republicans—An Attempt Made to Have it Known as the Citizens'

A goodly number of Democrats met in the basement of the North Plainfield Public High School last Saturday evening and put in nomination a ticket for the coming election. There was a marked interest owing to the fact that there seems to be differences in the ranks of the G. O. P., and those present felt strongly the possibility of winning.

Lambert Bodine called the meeting to order and H. O. Hance was made chairman. The secretary chosen was G. W. Bird. Mr. Hance in taking the chair congratulated those present.

For the office of Mayor, Col. John F. Wilson was nominated by Charles Lyman, and in placing the name before the meeting Mr. Lyman said that Mr. Wilson was not only a large property owner but a very popular man, and with him at the head of the ticket success was sure.

In each case the secretary cast the ballot and those who served as tellers were W. L. Linbarger and Elston M. French. The rest of the ticket was nominated in the same way and those who were the choice of the voters were as follows:

Councilmen, E. T. Douglass, G. W. Bird; Justice of the Peace, Wm. L. Saunders; Commissioner of Appeal, Elston M. French; Surveyors of Highway, L. M. Bird, David D. Smalley; Constable, D. J. Carney.

The office of pound-keeper was left vacant by unanimous consent. Wm. L. Saunders, Elston M. French and Charles Lyman were selected as a committee to fill vacancies, notify the the nominees and make the appropriotions.

Mr. Lyman stated that inasmuch as the Democrats would expect to receive a liberal share of patronage from the Republicans he thought it would be well to head the ticket with the name "citizens'," for there would be a large number of people who would vote the ticket that way where they would not if it was headed Democratic. This he thought would be good politics. There were others present, however, who did not favor the idea and they made a strong fight to have the ticket the same as usual. Finally, Elston M. French made a motion to conform to the idea suggested by Mr. Lyman, but it was not carried.

Several of the nominees who were present signed the paper of acceptance and the committee called on the other nominees before midnight to secure their names.

Those who were present at the meeting comprised a number of the best Democrats in the borough, and they are determined to make a fight for the honors to be given out on Tuesday, March 9th.

OF HIGH SOCIAL CHARM.

TWENTY-SECOND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF MR. & MRS. NIGHTINGALE.

The Occasion Made a Pleasant by the Presence of the Saturday Night Euchre Club.—The House Prettily Trimmed.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Nightingale, of Sandford avenue, was last Saturday evening the scene of an event of the highest social charm when they had the unique distinction of celebrating the twenty-second anniversary of their marriage as well as entertaining the Saturday Night Euchre Club, of which they are members.

The attractive home of the host and hostess was decorated with taste and beauty. The prevailing color was pink and this idea was executed with a profusion of pink roses and carnations, and here and there a choice potted plant. The use of ferns and smilax added not a little to the artful method used in decorating. In the dining room the table was richly embellished with the prevailing color. Suspended from the chandelier and reaching to the four corners of the table were broad bands of pink ribbon, forming a canopy beneath which the guests were seated. There was also a profuse display of roses and carnations intermingled with smilax.

The fore part of the evening assumed the form of a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale were assisted in receiving their guests by Mr. and Mrs. Tunis, of New York, and they were showered with congratulations. Following this bit of pleasantry, the members of the club and their guests engaged in the feature of the evening which was euchre. Six tables were filled and during the progress of the game, sweet music was rendered by an orchestra of string instruments. A spirited rivalry was evidenced in the attempt to win the honors and toward the last there was the most intense interest.

The favored ones were Miss Force, who received, as a first prize for the ladies, a solid silver salad fork, while Mrs. DeLong was presented with a beautiful foliage plant as second prize. For the gentlemen, Assemblyman W. B. Codington won first honors, a handsome silk umbrella, and the second honors, a (stein) loving-cup, was received by Mr. Nightingale.

Departing from the usual custom of the club, supper was served after the game, and this part of the programme was indeed a pleasant one. The eagerness to secure a ring which was hidden in a cake afforded additional pleasure to the guests, and when it was learned that Miss Scrymser was the fortunate one, she was congratulated.

During the evening an unlooked for surprise was enjoyed by the host and hostess, when Mr. Terhune, on behalf of the club, presented them with a very handsome cut-glass berry dish. In presenting the gift Mr. Terhune displayed that rare wit and humor for which he is noted, and the happy response on the part of the recipients showed that they were equal to the occasion.

The club had the honor of entertaining as their guests Miss Scrymser and Miss Buck, of Baltimore; Miss DeCamp, of Chester; Mr. and Mrs. Tunis, of New York; Whitfield Terriberry and Dr. Chas. R. Thiers, of this city.

The guests in departing extended to Mr. and Mrs. Nightingale their best wishes and many happy returns of the day.

A News Error Corrected.

The News, with its usual regard to the truth, in its issue of February 20th publishes the decision of Judge McCormick in the case of the Conklin heirs of Plainfield against Theodore I. Miller, of Park avenue, (not Philaphia,) as a victory for Mr. Miller, the defendent. The truth of the matter is that the decision was in favor of the plaintiffs and obliges the said Miller to refund to the estate about $4,000, which decidedly proves the victory to be the other way. The records of the Court will substantiate the above statement.

Led by a Reverend Woman.

A very helpful meeting was held at the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday at 4 o'clock p. m. It was led by Rev. Ella C. Leonard, of Denver. Several very interesting testimonies were given and special music was rendered. These meetings are steadily growing in interest. Nothing is allowed to weaken the faith of those having the meetings in charge, as the Lord is on their side and the battle will surely be won.

Engagement Announced.

LESS HOURS AT TRENTON

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE WILL ADJOURN FOR THE INAUGURATION.

Equal Taxation and the Bicycle Baggage Bill Will Occupy the Most Attention—Constitutional Amendments.

The eighth week of the present session of the Legislature will not occupy much of the time of the lawmakers. The House will probably adjourn on Tuesday afternoon, as more than half of the members will go to Washington to attend the inauguration. The Senate will remain in session longer, if it has business, as but few of the Senators will go to Washington.

Most of the time of the House will be given up to the consideration of the equal taxation question in Committee of the Whole this evening, and the Gledhill Bicycle Baggage bill on Tuesday morning. The friends of these measures made a combination to get them before the House, but it is not thought that the combination is strong enough to get them passed, at least until amended. It is the understanding that the taxation bill recommended by the Equal Taxation Commission will be passed, since it is satisfactory to the railroads. Jersey City will accept it if nothing better can be had and the financial officers of the State make no serious objection to the proposition to divert to Jersey City a larger proportion of the railroad taxes than she now receives.

Jersey City would benefit by this bill about $120,000 a year. The Bicycle Baggage bill, it is understood, is to be amended by its friends, so that the railroads shall not be compelled to carry the bicycles on the same train with the owners, and requiring the removal of lanterns and cyclometers before the wheels are checked for transportation. A large delegation of the L. A. W. will be here on Tuesday, but it is doubtful if either the Bicycle or the Equal Tax bills will be disposed of until after the members return from Washington.

The delay over the consideration of the Constitutional amendments is due to the fact that the Senate is almost equally divided over the two Judiciary amendments, one of which was adopted last year, and the other proposed by Senator Johnson, of Bergen county, this year.

The former creates a Supreme Court of at least fifteen members, including the Chief Justice and eight Supreme Court Justices and the Chancellor and five Vice Chancellors, with law, equity, and appellate jurisdiction, and the latter provides for a separate and distinct court of errors and appeals. The objection to the first is that it will overturn the system of practice with which the lawyers are familar, and also will in a few years result in Justice VanSyckle being made Chief Justice by virtue of seniority. To the Johnson amendment the objection is made that it will increase the cost of the Judiciary Department and will defer action by the people on the other five amendments for a year. Senator Voorhees is the champion of one amendment, and Senator Johnson of the other, and both are receiving assistance from eminent lawyers, including, it is said, members of the Judiciary. The Senators are so evenly divided that neither Voorhees nor Johnson is willing to risk taking a vote yet.

ACTING QUEER.

Westfield Man Taken in Hand by Police for Safe Keeping.

Chas. Austin, who said he hailed from Westfield, was found wandering about in an uncertain state near the Revere House, Saturday night, and he was taken in charge by the police. The man had committed no offence that would justify his arrest and incarceration, but his actions were so strange that it was deemed advisable to care for him over night at least. When questioned at the station house he was very rational, and it was only after close questioning that his name and address was worked from him. Yesterday morning the man seemed rational, so Chief Grant bought him a ticket and put him on a train for home.

"CASTE" CLEVERLY REPRODUCED.

"Caste," the amateur theatrical success of the early winter, was repeated Saturday night at Music Hall before one of the largest audiences that ever witnessed an amateur performance in Plainfield. The profits from the affair will go to that ever popular charity, the Muhlenberg Hospital, which will be benefited to the extent of something over $200.

The first production of the play was reviewed at length in these columns, and the caste of characters was the same on Saturday night as it was in December, with the unimportant exception of Dixon, a servant. Everything that was said in praise of the performance at that time may be repeated now, except perhaps that the second performance was not quite as spirited or as smooth as the first. The individual work was nevertheless unexceptionable, and the players took every advantage of the better stage accommodations which Music Hall affords.

Selection—"Wizard of the Nile".....Morse
Waltz—"Non E'ver".....Waldteufel
Overture—"Light Cavalry".....Weber
Finale—"Golf Club".....Barker

The stage looked very well indeed, and was under the direction of J. Parker Mason, who has been stage manager for most of the successful amateur performances given in Plainfield.

The properties and stage decorations were kindly loaned by the following well-known tradesmen: Furniture by Packer; flowers and floral decorations by Miss A. E. Lincoln; rugs by White; lamps by Gavett, pictures by Swain; fire-place goods by C. M. Thorpe, and house-furnishings by A. M. Griffen.

X-RAY MACHINE AT HOSPITAL.

One of the latest intentions, or rather discoveries, of interest to the surgical world is the X ray instrument. All of the up-to-date hospitals are having the apparatus placed in their laboratories and now Plainfield's hospital is to have one also. A friend of Dr. Endicott, of the medical staff of Muhlenberg Hospital, has just presented the Board of Governors of the hospital with $200 with which to purchase an X-ray instrument. The gift was received with thanks and the instrument will be placed in position for use in a short time.

BLOWN DOWN OR UPSET?

THE QUESTION IS, DID THE WIND OR HAY WAGON DO IT.

At Any Rate Mrs. Annie Huffman Found Them Knocked Over and She Would Not Pay the Mason Who Built Them.

The stone pillars in front of the residence of Mrs. Annie Huffman, near Fanwood were the subjects of interest and the question was whether they were blown down by the wind or upset by a hay wagon. The question was such an important one that Justice Newcorn was called upon to decide.

Some time ago summons were issued by that Justice in the case of Wm. H. Smith against Mrs. Annie Huffman. Smith is a mason and sued for payment for the erection of these pillars, or posts, which he alleged was due. He had first built these posts and they had then come to grief. Mrs. Huffman had ordered him to rebuild them as she said they had not been put up properly or the wind would not have blown them down. He had repaired them and on her refusal to pay any more, sued her to recover the amount which he alleged was due him.

The case came up in Justice Newcorn's new office this morning. The plaintiff was represented by Fred Pope, of Somerville, while the defendant's lawyer was Counsellor W. K. McClure.

Mrs. Huffman claimed that Smith's workmen had not done their duty when Smith was not around, but had loafed about the yard and that she was not going to pay for the time they idled away.

Mr. Smith and most of his workmen that had been at the house were in attendance and gave their testimony. Pope tried to shake Mrs. Huffman's testimony regarding the way in which the posts had been upset by the wind.

Justice Newcorn reserved his decision.

TROLLEY RIVALRY.

Two Companies Striving to Obtain Franchises to Run Over Same Route.

Trolley matters are lively in Middlesex county. Friday evening representatives of the Brunswick Traction Company and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company met at a public hearing given to the former company on its petition to construct a road through the borough of Bound Brook.

Partisans of both sides were on hand. Vice-President MacAfee, of the New York and Philadelphia company, charged the Brunswick company with working a game of bluff, saying that its only object was to block his company. Mr. MacAfee's company secured a franchise two years ago, but has not begun work. He exclaimed in reply to a question that his company wanted a new ordinance, because it desired to change the style of rail.

Fred Weigel, representing the Brunswick Traction Company, retorted warmly to the charges of Mr. MacAfee, and charged that the bluff was on the part of the other company. Its excuse about rails, he said, was only so many words, and if it had intended to build it would have done it before. Action on the petion was deferred.

GAVE BLOWS FOR FAVORS

A NEGRO ASSAULTED A MAN IN HIS OWN LIBRARY.

M. L. Freeman Befriended the Fellow Who Finally Became so Importuning That He Was Refused—Will be Arrested.

Assaulted and beaten in his own home by a negro he had befriended, Marcus L. Freeman is now preparing to obtain redress through the courts.

Marcus L. Freeman resides in Netherwood on South avenue, just beyond Leland avenue. His house sits some distance from the road. There is a colored man named George Young, better known as "Sam," who formerly worked around Freeman's place and received in return his lodging and clothes. The colored man spent but a portion of his time there and tried his hand at what ever he could get for the rest of the day. Sam arrived here from the scuth some time ago and has always found a good friend in Freeman.

Saturday morning, Mr. Freeman lent the colored man 25 cents. That evening, at about 9 o'clock, Young came into the library where Mr. Freeman was reading and said that he wanted to borrow 15 cents more to go to Plainfield. Freeman said that the money he had given him in the morning ought to be enough, but the colored said no. Then, according to Freeman's story, the assault was committed.

After more money was refused him, the colored man turned, it is alleged, and struck the other man on the temple. The blow came without warning and Freeman was stunned by the force of it. Another followed which landed heavily on Freeman's eye. Other blows were rained down on his head and neck. He managed to crawl to the door where a breath of fresh air revived him. He then staggered upstairs, leaving his dusky guest in possession of the library.

In his room upstairs Freeman dragged out his gun, loaded it with a trembling hand, for he had not recovered from the effects of the rough handling. He then started down stairs to interview his assailant of a few minutes before. There was no one in the library, however, and a search failed to reveal any signs of the colored man.

Mr. Freeman suffered severely in the assault. One eye was in a bad condition, while he was badly bruised about the head. He came to this city yesterday morning and appeared before Justice Newcorn. A complaint was made and a warrant sworn out for George Young on the charge of assault and battery.

A complaint was also made in the city court.

Young was arested this morning at Freeman's house by Chief Grant and Roundsman Frederickson, and placed in the lockup to await his hearing this afternoon.

The man was unable to furnish bail and Justice Newcoan committed him to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Young admitted that he had assaulted Mr. Freeman, but that the latter had also done something to him.

FELL INTO A BAPTISMAL POOL.

Unfortunate Predicament of a First Church of Christ Member.

An unfortunate accident occurred at the First Church of Christ last evening just previous to the baptism of two candidates. The baptismal pool was uncovered by John Staats, an official of the church, after which he took a seat in the audience. Presently word was sent to him that he was wanted in the rooms back of the pool. In his haste to answer the call he did not think about the pool being uncovered and he ascended the steps to cross the platform. Before he could regain himself he tripped and fell headlong into the pool. The sudden splash of water startled the congregation and it was with difficulty that laughter was suppressed. Mr. Staats escaped as quickly as possible and retired to his home. The baptism was continued a little later in the evening.

Former Postmaster Becomes Insane.

Former Postmaster James S. Fisher, of Flemington, who served under the administration of President Harrison, was taken to the State Insane Asylum at Morris Plains yesterday morning. A sudden spell of sickness, which almost resulted in his death, while traveling through Pennsylvania, is said to have resulted in his present condition. His recovery is expected.

LAST DAY AT CANTON

Major McKinley Will Begin His Journey to Washington To-night.

HE BIDS ADIEU TO HIS NEIGHBORS

Some of Those Who Will Accompany Him---Several Thousand Citizens of Canton To Escort Him to the Train.

Canton, O., March 1.—Major McKinley's last Sunday at Canton before setting out for Washington to be inaugurated president of the United States was marked by no unusual happenings. He went to the Methodist church, of which he has been a member since he was seventeen years old. The church has a seating capacity exceeding 1,000 and it was crowded. Major McKinley drove to the church and was accompanied by Capt. H. O. Heistand and George E. Morse of San Francisco, who married one of the president-elect's nieces. Snow was falling rapidly, and almost obscured Major McKinley's figure as he walked from the carriage to the church. Dr. C. E. Manchester, the pastor, who was a member of Major McKinley's regiment during the war, said in his prayer: "Oh Lord, bless our nation. Grant that peace and righteousness may prevail. We pray Thee that Thy blessing may be on the president of the United States in the closing days of his administration and that nothing may be done displeasing to Thee. Let Thy blessing rest upon Thy servant who has been chosen to be the chief executive of this nation. We pray Thee to go with him, give him great faith in Thee; may he be sustained by the prayers of Thy people, that he may carry out Thy will. We pray Thee to manifest Thyself to him and to all of us."

Tribute to Mother McKinley.

Dr. Manchester found his text in the third verse of the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew: "The Lord hath need." His theme was the higher life. In speaking of the higher life, he paid, in a delicate way, a beautiful tribute to Mother McKinley. In conclusion, Dr. Manchester said: "How shall we preserve the peace of nations? What are we to do for this great land of ours? There is one thought in all our minds this morning as our dear brother and friend goes out to take up the duties that lie before him: Our prayers that he do aright the great work set before him."

The Presidential Train.

B. F. McKinley of San Francisco, an uncle of the president-elect, arrived in Canton yesterday. He will accompany the presidential party to Washington. All preparations to leave Canton to-night have been made at the McKinley home. Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Williams of Chicago, who are to share the private car occupied by Major and Mrs. McKinley, arrived to-day. The presidential train will consist of seven cars, a combination baggage and smoking car, a handsome new Pullman for the newspaper correspondents, a dining car, two Pullmans, a private car for Mother McKinley and her party and a second private car, which will be the last car on the train and will be occupied by the president-elect. The train will be preceded by one bearing the Cleveland troop, which is going to do escort duty. There will be about sixty-five persons on Major McKinley's special train, most of them being relatives or close personal friends of the president-elect. The train conveying the president-elect is scheduled to arrive in Washington at 11 o'clock to-morrow. It will not be run at a high rate of speed on account of Major McKinley's venerable mother and other ladies who will be passengers on it. Safety and comfort will be sought rather than swiftness. Major McKinley will say a few words of farewell to his friends and neighbors this afternoon. He is to be escorted to the train by several thousand people, and the streets along the line of march will be brilliantly illuminated.

BIG SEIZURE OF OPIUM.

San Francisco, March 1.—Special agents of the treasury have seized nearly $400,000 worth of opium alleged to have been imported into this country illegally. The treaty with China provides that a subject of one country shall not import opium into the territory of the other. The opium in question was the property of Fong Tai, a Chinese merchant, who had the drug consigned to H. P Davidson, an employe of the Bank of British Columbia. It is not likely that either will be prosecuted, for in case of failure to convict the opium would have to be returned, while now it can be sold at public auction.

Disfigured His Sweetheart for Life.

Buffalo, March 1.—In a fit of jealous rage Dennis H. Allen, foreman in the steamfitting department of the Niagara Furnace works, threw a bottle of vitriol into the face of Margaret Brighton, a former sweetheart, with whom he had quarrelled. The woman was terribly burned and will be disfigured for life. Allen was arrested. The woman was born in Scranton, Pa She is about 22 years of age.

Narrowly Escaped Foundering.

Queeenstown, March 1.—The British steamer Beresford, which has arrived here from Galveston and Norfolk, ran into a gale on Feb. 17, the seas sweeping over the vessel and smashing her boats. She narrowly escaped foundering.

Oklahoma Prohibits Gold Contracts.

Perry, Okla., March 1.—The Oklahoma legislature has passed a bill prohibiting the making of gold contracts, and it will become a law.

THE 54TH CONGRESS

RECORD-BREAKER IN ONE RESPECT

Over 10,000 Bills and 2,000 Resolutions Introduced in the House Alone. Appropriations Exceeded a Billion Dollars.

Washington, March 1.—The Fifty-fourth congress, which will expire at noon on Wedneseay, in one respect—in the number of bills and resolutions introduced—was a record-breaker. In the house alone over 10,400 bills and 3,100 resolutions were introduced and referred to the various committees. Only a fraction of these passed the house and still fewer became laws. The principal business of the congress, aside from the passage of the appropriation bills, was limited to the first session, the net results of which were the enactment into law of the bills creating the commission to determine the true divisional line between Venezuela and British Guiana; prohibiting prizefighting in the territories; permitting the appointment in the army and navy of former United States officers who served in the confederacy; making one year's residence in a territory necessary for a divorce; incorporating the National Society of the Daughters of the Revolution; defining the penalty for interference with railway trains and persons riding thereon, and substituting salaries for fees to United States marshals and district-attorneys. Aside from the foregoing measures, the remaing bills (excepting the immigration bill and the joint resolution for an international monetary conference, passed at the second session) were of no general interest. Included in these were 700 private pension bills—an unusual number. In another respect the Fifty-fourth congress was remarkable. This was its failure to pass a single bill providing for public buildings. The house calendar contained 100 bills of this class including the senate bill for a custom house in New York city. Notwithstanding this circumstance, the present congress is the third in American history in which the appropriations have exceeded a billion dollars. A number of important measures which were reported to the house last session and were expected to receive favorable consideration during the present session were either defeated or were left on the calendar. The bill to settle the indebtedness of the bond-aided railways to the government, which was a legacy from the last session, suffered a crushing defeat in January last. In the preceding session upwards of fifty resolutions bearing upon the Cuban insurrection were introduced, although but one passed the house. During the present session the Cuban resolutions introduced have been few in number. The ways and means committee gave a series of hearings during the early weeks of the session and the remainder of the time was occupied by the republican members in formulating a new tariff bill. This will follow the general lines of the McKinley law of 1890, and will be reported to the house at the beginning of the extra session of the next congress. All of the contested election cases, thirty-three in number, have been disposed of. The work of the senate during the past session has not been heavier than usual. The number of bills introduced generally runs up above 3,000, and this session the total has reached 3,732. Much of the time of the senate has been consumed in the discussion of questions relating to our foreign relations, and while no positive action of any kind has been take many columns of the Congressional Record have been filled with speeches on these topics. Cuban resolutions have been introduced and pressed for action by the score, but beyond precipitating debate nothing has been accomplished. A treaty with Japan has been ratified, putting into immediate operation the clause of the treaty of commerce and navigation negotiated two years ago. The general treaty of arbitration with Great Britain, after being fruitlessly considered for two weeks, went over until the next session. The Alaskan boundary treaty with Great Britain has not even been considered in commitee. The Nicraguan canal bill, which was debated for several weeks, was on the point of final passage with a comfortable majority in front of it when the protest of the minister representing the Greater Central American Republics was received.

Wool Combine in Boston.

Boston, March 1.—A syndicate was recently formed in this city to but all the wool offered in European markets in anticipation of the duty expected to be put on wool by the McKinley administration. The syndicate has a large amount of money, and only few days ago cabled $3,000,000 to London agents. It is calculated that 1,000,000 bales of Australian and South American wool will be brought into this country by the syndicate, and, as each bale has about 500 pounds, the total will be 500,000,000 pounds. If the duty be placed at 10 cents per pound, the syndicate is bound to clear $50,000,000.

PARDONED HIMSELF.

A Good Story of How a Politician Settled Judge and Jury.

"Yes, gentlemen, I'm the man that pardoned himself," and the popular statesman indulged in a contemplative chuckle.

"When I made my first run for Governor I had the temerity to invade the stronghold of the opposition and make a speech there. I guess that I must have touched them in a pretty effective manner, for there was hissing, yelling, and caterwauling while I spoke, and that night I was burned in effigy.

"In order to meet my next engagement I hired a rig and a hangdog-looking fellow to drive it. I paid the liveryman before I left and gave the driver $2 extra when we reached my destination. But the fellow disappeared with the rig, and within the week I was arrested on a charge of horse stealing. It was such a barefaced proceeding that I rather welcomed it because of the political capital it afforded. I gave bail and proceeded with my canvass, telling the story with gusto and winning sympathy all along the line. When it came to the trial the jury against me may not have been packed, but it was made up of bitter political enemies, and they actually found me guilty, and I was promptly sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

"But meantime I had been elected Governor, taken the oath of office, and been installed. It was a situation that made the lawyers study with wet towels around their heads, and tore the state up from one end to the other. I cut the knot in one slash by issuing a pardon from myself to myself, and sitting down hard on the presiding Judge. Everybody laughed, and there wasn't a political prize I couldn't have for the asking."—Detroit Free Press.

Canned Meat for the North Seas.

"Ten or fifteen years ago," says a business man quoted by the Philadelphia Record, "the canned meats put up in square tins by the American houses were sold in great quantities in Samoa. It was not long before Australian and New Zealand packers saw that they were missing a good thing, so they sent out agents who circulated a story among the natives to the effect that cheap American meats were composed in part of human flesh. They said that in the process of preparing the bones of dead Chinamen for shipment to the Celestial empire from SanFrancisco the meat was canned and labeled "beef" for Pacific island consumption. The story gained credence to such an extent that the natives shunned the square tins, and could only be induced to buy the round flat tins put up by Australian and New Zealand houses.

Couldn't Say the Creed in English.

People educated in countries speaking a language different from that of the student's place of nativity often assert that they think in the language in which they were educated and one of the most beloved members of the Catholic clergy in this city tells a story of himself illustrating this peculiarity of the mind. "On my return from a trip to Europe," says he, "I was asked one Sunday to conduct the religious services aboard the ship. I knew that many of my auditors were Protestants, and, in deference to what I thought to be their wishes, I conducted a service in English. When I tried to recite the creed, however, I actually found that I could not say it without prompting. Practically all my life I had been saying the creed in Latin, and actually did not know it in English."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Good Enough to Pawn.

The 11th Hussars had arrived in Dublin one day, and their notoriety made them a great attraction.

After a levee at the castle, one of their officers was walking down Sackville street one beautiful sunny afternoon in the month of July, in his full dress, and he was met by two Irishmen fresh from the interior of the country.

Quite staggered by the glittering and gorgeous apparition clanking towards them, they riveted their eyes on the blazing gold and blue figure and, with a wondering gaze, the one exclaimed to the other, with a sharp nudge in the ribs and a look of exquisite fun:

"Begorra, shouldn't I like to pawn him!"—Person's Weekly

Care to our coffin adds a nail, no doubt, And every grin, so merry, draws one out.—John Wolcott.

Blue Butter.

In India, butter made from the thin milk of the native cow is blue, instead of yellow. "When I came across this azure substance," said a travelled lady, "I vowed I would not touch it; but others did so, with evident enjoyment; and curiosity getting the upper hand, I tried the butter, and, to my surprise, found it delicious. You who have been used to the golden fresh butter of England can hardly realize what it is to see bread apparently spotted blue."—Tid-Bits.

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

JUST AS GOOD IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

OBSERVER HAVEN'S PENCIL.

For Forty Years it Recorded the Arrival of Vessels at This Port.

This is a story of the conservativeness of age, the carelessness of youth, and a slate pencil. Everybody about the Highlands of Navesink knows Mr. Haven, the veteran observer, who watches for the coming of the twin lights. More than forty years ago he began to keep this vigil in a tower that stood, then in front of the lighthouses and a little below them on the hill. Among the first appurtenances that he got for his office was a common school slate and a slate pencil with which to record the sighting of vessels. He tied the slate pencil to the slate with a bit of string, and scribbled away with it year after year. When the new tower was built the slate and pencil went with him to the new quarters, and first and last that one pencil has recorded the arrival and sailing of almost every ship that has visited this port for more than an average generation of mankind.

Finally it was thought desirable to give the veteran some help, and a grandson came into the office to assist him. When the younger Haven began making the records there was still a good two inches of the old pencil left. Almost the first thing that the grandson did was to lose that stub, which had in it years yet of usefulness. Mr. Haven's neighbors say that he looked upon that two inches of slate pencil almost as one of the family, and that he mourned its loss as if it had been one of them.—New York Sun.

A Mouse Quarter Century Run.

A wheelman hung his bicycle from the ceiling of his cellar, and not far from a swinging shelf on which food was kept. A mouse jumped from the wall on to the tire of the front wheel, evidently hoping thereby to reach the shelf. The wheel started, and mousie naturally ran toward the highest part of it. It was able to stay on the top of the tire, but couldn't get enough of a foothold to jump to the wall. When found next morning the mouse was very much exhausted, though still running. The cyclometer showed that it had traveled over twenty-eight miles.—Albany Express.

The Pig Was All Right.

Father Flynn: "Why don't you have your pig-sty farther from your house, Geogan?" Geogan: "Phat for, yer riverence?" Father Flynn: "Because it's unhealthy." Geogan: "Divil a bit, yer riverence! The pig has niver had a sick day since he wuz born!"

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? STRICKEN CRETE.

Fighting Continues and Famine May Add to the Horror of the Situation.

Canea, March 1.—The presence of foreign warships off this port has not had the effect of preventing fighting between the insurgents and Turks save in the town itself, where a comparatively small force of marines was recently landed for the purpose of preserving order. A skirmish occurred yesterday afternoon at Malaxa, a short distance from Canea, in which the Turks were worsted, although they outnumbered the Christians. A Turkish warship in Suda bay yesterday began the bombardment of a position occupied by the insurgents, but before she had done much firing her commander received word from the representatives of the foreign powers that he must silence his guns or take the consequences. This is the second time that the insurgents near Suda bay have been fired on by a Turkish warship. The Greek leader, Korakas, who, at the head of 5,000 insurgents, has invaded the town of Heraklion, has given permission to the Turks to leave the place in order that they may cultivate the lands adjacent to the town. His action, however, is looked upon with suspicion by many Moslems, they believing that it is his intention to benefit from the labors of the Turks by seizing the crops when they are ripe. On the other hand, those who are acquainted with the character of Korakas declare he is just and humane and that his only object in permitting the Turks to till the fields is to prevent suffering from famine among the women and children in the beleaguered town. Several British and Italian officers recently visited the camp of Korkaas, where they were treated with much courtesy. They were astonished by the excellent discipline maintained among the insurgents and the perfection of their organization, all of which is due to Korakas, who appears to be a born leader of men. He is enthusiastic in support of the cause of the Cretans, and his force will prove no unimportant factor should Turkey attempt to quell the insurrection by force of arms.

Famine Threatens Crete.

Athens, March 1.—The consuls at Heraklien have sent a joint telegram confirming the reports of a threatened famine there, and begging the powers to hasten a settlement of the Cretan question. They say that every day's delay may cost hundreds of lives.

GREECE'S POSITION HOPELESS.

The Turks Immeasurably Better Prepared for War by Land.

Berlin, March 1.—The kaiser has been in consultation with German officers who have served in the reorganization of the Turkish army and has obtained during the present crisis reports from the German staff still connected with sultan's forces. Their reports concur in stating that the position of Greece if assailed by land is absolutely hopeless. The Turks are immeasurably better prepared for an immediate campaign on the Thessalian frontier. The porte seems to have anticipated a possible outbreak of war with Greece, and got ready for it. During last month they had 20,000 troops around the base of Olympus and were prepared to direct that force in two columns from the Olympus and Elassona districts upon Larissa. This army has been reinforced to 45,000. Against them the Greeks have but a feeble force between Larissa and Pharsalia, and only began when the war storm seemed gathering to throw up some works around Larissa, which had long been projected but persistently neglected. These Turkish frontier troops are well supplied with artillery, the infantry are armed with the Peabody-Martini rifle and they are well led and altogether in good trim. According to the opinion of the German officers best able to calculate the course of the campaign, the Turkish force by itself would suffice to overrun the Greek mainland. Of course a prolonged war, in which the powers would stand aloof and let Turkey once more conquer Greece, is not to be thought of. The total war strength of Greece would count for something only if Turkey had simultaneously to suppress insurrections in Macedonia, and to meet in the field the combined forces of Servia, Bulgaria and Montenegro. Even then, if none of the great powers intervene, the military opinion here quototed believes that the Turks would hold their own. The defenseless condition of Greece, and the awful consequences of unchaining the tremendous forces of war and rapine in European Turkey were undoubtedly the weightiest conditions with the kaiser.

Tall Englishmen to See Menelek.

London, March 1.—The British official mission to Emperor Menelek of Abyssinia is intended to impress him with the size of Englishmen. The mission will consist of nine members, each of whom is over six feet tall. The leader, Rennell Rodd, and the military secretary, Lord Edward Cecil, Lord Salisbury's fourth son, are both six feet three inches in height. The mission will leave Cairo about the middle of March.

France Has Trouble with the Boers.

Paris, March 1.—The Gaulois says that the brutalities and vexations which are being practiced by the Boer government against French citizens and French industries are engaging the attention of a number of the members of the chamber of deputies, with the possible result of the intervention of the French government.

WICKED SENATORS

NEARLY 70 PRESENT LAST NIGHT

Such a Remarkable and Unusual Occurrence Caused a Great Rush to the Galleries—The Sundry Civil Bill Passed.

Washington, March 1.—An open session of the United States senate on a Sunday afternoon is such a remarkable and unusual occurrence, and so much at variance with the religious sentiment of the country that crowds were attracted to the north wing of the capitol an hour befor 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the time to which the senate at half-past 2 in the morning had taken a recess. All classes and conditions of people were in the crowd. Some were on hand early enough to obtain seats in that section of the galleries that is open to the general public. Others who were the holders of tickets to reserved sections presented them and were admitted, so long as any space was left. Those who could not get inside stationed themselves near the gallery doors, waiting their chances of admission or wandering listlessly up and down the marble staircases and the spacious halls. As to the senators, themselves, the day seemed to make no difference to them. They were present in about the usual number, a vote taken soon after the proceedings began showing that there were nearly seventy senators in the hall, some of them being paired. Nor was there any noticeable distinction as to the men representing the New England states and the men representing sections of the country where Sabbath observance is not so general or strict. And business went on just as it does on week days, except there was a noticeable absence of Cuban agitation.

Hill Opposed to Sunday Sessions.

It was strictly a business session, and consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill was immediatley resumed. An item relating to electric lighting in the District of Columbia, to which Mr. Hill, dem., N. Y., was opposed, gave that senator an opportunity of expressing his views in relation to a Sunday session of the senate. He had doubted the propriety of the senate meeting on Sunday to enact legislation for the people of the United States. His attention had been called to various petitions presented by honorable senators asking for "a rest day" for the District of Columbia, and he had been disposed to acquiesce in the sentiment expressed in those petitions. He also remembered that the senator from Michigan, Mr. McMillian, who had suggested this amendment, had introduced a bill "to protect the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, as a day of rest and worship in the District of Columbia." That bill, if it had passed, was broad enough to prevent any legislation on this day. For these reasons he hesitated to engage in a general debate. "But now, to be serious," he continued. "Have not you been serious all the time?" a senator asked in a low tone. "That is a reflection on the remarks which I have made," Mr. Hill replied, and then he went on with his statement. After numerous amendments the sundry civil bill was passed and at 11:07 the senate adjourned until to-day. To-day finds the senate with the great appropriation bills in a more backward state than for several years. Six of the annual appropriation budgets have become laws with the approval of the president. The Indian bill and the post office bill are in conference.

BRYAN IN WASHINGTON.

Discusses Future Plans with the Republican Silver Senators.

Washington, March 1.—William J. Bryan, late democratic candidate for the presidency, was at the capitol this morning and spent a short time in the room of the vice-president. He was visited by the silver men of the senate, and particularly by silver republicans. It was given out that the visit of these members to the late candidate was purely social, but it is understood that the future plans of the silver republicans were discussed, Mr. Bryan giving his approval to the policy of the silver republicans to maintain a separate organization as a political body.

Death of Edward Ellis.

Schenectaday, N. Y., March 1.—Edward Ellis, president of the Schenectady Locomotive works, one of the oldest establishments of the kind in the United States, is dead of an acute attack of Bright's decease. He had been in poor health for some time, but the suddenness of his death was a great surprise. Mr. Ellis was 53 years of age. He was a republican presidential elector in 1888.

Big Blaze at Rockville, Conn.

Rockville, Conn., March 1.—A fire yesterday destroyed all the buildings on the west side of Market street, from Main to Brooklyn streets, except the Exchange block, American hotel and Hirst block. Loss, about $30,000. Later in the day Turn hall was damaged by fire to the extent of several hundred dollars.

Holbrook, Mass., Town Hall Burned.

Holbrook, Mass., March 1.—A fire in the town hall yesterday destroyed a valuable collection of books in the public library. The estimated total loss is $12,000.

TOO MUCH FOR GAS.

Messrs. Young, Whitehead and Spargo, as a Councilmanic committee from Dover, visited this city last Saturday to inspect the system and cost of making gas, as Dover has under consideration the establishment of a gas works of their own. These gentlemen have visited a number of towns about the size of Plainfield on this same mission and while here they stated that the charge or $2 per thousand feet of gas, made by the Plainfield company, was the highest of any place they had come in contact with. They say the price ranges from $1.25 to $1.75 in other towns. A prominent Plainfield merchant, speaking of the fact this morning, said that he believed that if the business men of this city made a concerted demand, but at the same time in a courteous manner, the gas company could be prevailed upon to lower the high rates they are now receiving.

GROWTH OF BICYCLE BUSINESS

Somebody with a fondness for figures shows the large increase in the bicycle business in the following paragraph: Prior to 1885, there were but six bicycle factories in this country. In that year there were 11,000 machines turned out. Five years later there were seventeen factories with an output of 40,000 wheels. In 1894 the factories increased rapidly, and 125,000 machines were turned out. A year late the production was 600,000 and the number of factories more than 500, none of which turned out less than 1,000 wheels a year. The capital invested in these large factories is $900,000, and the estimate of the output for the present year is not less than 1,000,000 wheels, valued at $60,000,000.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENTS.

It is said to be a settled fact that Samuel H. Grey, of Camden, will not accept the Chief Justiceship, preferring, on account of his health, the easier berth of Attorney-General, which will also permit him to retain a portion of his practice. Justice Magie's friends are urging his promotion to the Chief Justiceship, and the friends of Justices Depue and Dixon are also at work in their behalf, urging their seniority and services to the State. They make light of the objections of age on the part of Justice Depue and of physical inability of Justice Dixon.

ELECTED A POSTMASTER

The Republicans of Stockton settled on a rather odd, but seemingly satisfactory, plan for their choice of a postmaster under the McKinley administration. Instead of the candidates pulling political wires to capture the appointment, they submitted the question of a choice to the members of their party, and at the meeting held for that purpose Saturday night William P. Mason received seventy-six and Gideon Moore thirty-six votes. The latter announced himself as satisfied, and said that he would add his name to the petition for the appointment of Mason.

DEMOCRATS READY FOR WAR.

For the first time in several years the Borough Democrats have donned the war-paint, sharpened the tomahawk and are ready to do war with the Republican cohorts.

THEATRICAL.

The management of Music Hall will present to their patrons that gorgeous and most successful production, the famous Tompkins' "Black Crook," tonight. The unequaled success of this grand legendary drama is attributed aside from the strong moral inculcated, to the lavish expenditure on the part of the owners, insomuch as a spectacle it is unrivaled in this or the old world. The company visiting this city comprises the most talented artists of the famous New York run of twelve months at the Academy of Music.

The greatest laughing success, "O'Hooligan's Wedding," will be the attraction at Music Hall next Thursday. This is said to be the funniest farce comedy ever produced and the company the strongest, each member being especially selected for their individual reputation as farce comedy artists.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

John Mowan, of West Front street, is suffering from inflammatory rheumatism.

The new fire alarm was somewhat out of gear, Saturday, and it didn't arouse the natives by its tooting as was expected.

Miss Mollison, the aged woman, who died at South Plainfield, on Friday, at the advanced age of 90 years, was the last one of her family.

Upon invitation, a party of twelve young people from here went to Bound Brook Friday evening, and attended the reception of the Bound Brook euchre club. The party broke up at two a. m.

The Central Railroad authorities are still experiencing much trouble with tramps at the Green Brook tanks. The fellows ride on coal trains and seem to think the tanks is their abiding or stopping over place.

Rev. S. F. Custard continues to improve, and on Saturday his condition was so much improved that the attending physician allowed him to leave his bed, and sit up for about ten minutes. This seemed to stimulate the patient and no serious results followed.

The Emerydale station was again closed up tight Saturday night, and the many passengers who came to town by trolley, had, as usual, to stand outside in the cold. It is evident that the enterprise is not a paying investment, but at the same time there is a waiting room that should be kept open for the accommodation of passengers these cold nights.

The reception and dance announced by the members of the Dunellen Athletic Association to take place in the town hall, Friday evening, turned out to be a fizzle. The guests failed to materialize and although the music was on hand and Paul Reusch had prepared some $50 worth of sandwiches, cakes, coffee and other appetizing relishes, there were but few present, and the dance was indefinitely postponed. Mr. Reusch next morning generously donated the eatables and coffee to the needy of the town.

NEW MARKET.

George Jenner is on the sick list.

Mr. J. Burdick, of Centre street, is on the sick list.

Mrs. Hanna Nelson has returned home from Orange.

Do not fail to attend the Democratic primary tonight at 8 o'clock.

Edward Ingham has returned home from an extended business trip.

Mrs. T. Bilyeu, of Somerset street, is visiting her uncle, Geo. Solsby.

Mr. and Mrs. James Day, of Elizabeth, spent Sunday with their parents.

Mr. John H. Dunn and sisters will move to Plainfield about March the 15th.

It looks now as though R. L. Pierce will be the next postmaster. Bob is a hustler.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stine, of West Front street, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Stine.

It will be trolley or no trolley on Wednesday next. The committee will meet on that day; let it come.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Burns, of Connecticut, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blimm at their home.

Since the roads have become hardened and passable much more stone is being shipped away from the mountain crushers.

Reuben Welcome, of the retail grocery firm of Smith & Welcome, of Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Paff, Jr., over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Darby, of North Plainfield, drove up to the Plains yesterday and spent a few pleasant hours with Mrs. Darby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Marsh.

The election which takes place one week from tomorrow is already being talked over. Both the leading parties are making up tickets in private caucus, but the members seem sworn to secrecy and they will not divulge the names before the primaries, which will probably be held on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.

Late Friday afternoon some miscreant, as yet unknown to the authorities, set fire to a lot of dry wood and underbrush on the moutain near Cole's look-out. It was feared the flames might communicate to the rustic structure and destroy it, so the fire department was called out to extinguish the flames, which was accomplished in short order.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week there will be a shoot at Benner's road house near the Fanwood depot. The match is between Clarence Lambert and John Singer, the latter of Westfield. The conditions are at 25 live birds each, 30 yards rise and for a purse of $25 each. Both are said to be expert shooters, and they are capable of making good scores.

A genuine fracas ocurred on the street at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, but as yet no arrests have been made. A colored woman is said to have unmercifully beaten a white fellow who she accused of casting insulting remarks at her general appearance. The woman kept up a fusilade of blows with her hands and only desisted when her husband happened to come along and took her home.

Several moderately-dressed strange men were seen going about from store to store, soon after daylight yesterday, peeping in the doors and windows. Judge Clark was notified, but by reason of his office he is not compelled to do constable duty and patrol the streets at night. There are duly-elected constables at the Plains, but they were both home at the time. It is believed the strangers may have been planning another safe or store robbery. The last seen of them they were going toward the Fanwood station.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Thomas Brantingham entertained a few friends in Higgins' Hall last Saturday evening in honor of her sister, Miss Dennis, of Tarrytown.

A hotly contested pool tournament was held at Higgins' Hall last Friday evening, when there were fourteen entries of crack players in this section, among them being Mr. Moran and Michael Higgins, of Plainfield; Compton and Ludlow, of Metuchen; Fred Nelson, of Dunellen, and Thomas Brantingham, William Hoag, William Hoagland and George and Elmer Steeple, of South Plainfield. The prize, a bottle of wine, was won by Moran.

The Congregational church always has a good musical service, and last evening it was better than usual. Mrs. Arghetti, a well-known soprano from New York, and Mr. Hudson were the soloists supported by the church's superb chorous choir.

Westfielders who desire to have The Daily Press left at their house or place of business every afternoon by trustworthy and gentlemanly carrier boys can be accommodated by leaving an order with either Percy Clark or Willie Foster. The Press will also be on sale every afternoon after 4 o'clock at the Union News Company's stand at the Central Railroad station, and at the news stand of C. F. W. Wittke.

The fair held during the past week in Gale's club house, under the auspices of the Central Council, No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., closed Saturday night. The committee has not made its reckoning yet, but it is thought that the lodge is only about $100 ahead of the game. The score in the bowling contest stands, Elmer Love, 238; Ed. Baker, 203; Ed. States, 203; Nelson Archbold, 173; W. A. Smith, and H. Manning, 169; Edward Foster, 129. Gold watch contest: Miss Edna Cox, 397; Mrs. Wooley, 66; Skates, Charles Osllieb, 173; silk hat. N. C. Austin, 163; Martin Snyder, 100; Fireman's cone-hat: W. H. Chamberlain, 60. Ivory gavel: Central Council, 45; Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Scotch Plains, 39. It is said that the boys from Scotch Plains felt a little chagrined at the members of Central Council for going into the contest against other councils. It is also rumored that a committee from the Central Council will wait on Twilight Council and present it with the gavel, or another one.

The town committee ought—if it wishes to curry favor with the voters—issue a "key" to the "103d annual report. There is only one part of it that is any ways intelligible and that is the report of Frederick Coomb's, the treasurer of the fire department. His report is somewhat itemized, at least near enough to show for what the money was spent. But the "synopsis of the treasurer's report," is a poser. It says, "cash received and notes discounted, $290,000.69," and "bills payable $248,738.30." Nearly every one is asking how the town spent over a quarter million dollars and have almost another quarter million indebtedness. As a matter of fact such is not the case. It is merely due to the treasurer's system of book keeping and the first item represents renewals of short term notes. Westfield is justly proud of its schools, but the voters are scanning everything these hard times. Under disbursements the report reads, "cash paid warrants of Board of Education, $22,088.08," but where the money came from the report does not show, for the school tax, town and state amounted to only $16,000, or thereabouts.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MOVING A MOUNTAIN.

A FINE PIECE OF ENGINEERING WORK TO FILL IN A DAM.

The Estimate of the Earth Dislodged Was Reckoned at 150,000 Tons—Electricity Was a Great Factor in Accomplishin the Desired Results.

A great section of the mountain at San Deigo overhanging Morena dam on one side was torn off this afternoon by 100,000 pounds of powder, lifted several feet straight up, and then pushed bodily forward forty or fifty feet, trembling over the mighty gorge below the dam, and then falling with an awful roar 125 feet, to remain hereafter for all time as the bulwark of the great dam being built to impound water for the city.

The dam is forty-three miles east of the city. For two months or more preparations had been made for the monster blast. The plan was to cut tunnels into the side of the mountain at various points about the bed of the creek and to place in these tunnels, first, great stores of black powder, which ignites slower than giant powder and, therefore, has more pushing power and less shattering effect. On the surface and in places through the mountain side were placed big deposits of giant powder for the purpose of shattering the mass and lifting it up. According to plans the black powder when it exploded would hurl the mass straight forward, making a bridge of granite across the gorge and blocking the stream.

The plans were carried out with the greatest care. Danger was constantly feared from the great mines of powder, but all went well, and the blast was finally ready. A lot of insulated wires, connecting with each deposit of powder and attached to exploders, were gathered into one circuit in a tunnel across the gorge and above the blast, where the foreman, John Duggan, stationed himself to press the button.

At 2:45 o'clock the signal was passed along that all was ready. The workmen had posted themselves at a safe distance and eagerly watched to see the studendous break in the hillside. Foreman Duggan closed the switch, and a wonderful scene instantly followed. The side of the opposite hill composed of great boulders and masses of granite in dikes, quivered, rose from its bed of centuries and shot out thousands of little squirming tongues of dust, that gave the whole hill a peculiar fuzzy appearance. This was for a fraction of a second. A growl, like the angry diapason of the ocean, sounded deep down in the hill, and before the spectators recovered their equilibrium after the earthquake the mass was falling.

An incessant rattle of rock filed the air like a regiment of musketry. Dust arose in billows and hung over the wrecked hill for an hour. The falling of small rock continued for almost as long. When the dust cleared away it was found that the blast had dislodged a mass of rock 400 feet up and down stream, and an average of sixty feet in height, completely bridging the canon. The engineers estimated that the amount dislodged weighed 150,000 tons. The rock was thrown exactly as the engineers had planned.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Booth Personating Himself.

On one occasion Edwin Booth was standing behind the scenes, when a character-actor, who had been giving imitations of noted actors, was about to respond to an encore. "Whom do you imitate next?" Booth asked. "Well," was the reply, "I was going to represent you in Hamlet's soliloquy; but, if you look on, I'm afraid I shall make a mess of it." "Suppose I imitate myself?" remarked the tragedian; and, hastily putting on the other actor's wig, and buttoning up his coat, he went on and delivered the well-known lines. The next morning a newspaper stated that the imitation ruined the performance, "the personation of Edwin Booth being simply vile enough to make that actor shudder had he seen it."

Gladstone's Wonderful Industry.

Dr. Dollinger, who has long been an intimate friend of Gladstone, relates a story that illustrates the Grand Old Man's wonderful industry. On one occasion Gladstone called on his friend and the two became so engrossed in conversation that it was after midnight before they took note of time, "I went out of the room for a book," says Dr. Dollinger, "leaving my visitor alone. I returned in a few minutes, and found Gladstone deep in a volume he had drawn out of his pocket—true to his principles of never losing time—during my momentary absence. And this at the small hours of the morning!"

Rather a Dampener.

A story is told of a man in Chicago who considers himself a great authority on whist. He wrote a book on the subject, and sent it to a famous Milwaukee player for his opinion of it. In about a week the book was returned to him with the following letter—"My dear Sir—Your favor of the 10th instant, accompanied by your book, was duly received. I have read it very carefully. It seems to be a very good game, but I don't think it is as good a game as whist. Sincerely yours," &c.

Jack's Transformation.

During the last Egyptian campaign a Staff officer rode up to a sailor who was staggering under a truss of hay. Putting the query to him "What are you?" the man replied, "Well, I used to think I was a British bluejacket, but I'm dashed if I don't begin to think I'm a commissary mule!"

BREEK'S POWER OVER BRUTES.

He Astounds Northwood by Fascinating Skunks, Mink and Foxes.

Nordorf Breek, a gypsy in Northwood, N. Y., has amazed the natives by his success in approaching wild animals, even coming up with a fox, and handling it as if it were a pet dog.

Breek lives by himself in a shanty, and bluejays and squirrels, mink and rabbits gather about his door to feed on the scraps that he throws to them, or to listen to his voice, which is so peculiar that many Northwood men say it makes them shiver.

Breek laughs when anybody asks him about his animal friends, and the other evening, when a skunk came waddling into the store at his heels, Dave Jones felt called upon to protest. Breek picked the skunk up. Everybody drew away hastily, but the expected consequence did not come. Breek took the skunk to the door and dropped it from the stoop into the road. He came back, purchased a side of bacon and some cheese, and made his way up the road, followed by the skunk.

The Northwood woodsmen would never believe before Breek came that foxes had gone to men for protection from dogs on their trails, as foxes are said to have gone to Thoreau. Now seven persons have seen foxes seek shelter with Breek, and there are no skeptics.

It is believed that Breek's eyes are largely responsible for this power over animals. They are rather dark, full of lustre, and direct in their gaze. While not exactly fierce, they are rather menacing. A dog, angry at a child for having stepped on its tail on the store porch one day, started to snap at it. Breek said something quickly, and the dog, giving one glance at the man's eyes, slunk away with its tail between its legs.

Lotteries Began at an Early Date.

As late as 1806 Harvard College was raising money by a lottery. It offered 20,000 tickets for sale at $5 each, with prizes ranging from $15,000 down to $7. "In the above scheme," said the Prospectus, "the just expectations of the public, and the interest of the University, have been consulted. It is worthy the attention of adventurers that the highest prize is nearly double in value to any that has been drawn in this Commonwealth for many years past, though the usual price of tickets is preserved. The Managers solicit the patronage of the public in general, and of the friends of Literature and the University in particular; and considering the object of the Lottery, they will combine the prospect of gain with the certainty of benefiting the University: and by lending their aid to the means of education, will promote the best interests of their country."

Exit Tompkins.

Tomkins is one of those gentlemen of kind disposition who are ever on the lookout to improve their neighbors' minds. Seeing a man, apparently a country fellow, sitting on the fence, regarding the telegraph wires carefully, Tomkins approached.

"Watching the wires, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Waiting to see the message go by, eh?"

The man smiled, and "Yes, sir," he replied. Then Tomkins spoke kindly to him and explained the mystery of the electric current, and that the message was invisible, and finished up: "Now you know something about it." Then as he was going away, he said, by the way: "What do you work at?"

"Me and my mate are telegraph workers, and we're just putting up a new wire."—Tid-Bits.

A Vagrant Dog's Bad Habit.

A dog in New Orleans has contracted the habit of smoking and his smoking propensity is of sufficently long standing to be now a habit with him. He acquired it, of course, in the old way, that is, by keeping bad company. The dog seems to belong to no one in particular, and runs about the streets chasing rats in the gutters for a living. This Bohemian existence has made him the prey of evil ways. Picking up the cigar or cigarette stumps tossed in his way by idle or thoughtless smokers has given him a taste for the weed, and when his find happens to have the necessary fire at one end he seems to enjoy his smoke equal to the most confirmed nicotine devotee.—Philadelphia Times.

The Affectionate Goose.

It is not fair for cats and dogs to carry off all the glory. Allow me to tell a story from my own personal experience of gratitude in a goose. I was walking one day with a friend through his poultry-yard, when a goose hurried up to him, fondly rubbed its neck against his trousers, and followed him about everywhere. He told me he had once rescued it from being done to death by its feathered companions because it had a broken wing. Could any unfeathered biped have shown greater affection?

More Than One Way to Spell Chicago.

At the New York Post-Office, in sorting over the letters from various parts of the world, one hundred and ninety-seven different ways of spelling "Chicago" have been found; among them were "Jagjaco," "Hipaho," "Jajigo," "Schecchacho," "Hizago," "Chachicho," and a scholarly resident of Finland indulges in "Zizazo."

Introduction of Postal Cards.

Postal cards were introduced by Professor Emanuel Herman, of Vienna. They were first used in England, Germany, and Switzerland in 1870, in Belgium and Denmark in 1871, and in Norway, Russia, and the United States in 1872-3.

MRS. SARTORIS.

GENERAL GRANT'S DAUGHTER AND HER LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

She is Now Living With Her Mother at the National Capital—Her Son and Two Daughters Complete the Home Circle.

Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, even prettier and more attractive than when she left Washington, a bride, in May, 1874, has returned with her children to make her home with her mother, Mrs. U. S. Grant, who bought a handsome house last year on Massachusetts avenue, above Dupont Circle. Mrs. Sartoris's welcome was as sincere as were the regrets which followed her to England, where she remained, save for short visits to her parents, until about two years ago. There her children were born, grew up and received most of their education. She lost her first child when an infant, but has left to her a son and two daughters.

Her marriage, as everybody knows, was not the happy one which such a lovely and sweet-tempered woman deserved, and the death of her husband several years ago was a relief to all his relations. His people were devoted to his wife and children. Since her return Dame Rumor has tried very hard to marry her off, even going so far to name the man and the date, but she goes along quietly, evidently in no haste to again assume matrimonial fetters.

MRS. NELLIE GRANT SARTORIS.

Mrs. Sartois is a year, or perhaps two years, past forty, but she does not look as old by ten years. She is slightly under medium height, with the figure of a girl. Her abundant black hair is coiled on top of her well-poised head, and falls in little rings above her finely pencilled brows. The color comes and goes in her rounded cheeks, and a sweet smile lights up her dark eyes. Her voice is low and gentle, and her manner quiet and refined. She dresses in excellent taste, and looks very young beside her children, who are, even the youngest, taller than she.

Her son, Algernon Edward, is a manly young fellow, who looks older than his nineteen years. He is devoted to his mother, and delighted to be in the land of his illustrious grandfather, whom he rightly considers one of the world's greatest heroes. He is studying law.

Vivian May Sartoris, who is about seventeen, has a fine figure, an oval face with rose-tinted cheeks, dark hazel eyes, well defined brows like her mother's, and dark brown hair with glints through it. She is an English girl of the best type, but proud, too, of being half American. Her voice is sweet and well modulated, and she recites charmingly. Several years ago she had quite a notion of going upon the stage—probably inheriting her inclination from her father's mother, the beautiful Adelaide Kemble, who made a brilliant debut in opera, but retired to private life when she married. She has given up all idea of a dramatic career, and will devote her spare time to music. She is a healthy girl in mind and body, a graceful dancer and an expert wheelwoman. Early in December she was presented to society by Mrs. Grant at one of the handsomest of Washington's many December teas.

Rose Mary Sartoris, pursuing her studies in the Georgetown Convent, is about fifteen and promises to be a very beautiful woman. She is tall and slender, has fine features, very fair complexion, and dark hair and eyes. She has much artistic talent, sketches cleverly, and is very bright and witty. —Midland Monthly.

He Missed the Point.

Some years ago, at a dinner in a London club, at which the French Ambassador was present, a witty American gentleman at he table replied to the toast, "Our foreign guest, the Ambassador from France."

He paid discriminating tribute to the exquisite art of embellishment by which France has beautified civilization, and concluded by saying: "England is a country of noble practicalities, while France develops the finer things of life—the English invented the shirt, the French ruffled it."

Lord Charnleigh, who was present, noted the applause with which the remark was received, and determined to use it himself some time.

Shortly after, he was dining some Frenchmen of note at his hotel on the Champs Elysees in Paris. He made extensive drafts on what he could remember of the American's successful speech, and ended with: "We English invented shirts, but you Frenchmen, who have no use for them, invented ruffles!"

Rain in the Colorado Desert.

In the Colorado desert they have rainstorms during which not a single drop of water touches the earth. The rain can be seen falling from the clouds high above the desert; but when the water reaches the strata of high, dry air beneath the clouds, it is entirely absorbed before falling half the distance to the ground.

NAVAJO MOTHERS-IN-LAW.

They Are Not Allowed to Even Speak to Their Sons-in-Law.

Mothers-in-law will be interested in some of the manners and customs of the Navajo Indians. There a man can not under any circumstances speak to or even look upon his mother-in-law. Should his eye rest upon her even for a moment the superstition is that he will by accident become blind. It seems impossible that such an idea should be actually held by a large number of people. The law must be broken repeatedly by accident without the payment of the penalty. Yet the idea is current to-day, and is in full force and effect, exercising an appreciable influence on the social conditions of the people.

The mother has no direct interest in her daughter's marriage, but the interest arising from maternal love might often complicate or even make impossible the usual procedure. So the mother-in-law taboo began and gradually grew into a fixed custom or law. What harm could an irate mother-in-law do if she were absolutely prohibited from speaking to her daughter's husband? And on the other hand, what show would a man have if left unprotected to the mercy of three or four mothers-in-law, for polygamy is commonly practised in the tribe? Some such law is an actual necesity in primitive societies.

The complications brought about by this peculiar condition are many and various. An accidental meeting, for example, is very awkward to both. If other Indians are present, frantic warning to hide himself are shouted to the man, and if he is on horseback he will strike out as if for his life. The woman is warned and threatened, and, if possible, hurried off and concealed behind a rock or bush. If no way of escape is possible, the man drops down upon the ground, huddled up into as small a space as possible, and, drawing his blanket over his head, remains thus hidden until the danger is past. —New York World.

The Disadvantages of Plagiarism.

A rather amusing story is told of a certain so-called "popular preacher," the Rev. Dr. D——, whose marvelous powers of eloquence invariably gathered him large audiences. People wondered at his sermons, and proclaimed him an intellectual genius. Now the doctor was a plagiarist who patched up his own exceedingly poor sermons by introducing here and there passages from the sermons of celebrated divines, but the ingenious way in which he accomplished this prevented discovery. Then, too, his audiences, he calculated, were not students of theology, and therefore not likely to detect his appropriations. But in this he made his mistake, and his exposure took place as follows:

One day an elderly gentleman entered the church and took a seat in the first row. As the doctor proceeded with his sermon the gentleman broke in now and then with such remarks as, "That's Sherlock," "Ah, from Tillotson," "Now it's Blair," etc.

The doctor stood it for a little while, but at last, full of wrath, he said:

"My dear sir, if you do not restrain your impertinent remarks and hold your tongue, I'll have you ejected."

The elderly gentleman, looking the doctor calmly in the face, said, "That's his own."—Harper's Round Table.

A Simple Device of Much Service.

Years ago, in the cotton-mills, the bobbins of the looms used to catch the filaments of cotton and clog machinery, necessitating a stoppage of the works to clean up. This was a loss of both time and money. One man, however, a seemingly dull fellow, found a way to keep his bobbin free, and his loom never had to shut down. The owner of the mills, one Mr. Peel, father of Sir Robert Peel, noticed this, and obtained from the man his secret for an agreement which, financially, amounted to next to nothing. He simply chalked the bobbin, thus preventing the threads from sticking. Peel adopted the idea, and invented machinery for the purpose of chalking the bobbins, and patented it. He realized a fortune from it, and gave the original inventor a handsome pension. —Harper's Round Table.

They Spoke Gum-Arabic.

The Saturday Review says that when he was in Egypt Mark Twain hired two Arab guides to take him to the Pyramids. He was familiar enough with Arabic, he thought, to understand and be understood with perfect ease. To his consternation he found that he could not comprehend a word that either of the guides uttered. At the Pyramids he met a friend, to whom he made known his dilemma. It was very mysterious, Twain thought, "Why, the explanation is simple enough," said the friend. "Please enlighten me, then," said Twain. "Why, you should have hired younger men. These old fellows have lost their teeth, and, of course, they don't speak Arabic. They speak gum-Arabic."

Charitable Theory.

"I'd like to know who is sending me these anonymous letters," said the head of the firm.

"And fwat's that?" asked the porter.

"A letter without any signature, of course. This makes the third one I have received in two weeks."

"Perhaps," said Mike—"perhaps the poor man cannot write his name at all."—Minneapolis Journal.

Competition Everywhere.

This is the legend worn on his breast by a Parisian mendicant—"Pity, kind friends, one who has lost his sight, but don't mistake him for the blind man on the other side of the street, who is only one-eyed."

AMOS H. VAN HORN, Ltd.

WANTED!

Three or four more furniture stores on Market street, between Plane and Washington. The competition's welcome—it'll draw added hundreds to this great store of ours, where none but fair dealing, bottom prices and liberal terms are known.

Coming week will be one of specially low selling.

Spring stock that's here demands the space taken by other lines. Result: a general mark-down that counts.

Parlor Suits—Some Rich Things

The $25.00 kinds at $16.50
The $40.00 kinds at $30.00
The $50.00 kinds at $35.00
The $75.00 kinds at $50.00
The $125.00 kinds at $75.00
And a dozen others equally low

BEDROOM SUITS, $11.75—they were $18.00. Others at $18.00, were $25.00; others at $22.50, were $30.00, and some at $29.50, were $35.00. Of course, we boast of still higher priced varieties—but space is too little to give room to them. Suffice to say, your money CAN'T do better ANYWHERE in bed suit buying than HERE.

A CARPET STORY—We own a beautiful Carpet Department—YOU may own a part of its contents at trifling cost and NO "extras" thrown in, for WE do all making, laying and lining FREE. A price idea:

For 25c yard good Ingrains
For 50c yard all-wool Ingrains
For 39c yard Brussels
For 90c yard Best Body Brussels
For 75c yard Best Moquettes
For yard Best Velvets

can consume more money and waste more patience than anything you can put your money into. When you buy from a dealer who sells you this kind of coal and go back to him again, it is your own pocketbook you're robbing. There are many dealers—we among them—who are willing to sell you good coal at a close margin and be sure of giving you perfect satisfaction. We have a good, honest Lehigh coal at $5.50 per ton. Our motto—Good work, good material at fair prices.

HINTS FOR EVENING GOWNS.

Jacket Effect Very Much in Evidence in Every Kind of Waist.

(By Special Arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.)

White satin, either covered with gauze or quite plain, is the material most generally employed for evening gowns, and the latest of these are supplied with a short train, while the bodice is cut with a round, or rather straight, neck, well off from the shoulders, but not too directly in the front or back. A drapery of lace or gauze finishes the edge, and is fastened in at intervals with fancy pins or bunches of violets or tiny rosebuds. This sort of bodice has a wide draped belt of satin, even though the bodice is entirely of the same material. Inexpensive evening gowns of white and tinted satins can be fashioned very easily now with the accordion plaited skirts which can be purchased in the stores all ready for use. They are shaped in circular form before they are plaited, so there is no excess of fulness around the hips, and they are all made with the exception of hanging them over a foundation skirt.

Narrow quillings of chiffon are a feature of dress this season, filling a large space in the shops, and are employed in a hundred different ways, one of which is as a border for sashes of velvet or silk, worn with evening dress.

High-necked bodices are very much worn for dinner and theatre parties, and are considered quite correct for any except very formal occasions.

A novel costume for spring is made of dark blue and white shepherd's plaid with a wide plait, both back and front, on the bodice, narrowing toward the belt, and a plain skirt with a wide plait in front, spreading out wider at the foot and fastened down just below the waist with fancy buttons. Buttons also decorate the front plait on the bodice above the bust, and blue silk forms the collar and belt.

A touch of black or white or both is almost a necessity for a successful gown this season, and whatever may be the color of the dress, the introduction of black is in nearly every case an improvement. The military style of trimming appears on some of the new cloth jackets, and one costume in rather a light shade of blue has the military cut as well, and is trimmed with black braid. The cuffs and collar of red cloth with a black braid finish make it very striking. The triple skirt is one of the effects seen among cloth gowns, and each flounce is cut circular to fit the foundation.

Very little can be said of fashion at the moment without some reference to the jacket effects which are so much in evidence in every kind of gown, especially the new spring models in cloth presented for early inspection. The bolero, which is long enough to meet a narrow belt, rather has the lead, but there is every conceivable kind of jacket except the long one.

SPANISH BARBARITY.

Mrs. Rodriguez Tells of Her Treatment in Filthy Cuban Prisons.

Key West, Fla., March 1.—Saturday's steamer brought to this city another victim of Spanish brutality, Mrs. Eva Adan Rodriguez, who together with Concepcion Agramonte de Sanchez, Gabriela de Varona, Maria Aguilar and Augua M. Silva, all of the finest families on the island of Cuba, were arrested on January 10 last, and thrown into a dirty, damp Spanish prison, among a lot of low, abandoned women, without the slightest charge having been preferred against them. They were kept for twenty days in a state of incommunicado, when they were marched through the streets with a number of criminals, some of whom were in chains, surrounded by an armed guard, to the depot, and placed on a train bound to Nuevitas and from there to Havana by steamer. On the train they were confined in a car filled with men, and not allowed any conveniences, but on the steamer they were allowed to pay for a few comforts. They arrived in Havana February 4 last. Mrs. Rodriguez's case was called to the attention of Consul General Lee, who immediately communicated with the acting Capt.-Gen. Marquis Ahumada, and demanded her release.

In a Den of Horrors.

Upon arriving in Havana, she was taken to the house of refuge, a place set aside for fallen women. She was detained in this den of horrors for thirty-two hours, when she was released on condition that she would not remain in Havana. Immediately upon her release she sent for her two little daughters, who had been left at Puerto Principe, and on her arrival at Havana, Mrs. Rodriguez requested Consul Lee to secure her passport out of the country. She is profuse in her thanks to Consul Lee for the prompt interest in her behalf. Her husband, General Rodriguez, formerly commanded the insurgent forces around Cienfuegos, but is now in command of Havana province in place of Gen. Aguirre, the department general, deceased. The insurgents, she says, are about to concentrate their forces in and around Havana. The report of cane grinding on different estates, she declares, is absolutely false. An attempt was made to grind on the Calvo estate last week, but the insurgents burned them out.

SHERMAN AND CUBA.

The Senator's Brother Says He, the Senator, Favors Sending a Warship to Havana.

Chicago, March 1.—A special from Des Moines says: Major Hoyt Sherman, brother of Senator Sherman, has just returned from a trip east. He visited his brother, who, he says, is of the opinion that a war vessel should be sent to Havana immediately in order to give assurance that protection will be afforded the American citizens in Cuba. This would not be for the purpose of causing war, he says, but would serve to remind the Spanish government that they should be more careful in their treatment of American citizens. Major Sherman says his brother does not agree with the policy of the present administration, and thinks it should have acted long ago. He does not believe such a stand would mean war, but thinks it would have a good effect on Spain, as showing that this country must be respected.

Honoring Mr. Bayard.

London, March 1.—The American Society in London contemplates making Mr. Bayard some kind of presentation on the occasion of his departure from the embassy. What it will be is not exactly decided yet, but the matter will be taken up by the council of the society when its chairman, Henry Wellcome, returns from New York. Another honor to the departing ambassador will probably be a dinner or social function at the St. James' club, at which Mr. Bayard will be the guest of some of the most important foreign ambassadors.

INAUGURAL CROWDS

THE CITY IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Senator-elect Platt and Wife, Governors Bushnell and Tanner and Staffs and Abner McKinley of New York Among the Latest Arrivals.

Washington, March 1.—The inaugural crowds are beginning to arrive, and with the decorations on public buildings, business houses, hotels and residence and the reviewing stands, the city presents a holiday appearance. At the Ebbitt house, where Major McKinley will stop for the two days prior to his moving into the executive mansion, and at the Arlington, where Mr. Hanna has taken quarters, the centres of popular interest are located. Mr. Hanna has received many callers, but he managed to find time this morning to pay a visit to the inaugural headquarters. J. Addison Porter, who will be secretary to the new president, also visited the inaugural committee. Gov. Bushnell of Ohio, with Mrs. Bushnell, the members of his staff and a large party of friends, are registered at the Arlington. Senator-elect T. C. Platt of New York and Mrs. Platt have also taken quarters at the Arlington. Among others who are there are Gen. and Mrs. J. E. Lawes of Ohio, ex-Gov. Stewart of Vermont, J. B. Foraker, jr., of Cincinnati, a son of the senator-elect, and judge Lysander Hill of Chicago.

The Late Arrivals.

Abner McKinley of New York, a brother of the president-elect, reached Washington last evening. He was accompanie by Mrs. McKinley and Miss Mabel McKinley. They were assigned to apartments in the suite of thirty rooms reserved at the Ebbitt for the presidential party. Hon. James Wilson of Iowa, the new secretary of agriculture, arrived Saturday night, and went to the Ebbitt. Other arrivals at the Ebbitt are Gen. O. O. Howard, U. S. A., retired, now residing at Burlington, Vt., and his wife and daughter; D. D. Woodmansee of Cincinnati, president of the league of republican clubs, and wife; John K. Gowdy of Rushville, Ind., national committeeman from his state, who has been promised the lucrative position of consul-general at Paris; senator-elect Chas. B. Fairbanks of Indianapolis and family. Gov. Tanner of Illinois, with the members of his staff and a number of Illinois republicans, reached Washington six hours late. The party registered at the Shoreham. A reception in honor of the governor will be given to-morrow by ex-congressman Abner Taylor of Chicago, and the same evening he will hold a public reception, arranged by the Illinois Republican association.

KNEEBS MAY BE PARDONED.

The American Horseman's Friends Hope for His Release This Month.

Berlin, March 1.—Sporting circles are still deeply concerned in the question as to what is to be done with the mare Nellie Kneebs, alias Bethel, which was confiscated by the Prussian state after the arrest of Kneebs, the American trotting horse owner, on charges of "ringing," and which was condemned to be sold to cover the expenses of Kneebs' prosecution. A protest has now been lodged by Kneebs' son-in-law against the enforced sale of the mare by auction, his plea being that he is the real owner of Bethel and that the mare must be given up to him if the court hold that it is really Bethel which the authorities have in their possession. The question will be fought out in the Berlin civil court. In the meantime, Kneebs is confined in the Ploetzensee prison, and it is generally hoped that he will be one of the number who will be benefitted by the amnesty which will be granted to certain prisoners upon the occasion of the centenary of Emperor William II. on March 22.

$1.85 of Alabama Claims Award.

Washington, March 1.—The unclaimed $8,000,000 of the Alabama claims award, gravely discussed in the house of commons Friday night, has no existence. A few years ago there was on the treasury books $1.85, but this has probably been expended in correspondence on the subject.

American Citizen Arrested in Manila.

London, March 1.—A dispatch from Madrid says that among the fifty-five prisoners taken by the Spanish troops in the uprising in Manila last week is a man who is undoubtedly an American citizen. All of the prisoners will be tried by court-martial and thirty of them will doubtless be shot.

Charged with Embezzlement.

Newark, N. J., March 1.—John H. Jones, 43 years old, of Norwood street, East Orange, was arrested at his home last night and locked up at police headquarters in this city charged by O. W. Roper of East Orange, with the embezzlement of $100. The complainant represents the Realty Corporation company.

Death of Hon. W. J. Averell.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., March 1.—Hon. William J. Averell, ex-mayor of this city and president of the Ogdensburg bank, died yesterday, aged 74 years. Deceased leaves three children, William J., and Chester, and Mrs. E. H. Harriman of New York city.

The Catholic Council at Baltimore.

Rome, March 1.—The pope has appointed a commission composed of members of the sacred congregations of the council and studies to consider the subjects to be discussed at the coming council at Baltimore.

ON GOES THE TROLLEY.

LOCAL COMPANY WANTS TO BUILD TO SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Route Planned to Touch the Crescent Oval, Hillside Cemetery and Driving Park—The Necessary Consents Probable.

Plans for another extension to the present system of trolley lines of the Plainfield street railway are actively under consideration. The extension to the Mountain Park Inn and Washingtonville seems assured. The other line proposed is to go in another direction. The plan is to have a switch from the present extension on Putnam avenue, at the corner of Kensington avenue, and a track to run out Kensington avenue to Martine avenue and then to the Crescent Oval, touching on the way at the entrance to Hillside cemetery, and ultimately reaching the Gentlemen's Driving Park and perhaps South Plainfield.

It has long been the wish of the company to extend its lines in that direction, but the impossibility of securing the necessary consents has heretofore stood in the way. It is understood that by going the route already mentioned the necessary permission from the property owners can be secured. The route selected will not include Park avenue, but will go by the back roads.

It is understood that the plan will be pushed forward at once and the line will be completed before the summer is over, if the permission of the Council can be secured.

PASSING COMMENT.

It is wonderful what some people can see when they are alone. For the last few weeks solitary travellers have been coming in with wonderful tales of tremendous drifts of snow or horrible beds of mud, or, perhaps, the numerous robins and blue birds that they have seen. Of course no one doubts their veracity but its remarkable how much more one man can see than two.

As this morning was the first of the month, there was a great rush on the part of the commuters to get their new tickets for March. The little window at the side of the ticket office which is used on such occasions, was the objective point of the commuters, and a long line was formed early in the morning. Some of the commuters forgot that it was the first of the month until they arrived at the station and saw their friends in line. In consequence there was an unusual number of men running for the morning trains after they had started.

A story is told on a prominent boroughite which reveals something of his absentmindedness. One day he started from the business section of Plainfield on his wheel intending to ride over the brook to his home. He went by the way of West Front street and it was his intention to cross over at the Washington avenue bridge. As soon as he started his thoughts were absorbed in other matters and he rode by Washington avenue without noticing it. After he had ridden several minutes it suddenly dawned upon him that he ought to be almost home. He looked about him and found that on his right lay the Plainfield sewer farm while Dunellen was looming up in the distance. He turned around and rode homeward keeping a sharp lookout for the street that he wanted.

At the Elizabeth Station of the Jersey Central road the other morning a gentleman was complimenting Baggage-master Townley on having such a valuable man on night service as old reliable Jasper.

"At about 2 o'clock this morning"—said he—"I was having him hunt up my baggage and the way he did it and saved me all trouble was positively superb."

A night or two latter brother Jasper upon being congratulated was asked if he remembered the circumstance.

"Yes sah! yes sah! dis yere chicken recollects dem sarcumstances fust rate, sah. Dis is de fac, sah. After the burglar scare which visited this city about a month ago, when everybody was dreaming of the desperadoes coming to their homes and capturing silver and jewelry, one resident of West Eighth street had an exciting experience one night. He was awakened by the sound of someone shaking the back door. He carefully crawled out of bed and shivering groped over to the window with revolver in hand. Then he heard a noise at the front door.

"Who's there?" he demanded as he threw up the window and peeked out, the cold wind whistling around his scanty attire.

"It's all right," said a gruff voice below.

"It isn't all right," declared the chilly householder as he prepared his revolver for instant action. The hammer was rusted fast but it didn't make any difference.

It took the man below five minutes to convince the determined resident that he, the midnight prowler, was only the night watchman whom this very resident had hired to keep an eye on the house during the night and that the watchman was only trying to do his duty and had walked around the house to see if the doors were all locked. Then the cold and disgusted man returned to his slumbers vowing that he would let the burglars carry away the whole house before he would get out of bed in the middle of the night again.

TO SHOW CAUSE FOR NEW TRIAL.

Judge VanSyckel Grants an Order in the Phelps-Howell Suit.

In the case of Adella C. Phelps against Russell O. Howell, in tort, for $6.000 damages, tried before Judge McCormick and a jury last month, and in which $3,000 damages were awarded the plaintiff. Judge VanSyckel has allowed a rule to show cause why a new trial shall not be granted, certifying that in his judgment the case is a proper one to be reviewed by the Court.

To Go Into Business for Himself.

M. Leichentritt has resigned his position with L. Sternberg & Company, and left their employ today. He was manager of the Plainfield branch of that firm. His resignation was caused by the fact that he and the company could not come to a satisfactory agreement as regards terms. Mr. Leichentritt will be located in the Voehl flats on East Front street for the next thirty days, and then will probably start in business for himself.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS AMONG THE REPUBLICAN COUNCILMEN.

On the License and Other Questions Councilman Barrows Unable to Carry His Point—Six Men Stood Together.

Last evening another chapter of surprises was added to the already long list recorded by the City Council for 1897 and the prospects are that there will be many more chapters before the year is out.

Councilman Baker was the only member absent, and Mr. Barrows moved that the regular order of business be suspended so that Councilman Leivers could be appointed on the several committees left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Randolph. This was done by President Dumont and Mr. Barrows then moved that all licenses be referred to the proper committee of which Mr. Leivers is the chairman.

The regular order was then returned to and a petition was received from the residents of Westervelt avenue in which they asked that the above avenue, from the Mills property to Front street, be widened to conform to the width of the other half of the avenue. The matter was referred. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett filed his bond for $2,000, which was signed by W. R. Codington and W. D. Murray, as bondsmen. The same was received and referred to the Corporation Council for approval.

W. M. Stillman petitioned the council to locate one two-way hydrant at the corner of Grant and Sherman avenues, and accompanying the petition was a personal letter from the above-named gentleman in which he stated that he and the other residents in that vicinity were willing to stand their share of the expense. The petition took the usual course. Another petition was received from E. L. Finch and others, asking for the location of a fire alarm box on Park or Arlington avenues beyond Ninth street. This matter was also referred to the proper committee.

Charles Trotter and Robert Wood having been expelled from the Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company, the Board of Engineers asked the council to confirm such action, and it was so ordered.

Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported that thirteen permits had been granted during the month, and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that twenty sewer permits had been granted during the same length of time.

Mr. Serrell, from the committee on assessments and collection of taxes, stated that the committee would like to have the various committees furnish a detailed statement of the general expense for the year so that the tax levy could be arranged. The matter will be attended to at once.

Mr. Frost stated that last week the application of the Plainfield Sanitary Company had been passed upon and permission was granted to them to erect a plant in accordance with certain conditions. In the meantime the company desired to amend the conditions, which had been done, and the committee now reported favorably in the matter. He then offered a substitute set of conditions which were read. The only changes in the conditions are that sixty days is given the company to file their acceptance and the $1,000 bond.

The conditions were also amended so as to give the company the privilege of collecting garbage anywhere, either in the city or borough, and to fix the rate of charges.

Mr. Frost then said that last week he stated his objections, and since that time he had not changed his mind, and he would still oppose the matter.

Mr. Serrell asked the Council if the substitute had received the sanction of the company. Mr. Barrows replied that it wasn't necessary to know that as it was a majority report of the commitee.

A vote was then taken with the following result: Nayes—Messrs. Newman, Frost, Stebbins, Serrell and Runyon; Ayes — Messrs. Dumont, Barrows, Tolles, Westphal and Leivers. Mr. Barrows asked for the privilege of changing his vote to the negative, and the request was granted.

Mr. Frost reported favorably on the petition for crosswalks on Hillside and Watchung avenues, and the same was granted. On a motion of Mr. Westphal two crosswalks were ordered laid at the corner of Liberty and West Fourth streets.

Mr. Tolles reported on a petition for a light on Cottage place and moved that the same be granted. President Dumont stated that it was customary to have the petition read, and on his suggestion the matter was laid over so that the petition could be found. In some way or other it had been lost

FOR DUNELLEN RULERS.

REPUBLICANS NOMINATED CANDIDATES LAST EVENING.

Dr. Brakely Chosen for Mayor Again—Samuel S. Luckey Opposed Him—There Was Some Contention for Councilmen.

The Dunellen Republican primary was held in the new Town Hall last night to place in nomination a ticket to be voted for at the forthcoming election on March 9th, and the attendance was the largest ever gathered together at any caucus before in the history of the place. Mayor Brakeley called the meeting to order and R. J. Swackhammer was unanimously elected chairman. H. L. Terry was the secretary, G. Elston Lowrie, assistant secretary, and the chair appointed Messrs. Lowrie and Huff as tellers. The secretary read the call, after which the nomination of a Mayor was immediately taken up and the following were nominated: Dr. Brakeley, the present incumbent, and Samuel S. Luckey. Of the 157 votes cast the doctor received 98 and his competitor 58, with 1 blank. Dr. Brakeley was called upon for a speech, but the doctor modestly said that if elected he would serve his constituents faithfully as he had done in the past. The doctor said it had been insinuated that he received fees from the office, but to dispel any such erroneous illusion he was more than $10 out of pocket each year. The next order of business taken up was the nomination of an Assessor. Charles Coriell received 91 votes to Isaac W. Laing's 62, and he was declared the nominee. For the officers of Collector and Freeholder, George w. Day and Firman Gise were nominated respectively, by acclamation.

There was some contention for the office of Councilmen, inasmuch as six new members are to be elected for terms ranging from one to three years, and ten nominations were made. Those declared nominated were: For one year, F. R. Wynkoop and Louis Snyder; for two years, F. K. Wilcox and John Monahan; for three years, A. S. Gaston and H. C. Gaskill. A. S. Gaston received 102 votes—the highest of any of the candidates.

Justice Luckey announced that he was about to send in his resignation and Thomas Todd was nominated by acclamation to fill his place. The balance of the ticket as made up consists of S. Luckey, H. V. Dunham and John Apgar, as Commissioners of Appeals; R. J. Swackhammer and John Larkin, Surveyors of Highways; Charles Wynhusky, constable and Charles W. Blain as pound-keeper. For Overseer of the Poor Wm. H. Cole was nominated by acclamation. The amounts decided upon to be voted for are: $1,500 for Borough purposes and $300 for the support of the poor.

The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock.

INFLUENCE OF GREAT WRITERS.

Monday Afternoon Club Listened to an Interesting Lecture.

The members of the Monday Afternoon Club and their friends had the pleasure yesterday afternoon of listening to Prof. Wheeler, of Yale University, who delivered a lecture on the subject of "Voltaire, Rousseau, and Their Influence."

The speaker first treated of Voltaire and stated that it was the oppression of church and state that led him to be an infidel. He was brimful of wit and his satire was enjoyed by those whom he saw fit to characterize in his writings and words. He was a man that was welcomed into the highest society, although he was born on the lower edge of aristocracy. As he mingled in society he was impressed with its hollowness, and this caused an insult from a man to whom he appealed. He then prepared to defend himself against further attacks, and he challenged the man who had insulted him to fight a duel. This action caused his banishment from France and he went to England. While there he found nobility and he was cordially treated by all. There seemed to be a solidity about English life which impressed him and he was led to apply his mind to the study of literature.

Hall's Pharmacy.

Hall's Pharmacy was opened yesterday at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street, in the store formerly occupied by F. H. Hebard & Company. Mr. Hall is a graduate of the New York College of Pharmacy and has had nine years of practical experience, including four years with H. P. Reynolds, of this city. He is well-known and popular.

CHAPEL TO COST $7,000

ARRANGEMENTS FOR NEW EAST THIRD STREET MISSION HOME.

Trustees Elected Officers and Then Heard Encouraging Reports—Land to be Given if the Money for Chapel is Raised.

C. W. McCutchen, L. W. Serrell, R. K. Case, L. W. Randolph and Irving Brady, trustees of the East Third Street Mission, met at the home of Mr. Serrell last evening and transacted considerable important business. Architect Charles Smith and George H. Batchelor, representing the Temple Builders of the First Baptist church, were also present.

The first business was the election of the officers which resulted as follows: President, C. W. McCutchen; treasurer, L. W. Serrell; secretary, Irving Brady. The latter reported that the new organization was fully incorporated according to the laws of the state.

L. W. Randolph and the secretary were appointed a committee to arrange for the sale of the property on Astor place, which has been donated by Miss Mary E. Holton. This house and lot will be sold and the proceeds will be devoted to the building of the new chapel.

The question of contributions was discussed and in addition to the above it was reported that Mr. McCutchen had donated the lots on East Third street, on which the chapel will be erected, valued at $2,150, on the condition that the entire balance of the cost be raised before the work was started. A contribution of $500 was reported from Mr. Serrell and other contributions amounting to $200 have also been received.

Messrs. Randolph, Serrell and Brady, from the trustees, and Messrs. Batchelor, G. F. Brown, L. H. Biglow, Jr., Herbert Case, and J. H. McLoughlin, from the Temple Builders of the church, were appointed as a committee to secure subscriptions for the new building.

Architect Smith was authorized to prepare working plans for the chapel and to submit the same for approval at the next meeting of the trustees. The matter of furnishing the chapel was discussed and provided for.

It was stated that the total cost of the chapel should not exceed $7,000, and Messrs. Randolph and the secretary were instructed to rent the place of worship for a term not to exceed six months.

The trustees discussed a name for the chapel but nothing definite was decided upon. The meeting then adjourned.

—An important meeting of the Sons of Veterans will be held this evening when matters pertaining to the Death Benefit Association will be discussed.

ORANGEMEN WERE FAIR

WOULD NOT TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THR PARK'S AT WHIST.

Two of the Crack Players Were Unable to be Present and the Challenge Game Was Declared Off—Friendly Game Played

The challenge whist trophy still remains in the clubhouse of the Park Club. It had a narrow escape, though. The team from the Orange Whist Club came to this city last evening to play for the cup but they didn't play, that is for the cup. Yesterday, S. St. John McCutchen, one of the famous Park Club, was called away on business. He left unexpectedly and Senator Reed, who usually acts as substitute for the team, could not come either. He was busy in the legislative halls of Trenton.

The Orange team could have claimed the cup by default, but they wanted to win it fairly or not at all and so they declined to take it. Peter B. Matthews, who is something of a whist crank, arrived and Mr. Rogers offered to play the visitors with Mr. Matthews on the team instead of Mr. McCutchen. The Orange players knew that Matthews had not practiced with the others and declined to take any advantage of their opponents.

A friendly game was played, however, between the Orange team and the Plainfielders, Matthews taking the vacant place and the Parks were victorious by six points.

The game was postponed until to-night when it will be played in Newark. Mr. Reed will fill the vacant place.

—W. D. Murray will meet his Bible class for the study of the life of Paul, at the Y. M. C. A. to-night. All men interested are invited.

DEATH AND A MYSTERY

MRS. MARY NOBLE LEFT FOR NEWARK AND DIED SOON AFTER.

While Living in This City She is Said to Have Had an Admirer Who is Employed in One of the Local Shops.

Mrs. Mary Noble, who is said to have resided in this city for sometime past, died in Newark Sunday under rather suspicious circumstances.

Mrs. Noble went to Newark last Friday night, at 11:10 o'clock, and was met at the railroad depot by Robert Hibbans who had known the woman during her residence in Newark, when she lived on Nicholson street. Hibbans lives in Newark but is employed in Plainfield and had been requested to meet Mrs. Noble on her arrival at Newark and see that she obtained a place to board. He did so and brought the woman to his home, but owing to sickness in his family was unable to find accommodations for her at his residence. Mr. Hibbans escorted her to the residence of the Francisco family, and Mrs. Francisco readily agreed to allow the woman to stay at her home. Mrs. Noble seemed in good health and spirits and appeared pleased at the prospect of being able to go to work again.

On Saturday afternoon she went to Mrs. Hibbans' house, were she spent several hours, returning to the Francisco residence in time for supper. At about 7 o'clock Saturday night she went out again and did not return until 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Then she complained of feeling ill, but gave no information as to where she had spent the early part of the night. She was found dead Sunday.

It was also learned that the woman, during her residence at Plainfield, found an ardent admirer in the person of a machinist whom she spoke of as "Ed," and who worked in the shop where Hibbans is employed. To Officer Loftus Mr. Moore, Mrs. Noble's brother, stated that he had met Hibbans on Arlington street soon after the latter had visited the Francisco home Sunday afternoon, and that Hibbans had said nothing whatever about Mrs. Noble's presence in this city, although he knew at the time that she was in a precarious condition. Hibbans came to Plainfield Sunday night soon after the young woman's death.

The autopsy showed that the woman's liver and kidneys were somewhat congested, but Dr. Washington says that the cause of death was due to hemorrhages produced by a criminal operation.

Mrs. King is a sister of Mrs. John Kabanaugh, who resides at the corner of South Second street and Grant avenue. Mrs. King was once employed at the City Hotel.

MADE MERRY MASKED.

THE SAENGERBUND MASQUERADERS DANCED TILL COCKS CROWED.

It is The Event for Many Plainfield People, and Last Night Folly and Sport Ran Riot With the Hum-Drum Existence.

It was not until the cock crowed, and a long time after, that the merry revelers of the masquerade ball of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society hied themselves to their homes this morning to divest themselves of the costumes of historical and modern figures. Folly and sport ran riot with the hum drum existence of otherwise quiet Plainfield men, women, lads and lassies. The annual masquerade ball of the German society is the (with a capital T) event in the life of gayety in certain circles in this city, and last night's affair was no exception in affording a time of unwonted merry making behind the mask and in togs quite out of the ordinary.

The hall of the Saengerbunds was jammed full of people who were there to have a night of fun without form or restraint. Frank Conde, the claironet player, had his orchestra playing all the popular pieces that impels one to say over and over again:

On with the dance
Let joy be unconfined.

And thus it was. The grand march was joined in by a large number of couples in fantastic array, led by the committee in charge of the ball, costumed picturesquely and elaborately.

The following were those in charge: Floor manager, C. F. Meyer: first assistant, Theodore Miesner; second assistant, H. Klinsman; floor committee, R. Spiegel and A. Wolff; reception committee, L. Moraller, C. Felber and Gustav Sutterlein.

A Musical Narrative.

The life story of a Salvationist will be musically narrated by Ensign and Mrs. Parrons and others at the Salvation Army Hall to-night. The words and music of the songs were especially composed for this life story by one of the leading musicians of the Salvation Army, a converted infidel.

WHIRLED TO THE CAPITOL

VICE-PRESIDENT-ELECT HOBART PASSED THROUGH PLAINFIELD.

But it Was Only a Glimpse He Got of the Farewell Demonstration, for the Train Was Running a Mile a Minute.

Amid the cheers of his fellow-citizens, Garret A. Hobart, the next vice-president of the United States, left his home in Paterson this morning and prepared to leave his native State to take up his duties at the National Capitol.

The departure was intended to be an unostentacious one, but the people of Paterson turned out and gave a rousing farewell to their representative at the station of the Erie Railroad, where he took a train for Jersey City. At the Erie wharf he was met by the Central ferry-boat, "Fanwood," which was gaily decorated with flags, and carried round to the Jersey Central depot.

Leaning on the arm of Vice-president S. M. Williams, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, and with a further escort of General Passenger Agent H. P. Baldwin and General Superintendent J. H. Olhausen, Mr. Hobart passed through the north passage and boarded the waiting train. A platoon of police, headed by Captain Cox and Officer Stanley, preceded the Vice-President and his party. Detectives Large, Ritterbush and Blackford, of this city, were also present, and a Press representative was given a place inside the lines to see and shake hands with Mr. Hobart.

The station was crowded and everybody there was enthusiastic in their welcome of the great man. His appearance was the sign for a tremendous cheer that lasted for several moments. Mr. Hobart bowed an acknowledgment to the salute.

The train was drawn by Jersey Central engine No. 457, under the charge of Engineer Wesley Alpaugh. It consisted of a B. & O. baggage car and three magnificent private cars, the Baltimore, Philadelphia and Atlas. The latter car was handsomely decorated with flowers. The railroad officials accompanied the Vice-President on his flying trip.

At 11:15, the train pulled out of the Jersey City station amid the cheers of the big crowd, and the journey to Washington was begun.

There was a crowd at every station that the train passed through to wave a farewell to the Jerseyman on his way to the inauguration.

Plainfield was like the rest of the cities along the line, and there was a crowd at the station waiting to see the train pass through. For nearly an hour before the time, the crowd began to gather and prepare to salute the passing train with flags. At 11.39 a train could be seen in the distance. There was a rumble, a roar, and the train whizzed past at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The sudden rush of the train almost took the crowd's breath away, but they realized what was happening as the cars sped past and a mighty cheer rose up.

The train went by so rapidly that it was impossible to see the faces at the car windows but on the little observation platform on the rear of the last car, there were several men and one woman. Who they were it was impossible to see. They waved at the crowd in the station and again the crowd cheered.

Ephreiam Hedden stood on one of the trucks at the station platform and enthusiasticly waved a large American flag as the train passed. Constable Robert Mattox and H. C. Corsa had an immense flag between them with which they saluted the passing train. Comrades Goodwin and Perry of the local Grand Army posts had the post flags out and saluted the vice-president. There were scores of small flags in the crowd which were frantically waved at the right moment.

The train was in charge of Conductor A. B. Prawl.

The run from Jersey City to Bound Brook was made in thirty-one minutes, the distance being thirty miles.

New Firm to Open Saturday.

Woodhull & Martin's big department store will open to the public on Saturday. Many changes have been made in the store since it has passed into their hands and the people of Plainfield may expect to see some new ideas introduced. Both members of the firm are enterprising business men and will have a store that will rival any establishment outside of Newark and New York.

OBJECT TO SEWER TAX.

BOARD OF EDUCATION COMPLAIN IT IS UNJUST TO THE SCHOOLS.

Say They Have Made No Preparations to Pay for It and It Will Have to Be Levied—Superintendent's Report.

The regular March meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Board room at the High School building, last evening. All the members were present as was Superintendent of Schools H. M. Maxson.

Secretary Lounsbury then presented the bill for the sewer assessments on the school buildings and they did not suit the members at all. The assessments were as follows: Franklin and Stillman buildings, $150.18; Wadsworth property, $36.97; Bryant building, $150.34; Washington building, $57.86; Lincoln building, $116.42. Mr. Lounsbury called the attention of the Board to a little diagram he had drawn on the blackboard giving some idea of the comparative assessments of the Franklin and Stillman buildings and the Lincoln building. He then went on to compare them.

In the Franklin and Stillman buildings, there were, he stated, twenty-four rooms. The buildings were surrounded on three sides by sewers and the assessment was $150.18. At the new Lincoln building there were but eight rooms, continued Mr. Lounsbury, and it is necessary to construct a private sewer of 175 feet in length to reach the end of the sewer. The sewer was to be found on no side of the building, for the nearest point was at the corner. The assessment was, in this case, $116.52, while a lot across the street, which was bounded on one side by the sewer, was only assessed $10.48. Then Mr. Lounsbury went on to say that when the sewer was laid along the sides of the school, the property would be assessed again. The Board had made no preparation for any such expense and the amount would have to be raised from the taxpayers next year.

A general discussion on the subject followed in which all the members took part. The methods by which the assessments were made was discussed. Mr. Abbott said that the Commissioners could not be compelled to explain how they had arranged them. Mr. Lounsbury said that they couldn't give them, that such a thing was impossible, that there was no possible reason that could be given for the present arrangement of the assessments. He said that everything was assessed, city property, churches and even graveyards, although he couldn't see how a sewer would benefit a graveyard.

"If I was a graveyard," said Mr. Lounsbury, "I would refuse to pay and let them collect the amount on my value."

Mr. Lovell moved that the secretary be authorized to interview the Commissioners and see if the assessments could not be adjusted and if not, that he be authorized to pay them. It was remarked that the assessments came due before the next meeting and that some action must be taken before that time. The motion was carried.

The regular report of City Collector Bird was received and read. It showed that taxes to the amount of $712.47 had been collected and interest to the amount of $18.45 had been received making a total of $730.92, which had been deposited in the City National Bank.

An interesting report was read by Superintendent Maxson regarding his visit to the National convention of school superintendents. He told of the necessities of a school room and what were the conditions of the ideal school room. Most of these ideas, he said, had been embodied in the new Lincoln school. He spoke of the change in the necessary requirements to enter college.

After some very interesting remarks on the advantages to be gained by the selection of teachers only as regards merit and the payment of suitable salaries to secure the best talent, and the results of the consultations regarding the connection between the child's physical condition and his intelligence, Mr. Maxson said:

"Some superintendents have found on careful examination, that 20 per cent or 25 per cent of their children have defects in vision or hearing. I began last fall to examine our own pupils in these particulars, continuing the work from time to time as I have found opportunity. While I have found some defectives in each room, I do not find nearly as great a degree as is reported elsewhere.

"In view of the criticisms that have been past on the power of the Plainfield Board, it may interest you to know that, with the exception of Philadelphia, every Board in Education in Pennsylvania has far greater power than this Board has.

GEN. LEE HAS METTLE

The Story That He Threatened To Resign Confirmed.

STATE CORRESPONDENCE PUBLIC

Demanded the Release from Prison of Scott and Asked Olney if Warships Would Be Sent if He Called for Them.

Washington, March 2.—The correspondence of the department of state with Consul-General Lee at Havana in the case of Charles Scott, an American citizen, laid before the senate last night, confirms the published story that Gen. Lee threatened to resign unless the department supported his demand that Scott be released from solitary confinement. The correspondence is much like half of a conversation by telephone, as the telegrams sent to the department by Gen. Lee only are transmitted—the department's end of the interchange being omitted. Feb. 9 Gen. Lee wired the state department: "Chatles Scott, an American citizen, arrested at Regla this morning; charges not yet known." The next is dated Feb. 20, and says Scott had been in jail in Havana without communication for 264 hours. The dispatch continues:

Lee's Plain Words.

"Cannot stand another Ruiz murder and have demanded his release. How many war vessels at Key West or within reach, and will they be ordered here at once if necessary to sustain demand?" February 23 he again telegraphed Secretary Olney, evidently replying to inquiries and in language that can scarcely be misunderstood: "Situation simple. Experience at Guanabacoa made it my duty to demand before too late that another American who had been incommunicado 264 hours be released from said incommunicado, and did so in courteous terms. If you support it and Scott is released, the trouble will terminate. If you do not I must depart. All others arrested with Scott have been put in communication; why should only American in lot not be? He has been incommunicado now 338 hours."

Scott's Shocking Treatment.

The correspondence closes with a telegram of the same date in which Gen. Lee informed the state department that his demand had been complied with, and that Scott had been released from incommunicado, after fourteen days' solitary confinement in a damp cell, five feet by eleven, with water on the floor. "He was not allowed a chair, or anything to sleep on," the telegram concludes, "and discharges of the body were removed only once in five days. Scott says he went twelve hours without water, and once two days. Scott was charged with having Cuban postage stamps in his house. Was an employe of an American gas company."

Other Outrages.

In regard to the arrest of F. J. Cazanas, an American citizen, Gen. Lee on Feb. 17, in a dispatch announcing his arrest, denounced it as a great outrage, and said there were similar cases at Sagua and elsewhere on the island. The department six days later ordered Lee to report the whole facts and on Feb. 24 Lee replied that Cazanas insisted that his treaty right should be respected. The prisoner had resided at Sagua since his registration there in 1872. The other dispatches show the number of his registration entry number of passport, etc., and conclude with a dispatch dated Feb. 27, leaving the matter undisposed of.

Scovel Fares Better.

The correspondence in the case of Sylvester Scovel, the newspaper correspondent, begins with a telegram on February 6 to Secretary Olney from Gen. Lee announcing his arrest at Tunas, Santa Clara province, the previous day. Secretary Olney immediately replied asking Gen. Lee to see that Scovel's rights as an American were protected. February 8 Gen. Lee cables the particulars of Scovel's arrest saying he was captured on the railroad returning from an insurgent camp and supposed incriminating papers found on his person. He had asked the captain-general to bring Scovel to Havana. February 11 he states that Scovel was in a well ventilated cell at Sancti Spiritus, supplied with bed and food, and his case would be tried by civil authorities. His treaty rights would be respected.

THE CLOSING WORK

President Cleveland a Very Busy Man To-Day.

AT HIS DESK AT AN EARLY HOUR

Private Secretary Thurber Keeps Out Visitors and His Successor, Mr. Porter, Calls and Gets Pointers in the Work He Is To Assume.

Washington, March 2.—The president was busy at his desk this morning long before any of the leading government officials had their breakfast. Before noon he had spent four hours studying the huge amount of legislation which has been pouring in upon him for several days, and which however desirable, cannot go upon the statutes without his signature. Secretary Olney spent an hour with the president discussing departmental matters which are now being arranged in a proper condition to leave with his successor and Secretary Carlisle, whose work is also practically done, made a short call. Secretary Thurber is saving the president the trouble of entertaining a host of visitors, his office being crowded all morning.

Porter Getting Pointers.

Mr. Thurber's successor, J. Addison Porter of Hartford, was around the White House during the early morning hours, part of which was profitably occupied in watching the practical operations of the White House staff and in getting pointers from Mr. Thurber about the numerous things a presidential secretary must do. He also looked over the private apartments and while not deciding on their allotment rather fancied the bright, sunny room on the southwest corner of the building, across the corridor from President Cleveland's chamber, as the best for Mr. and Mrs. McKinley. This was the bedroom of the Harrisons, and because it is so cheery and sunny and has a southern exposure it appears best adapted to the needs of Mrs. McKinley. Last evening the president saw Dr. Sutherland and Dr. Talmage, with the board of trustees and other prominent members of the church he has attended during his two terms in the White House, having especially invited them to take leave of them. The finishing touches were given to a thorough renovation of the entire executive mansion last night. The furniture has been renewed wherever needed, the carpets cleaned, the mirror and picture frames regilded until everything looks new, altough many of the ornaments and furnishings have passed through several administrations.

NEVADA PRIZEFIGHT-CRAZY.

A Bill To Have the State Present the Victor with a Costly Belt.

Carson, Nev., March 2.—It is reported on good authority that assemblyman Timothy Dempsey, who was one of the most ardent supporters of the boxing bill, is going to introduce a bill in the state legislature now in session within the next few days asking for an appropriation of $3,000 for the purpose of having made a gorgeous belt of silver, with diamond studding, to be presented to either Corbett or Fitzsimmons, whichever chances to be winner of the great battle. The bill is being drawn up at the present time, and it provides that the secretary of state shall deliver the belt on the 18th of March, along with a certificate and affidavit notifying the world of the significance of the trophy. It is intended to have on the belt a reproduction of the official seal of Nevada and a fac simile of Gov. Sadler's signature to and approval of the measure. It is said that the governor has already given his consent to sign the bill if it passes.

Held for Criminal Libel.

Lawrence, Mass., March 2.—In the police court yesterday Judge Stone found probable cause in the case of the commonwealth vs. James E. Donoghue and John F. Shea, and bound them over in $1,000 each for the May term of the superior criminal court. The case is the libel suit of Mayor Junkins against James F. Donoghue and councilman John F. Shea for the publication of an article alleging an attempt by the mayor to bribe Shea.

Perrine-Slack Children Litigation.

Trenton, March 2.—In the long drawn out Perrine-Slack litigation for the custody of two children, the court of error and appeals rendered a decision yesterday upholding Mrs. Slack's right to the possession of the little ones. The court at the same time sets aside the judgment for contempt of court entered against Colonel and Mrs. Perrine by Vice-chancellor Bird.

Gold Standard in Japan.

Yokohoma, March 2.—The government has decided to adopt the gold standard at a ratio with silver of thirty-two and one-third to one. The smallest gold piece will be of the value of five yen (a gold yen is nearly equal to the American dollar). The silver yen will gradually be withdrawn. The new standard will come into operation in October.

New York Detectives for Washington.

Washington, March 2.—In accordance with a telegraphic request from Major Moore, chief of police of this city, Capt. O'Brien, the head of the detective bureau of New York city, has sent a half dozen of his best men to Washington to look out for New York crooks during the inauguration ceremonies.

St. Bernard Monastery Damaged.

Paris, March 2.—The monastery of St. Bernard has been partly destroyed by an avalanche. The left wing was demolished and the monks, who had sought refuge up stairs, had to tunnel through the snow in order to make their exit. There was no loss of life.

Just as Good is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

In Vienna all bicycle-riders, before obtaining permission to ride in the public streets, are required to pass an examination. They have to ride between boards laid on the floor without touching the sides or edges of them. At the word of command they must be able to dismount either right, left, or backward; and until the rider passes this examination satisfactorily a license to ride on the public highway is refused him.

Frequently a wheelman finds the tire of his bicycle deflated, and immediately begins to look for a puncture. A hole in the tire is not always the source of the trouble, however, as the leak may come from a defective valve. An easy way to test this is to fill a wine glass or narrow tumbler with water, then turning the wheel so that the valve is at the highest point, place the rim of the glass against the wheel so that the mouth of the valve stem is covered by the water. A leak, however slight, will make itself manifest by the bubbles appearing on the top of the water. The cause of the trouble may often be removed by working the plunger inside the valve stem up and down a few times with the point of the cap or with a lead pencil. Inflating or deflating a tire several times will also frequently cure a leaky valve. If neither of these remedies has the desired effect, the case is one for the repair man to attend to.

John Anderson, My Jo.

An old man, 75 years of age, and his wife, five years younger, in an English institution for the aged, recently requested the authorities to let them have a tandem bicycle, as they felt the need of exercise.—Daily paper.

John Anderson, my Jo, John,
I'm thinking much of late
That we are rather slow, John,
And not quite "up to date."
The other girls ride wheel, John,
While I afoot do go,
I quite neglected feel, John,
John Anderson, my Jo.

What though we're seventy five, John,
We're sound of wind and limb,
And really ought to strive, John,
To keep up "in the swim."
A tandem we should share, John,
If we would stand a show,
And bloomers I shall wear, John,
John Anderson, my Jo.

John Anderson, my Jo, John,
You must not say me nay,
New women are the "go," John,
So all the papers say,
And I've made up my mind, John,
That I'll just let 'em know
The old ones are n't behind, John,
John Anderson, my Jo.

JOE LINCOLN.

A NEW WHITE HOUSE.

How the Executive Mansion Might be Enlarged.

The new "first lady of the land" will enjoy the use of only five bedrooms, a dining room, a sitting room and a parlor. Nearly all of the White House is now occupied by the Government for official purposes, so that the President and his family are squeezed into a corner of it.

Incidentally, their privacy is seriously interfered with. It is likely that some day a Chief Magistrate with a large family and an independent turn of mind will gently rebuke the country by hiring a house in Washington to live in, utilizing the official dwelling merely for business and ceremonial purposes.

Every President who has ever occupied the White House has been troubled for lack of room. Even Mr. Arthur, though a bachelor, found the quarters inadequate to meet the ordinary demands of hospitality.

Other tenants who happened to have large families, like General Grant and General Garfield, have suffered no small amount of distress in this way. They did not have a spare chamber to offer a guest.

Mrs. Harrison's family was fairly large, and she complained that she was never able to entertain more than one guest at a time while in Washington. Mrs. Harrison took the trouble to express her ideas on the subject during her husband's administration, in the shape of plans executed at her own expense, for the President's house as it ought to be. The designs were made under her direction by an architect, with the help of Mr. Fred D. Owen, of Washington, who holds the copyright for them now.

Mrs. Harrison's design retains the old building substantially intact, so as to interfere not at all with its historic interest. Wings are added on the west and east sides, and in the rear is put a conservatory for plants.

Thus the whole arrangement is a quadrangle of buildings, surrounding an open court, the buildings themselves being connected by covered passage ways. Adopting Mrs. Harrison's idea, all of the executive offices would be transferred to the new west wing.

The first floor of this wing would be devoted to a grand salon for large receptions and other parlors and reception rooms, while the second floor would be given up to the President's office and the room in which the Cabinet meets. The new east wing would be a museum and art gallery, the latter containing portraits of all the Presidents and their wives, as well as of other Americans who have distinguished themselves. Arranged in the manner described, the reconstructed White House would be very beautiful and thoroughly appropriate in all respects for the purpose contemplated in a building which is to be at once the home and office of the President.

One interesting point about the present White House is that Mrs. McKinley, while having the use of only eight rooms for private purposes, will have seven bathrooms. The bathroom attached to the bedroom occupied by herself and husband has two tubs. It has walls and floors of tiles, and is provided with all the latest novelties in plumbing calculated to make bathing a luxurious pastime.

Infantile Logic.

The logic of the infant mind is usually right, although its theory may be wrong. Four-year-old Raymond lived in a suburban town and in a frame house that had an L. From the roof of that L arose a tall chimney. Almost beneath the chimney stood Raymond's bed. One evening he was made to go early and alone to bed, as a punishment. He had not been long in bed, hardening his stubborn little heart against the voice of conscience, before a violent gust toppled over the slender chimney on the roof with a thunderous crash that shook the whole house. Close upon the noise of the tumbling bricks the startled household heard cries of terror from Raymond's room. His mother rushed to the little fellow's bedside and soothed his fears. When the fright was gone, curiosity came to take its place.

"Mamma, what made our chimney blow down?" he asked.

"The wind, dear."

"What made the wind blow our chimney down?"

"God made it, I suppose, son."

"What did God want to blow our chimney down for?"

Here the mother, like many other religious teachers, could not resist the temptation to use the acts of God as a whip in her own hands.

"Perhaps because Raymond has been such a bad boy today."

Assuredly this had a very grave aspect. After a few minutes of silence came this comment: "Well, God needn't have blown down our whole chimney. He might have knocked off a few bricks, and it would have scared me just as much."—New York Tribune.

March April May

The months for renewing and healing in the physical world.

The months for new life, new energy, new blood in men and women.

The months when our need of help from medicine is greater than at any other time of year.

The months when Hood's Sarsaparilla will do us the most good because we are all now especially susceptible to benefit from this medicine.

The months when Hood's Sarsaparilla is taken by the millions because they have found that it is the medicine which does them good.

The months when you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it will purify, vitalize and enrich your blood, and put you in good condition to resist the debilitating effects of changeable, warmer weather. Try it now.

Satisfied with Hood's.

"For several years I have taken two or three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring for eradicating the humors in the blood and for building up the system generally. My experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla has been very satisfactory." GEO. FRANK, care of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

Great Blood Purifier.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla is our family physician and I believe it needs no recommendation. Wherever it has once been used there can be no substitute for it, as a blood purifier." MISS C. A. ELLIOTT, Grinnell, Iowa.

Builds Up the System.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for weakness with which I was a sufferer in the spring, and I have found it the best medicine to create an appetite and build up the strength that I have ever taken, and I recommend it highly." J. F. WARD, Labelle, Ohio.

Keeps the Stomach in Order.

"I keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house all the time and regard it as the best spring medicine I can find. It has proved beneficial in keeping my stomach in order, and since I began taking it I can eat anything I wish." H. STONE, Sherborn, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—While scenery was being loaded on one of Wm. Hand's trucks, at the freight house, yesterday, the team, in charge of Henry Wierenga, started to run away. The latter succeeded in running the horses in a tree, and thus serious damage was averted. There was slight damage to the truck and harness.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The Legislative Manual for 1897, compiled and published by Thomas Fitzgerald, of Trenton, has been issued. It is the same in style as published in preceding years and contains the same useful and valuable information brought down to date, and much more that is equally useful and valuable. It would require more space to enumerate the different classes of information treated of than can be given to the subject here. The Press is under obligation to William S. Potter for a copy of the manual.

Bilious Colic.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic will be pleased to know that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and if taken as soon as the first indication of the disease appears, it will prevent the attack. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MINE CAVING IN.

Several Houses Wrecked and Others in Danger---Narrow Escape of Miners.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 2.—Last night the residents of Wyoming, six miles northeast of this city, were startled by a report which resembled an earthquake. It was speedily discovered that the surface over the Mount Lookout mine was caving in. When the crash came the postoffice building, on one of the main streets of the town, was the first to go down. It sank a distance of twenty-five feet, and is a complete wreck. John Derbysire's house adjoining, is also a wreck, the whole foundation being carried down fully thirty feet, the inmates having a narrow escape with their lives. There are a dozen other houses that are in imminent danger of being wrecked. At the time the cave took place there were many miners in the pit who had to wade through water and quicksand up to their necks to escape with their lives. There are ninety-six mules in the mine and there is little or no hope of saving them. The damage to property will be great.

OLEOMARGARINE LAW.

Its Criminal Features Sustained by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Washington, March 2.—The criminal features of the oleomargarine law have been sustained by the supreme court of the United States. Three persons were convicted in the courts of the District of Columbia of selling oleomargarine without having it stamped and marked as required by the regulations issued by the commissioner of internal revenue. They applied to the supreme court of the United States for release on writs of habeas corpus on the ground that it was not competent for congress to delegate to the commissioner of internal revenue or to the secretary of the treasury the judicial functions which they exercised in this case. The chief justice held that it was a revenue law, and that the issue of stamps was purely an administrative function. The writs of habeas corpus were denied and the petitioners remanded to custody to serve out their sentences.

ENGLAND NOT INTERESTED.

Has Communicated with No Country Regarding the Cuban Trouble.

London, March 2.—Patrick O'Brien, nationalist member for Kilkenney city, in the house of commons, last night asked the government whether they had communicated with the United States or any European power concerning the disturbed state of Cuba, and asked for information whether the government would use its good offices with a view of securing the freedom of the island. Mr. Curzon replied that the government had had no communication with the United States or any other power concerning Cuba, and he was not aware that there was any intention on the part of Great Britain to use her good offices to bring about a settlement of the Cuban troubles.

IN A BLAZE OF GLORY

Maj. McKinley's Departure from Canton Made a Grand Event.

CHEERS, FIREWORKS, ILLUMINATIONS

Thousands of His Fellow Townsmen Endeavor to Shake His Hand---Bid Them Adieu in a Speech from the Car Platform.

Canton, O., March 2.—The president-elect left Canton at 7 o'clock last evening, thousands of his fellow-citizens bidding him adieu, in showers of fireworks and illuminants to their accompaniment of hearty cheers. The citizens and business men had arranged for a public demonstration to bid farewell to their honored citizen and neighbor. The local militia joined in the demonstration and at 6:30, headed by the famous Grand Army band, marched to the McKinley home. As they countermarched, Major McKinley, escorting the coming first lady of the land, appeared at his front door. Their appearance was the signal for cheers, and right heartily were they given. As they walked from the famous front porch to the coach in waiting, there was a frantic effort to obtain a shake of Major McKinley's hand. This was impossible, as the programme admitted of not a moment's delay. Major McKinley paused but a few seconds ere he entered the carriage, to raise his hat to the thousands of people. He then assisted Mrs. McKinley's maid into the cab, followed her a second later and the ride to the depot was begun. All along the route, about a mile, the streets were jammed with people, hundreds coming from towns adjacent to bid the major good-bye. Cheer after cheer was given them, and many women were seen to weep as the president's carriage, drawn by four caparisoned horses, passed along.

Farewell Greeting.

Major McKinley lowered the window in the cab as he left the house and from the opening waved his hat and Mrs. McKinley her kerchief to the surging, shouting multitude. The space about the station was packed for squares with a struggling crowd. As the President-elect and Mrs. McKinley stepped upon the rear platform of their car the shouts and cheers of the people again arose. Major McKinley seated his wife just inside the door and stepped upon the platform, and in a few well chosen words thanked them for their farewell greeting. When he concluded, there was a frantic effort to reach Major McKinley, but the train was signalled to start. As it moved out of the station the rain which had been threatening all evening began to fall, a fitting benediction to the farewell scenes which had just been enacted. General Superintendent Chas. Watt, who was here to look after the movement of the train, has arranged for the transportation by special train of every president since Lincoln, with the exception of Mr. Cleveland.

Wild Greeting Enroute.

Baltimore, March 2.—The whole country was ablaze from Canton last night along the line traversed by the McKinley special and there were hundreds of people at every station to see the train bearing the president-elect go by. Colored fire illumined the landscape and there were blasts of shouts and shrieks of greeting from hundreds of steam whistles. Major McKinley appeared on the rear platform as his train went through the different stations until late in the night and the greetings he received he will never forget. Every hamlet, village and city was aroused and paid some tribute of interest and respect to President-elect McKinley as he sped eastward. In the factory and rolling mill districts the din made by whistles, bells and firearms was almost annoying.

Greece Not To Be Harried.

Athens, March 2.—The ultimatum served upon the Greek government by the powers insisting upon the withdrawal of the Greek army of occupation from Crete and the recall of the Greek war vessels from Cretan waters does not specify any date upon which the evacuation must be accomplished, but leaves the time open to the convenience of Greece in completing the necessary arrangements.

The Indian Famine.

London, March 2.—Advices from Delhi, India, states that in Sirsa, in which district there is more suffering from the famine than in any other section of the southern Punjab, the death rate has reached 23 per cent. of the population, 40,000 persons having died. The killing of the cattle by the Mohammedans is causing trouble with the Hindoos. The usurpers are reaping a harvest.

Three Murderers' Convictions Sustained.

Trenton, March 2.—The court of errors and appeals has sustained the conviction obtained in the murder cases of Paul Genz, John Mackin and Joseph Clowson. The first two are under sentence of death in Hudson county and all will eventually be hanged unless the court of pardons interferes.

February Coinage at the Mints.

Washington, March 2.—During the month of February the coinage executed at the mints of the United States amounted in monetary value of $11,757,883.01. The total gold coined was 517,850 pieces, valued at $10,152,000. The silver dollars coined numbered 1,340,000.

Town of Ilorin Captured.

Brass, March 2.—The expedition of the Niger company, under command of Sir George Goldie, against the Emir of Nupe, have captured the town of Ilorin after two days' fighting. Severe losses were inflicted on the natives.

DID NOT GET THEIR WHOLE SUM.

Speaking of the opposition on the part of some borough officials in the Republican primary to the appropriation of $550 for the Board of Health, Dr. W. E. Honeyman, secretary of the Board, says that with the exception of last year the Board never received as much as the people voted them, owing to the impossibility of fixing the tax rate at just the right per centage to bring out the sum appropriated; and rather than have it go a little over the stipulated sum named by ballot, it was always considerable short. Dr. Honeyman says that in this way the Board has not had within $800 as much as it was entitled to in recent years, and he thinks that it came with ill grace for another official to have endeavored to appropriate them still less than they asked for.

RIGHT SORT OF FRICTION.

According to the proceedings in the Common Council last night the members of that body do not propose to accept the particular advice of any one man who may assume to be a leader. It is an encouraging thing to know that there is likely to be some friction in the circle of city fathers, for the probabilities of good government are much better under these circumeumstances. People had begun to look upon Councilman Barrows as somewhat of a boss in the Council, but the action taken on several matters last night seem to be a clean turndown for the Third ward official.

SAME APPROPRIATIONS.

The committee appointed by the Borough Democrats at their primary last Saturday night to fill vacancies and to fix the appropriations, have decided to make the appropriations the same as the Republicans named.

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE OPENED.

A Place Where Handiwork of Women May Have a Market.

The opening of the Woman's Exchange yesterday afternoon was most successful and starts a new era for this most important work in this city. The society which now has taken charge of the exchange will place it on a thorough business basis with the idea of introducing practical plans whereby the work can be carried on successfully.

At the reception yesterday afternoon there was a very pretty display in all departments which showed that the members of the exchange are determined to maintain a degree of excellence.

The officers of the society and those in charge of the different departments are as follows: President, Mrs. O. T. Waring; vice-president, Mrs. Wood; secretary, Mrs. D. W. Pond; treasurer, Mrs. Craig A. Marsh; committee on sewing, Mrs. Butler; housekeeping, Mrs. J. D. Runyon; infant department, Mrs. Thomas Minford; advertising, Mrs. Krom; donations, Mrs. Taylor; art and needle work, Mrs. J. Doull Miller. The above women are chairmen of the committees from the executive board.

During the afternoon tea was served. Mrs. J. W. Reinhart poured tea and she was assisted by the Misses Pfeiffer, Goddard, Martin, Minford, Patton, Reinhart and Mann.

The rooms were filled all the afternoon with women who were much interested in the work, and judging from the enthusiasm manifested the exchange will be a great success.

ORIGINAL WILL NOT THERE.

A Temporary Stop in the Contest of the Late Dr. Young's Will.

All was ready for trial in Flemington yesterday in the case of the contested will of the late Dr. Newton Young when proceedings were brought to a sudden stop by a demand for the original will. The original will had been forgotten and left in the Secretary of State's office in Trenton. S. S. Swackhamer, of this city, as lawyer for Mrs. L B. Mulford and others of the contesting heirs, was present with all his witnesses. As the will was not to be had the hearing was set down for next Monday morning. The strange circumstances of the making of this will were exclusively told in The Press some time ago.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Too Much Can be Taught.

The devotional exercises at the Primary Teachers' Union meeting yesterday afternoon were led by Miss Rocap, and the lesson was taught by Miss Beeching. The topic for discussion was "Can there be too much taught?" It was unanimously decided that there could be. It was announced that next week a business meeting would be held at 3 o'clock, and one hour later Dr. C. R. Barnes would give a talk on the "Jewish Festivals." A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested.

OBJECT TO SEWER TAX.

They levy taxes without consulting any other power in their city or town and may levy as high as 13 mills on a dollar, while the limit of this Board is 5 mills. They may also levy an additional tax of 12 mills for building purposes. They may buy land or take it by condemnation, and may erect and alter buildings without reference to any other body or officer. They also have power to incur indebtedness not exceeding 2 per cent of the valuation of the city or about $140,000 for a city of the size of Plainfield. This power is given by the general law of the state and in every city except Philadelphia, makes the School Boord a separate, distinct power, abolutely independent of every other power in the city."

The adoption of the report of the building committee was probably the most important work done at the meeting. The report of the committee was made by the chairman, Mr. Lounsbury. It was reported that the new Liucoln School was rapidly nearing completion, and that it would be ready for occupancy on April 6th, the beginning of the spring term. The committee reported that bids had been received for the electric lighting fixtures and window shades. The contract for the fixtures had been granted to A. D. Phillips for $275 and the contract for the shades to Frank G. Wikoff for $112.50.

To accommodate the overflow classes in the Franklin district, it was reported that it was necessary to provide room for these classes. The committee had been offered the use of the old church edifice by the trustees of the Seventh-day Baptist church, but the cost of changing it was too great. W. H. Rogers had offered his building on West Fifth street, near Central avenue, formerly used as a bicycle store, for $10 a month. It can be fitted up at a small expense, and the committee suggested that it be rented for the period of one or two years with the privilege of renewal. It was the wish of the committee that it be ready for occupancy by April 6th. The committee also had under consideration several buildings with a view to accommodating the additional classes to be opened in the fall.

By motion, the report was accepted and its provisions adopted. Superintendent Maxson reported that he had received tuition fees to the amount of $396. The Board than went into executive session.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

The Borough Council had a ten-minute session in the Town Hall just previous to the caucus, last evening, but nothing was done except to order the bill paid for the new fire-alarm gong and a few other bills of minor importance.

While the vote was being taken on the nomination for assessor at the caucus about 9 o'clock last evening, an alarm of fire was sounded from the round-house. There was a general exodus of voters from the meeting and the department apparatus responded promptly. Some unknown person had set fire to a small shed near W. H. Coles' office and the flames were fast devastating the building and eating their way to large piles of lumber and coal adjoining, when the department arrived. The firemen quickly applied their chemicals and the fire was soon put out. Chas. Coriell used the building as a sort of storehouse. The new fire-alarm was only pronounced finished and accepted yesterday, and it is thought that some wayward youth of the place wanted to hear the gong toot and at the same time break up the Republican caucus.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Little Madaline Blimm is recovering from her recent indisposition.

W. H. Turton has engaged George Randolph, who was for a long time employed by the late James A. Baker.

The macadam roads about here are drying up wonderfully fast, and Sunday many Plainfield and other out-of-town wheelmen rode into town. The bicyclists now report the dense clouds of dust as the main obstacle to wheeling on the county roads.

An Italian with a hand organ rode down on foot from the mountain, yesterday afternoon, and the first tune he ground out was "Spring, Gentle Spring." Some of the big boys pelted him with snow balls, so the man didn't tarry. He is due in Plainfield today.

Some three years ago the Township Committee, it is said, gave its unanimous consent to have a trolley road pass through the place, and the committee expended something like $200 in employing counsel, searching titles and for incidentals in order to give the company the right of way, expecting, of course, to be recompensed in one way or another. But the road failed to materialize, and whether or not the old permit is in existence, is not known. At any rate the Plains folks want the trolley—and they'll get it in time.

Thomas M. Paff, Sr., is perhaps one of the best posted men on real estate hereabouts. He says there are plenty of lots which are saleable, but which cannot be put directly in the market so as to net their owners their full worth, because of a failure to have the trolley extend to the Plains. At present, since the late James A. Baker's general store has been sold out, the ladies of the place have to either go or send to Plainfield even if they only want a paper of pins or a darning needle, and it takes nearly a quarter of a day to be accommodated then. Surely Scotch Plains, antiquated as it is in many respects, is deserving of some more direct communication with the outside world.

NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Charles Fair, of California, of the wealthy family of Fairs of the Pacific slope, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Hannah Nelson.

The Democrats of Piscataway township held their primary in Nelson's hotel last night. Frank Nelson was chairman and Runyon Field secretary. The following nominations were made: Assessor, C. E. Kelly; collector, Dr. W. J. Nelson; commissioner of appeal, Alex. Manning; justice of the peace, Berthune Dunham.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

THE NEWS IN WESTFIELD

PERSONAL GOSSIP AND HAPPENINGS OF A DAY RECORDED.

Map and Assessments Made by Sewer Commissioners to be on Exhibition—Said Not to be Satisfactory to the Residents.

Mr. John Ingram has gone to Washington to witness the inauguration.

Mr. Ward, proprietor of the Westfield hotel, went to Newark yesterday.

Mrs. Decker left today for Washington, D. C., to witness the inauguration.

The Board of Registry sets today from 1 to 9 p. m., to correct the poll sheets.

Mrs. M. Clark and son Percy are confined to house, threatened with the grip.

Rev. George A. Francis visited his brother, Rev. J. Francis, of Newark, yesterday.

Mrs. Fanny Crosby and her daughter, Miss Grace Crosby were in New York yesterday.

Mrs. W. T. Bogert and daughter, Miss Nellie Bogert, were visiting in New York yesterday.

Luther F. Whiker and John Ingram will go to Washington, D. C., in time to see the advance agent of prosperity take the oath of office.

The pigeon shoot between Clarence Lambert, the Duke of Mt. Ararat, and J. Benner, of Scotch Plains, for $25 a side has been postponed.

The Westfield Musical Society, under the leadership of Mr. Arthur Drake, resumed rehearsals last evening, in Gale's Club house.

The newly pledged Westfield Gun Club will hold a meeting tonight, in the parlors of the Park House, to perfect the organization and arrange for some trial shoots.

The teachers in the primary department of the Baptist church were elected last evening. They are: Mrs. Morse, superintendent; Mrs. Lewane, honorary superintendent; Mrs. Greaves, musical director; Mrs. Vanberhoz, librarian.

It is rumored that the same old "deal" has been made between the party bosses, as has been done heretofore. It is said that John M. C. Marsh will need all the votes that the Republicans can give him and committeeman N. B. Gardner will need all the assistance that assessor Marsh can throw to him. And there you will have it. However, it is said by prominent Republicans that Gardner will be turned down tonight, as predicted, and John Oleck nominated to succeed him.

The map and assessments made by the sewer commissioners is on view in the town rooms from 1 to 9 p. m. The assessment is way above what Westfielders expected and a dark and sullen expression shadows the countenance of the property owners. The assessment is seventy-one cents a front foot, outside of sewer connections. There is no end of dissatisfaction over the matter and they lay the whole blame on the Republicans, and now the Democrats are chuckling to themselves and will use the sewer job as a campaign weapon to fight their way to victory, on the ninth of March.

—H. L. Hastings, the anti-infidel lecturer of Boston, will speak at the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-night. Subject: "Weak-minded Saints and Strong-minded Sinners." The admission will be free to women as well as men.

THIRD SUSPICIOUS FIRE.

JOHN BICKNELL'S BARN THOUGHT TO HAVE BEEN SET ON FIRE.

The Owner Left Everything All Right About the Structure When He Retired—All But Wagons Lost—Insured.

The third supposed incendiary fire occurred this morning at 12:27, when a barn owned by John Bicknell, of South avenue, was totally destroyed. When Mr. Bicknell retired for the night he was very particular to see that everything was all right, and at the above hour he was awakened by a bright light, accompanied by a cracking noise. As quickly as possible he dressed and ran to box 28, which he pulled with Fred Hand's key. In the meantime Patrolman Mattox saw the fire, and being near box 23, corner of East Fifth street and Franklin place, he pulled that box. It so happened that the alarm from the latter box was received first, and when Mr. Bicknell returned to his place he found the department there doing good work. The barn was filled with harness, hay, wagons, etc., but everything was destroyed but the wagons. It is thought that the loss will be near $400, but the things were partially insured.

The reflection of the fire led many to suppose that a large house was in flames, and it attracted the attention of people for miles around.

It was nearly an hour before the fire was extinguished and the firemen did good work in saving nearby dwellings. An unfortunate thing occurred when the alarm came in at headquarters. The truck was ready to go but there was no one present to take the wheel. This delayed the apparatus considerably.

THEATRICAL.

About Mr. Mantell's impersonation of the noble hearted Frenchman, who is made to believe that his wife is poisoning him, there is an impressiveness, a seriousness, a splendid restraint, an artistic completeness and at the same time personal charm that convince one more than anything else that Mr. Mantell has yet done, that we have on our stage a man from whom great things are to come in time.—Philadelphia Press. At Music Hall tomorrow night.

Referring to O'Hooligan's Wedding, the jolly and entertaining Irish farce comedy which is billed to appear at Music Hall for one night, Thursday March 4, the Albany Evening Journal has the following to say: "'O'Hooligan's Wedding' scored an instant hit at the Pearl Street Theatre yesterday. Mr. Gilroy was exceedingly funny and clever as "Dandy" both as to acting and singing. The specialties are very good indeed."

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Died From Her Burns.

At 12:30 today noon, Mrs. McNaire died at the hospital from the effects of being burned in a fire at Scotch Plains recently. The unfortunate woman was badly burned and she had suffered intensely ever since. The best of care at the hospital was unable to save her life. Her relatives were notified at once and the body was removed to Scotch Plains this afternoon.

THE SUGAR TRUST.

HOW THE HAVEMEYER'S STARTED IN BUSINESS.

Descendants of the Founders of the House of Havemeyer Now Dominate One of the Most Powerful Business Monopolies in the World.

The production and distribution of sugar constitute one of the largest factors in the great aggregate of the world's business. The business of refining sugar, or rendering the raw sugars pure and fit for consumption, measured by the value of its products, ranks ninth among the so-called manufacturing industries of the United States.

Now this gigantic industry, which directly affects every citizen in the United States, which is more or less directly affiliated with a score of other industries, is practically in the hands of one man. That man is Henry O. Havemeyer, the head of that consolidation of firms which calls itself the American Sugar Refineries Company, but is better known to the public as the Sugar Trust.

THEODORE O. HAVEMEYER

It is the fashion to call Mr. Havemeyer a Sugar King. But in these days of discredited royalty, when kings in the main reign but do not govern, the term really does not do justice to the authority which he wields. As a sugar king Mr. Havemeyer not only reigns but governs. He is an autocrat whose title there is none to dispute. He controls the sugar trade as the Czar controls Russia. At his nod fifty thousand men may be thrown out of work. At his nod the price of one of the greatest necessities of life may be raised or lowered.

The germ of the mammoth Sugar Trust of to-day was a house in Vandam street, in this city, measuring 25 by 40 feet. Here in the year 1802 two German immigrants took up their quarters. They were Frederick Havemeyer and his brother, William F., who had learned the business of baking sugar in London. Hence the house in Vandam street which they used both as residence and as a place of business, came to be known as the Havemeyer bakery. It was a family concern. When the brothers married their wives did not disdain to take a hand at helping in the little factory. In those times a hogshead of sugar was a very creditable day's work.

Then the business grew in magnitude. An assistant was hired. More were added and the Havemeyers thought themselves almost at the top of the tree when they were justified by the growth of their business in employing a force of seven men, and produced one million pounds of sugar annually. This quantity may seem to us small in these days of big figures, but when we remember that loaf sugar then cost twenty cents per pound, and raw sugar was selling at ten cents, we may conclude that the old firm made very satisfactory profits of their limited trade.

From this humble beginning the Havemeyer sugar refinery started, developing through the years until, in 1887, when the first steps were taken to form the Sugar Trust, the Havemeyer interest dominated the combination.

But the Sugar Trust fell under the ban of the courts, and a new and more sweeping change was made by consolidating all the various companies which had entered into the Trust, and merging them into one great, new corporation. This was done on January 12, 1891, the new company being organized under the name of the American Sugar Refineries Company, which was the result of the consolidation of eighteen companies

Starting at $50,000,000, the capitalization of the Trust was later increased to $75,000,000, several additional refineries being absorbed at that time.

The total daily capacity of the American Sugar Refineries Company is 20,000,000 pounds, or between 25,000 and 30,000 barrels. The manufacturing plant in Williamsburg alone covers five city blocks, and has a great frontage upon the East River. It is the largest sugar refinery in the world. On the total capitalization of $75,000,000 an average dividend of nine and one-half per cent was declared, but the capitalization, as already explained, represents in itself an enormous profit on the actual money invested.

ONE WAY OF TELLING IT.

"Where's Jones?"

THE MUTOSCOPE.

THE LATEST THING IN LIGHTNING PHOTOGRAPHY.

A Mechanism Which Takes a Series of Photographs at a Rate Varying from Two Thousand Four Hundred to Six Thousand Per Minute.

[From the New York Journal.]

The life picture by the mutoscope is pretty much like that seen in other scopes, except in the matter of pressing a button and letting the scope do the rest. You work your own passage in the mutoscope by simply turning a crank. If you are enthralled with any particular pose of any particular picture you can stop the crank and study it. It is here that the mutoscope differs from its fellows in the pictorial machinery field.

It is operated by hand and requires no motor, battery or attendant. It represents views six inches in length by four inches in height, or about the size of a cabinet photograph, and runs so smoothly and steadily that each picture appears to be a part of one continuous photograph of a scene, with every gesture and movement faithfully reproduced as in life.

The perfection attained by the mutoscope is due in no small degree to the special mechanism employed in photographing the subjects. With this mechanism successive photographs of subjects in motion are taken upon a band of film at the rate of 2,400 per minute. A much higher rate of speed—as great as 100 per second, or 6,000 per minute—can be attained by this mechanism if the motion of the subject to be photographed is so rapid as to demand it.

When this cylinder is slowly revolved, the picture cards being held back by a stop, and allowed to snap past the eye one by one, as one thumbs the leaves of a book, an apparently moving picture is the result, and it is difficult to realize that the picture is not endowed with life.

By far the most amusing features of the mutoscope, if not the most instructive, is the capacity for reversing the usual order of things. Take, for instance, the curve at Union Square at the noon hour. In the natural order of things, crowds are seen hurrying to and fro. Vehicles of every description are moving in all directions. In the distance can be seen the Lincoln Monument, before which the cars of a cross town line are passing both ways. A down town cable car sweeps around the curve into Broadway at full speed, stops, leaves and takes on passengers, and proceeds on its way; and an up-town car is seen rounding the curve into the square, while on the crossing, between the tracks, paces one of New York's "finest," ever on the alert to assist pedestrians and prevent accident.

An old, gray-headed man gives a hop, skip and jump backward across the track, frantically clutching his hat. A bevy of women approach backward, of course, and a sphinx-like policeman, also meandering backward, convoys them majestically across the track.

A car stops and two young women walking along the crossing gather their skirts about them, walk backward up to the car steps and clamber aboard, doing everything in a reverse way that is inexpressibly comic.

A newsboy with an armful of papers is stopped by a benevolent looking old gentleman, who saunters up with a weak-kneed, backward stride, hands the lad a paper, and then carefully abstracts a penny from the little fellow's outstretched hand, and backs away with quiet dignity.

MARRIAGE IN PURITAN DAYS.

Customs that Seem Queer Enough in These Luxurious Days.

The brides of old time Puritan days—consider it, yet happy Easter brides of to-day— were solemnly adjured to wear:—

Something old and something new;
Something borrowed, something blue.

They were seldom married in church, often in the new house that was destined to be their home, and you may believe it was generally bleak enough to give an almost funereal aspect to the affair. It was bad luck to look in the mirror after the toilet was completed—even the godly maidens of that day were superstitious.

The wedding gown was first displayed in public meeting. Indeed, there was no other place where the bride could surely count upon finding all her friends together.

The bride and groom and bridal party opened the show by proudly walking in a little procession through the narrow streets to the meeting house on the Sabbath following the marriage. In Larned's "History of Windham County, Conn.," is a description of such an amusing scene in Brooklyn, Conn. Further public notice was drawn to the bride by allowing her to choose the text for the sermon preached on the first Sunday of the coming out of the newly married couple. Much ingenuity was exercised in finding appropriate and sometimes startling Bible texts for these wedding sermons. The instances are well known of the marriage of Parson Smith's two daughters, one of whom selected the text, "Mary hath chosen that good part;" while the daughter Abbey, who married John Adams, decided upon the text, "John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say he hath a devil."

RED JACKET'S MEDAL.

PRESENTED BY WASHINGTON TO THE WARRIOR AND PROPHET.

It Was Often Pawned for Firewater but Always Redeemed, and at Last Became the Possession of Gen. Parker, the Last Sachem of the Six Nations.

The silver medal which Washington gave to Red Jacket in 1792 was last the property of General Ely S. Parker, one of Grant's aids in the war for the Union, who was the last sachem of the Six Nations.

In 1792 President Washington called a council of Indian sachems to meet him in Philadelphia. About fifty of the most prominent chiefs responded. Washington desired to bring about an improvement in the moral and social conditions of the Indian; the red men desired to have their relations to the white men's government defined; neither object was attained; but the gathering was nevertheless one of importance. The conference was prolonged for over six weeks, the Indians taking great time to weigh every utterance of the white men. At the close, Washington gave to Red Jacket—who had been eminent as warrior and prophet, who was the spokesman of all the chiefs, and who was chosen as the bearer of the President's peace message to the Indians—this medal and a pipe made after the Indian fashion in the form of a tomahawk.

The pipe Red Jacket smoked to the end of his life, but the medal he pawned time and again as security for his debts for firewater at various barrooms, and time and again it was redeemed. Notwithstanding Red Jacket's attachment to his pipe, no one knows where that is; but his medal, after many vicissitudes of ownership, fell into the possession of General Parker. It is silver, seven by five inches; on its face an Indian is receiving from a white man the pipe of peace, while in the background a man is plowing; below the figures is the inscription, "George Washington, President, 1792." On the reverse is the shield of the United States on the breast of a spread eagle, in one of whose talons is a bunch of arrows, in the other an olive branch. Red Jacket was a name given him by the Americans because at the time of the Seneca chief's alliance with the British in the revolution he wore a military red coat which an officer had given him. His native name was Sagoyewatha, meaning "He who keeps awake." He was not physically brave, though a great leader in war. He was very proud of the Washington medal, and when Lafayette visited him in 1825 he wore the medal, and he owned it when he died in 1830.—Boston Transcript.

No Bottomless Lakes.

The deepest body of fresh water in America is Crater Lake, Oregon. Only one lake in the world, Lake Baikal, exceeds it in depth, and is only 400 feet deeper. Until recently it was asserted Crater Lake was bottomless, but soundings have shown its greatest depth to be 2,000 feet. It is five miles in diameter, nearly circular and occupies the crater of an extinct volcano.

No fish have ever been known to exist in Crater Lake. There are very few places in the lake where the depth is less than 1,600 feet, and no lake on the western hemisphere approaches this.

It is no wonder, then, that Crater Lake was supposed to be bottomless. However, the truth is that all lakes over 150 feet possess a similar reputation. Any body of water that is deeper than the length of the longest feeling line is sure to lack a bottom in the popular belief.

There is no data on which to base a guess as to the bottom temperature of Crater Lake, but the supposition is that it will be very little above freezing. The temperature of the ocean remains at about 40 degrees Fahrenheit all the year round, even in the tropics. Nevertheless, some volcanic heat may yet remain to warm the waters of Crater Lake.—Chicago News.

An Effort to Explain.

"Phwat's the good av a threaty?" asked Mr. Rafferty, who had been devoting some reading to international topics.

"Well," replied Mr. Dolan; "it's sometoimes harrud to kape the shtraight av a quarrel an' be sure who's in the roight an' who's in the wrong. A threaty makes it plain as day, an' fur thot it's a good t'ing."

"But how does it work?"

"Supposin' you an' meself wus two Govermints, an' we made a threaty thot we'll hov no foights; nothin' but argumints. An' supposin' Oi git riled at something you do an' shtart in ty lick yez."

"Yez couldn't do it, Dolan."

"Oi might thry."

"An' phwat thin?"

"Then thot u'd be a breach of the threaty an' my part, an' yez could go ahead an' lick me, if ye wor able, wid a clear conscience."—Washington Star.

Frozen Milk.

European papers say that frozen milk is becoming very popular. It is frozen in different-sized bricks, and in this way its purity and freshness are insured. The Belgian Government intends to increase the trade at an annual outlay of £10,000, and in Copenhagen, the capital of Denmark, a company has been formed and arrangements have been completed for the regular export of frozen milk. The necessary plant has been erected, and contracts have been made already for the delivery of 110,000 pounds a week, which will be sent to all parts of the world in bricks like ice.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

THE FUTURE OF GRAND OPERA IN NEW YORK.

An Interesting Contribution on the Subject by Maurice Grau—John Hare Speaks of the Differences Between English and American Audiences.

Regarding the future of opera in New York, and the large salaries paid to the principals, Mr. Grau said recently: "New York is too important a musical centre to be deprived of opera even for a season. The public is exacting, perhaps too much so, being absolutely unwilling to put up with any thing but the very best. I don't think, however, that such a company as ours could be duplicated anywhere. The salaries of the leading artists I don't regard as extravagant, as some would have the public believe, in view of what the same artists can earn elsewhere. The salaries of most of them, it is true, have increased since their first visit to America, but in many cases these increases were provided for in contracts which were for terms of years

MAURICE GRAU.

"Mme. Melba received during the present season fully sixty per cent more salary than during her first year here; Mme. Calve, nearly double what she received during her first season; M. Plancon, double; Signor Ancona, double; Mme. Eames, nearly five times as much as we paid her at first, while Mme. Nordica last season received nearly two and one-half times what we paid her during the season she began with us. MM. de Reszke are an exception to the rule, their fixed salaries and percentages never increasing since their initial engagement; on the contrary, wonderful to relate, a change being made in the percentage in favor of the management.

Mr. John Hare, the English comedian, in a recent interview, said: The English actor finds the American audience unusually quick of response. Its applause of a jest, a merry situation, a clever line, accompanies rather than follows the moving cause; they catch its meaning almost before the line is finished. They anticipate the point rather than wait for it, and they are often ahead of the actor. But it must be humor of action and speech that they can understand. They do not seem to care for humorous dialogue that they do not thoroughly comprehend. Thus, in "The Hobby Horse" there are passages that evoked roars of laughter in London but were received here in a dead calm of silence that almost took our breath away. If anything is depressing to the comedian it is to rattle off a speech that has never failed to evoke merriment, and when he reaches the climax, to find that he alone is laughing and that a profoundly inquiring look is on the faces of the audience, as though to ask, "Well, what in the world is he laughing at?" That he ever laughs again during the evening is a marvel. One such chilling reception of his possibly best line is enough to take all the spirit out of him, to make him dread the next speech of a similar kind that may be coming his way. "The English Actor on the New York Stage" notices one marked difference between London and New York, I am told, in the manner in which popular disapproval of a play is shown. I have been so kindly treated that I have not had personal experience of a flat out-and-out failure, which is hissed, but I know that in London we sometimes have a most obstreperous element present, who will not only hiss a play roundly, but will make it emphatically understood that they want it stopped, then and there. And, not satisfied with hissing the play, they will even demand the author, and when they get him out, hiss him, too. Here, I am told, the audience show their displeasure in profound silence, or mock laughter; that, instead of hissing a poor play, they will pick up their wraps and leave the theatre. With us they want the play taken off; here they take themselves off, I believe, which is certainly much more dignified and self-respecting, an example of good manners that might well be copied.

M'KINLEY ARRIVES

President-elect and Party Reach Washington This Morning.

MILITARY ESCORT TO EBBITT HOUSE

Will Exchange Calls with the President This Afternoon---Vice-President-elect Hobart Due Late This Afternoon---White House Dinner To-night.

Washington, March 2.—William McKinley, the next president of the United States, is now quartered at the Ebbitt house, and Vice-president-elect Hobart will reach Washington at 5 o'clock this evening. Major McKinley, Mrs. McKinley, Mother McKinley and the other relatives and friends of the president-elect who came to Washington on the presidential train occupy a suite of thirty rooms at the Ebbitt. The train bearing the Cleveland troops arrived several hours before the presidential train and they were at the Pennsylvania depot when the McKinley party arrived at 11 o'clock and formed the military escort to the president-elect on his journey from the train to the hotel. A vast crowd surrounded the depot and lined the street leading to the hotel when the special train of seven cars pulled into the depot. Chairman Bell and other members of the inaugural committee entered the president-elect's car the moment the train came to a stop and greeted Mr. McKinley. A few minutes later the entire party took the carriages in waiting and amid hearty cheering by the crowd the journey to the Ebbitt house was begun. The carriage of the president-elect was accompanied by four aides of the veteran corps of Troop A, Eighth Ohio batallion. These aides were Webb C. Hayes, Capt. J. B. Perkins, Capt. C. C. Bolen and Henry C. Rouse, under the command of Colonel Garretson, the commander of the Veteran corps. Major McKinley was repeatedly cheered by the crowds which lined the streets, and flags and handkerchiefs were waved as his carriage passed through the line. Arriving at the hotel the different members of the party at once sought the seclusion of their rooms to remove the evidences of travel and secure a slight rest.

Will Call on the President.

This afternoon the president-elect will make a formal call at the White House and capitol to pay his respects to the outgoing official. This call will be returned by the president, probably within an hour. The president-elect will call on the vice-president, probably to-morrow morning, and his visit will be returned, as in the case of the president and president-elect. When all formalities are completed and congratulations and regrets have been exchanged, the present occupant of the executive mansion will order the removal of all his personal effects. None of the belongings of the incoming president are ever delivered at the White House until he has been inaugurated. After dinner at the White House this evening the next meeting of the presidents will be on the morning of March 4, when Mr. McKinley will be shown to the blue parlor, with his private secretary, to await Mr. Cleveland's preparations for the ride to the capitol.

Plenty of Red Tape.

While the high dignitaries are on their way to the senate, in a four-horse carriage, Mrs. Cleveland will retire from the mansion, which has been her home for four years. On returning, and before reviewing the procession, a lunch is taken by the new president, who then goes out upon the stand, with his family and personal friends. When the last file of the procession has passed, President McKinley will enter the White House to become its occupant for four years. In the meantime, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland will be on their way to Princeton.

Taking the Oath of Office.

The swearing in of the vice-president, in the presence of all the high dignitaries of the United States and the representatives of foreign governments, is a preliminary necessary to the organization of the senate, which has been called in extra session by the retiring president. This session is needed that the senate may give its advice and consent to the appointment of the members of Mr. McKinley's official family and the other nominations which are to follow. The president has the oath administered to him on a platform, built outdoors, which, on this occasion has for the first time in the history of the government been built entirely on hte grounds facing the senate wing. The present house of representatives adjourns sine die at noon on March 4, when the Fifty-fourth congress will expire. The functions of the inaugural, therefore, belongs strictly to the senate and not to the house.

Clevelands To Dine the McKinleys.

This evening Mrs. Cleveland and the president will give a dinner to the president-elect and Mrs. McKinley, at which there will be no other guests. At this purely domestic affair, the two men will arrange the details of Thursday's programme, as far as their individual actions are concerned. The reviewing stand in front of the White House, more elaborate than any that have gone before, was completed last evening and a walk from the main portico laid down to it across the lawn.

Gage Familiar with His New Duties.

Lyman J. Gage of Chicago the new secretary of the treasury, who arrived in Washington yesterday from Hot Springs, Va., where he was enjoying a little recreation, was asked this morning if he had formulated any policy as to his conduct of the treasury, to which he replied that he was studying the matter up but had nothing to say as to his policy. Continuing, he said: "During my sojourn at Hot Springs, removed as I was from disturbing influences, I improved my time by making a thorough study of the inter-relations of the treasury with all the other departments of the government and also tried to acquaint myself with all the other various duties of the office with which I have been honored. I find that the management of the treasury is not so very dissimilar to the banking business to which I have been accustomed, I hope, therefore, in a short time fully to master the business of the department and then perhaps I can give clearer expression to my future policy." A reception will be tendered Mr. and Mrs. Gage this afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, who are relatives of his, and in the evening Chief Justice and Mrs. Fuller will give a dinner in his honor.

200,000 Visitors Expected.

Visitors are pouring into the city on every incoming train, and with bunting flaring from innumerable windows the city is fairly alive to the fact that the inauguration day is near at hand. If the railway officials' estimates hold good there will be a crowd of 200,000 strangers in the city on March 4. Gov. Hastings and staff of Pennsylvania are quartered at the Metropolitan.

MR. HOBART'S DEPARTURE.

Gov. Griggs and His Staff Accompanying the Vice-President-elect.

New York, March 2.—Vice-president-elect Garret A. Hobart, Mrs. Hobart, and Garret A. Hobart, jr., left in a special train over the Susquehanna railroad at 10 o'clock this morning for Washington. At Paterson large crowds surrounded the Hobart residence and cheered the next vice-president as he and his family entered a carriage to start on their journey. When the party arrived at the Erie depot in Jersey City to take a special boat of the New Jersey Central railroad, which was in waiting to convey them to the special train at Communipaw, another large crowd was in waiting and more cheers were give. This was repeated at the Communipaw station. Gov. Griggs, Mrs. Griggs and Miss Griggs, and the governor's staff accompany the Hobart party. Mr. Hobart and family have quarters reserved at the Arlington hotel in Washington.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

Indications Now Point To a Clearing Up of the Urgent Work.

Washington, March 2.—It is now possible that the senate will be able to clear up most, if not all, of the urgent important work before adjournment, having passed the naval appropiation bill at midnight last night when adjournment was taken until to-day.

House of Representatives.

Nothing of importance is before the house to-day and nothing special is expected to come up before final adjournment to-morrow at noon. Late yesterday afternoon the house passed a number of bills of a private character, defeated the "economic" postal bill, discussed and left pending the bill to prohibit the extensive publication by newspapers and periodicals the details of the doings of prize fighters and accounts of prize fights. The last named measure was warmly discussed and a motion to lay it on the table agreed to. This was done by a rising vote after which Mr. Aldrich, rep., Ill., demanded the yeas and nays on the question. His request was carried, one fifth of those voting on the motion to table voting for a roll call.

Nominations by Gov. Griggs.

Trenton, March 2.—Gov. Griggs last night sent to the senate among others the following nomination: Attorney-general—Samuel H. Grey of Camden; term five years; salary, $7,000 per year. Secretary of state—George Wurts of Paterson; term five years; salary $6,000 per year. Clerk of the supreme court—William Riker, jr., of Newark; term five years; salary, $6,000 per year. Commissioner of banking and insurance—William Bettle of Camden, term five years; salary, $4,000 per year. keeper of state prison—Samuel S. Moore of Elizabeth; term, five years; salary, $3,500 per year.

Two Pension Bills Disapproved.

Washington, March 2.—The president has returned to the house without his approval a bill granting a pension to Harriet Woodbury of Vermont. This is another case of a remarried widow applying for a pension after the death of her second husband. A senate bill granting a pension to Harriet M. Knowlton, widow of Major Knowlton of the Twenty-ninth Maine volunteers, was also vetoed by the president upon similar grounds.

Vetoes by Gov. Hastings.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 2.—Gov. Hastings sent to the legislature last evening his vetoes of two resolutions, one of a Cuban resolution of sympathy because he had previously signed a similar resolution, and the other one providing that materials and workmen for the new capitol shall be Pennsylvanians.

President Cleveland's Rheumatism.

Washington, March 2.—President Cleveland is suffering from a slight attack of rheumatism in one foot. The attack is not serious enough to prevent him giving his usual attention to executive business, but is enough to make him feel rather uncomfortable.

Office of Lay Judge Abolished.

Trenton, March 2.—The decision of the supreme court holding constitutional the legislative act abolishing the office of lay judge in New Jersey, has been unanimously affirmed by the court of errors and appeals. This decision wipes the office out forever.

A LITTLE BIG SIX NOW.

Mr. Leivers, from the license committee, reported on the various hack and peddlers' licenses and the same was granted.

Mr. Serrell stated that it would be necessary to have the delinquent taxpayers advertised and he made a motion to that effect, and that City Judge DeMeza be empowered to execute warrants for the collection of the same; also that E. H. Bird be made delinquent tax collector.

Mr. Frost called up the ordinance regulating the house connections to the sewers, and after a discussion as to who should be given permission to make connections the matter was referred back to the committee for further consideration.

Mr. Serrell called up the ordinance referring to the collection of ashes and refuse, and on his motion it was adopted on its third reading.

Mr. Frost in calling up the sidewalk ordinance asked to have the same amended so as to include curbing as well as the laying of sidewalks. This matter was also referred back to the committee for further consideration.

At this time Mr. Serrell asked to have the application of the Plainfield Sanitary Company re-considered as he understood the company has agreed to the conditions specified. The request was granted, and on his motion the company was given permission to erect their plant. Here is where the surprises were introduced, for the Council developed a "Big Six" with the following: Messrs. Dumont, Runyon, Newman, Tolles, Westphal and Leivers, while Messrs. Stebbins, Frost, Barrows and Serrell remained on the other side. However, Mr. Serrell voted in the affirmative for the application of the Sanitary company, and Mr. Runyon voted in the negative.

Mr. Leivers then introduced the license application of P. O'Keefe, and he moved that the same be granted. The "Big Six" stood togetner and Mr. O'Keefe secured his license, as did also John Sullivan. Mr. Lievers then asked that the application of Mr. Willis for a license be re-considered. There were objections to this and Mr. Barrows called for a division. It was granted and Mr. Leivers' motion prevailed that the application lay on the table until the next meeting. In this instance the power of the "Big Six" was evident.

Mr. Barrows then moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet in two weeks. This finished the business and the meeting adjourned.

THE CRADLE ROLL.

A New Plan of Work Introduced in the Congregational Church.

The latest thing in the way of a missionary society is the "Cradle Roll," which has been started by the Congregational Women's Board of Missions. The plan has now been introduced into the Congregational church in this city.

It is planned to enroll as many as possible of the children who are under six years of age on this roll. The admission fee will be whatever the parents of the children desire to give. On joining, each of the children will be presented with a mite box. These will be kept until an entertainment is given in the summer when the mite boxes will be opened. The money will be devoted by the Board to some work for children. The entertainment will be for the children and their parents.

CAR JUMPED THE TRACK.

Engine No. 422 of the camel-back pattern, attached to a heavily-loaded freight train going west, early last evening was between Dunellen and the tanks, when one of the cars jumped the track. Fortunately the engineer was slowing up in order to take water and none of the other cars left the track. The derailed car was, however, twisted around in such a manner as to block the fourth or west bound coal and freight track. The engine on the train seemed to have been rendered useless by the accident and a wrecking crew from Elizabethport was despatched to the scene, arriving there about eleven o'clock. So far as known no one was injured and the road was open for traffic by one o'clock this morning.

PERHAPS THIS MAY HELP YOU.

"My food does me no good," you say. Then it does you harm. There is no halting place between these extremes. Digested food alone gives health and strength. Undigested food sours, or ferments, in the stomach and becomes a poison to the whole body.

It causes headache, heart palpitation, liver and kidney trouble, distress after eating, pains in the chest and sides, and the tired, languid, heavy feeling we hear so much about. When the digestion goes wrong every function of the body goes wrong. Yes, and the mind, too. Men fail in business and die poor for no other reason than this — they are weakened, dulled and stupefied by dyspepsia. The lives of a host of women are blighted in the same way. You may be one of this miserable multitude. The writer of these lines was one of your number a short time ago. I tried dozens of things to get cured; just as you have done, no doubt. The thing which at last succeeded with me may succeed with you. It is a discovery of those wise and good people—the Shakers, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y.—called the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not a purgative, which at best gives only transient relief. It is in itself a digested food and also a corrector of the digestive function. You can eat and digest your food while taking this cordial. It helps you at once and soon makes the stomach vigorous and healthy. It is not like any other so-called dyspepsia cures. It is prepared by the Shakers principally from herbs cultivated by them. They do not ask us to spend a dollar for a bottle while we are in the dark as to its virtues. They take that risk themselves. Almost any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents, so that you can see whether it is what they say—and adapted to your case. And isn't the mere chance of a cure worth that much?

Did Not Oppose the Trolley.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of Feb. 25th appears an article entitled "The road to be widened" in which a very liberal use of my name is made. Whoever gave you the information concerning the part taken by me in regard to the trolley extension drew largely upon his imagination, as only one item has a word of truth in it, viz; "At a previous meeting she appeared in person" I do not own one square inch of ground along the line of the proposed extension; your article says I object "to the increased assessment of two per cent per hundred." I never heard of it until I saw it in your paper. The statement that should the work go on I would take legal steps to have it stopped is an unqualified falsehood. I had not even thought of such a thing. As to the widening of the road and extension of the trolley I had not even thought of such a thing, as to the widening of the road and extension of the trolley I did not made a single objectioe. As the Township Committee do me the honor to take note of my non appearance at their meeting of Feb. 24th I will say that had I known of the meeting and its purport I would have taken great pleasure in being present. My objection is not to the widening of the road or extension of the trolley but to the improvement of the property of the few at the expense of the many. What benefit will it be to the already overburden tax paying farmers of the Washington Valley and Green Brook portions of the township to have the trolley extended to the Mountain Park Inn.

A WOMAN'S PREDICAMENT.

The women of the Staffordshi Black Country carry all their burde upon their heads, and it is amazi the great weight they can bear.

A stranger-clergyman was preachi ing special sermons in a rural Staf fordshire church one week evening i summer time. The windows on one side overlooked the fields, through which was a public path. During the sermon the clergyman's gaze wandered unconsciously above the heads of his audience, through the open windows to the fields, and to the path, along which was coming a woman with a tall tub of water skillfully balanced on her head, in true Black-Country style.

Unthinkingly the preacher's eye followed the woman along the path, passing each window in turn; when, just as she was passing the last window, the bottom of the tub gave way—the water streamed down, and the barrel slid over her, and she was frantically trying to extricate herself.

The ludicrousness of the scene effaced the church, the congregation, and the solemn surroundings of the service, and the preacher burst into an uncontrollable fit of laughter before his appalled hearers; but when he explained the reason of his strange behaviour, his congregation lustily joined in the merriment.

While some went out to the assistance of the imprisoned woman, the clergyman continued his discourse, at the conclusion of which a good collection was taken.—Tid-Bits.

IT MAGNIFIES ODORS.

An Invention Which Acts as a Microscope in Detecting Smells.

Among the latest inventions, says the St. Louis Republican, is a machine which will take a liquid that has heretofore been regarded as odoriess and distil the most delicate perfume. A drop of perfumery or essence placed on the receiver will, on applying the nostril to the nosepiece or opening, produce an overpowering stench that would in a very short time, if continued, cause symptoms of suffocation. The instrument can be utilized in nearly every walk of life. To the grocer it will prove invaluable in detecting adulterations of goods. The chemist, druggist and physician, of course, can find ready use for it in their business, while it has been suggested that bank paper can be tinctured with a special odor, imperceptible to the ordinary sense of smell, but which could readily be detected by the scentograph, thus greatly lessening the liability of banks to fraudulent operators. It is also claimed for the machine that it will become popular in the homes of the wealthy, for by the aid of its mechanism the atmosphere of a large mansion can be kept constantly permeated with a most delicate and choice perfume at a nominal expense. For hospital and sick rooms its service will prove inestimable. The machine itself is a small affair, about twelve inches square and eight inches high. It is made of wood, and the opening where the nostrils are applied is nickel plated.

Nine miles east of Uniontown, Penn., on the north side of the old National turnpike, in a field belonging to the estate formerly in the possession of James Dickson, is the grave of Braddock, which is still well cared for and tended. Pious hands guard and deck the resting place of the gallant but unfortunate warrior, who, here amid the wilderness, fell on sleep, his final action, though of bravery without stain, linking his name forever with calamity. The grave is protected by a fence and surrounded with trees, some of them brought from his native country and planted there.

A PLUCKY WOMAN SHOT

GRAPPLED WITH A BURGLAR AND SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Exciting Episode at Cranford This Morning, Where Five Houses Were Entered—Mrs. W. C. West Not Daunted by Fear.

Cranford was visited at an early hour this morning by a daring burglar who gained an entrance into five private residences, and only ceased his depredations after being grappled with by a brave little woman whom he threw down a flight of stairs and shot twice, once in the cheek and once in the arm, having but a moment before tried to kill both she and her husband with two pistol shots after being discovered by them ransacking the house.

It was about 3 o'clock this morning when Mr. and Mrs. H. C. West, who reside in a large house at the corner of Cranford and Elizabeth avenues in Cranford, were awakened out of a sound sleep by some noise in the hallway leading to their room on the second floor. Mrs. West was the first to realize that something was wrong and she exclaimed "Who's there." Just at that moment a match was struck in the hallway and Mrs. West could discern the silhoutte of a man in the flickering light as she rose in bed. But no sooner had she spoken than the light was snuffed and two pistol shots followed one right after another. They were aimed in the direction of Mr. and Mrs. West, but they missed their mark in the darkness and became imbedded in the wall above the head of the bed.

Mrs. West is a nervy little woman of thirty-five years, of medium height and weight, and she jumped out of bed and ran to the hall where the intruder was still standing. He was a powerful-looking fellow and still held the smoking revolver in his hand. Nothing daunted by fear Mrs. West grappled with the man and a scuffle ensued in which the burglar attempted to kill her by shooting. The bullet took effect in the cheek and tore away a good deal of flesh. The man was too strong for the little woman to cope with and he threw her down a flight of stairs to the second landing and in the fall she tore away part of the railing. Then he shot again and this time the bullet took effect in the arm of the woman. The desperado then made his escape.

While all this was going on, West had been fumbling in the bureau draw for a revolver, but he was unable to find it before the assailant escaped.

Finally he came to her assistance and sent for Dr. W. C. Allen. The latter dressed the wounds and said that they were not dangerous unless blood poison set in. Mrs. West will be disfigured for life, however, as her cheek was badly lacerated. The wound in the arm will soon heal. Though greatly exhausted and weak from the loss of blood and the excitement Mrs. West bore up under her injuries in a wonderful manner. Who the burglar was there is not the slightest clue and he made good his escape.

This morning it was found that probably this same man had entered four other houses previous to his escapade at West's. They were B. Grow's of Milne street; Walter N. Irving, of Milne street, where a gold watch and a small sum of money was missing. H. Royce, Huyler street; J. M. Crane, Milne street. He was detected in the home of Grow, but escaped before there was any trouble.

West is a rice broker in New York, but he did not go to work this morning.

A RECORD RUN.

Vice-President's Special Train Made Very Fast Time.

The run made by the special train on the Jersey Central railrond, yesterday, which carried Vice-President Garret A. Hobart and party to Washington, will be a record one for some time to come. Engineer Alpaugh did not tarry on the trip and arrived in Washington at 3:23 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. The time of the trip was 4 hours and 8 minutes, twenty-five minutes faster than the record for the run from Jersey City to Washington.

The engine was the same one that drew the Blue Line that was in the Skillman wreck last month. It was planned to have Engineer Clapp, who was recently discharged from Muhlenberg Hospital, where he was confined for a number of weeks as a result of injuries received in the accident, run the engine, but he had not sufficiently recovered his strength so as to be able to go.

AT LAST DEFEAT CAME.

WHIST TROPHY LEAVES PLAINFIELD FOR ORANGE.

The Park Club Seemed to Have a Night Off For the Orange Players Won by Six Points—One of the Big Four Absent.

The whist players of Orange did not want to take any advantage of the Park Club four, they thought that they could win without that, and sure enough they did. The game was postponed from Monday night and was played last evening in Newark, Senator Reed taking Mr. McCutchens place on the Plainfield team. Perhaps it was the different surroundings, perhaps the hitherto victorious Parks had an off night, but at any rate, the Orange team was victorious and the coveted trophy, which was offered by the Park Club, has gone over to Orange for a time.

The defeat came in the nature of a surprise, for the Plainfield admirers of the game were very certain that the Parks were invincible. This is the second time that the Orange players have defeated the Parks, that team and the North End Club, of Newark, being the only ones in New Jersey who have successfully encountered the Parks.

The Orange team was composed of Messrs. Rodman, Wallis, Herring and Foster. The representatives of the Park Club were Messrs. Rogers, Howell, Townsend and Reed. The Orange players were victorious by six points. The Park's played their ordinary game while the Orange men played an unusual brilliant one. Mr. Rodman of the Orange team is a son of Rev. E. M. Rodman, of this city.

FOR THE RIGHT OF WAY

TRACTION COMPANY NOW WANT TO GET INTO NEW BRUNSWICK.

The Efforts Will be Vigorously Opposed by the Brunswick Company—Hearings at New Market Being Held Today.

Not satisfied with fighting the Brunswick Traction Company for the right of way over the line bridge between Somerset and Middlesex counties at Bound Brook, the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company has decided to make an attempt to run its line into the heart of New Brunswick, making a terminal there.

An account of the contest between the companies for the right of way over the bridge and in several townships has already appeared in the Press. The plan to get into New Brunswick has been perfected quietly. The plan of the company, according to Mr. McAfee, is to ask permission to build a trolley in the streets which are not used by the Brunswick Traction Company, but where the public deems a trolley is not needed. If the company carries out its original idea, however, to gain an entrance down Easton avenue, the most direct route from Bound Brook, the line will interfere with the Brunswick Traction Company's tracks, which already occupy a part of Easton avenue. According to the franchise of the Brunswick company, it has the right to construct lines through all the principal streets, so that the rival company, unless it can in some way get the better of the local one, will have only side streets for its lines.

Today there will be a consultation between Peter F. Day and E. W. Hicks, counsel for Piscataway township, and the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, as to what is to be done in reference to the road, against which a caveat has filed. The Brunswick Traction Company will also be heard by the Piscataway Township Committee today at New Market upon their petition for right of way from New Brunswick to Bound Brook.

WEAK FROM LACK OF FOOD.

A Man Found Unconscious in New Market This Morning

A man who refused to give his name was found in an unconscious condition near the Washington avenue bridge in New Market this morning. He was suffering from a lack of nourishment. He was taken to the home of Mrs. Wm. Spencer, where he was properly cared for and finally revived sufficiently to say that he had not ate anything for three days. He was looking for work as a machinist and had walked from Connecticut. He left for Morristown, Pa.

THE FIREMEN NOMINATE

WARREN ENGINE COMPANY HOLD AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

After the Business Was Transacted, a Pleasant Surprise Came When J. H. Cooley Presented Table and Chairs.

The monthly business meeting of Warren Engine Company was held last evening at which time the officers for the ensuing term were nominated as follows: Foreman, W. B. Bennett, B. F. Conover, H. G. Adams; first assistant, W. B. Bennett, H. G. Adams; second assistant, W. B. Bennett; secretary, J. J. Stahl; treasurer, E. E. Pope; financial secretary, W. T. Newman; engineer, W. T. Newman; first assistant, A. Brokaw; second assistant, J. Sheppard; stoker, J. H. Cooley; representative to the Firemen's Relief Association, L. B. Woolston.

The nominations were laid over for one month and the officers will be elected at the first meeting in May.

After the business of the evening a pleasant surprise was enjoyed when J. H. Cooley, on behalf of the company, presented the members of West End Hose Company with a handsome table and a set of chairs for their new house. The gift was accepted by Foreman Vroom of the latter company with a few well chosen remarks.

The rest of the evening was devoted to sociability and entertainment. Alonzo Brokaw gave the boys an enjoyable time with his phonograph and there was vocal music by Oscar Vaughn, J. Newman, Harry Spencer and Herbert Schutt. Refreshments in abundance were served by the committee in charge.

During the business meeting a resolution was adopted that it is the wish of the company that Chief Fairchild be appointed by the new council. The resolution will be sent to the new council when they take their seats.

GAVE ALL A PLEASANT TIME.

Varied Programme Rendered at First Church of Christ.

The entertainment and social given last night in the First Church of Christ under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was very successful, and the attendance was much larger than was expected. Mrs. Brown had charge of the excellent programme, which was as follows:

Organ solo, Miss Benner; poem, Mrs. Brown; song, Miss Belle Demott; poem, Mrs. Staats; recitation, Miss Mabel Wilson; poem, Mrs. Shultise; reading, Miss VanMiddlesworth; poem, Miss Maggie Moore; duet, Mrs. Dodge, Mrs. Brown; poem, Mrs. Bush; dialogue, Misses Belle and Alice Demott; poem, Mrs. Wilson; recitation, Henry Staats; poem, Mrs. Dodge; duet, the Misses Benner; poem, Mrs. Smith; song, Miss Ethel Reynolds; poem, Mrs. Hand.

After the rendition of the above the pastor, Rev. W. O. Thomas, made a few remarks, in which he complimented those in charge for their efforts in giving all a pleasant evening, and extended to all a warm welcome to the services at the church.

PLANNING FOR ENTERTAINMENT.

Sons of Veterans to Do their Duty to the Brigade Members.

A largely attended meeting of John Hand Camp, Sons of Veterans, was held last evening when several important matters were decided. The vacancy caused in the Camp council by the resignation of Charles Willis was filled by the election of Charles Stephens. A committee consisting of Frank Clarkson, L. E. Eaton and W. C. Dobbins was appointed to confer with the joint committee from the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps for the purpose of planning for the entertainment and reception of the Second N. J. Brigade, who will come to this city April 9th.

An invitation was received from the W. C. T. U. to attend the entertainment in the rooms of the latter this evening and the same was accepted unanimously.

Death of Mrs. Ross.

After an illness lasting about two weeks, Mrs. Hannah Ross, wife of James Ross, of No. 239 East Third street, died last evening from the effects of an attack of grip. During her illness she suffered a great deal but she was not considered seriously ill. She leaves a husband, a daughter and a son, the latter driver of No. 2 hose wagon at fire headquarters. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon from the house at 2:30.

A Parlor Entertainment.

A pleasant parlor entertainment was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Voehl, on Somerset street, last evening. A few friends were present and listened with interest to Prof. Sherwood who gave several readings and he also performed a number of tricks, which were not only startling but new. The programme closed with a phonograph entertainment.

FOLLIES OF SOME MEN.

H. L. HASTINGS TALKS OF THE LACK OF NERVE TO GRASP GOOD THINGS.

The Strong-Mindedness of Sinners Generally Results in Their Own Destruction—Women the Backbone of the Church

H. L. Hastings, the anti-infidel lecturer, of Boston, addressed a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, last evening, on the subject, "Weak-minded Saints and Strong-minded Sinners." The speaker was introduced by George D. Morrison, who referred to the lecturer as one having a National and International reputation.

Mr. Hastings spoke very much to the point and at times his remarks caused laughter. A portion of his remarks were as follows:

"It is generally held that the Bible is well enough for the children and women, but not for men in business who read the North American Review. It is conceded that the church has two women to one man and this shows that strong-minded men do not find in Christianity what they want and approve of. They feel as though Christianity was not up to the standard and that they are far beyond it. Men are so strong that you often see them able to carry a pint of whiskey and you would not know that they had a drop. They strike for shorter hours, while the women work sixteen hours over their ironing or the wash-tub. Strong-minded men will fill the bottom of a chair for hours while their wives will labor from early morning till late at night. They find it very easy to spend their wages in a short time, but on Sunday they will place two cents on the collection plate.

"On the other hand you will find that the leaders of human thought, the poets, scientists and men from every high station in life, are men who believe in God thoroughly. Why is it that religion is left for the women? There are about fifty secret societies in a town generally and it takes the men to run them, while the women go to church. You don't usually find the largest part of an audience in church composed of men, but I addressed an audience at one time where the men were largely in the majority. They were punctual and they remained until the close of my talk. This happened in the State Prison in Massachusetts. There is no trouble to find men if you go where they are. Last year there were about sixty thousand prisoners confined in the United States and of this number fifty-five thousand were strong minded men while five thousand are weak minded women. It was shown that some of them were the best bookkeepers, penmen and mechanics in the country, but they were too smart for their business.

"Infidels will tell you to blow your brains out as a panacea for all ills, and for several years past the number of suicides have increased at a wonderful rate. During the past three years more people have gone out of the world in this way than there are in the standing army. As a rule there are four strong-minded men to one weak-minded woman who commit suicide. The former blow their brains out while the latter brave the storm."

Mr. Hastings brought his remarks to a close by drawing a few practical conclusions to substantiate his words and he pointed all to Christ who can and will save men and women from their sins.

FELL OFF A TRAIN.

A Newark Man Stole a Ride on the Cars and Came to Grief.

Jacob Harrobot, a Hungarian, living at Newark, met with an accident last evening about 8 o'clock while stealing a ride on a coal train. The accident occurred at the Greenbrook tanks, where the man fell off of the cars and sustained a fracture of the skull. He was picked up by some persons who were near by and brought to the Muhlenberg Hospital about 9 o'clock where he was treated properly and is now doing nicely. The man's injuries are serious and it is not known whether he will recover or not, but the chances are that he will.

Elston M. French to Take Charge.

An interest in the insurance agency recently conducted by the late M. M. Dunham has been sold by his executors to Elston M. French. The estate still retains an interest in the business, and Miss Dunham will remain in charge of the office. This agency is the oldest in the city and represents some of the oldest companies. The firm name will be Dunham & Company and will occupy the same offices as heretofore.

Miss Grace Yerkes, of West Seventh street, is at Greenville, N. C., where she was called by the serious illness of her nephew, Charles Flanders. Miss Yerkes expects to be absent several weeks.

GAVE ORATORIO MUSIC.

DELIGHTFUL MUSIC RENDERED BY THURSDAY EVENING CLUB.

The Programme Made Up From Selections of "Elijah" and "Creation"—Club Met at Home of Dr. Carroll.

"An Evening of Oratorio Music" was held by the Thursday Evening Music Club last evening, at the home of Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue.

The programme was a delightful one and greatly enjoyed by all present. As might be guessed from the name, all the selections were taken from well-known oratorios, principally "Elijah" and "The Creation." A paper on "The Evolution of the Oratorio" was read by Miss Carrie Dewey. Piano solos were given by Miss Whitney and Miss Lavinia French. A duet was given by Miss Whitney and Miss French. There were vocal solos by Miss Alice Carroll, Mrs. Asa Collier, Miss Julia J. Ketcham, Miss Grace Carroll and Elmer E. Runyon. A beautiful trio from "Elijah" was given by Mrs. Frank T. Clawson, Mrs. Asa Collier and Miss Julia J. Ketcham. Another trio from the same oratorio was sung by Mrs. Asa Collier, Miss Jessie Stewart and Robert M. Clark. Two choruses, one from "Elijah" and another from "St. Paul," were sung by a chorus composed of those already mentioned and Mrs. F. S. Cutter, Mrs. I. Winthrop Travell, the Misses Anna Boice, Carrie Dewey, Mary W. Ketcham, Anna W. Watson, and Messrs. Charles H. Angleman, A. H. Cornish and Franklin P. Noble.

The club will meet at the home of Miss Anna Boice, of Park avenue, on March 23d.

STORY OF THE PIRATES.

DR RIGGS TALKS OF A THING NOT TOLERATED BY CIVILIZATION.

The Old Time Sea Fights Described in a Vivid Manner by a Man That Can Adapt His Words to Any Audience.

"The Story of the Pirates of the Mediterranean" was a sufficiently startling subject to attract a large number to the second of the University Extension lectures held in the chapel of Irving school, for the benefit of the residents of the west side of town. The chapel was well filled last night to listen to the speaker who never fails to charm a Plainfield audience, Dr. James F. Riggs. Dr. Riggs understands perfectly how to adapt himself to his audience, and his lecture was clear and simple enough to be understood by the youngest of the small boys who had come in to hear the "pirate story," and yet of the most intense interest to the most cultured member of the audience.

Dr. Riggs said he had not come to defend piracy. He might praise the pirates for their courage, and their fortitude under misfortune, but piracy was an awful crime, and one that would not to be tolerated in a high state of civilization.

The Mediterranean Sea is itself unique. The lecturer described it as a scene of extraordinary beauty, with its indescribably blue water, so clear that one can see the bottom in a depth of more than a hundred feet; the great, wealthy, world-renowned cities upon its banks; the picturesque northern shore, indented with many fine harbors, and bordered by a multitude of islands; the arid, desert appearance of the southern shore; and the busy scene of activity presented by the sea itself, where one is scarcely ever out of sight of a vessel. This very activity was the cause of the outbreak of piracy, which began as far back as Homer's time, and, with the exception of one brief interval, lasted until about 1830.

Where a high civilization obtains, a man who is known to steal is looked upon at once as an outlaw. But in primitive communities, among semi-barbarous peoples, a man who engages in some sorts of stealing is regarded as the poor man's friend, and really virtuous. The Barbary corsair would say, "What right has that Genoess merchant to be rolling in ducats, when I need clothing and food. Some of that wealth ought to belong to us poor mortals." And he would start out to relieve the merchant of some of his wealth.

Dr. Riggs described very vividly the sea fights between the various sailing vessels of the olden time, and the swift galleys of the corsairs, the paying of tribute to the pirates by European nations, and even by America, the efforts to put down the treaty-breaking robbers, and their final extinguishment by the French, closing by saying that the final act of the atrocious story was now over, and the Mediterranean as safe as our own Hudson.

PIVOTAL POINT GAINED.

THE CROSS-STATE TROLLEY LINE WIN IN BOUND BROOK.

Granted the Right of Way Over a Much-Wanted Territory—Council Vote Was a Tie and the Mayor Settled It.

Bound Brook is having the exciting experience of a war between two trolley companies for the privilege of extending their lines through the streets of that borough. For the past few months the representatives of both companies have been hard at work pushing their respective interests in trying to win the town's people over on their side. Until last night the fight was an even one. The ordinances giving the two companies permission to lay their tracks in Bound Brook had both been passed on their first reading, and at the meeting of the Council held last evening the ordinance favoring the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company was passed on its second reading, despite the vigorous opposition of the representatives and friends of the New Brunswick Traction Company.

The two companies which are striving for the mastery are the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company and the New Brunswick Traction Company. The former are planning to extend their lines westward from Bound Brook through Somerville and Raritan and on to Trenton. Eastward the lines of the company will connect with those in Plainfield and thence on to Elizabeth with branches to New Brunswick and Rahway. Some day in the future this company hopes to complete its route from New York to Philadelphia but at present the portion between Trenton and Elizabeth is the chief point of interest. The New Brunswick Company is planning to extend its lines to Somerville and Raritan on one side and Plainfield, Metuchen, Rahway and New Brunswick on the other.

No matter which side wins, it is the central point of interest and the pivotol point of the route which both companies are trying to secure.

A meeting of the Bound Brook Council was to be held last evening in the council chamber but the crowd was so great that the Council adjourned to the Bound Brook hall. The hall was filled to overflowing with the followers of the two parties and interested citizens. Both companies were represented by their attorneys.

The committee, to which it had been referred, reported favorably on the ordinance giving the franchise to the New York and Philadelphia Tractino Company and the ordinance came up for a vote on the second reading. The promoters of the other company had been assured that they had a majority in the Council. Three of the Councilmen voted in favor of the ordinance and three against it. The deciding vote was left to Mayor Coddington.

There was a breathless silence that preceded the remarks of the Mayor. Then he announced that he would vote in favor of the ordinance and a cheer rose from the audience that filled the hall.

The ordinance has been amended so that the town has been assured of a railroad. Ex-Judge W. A. Coddington, of Plainfield, the corporation counsel, has looked over the ordinance and put it in its present shape, making a num er of valuable suggestions of great interest to the borough.

MONEY TO WIDEN ROAD.

Washingtonville Ready to Help the Trolley to Their Homes.

A meeting of the property owners of Washingtonville was held last evening in the school house for the purpose of deciding about the collection of the money for the proposed widening of the road for the trolley.

Robert Clark was chairman of the meeting and F. A. Blume secretary. The chairman appointed Wm. Demler and Theo. Leurssen as collectors, and Mr. Clark was made trustee to hold the money as it is collected and pay it out as directed by the township committee as the work of widening proceeds.

In all $525 has been subscribed by the property owners and this money is only intended to assist in the work. The collectors will call on the subscribers in a few days.

CLEVELAND BETTER

The President, Nevertheless, Still Confined to His Room.

SUFFERING CONSIDERABLE PAIN

His Physician Confident That with Proper Rest He Will Be Able To Take Active Part in the Inaugural Functions To-morrow.

Washington, March 3. — Notwithstanding the fact that President Cleveland is still confined to his room this morning with an acute attack of rheumatism in his feet and legs, and is suffering great pain, his physician believes that with absolute rest he will be able to take part in the inaugural functions to-morrow. The last regular cabinet meeting was held yesterday without its chief, and all visitors, however important, failed to reach him. The ailment is attributed to close confinement in order to dispose of executive business which has accumulated during the past week. The president has been at his desk an average of fourteen hours a day. Midnight has invariably found him studying legislation heaped upon him in the final rush of congress, and every morning he has returned to work by artificial light. Secretary Thurber said: "Yesterday an aid of Gov. Bushnell of Ohio told me the governor would like to pay his respects to the president. I replied that the president was suffering from rheumatism, and that his illness precluded his seeing any one."

Crowds Thronged White House.

The White House was thronged with inauguration crowds this morning, the stream of visitors passing through the east room and main corridor. Mrs. Cleveland received several friends. Assistant Secretary Baldwin was the earliest of the president's callers, and the only one who saw him. He had with him the award in the Cerruti case, which the president has had under consideration for three years, involving the million dollar claim of an Italian citizen against the government of Colombia, which was signed. Secretary Morton presented to Mrs. Cleveland a large plaster relief portrait of himself by sculptor Rudolph Evans. Postmaster General Wilson presented her with a life-size portrait of himself by Charles Ayer Whipple.

M'KINLEY AND CUBA.

Havana Paper Discusses the Next Administration's Foreign Policy.

Havana, March 3.—Captain-General Weyler has issued an edict bearing date of Sancti Spiritus, February 25, authorizing the Spanish troops, local guerrillas and citizens to capture all stray cattle roaming in the fields and to use them for the consumption of the troops and residents of the town. The Diario De La Marina repeats the story printed a week ago that the Marquis of Santa Lucia, who joined the rebels some time ago, had died of fever in the Najasa hills, province of Puerto Principe. La Lucha prints an editorial discussing the policy of President-elect McKinley. It intimates the possibility of his adopting a foreign policy completely distinct and contrary to that followed by President Cleveland. The paper does not hesitate to affirm that his first step will be to employ his power to safeguard the interests of American citizens abroad, leaving other questions to be settled later.

Pope Leo's Birthday.

Rome, March 3.—Pope Leo XIII., Vincenzo Joachim Pecci, who yesterday celebrated his 87th birthday, was born at Carpineto in the diocese of Anagni, in the Papal States. When he was eight years of age he entered the Jesuit college of Rome. In 1837 he was created deacon, and in the following year was appointed governor of Benevento. Then he became successively bishop, nuncio at Brussels, archbishop, cardinal, and on February 20, 1878, he was chosen pope by forty-four out of sixty-two votes of the college of cardinals.

No Statue of Gen. Butler.

Boston, March 3.—The committee on military affairs of the legislature has reported against the petition for $50,000 appropriation for the erection of an equestrian statue of the late Gen. Benjamin F. Butler.

Opium Seizures Advance the Price.

San Francisco, March 3.—As a result of the two seizures of opium made by treasury agents practically all the opium in this city is in the hands of the officials, and the price has advanced from $12 a pound to $25.

TO VIEW THE PARADE.

Washington, March 3.—Preparations for the inauguration to-morrow are now practically complete and visitors are still pouring into the city and the hotels and lodging houses are already comfortably filled. The rush of strangers on the incoming trains to-night is expected to be very large. The prices which people pay to see the parade are enormous. Rooms along the line of march naturally command the best figures, since they give a chance for warmth and a few easy chairs. The second-floor room occupied by a manicure artist opposite the treasury building has been rented for $500; Mr. Leiter has paid $1,000 for rooms from which to view the procession, so it is reported, and all along the avenue second-floor front rooms rent for rates ranging from $100 up, with rooms above ranging from that figure down. Seats on the outdoor benches are being sold at prices ranging from 50 cents to $5. The privilege of sitting on a narrow bench without a back on an average March day to watch a procession of men pass by hour after hour is one which is doubtless rated high on account of its rarity. Nearly all of the 10,000 tickets to the inauguration ball, at $5 each, have been sold. The public comfort committee assert that their list is already well supplied with private residences and other quarters for the entertainment of guests.

DINED AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President and Mrs. Cleveland Entertain Major and Mrs. McKinley.

Washington, March 3.—The president fortunately recovered from his rheumatic attack last evening sufficiently to assist Mrs. Cleveland in entertaining Mrs. McKinley and the president-elect at dinner. This was purely an informal domestic affair, to which no others were bidden, and at half-past 7 o'clock the four persons in whom the interest of the entire United States is just now centered sat down to a beautiful repast in the small private dining room of the executive mansion. The charming hospitality for which Mrs. Cleveland has been noted was exemplified throughout the evening, the ladies retiring to the private apartments after an hour at the table to discuss those details of housekeeping of such preponderating feminine interest, while the two men resumed an acquaintance terminated eight years ago when President Cleveland completed his first term of office. Their conversation over the cigars in all probability drifted over the wide range of grave state affairs, which one will not unwilling relinquish to the other two days hence.

NAVAL PAYMASTER ABSCONDS.

John Corwine, Stationed at Newport, over $10,000 Short in His Accounts.

Washington, March 3.—Paymaster John Corwine, U. S. N., stationed at Newport, R. I., has absconded, taking his check book with him. This statement is made on the authority of the navy department. Monday afternoon Corwine cashed a check for $5,000 and then left Newport. An investigation of his accounts shows that he is between $5,000 and $10,000 short, exclusive of the amount of Monday's check. The accounts of the paymaster came under suspicion recently and Pay Director Schenck, general inspector of the pay corps, was sent to Newport to investigate. His inquiry shows a shortage between the amounts given. Immediate action was taken by Secretary Herbert. He sent telegraph instructions to the sub-treasury at Boston and to the treasury at Washington to stop payment on checks signed by Corwine and also wired to police authorities to endeavor to intercept him. Corwine stands No. 33 on the list of paymasters and has the relative rank of lieutenant. He was appointed an assistant paymaster in the naval service from Ohio, March 3, 1879, by President Hayes and became a full paymaster January 9, 1895. He has seen ten years and ten months sea service. His last cruise expired in November, 1896, and on the 26th of that month he was assigned to the exceedingly desirable position of paymaster at Newport.

Death of Rev. Dr. Mallory.

New York, March 3.—The Rev. Dr. George Seoville Mallory, editor and proprietor of the Churchman, who died yesterday at the Hotel St. Andrew in the 59th year of his age, was born in Watertown, Conn., was a graduate of both Trinity college and Berkley Divinity school at Middletown, Conn., and was subsequently professor of Ancient Languages at Trinity. He became editor of the Churchman in 1866.

FASHIONS FANCIES.

Large Hats Still Larger, but Brims Usually Narrow at the Back.

The Princess dress is very popular in Paris, and many handsome gowns of velvet and silk for weddings and other dressy occasions are cut in this style.

Wide ribbons, plaited chiffon, lace, and flowers in great profusion will constitute the main feature of hat trimming, and black hats will be very popular, despite the fact that brilliant color characterizes the finish of straw hats.

Lightness seems to have been the main effect of the designers in hats this season, and it can be a boon to all womankind if the milliners do not offset this by loading the hats with trimming. Japanese rush and Japanese straw help out the variety in lightweight effects, and Panama hats will be much worn for cycling.

The fancy for one-sided effects on bodices has extended to the back as well as the front, and evening gowns do not escape this mode altogether; yet it can hardly become popular, since it in so many cases interferes with the graceful outline of the figure. Lapping one side of the back, just a little past the middle, in a cluster of small plaits, is the most successful method of accomplishing this end, and the dressmaker will tell you that it is a very becoming style.

Large hats are even larger than they were in the fall, and the crowns are medium broad and medium in height. The brim is usually narrower at the back than at the front, but some shapes widen at the sides where the brim turns up, and others turn up at the back, with plumes underneath the brim. There are fluted brims in every shape imaginable, but the old sailor shape in the new light braids bids fair to head the list of popular hats.

It is said that Patti lives in constant dread of burglars in her castle in Wales and that she has surrounded herself with a perfect network of burglar alarms, every entrance to the castle being thus guarded. Perhaps the diva hasn't thought of hanging out a placard announcing the usual prices of admission as a preventive of crooks. It might be tried with good results.

M. Zola is going to keep on trying to get into the French Academy. Perhaps he will "break the record" of Laujon, the song-writer, who was a persistent candidate for half a century, and was finally elected at the age of eighty-two, "because," they said, "he would soon go to Heaven, "and it was well that he should go "thither by way of the Academy."

Canada and Cuba are both colonies, and they represent the widest differences in colonial administration. Canada's loyalty to England is a token of the fairness and liberality of British law, while Cuba's hostility to the government at Madrid is a bold indictment of Spanish oppression and misrule. The condition of these two great colonies is an object lesson to the world in the contrasts of law and civilization.

A foolhardy feat has been performed by a young cyclist at Atlanta, Ga. He rode a bicycle down an inclined board platform two feet wide from the top of a high building into the waters of the adjacent lake. Four men held the machine while he mounted, and at the word "go," he was sent off, and in an instant shot into the water, going over the handlebars of his machine. Both rider and bicycle were fished out in good condition.

Dr. Grenier, the French Mohammedan deputy, goes to the lavatory of the Chamber of Deputies to perform his ritual ablutions. When the man in charge found him taking off his boots, washing his feet in the basins, and wiping them on the roller towel, he felt himself obliged to interfere. Dr. Grenier thereupon walked down to the banks of the Seine, washed his feet in the river in the presence of a crowd of 2,000 persons, and after going through his prayers returned to the Chamber.

A few months ago there was loud talk of war over a tract of swamp land in a wild corner of South America, and there were grave fears that the United States would be drawn into this conflict by its determination to maintain the Monroe doctrine. But the intervention of the United States has had the opposite effect. It has led the quarreling nations to adjust their dispute by arbitration instead of by fighting, and the result is a triumph for honest, peaceful diplomacy. It is an occasion for great rejoicing in North and South America and Eng-

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry rives will receive your work.

No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. AMBASSADOR BAYARD HONORED

London, March 3.—The farewell banquet given by the Rt. Hon. George Faudel Phillips, lord mayor of London, in honor of Ambassador Bayard, took place last night in the Egyptian hall, the principal part of the Mansion house, the official residence of the lord mayor. The occasion was the last, but one, public appearance of Mr. Bayard in England. The scene in the hall was a most brilliant one, all the guests who were entitled to do so wearing the uniform of their respective ranks. Lord Salisbury was attired in the Windsor uniform, while the lord mayor wore his robes and chains of office. The guests who had been invited to pay honor to Mr. Bayard included the ambassadors, the cabinet ministers from Lord Salisbury downward, peers of the realm, members of the house of commons, and leading representatives of science, art and literature, together with the leaders of England's most extensive industries. Altogether over 350 guests were assembled.

Upholds Salisbury's Cretan Policy.

The music was rendered by a specially selected orchestra, which played American national airs during the intervals between the toats, which were few, but forcible. The lord mayor sat at the head of the table, with Mr. Bayard on his right. Letters of regret were read from Baron Russell of Killowen, lord chief justice of England, and the Spanish ambassador. There were a score of ladies in the gallery, the guests of the lady mayoress. Mr. Bayard made a lengthy speech, the only point of which was his statement that he upheld Lord Salisbury's Cretan policy. He lauded England in his usual fulsome style. After loving cups had been passed around toasts to the royal family and the president of the United States were offered, the lord mayor then toasted Ambassador Bayard, whom he greeted, not only as the distinguished representative of the greatest republic the world had ever seen, but as a brother in blood, who had shown a lofty appreciation of English institutions. He recognized in him an eminent jurist, a polished diplomat, a charming scholar and an accomplished orator.

Bayard Eulogized.

The lord mayor referred eulogistically to Mr. Bayard's ancestry. His father, if asked, might well have replied "I am uncertain whether I am prouder of being the son of my father or the father of my son." While asserting the dignity of the great country he represented, Mr. Bayard had instilled the British public with a fraternal affection which would cement international good feeling. He came bearing an olive branch and they offered in return a laurel crown in recognition of the great work he had done in knitting the nations together.

THEY ARE FRIENDS AGAIN.

Diplomatic Relations Between England and Venezuela To Be Renewed.

Washington, March 3.—Diplomatic relations have at last been formally resumed between Great Britian and Venezuela as shown by the following dispatch sent to Secretary Olney by Minister Andrade: "Venezuela has appointed minister to England Dr. Pietrie, who is now in Europe as Venezuelan minister to Germany and Spain." It is understood that Dr. Pietrie will go to London and present his credentials as soon as a British minister to Venezuela is gazetted. This marks the completion of everything undertaken by the United States in the controversy, the effort on the part of the United States for a resumption of friendly intercourse having been inaugurated by the late Secretary Gresham.

M'KINLEY'S CALLERS

NUMEROUS VISITORS AT THE EBBITT

The President-elect Astir Early This Morning---Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Call on the Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson.

Washington, March 3.—Major McKinley was astir early this morning in his apartments at the Ebbitt house, but long before he had finished his breakfast, which was delayed to await Mrs. McKinley's appearance at the table, cards were sent to his apartments almost in showers. During the morning the president-elect received a number of intimate friends, among them Chairman Hanna, who called to consult with the president-elect about inaugural plans for to-morrow. Several members of the inaugural committee also succeeded in securing an audience with Major McKinley for the same purpose. Several ladies of the party that accompanied Major and Mrs. McKinley from Canton assisted the next first lady of the land in receiving a few friends in her apartments this morning. Mrs. McKinley has not yet entirely recovered from her recent attack of lagrippe, and for that reason she cannot receive as many callers as she would like to. The suite of the president-elect and party is fairly overflowing with flowers, much to the delight of Mrs. McKinley, who expresses her appreciation of the thoughtfulness of those who had sent the floral tributes.

Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Hobart.

Vice-President-elect Hobart and Mrs. Hobart remained at the Arlington hotel all last evening, except for about a half hour when they called upon the President-elect and Mrs. McKinley at the Ebbitt. Upon returning to their hotel they held an informal reception in their apartments, receiving kind expressions from New Jersey friends and distinguished men from all sections of the country, who happened to be in the hotel. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hobart called upon Gov. Griggs and staff and their wives, who were quartered at the Arlington, which was referred to as a New Jersey home party. This morning the Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Hobart called upon the Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson, and this afternoon they will call upon the president, unless illness of the latter prevents their doing so. Gov. Griggs will likely call upon the president also, as after the 4th of March the president will become a resident of the state over which the governor rules. About the hotels there is general visiting of prominent people among one another, and congratulations are the order of the day.

The Capitol the Chief Attraction.

The headquarters of both the president-elect and vice-president-elect day boil with the hopeful anticipation of thousands of aspiring patriots desirous of serving their country in connection with the old flag and an appropriation. The scene in all the hotel lobbies resemble the eve of a presidential nominating convention. The streets are thronged with strangers, hundreds of "fakirs" who make their living, no one knows how, and who appear and disappear on occasions of this sort with equal mystery, are peddling their McKinley and Hobart badges and other trinkets with noisy pertinacity. Electrical illuminating designs make the streets a blaze of light at night. All the theatres are crowded, but the greates show of all, the capitol, with both houses of congress in night session and no charge for admission, was the chief attraction. The public galleries were packed and the corridors were rendered almost impassable by people waiting their turns to take the places of those who left. The weather has turned unexpectedly warm with a suspicion of rain in the air, though nothing more serious than a few showers is at present apprehended.

Massed National Colors.

The massive pile housing the state, war and navy departments has been ornamented with 100 huge garrison flags. The greatest naval flags fly but twenty feet and the army provides for the chief garrisons enormous spreads of stars and stripes flying forty feet and with these the corners and four principal entrances of the great building are covered from roof to ground. Some of the flags are gracefully and broadly festooned, the others swinging freely, giving an effect of massed national colors with no suggestion of flimsiness.

Gage Confers with Carlisle.

Lyman J. Gage had another talk with Secretary Carlisle at the treasury department this morning. Prior to calling on the secretary he spent a pleasant half hour with Comptroller Eckels, who will hold office a year and a month under Mr. Gage before his commission expires.

Gov. Black and Party.

Washington, March 3.—Gov. Black and Mrs. Black and party, who arrived last evening from Albany, are located to-day at the the Hotel Cochran. Gov. Black's party included Col. and Mrs. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Francis of Troy; Adjt.-Gen. Tillinghast and wife, Major and Mrs. Burbank and Col. Treadwell and the members of the staff and the color guard of Squadron A.

For the Inaugural Supper.

Washington, March 3.—Carl G. Essner of the Philadelpeia bourse, who will furnish the supper for the inaugural ball, has transported to Washington from Philadelphia six car loads of dishes and material for the supper including terrapin and other delicacies. Mr. Essner will employ 325 men, thirty of whom are chefs.

THE NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

William J. Magie, who was appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to succeed the late Mercer Beasley, is a native of Elizabeth, where he was born Dec. 9th, 1832. His father was a well-known Presbyterian minister. Mr. Magie was graduated from Princeton College in 1855 and was admitted to the bar in 1856. He became the partner of his tutor, Francis B. Chetwood, and later associated himself with Joseph Cross, former Speaker of the House. From 1866 to 1871 he was Prosecutor of Union county, and in 1875 was elected to represent Union in the State Senate. He was appointed an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court in 1880 by Gov. McClellan, reappointed by Governor Green in 1887, and by Gov. Werts in 1894. His term expires in 1901. He is a Republican.

NEW PARIS FAD.

It is the Study of Diction and is to be Introduced Into Plainfield

One of the new fads in the gay capital of France is the study of Diction. We are so accustomed in this country to think of the French as a frivolous people, and of Paris as a beautiful place in which to see sights and buy fine clothes, that we often fail to realize the devotion of the French to art and literature, and the serious and conscientious spirit in which they enter upon intellectual pursuits.

Thus to those who really know Paris there is nothing surprising in the fact that classes in the study of Diction are now fashionable. Our American girls, who are never far behind the times, join these classes, where they are taught not only how to speak French but to recite French, poetry and prose, great attention being paid to enunciation, articulation, inflection and accent, as well as to pronunciation and gestures. French diction, in a word, is a scientific study of French as a spoken language. It is elocution, but it is nothing more.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, who has studied French Diction in the past three years in Paris under the tuition of the best teachers, will give Plainfield society an opportunity of judging of the charms and advantages of the new method in the course of talks and recitations which she is to give here in Lent, and which is awaited with much interest.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

Robert Mantell appeared at the Opera House last evening in D'Ennery's beautiful romatic drama entitled "Monbars," before a large and well-pleased audience. The fact that it well pleased was proved by the numerous recalls the actors received after the telling situations. The drama has a story that holds the attention quite as much absorbed as any that the great French author ever wrote. This of itself is sufficient to account for the interest of an audience, but in addition Mr. Mantell has the support of an excellent company, all specially engaged for the roles they perform, and qualified by marked ability.—Cleveland Leader. At Music Hall tonight.

O'Hooligan's Wedding is the title of a rip-roaring farce-comedy which has scored a big hit throughout the country and which is billed to appear at Music Hall Thursday. The play is exceedingly funny and deals with an Irish wedding in the typical celtic style. The part of Mike O'Hooligan is taken by John Flynn, and that of Julius Kranze, by Larry Tooley; both are well and favorably known to the amusement-loving public and both have parts that fit them like a glove. During the action of the play quite a large number of exceedingly clever specialties are introduced by the principles.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. David Teston, of Bound Brook, is the guest of Mrs. John Logan.

Miss Annie Doyle, of Cranford, is the guest of the Misses Maier, at the Park Hotel.

The Washington Avenue Card Club will meet on Friday evening in regular session and for general practice.

Miss C. Davis, teacher of music and drawing in the Whittier School, is confined to the house, suffering from mumps.

Rev. S. F. Custard's condition is about the same. One of the patient's main desires is said to be his return to his parishioners.

Since George Schenck is to open a grocery store in the rooms now occupied by the W. C. T. U., the union will be temporarily thrown out of a home.

The date for the wedding nuptials of Miss Nellie Coriell, daughter of Abner Coriell, of New Market, and G. White, of Red Bank, has been set for the 11th inst.

H. B. Willis, county superintendent of public schools, from New Brunswick, was in town Monday, and with Dr. Brakeley made a tour of inspection of the schools.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Egbert and daughter, Miss Helen Bachelor, of Prospect avenue, have gone to Washington to witness the inaugural ceremonies and to be absent for a week.

Last night was the regular meeting night for the Dunellen Checker Club, but some of the members had not recovered from the excitement of the night before so they went home early, and several of the best players failed to materialize.

It seems to be the general opinion here that another ticket will be put in the field for the borough election, with the name of Harry Gaskill on it for Collector against George W. Day, the regularly nominated candidate on the Republican ticket.

The Board of Registration met in the Town Hall from 1 to 9 p. m., yesterday, to revise and add additional names to the poll list. Only a few new names were added, however, as the borough had already been pretty thoroughly canvassed.

The borough of Dunellen is said to be strongly Republican and a nomination at the primary is considered equivalent to an election. But the Democrats are nevertheless intending to make a strong fight and elect their borough officers, if possible.

Mrs. Emma Fritts, of Front street, was given a surprise party by about twenty of her most intimate friends and acquaintances last night. The party was arranged by Melvin Fritts, her husband, and Gilbert Herlich, the guests meeting at the home of Chas. Wynhusky on North avenue, and marching to the house in a body. Howard Snowden, of New Market, furnished music for dancing, and a jolly good time was had until early this morning.

Some twenty-five or thirty persons gathered at the depot between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday to get a passing glimpse of Vice-President Garret A. Hobart, who was on his way to Washington to the inaugural ceremonies Of course, it was not generally known what time the distinguished passenger would pass, and as the Vice-President was probably busy looking over his mail matter, the train flew by at the rate of sixty miles an hour, and the Vice-President actually forgot to look out of the window. Of course, every one on the depot platform saw Mr. Hobart—that is to hear them tell it.

NEW MARKET.

Miss Estella Sofield is on the sick list.

Mr. Curtis is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Lizzie Day is confined to the house with a severe cold.

Constable Luther Munday was in Bound Brook on official business yesterday.

Miss Bertha Sheppard gave a card party to a few of her friends last evening.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Smith, of Grandview avenue, North Plainfield, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Messler, yesterday.

Fred Clark took a four horse load of young people over to Berckley Heights Monday night, where they spent the night dancing.

The roof on the school building and about the gutters is sadly in need of repairs. During heavy rains water leaks through into the assembly room, and this must necessarily create dampness through the whole structure.

The Fanwood Township Democrats are up and doing. They have called their primary meeting for Friday evening, March 5th. The meeting will be held in the house of Bucket and Engine Co., No, 1, and the election will take place on March 9th.

"Bob" Murphy's new blacksmith shop, jutting out so as to obstruct a full view of the public school building from the northwest, is pronounced an eye sore. Murphy, it is said, offered to sell the school commissioners his bit of ground at one time for a nominal sum, but it was refused and now an unsightly looking, long one-story building graces (?) the plot.

The members of Twilight Council, No. 7, Jr. O. U. A. M, of this place, met in their rooms Sunday morning and attended divine worship in the M. E. church in a party. Rev. George Angleman, the pastor, delivered an able discourse to the members, combining in his text three subjects, viz: Industry, fraternity and patriotism. He laid great stress on the necessity of holding up these three great principles of the order, and he eulogized the members for the commendable part they are taking on behalf of the Public Schools. There were present representatives from Central Council, of Westfield, Franklin Council, of Plainfield and the Dunellen Council and during the afternoon the members met and passed suitable resolutions thanking Rev. Mr. Angleman for his timely words and suggestions. The Jr. O. U. A. M., in the state is rapidly increasing in membership.

WASHINGTONVILLE.

The treasurer reported that all expenses were paid and that there was money in the treasury. The reports of the various committees showed the society to be in a good condition and the workers were congratulated for their earnest efforts during the year.

The Washingtonville Christian Endeavor Society held their annual meeting last evening for the election of officers and the receiving of the yearly reports. The officers were elected: President, George Winans; vice-president, Andrew Wilson; treasurer, Miss Carrie Bullman; secretary, Ephraim Ackor.

GARDNER THE VICTOR.

RENOMINATED FOR TOWN COMMITTEEMAN AT WESTFIELD.

Everything Was Arranged Beforehand, and Those Who Came to See Fun Were Disappointed—Board of Education Meet

The Republicans held their primary last evening in the town rooms, and the "regular" ticket went through with a whoop and a growl—a whoop from the machine men and a growl from the rest. W. I. Bogert was elected chairman, and Wellington Moorehouse, secretary. After which the balloting for nominations begun. Some one connected with the party machine had printed ballots, that were prepared in caucus last Saturday evening, which took the wind out of the canvas of the voters, who came expecting to see a real live primary. The Gluck faction were out-generaled in this particular and were compelled to use a Gardner ticket or scratch it, which many did. Nathaniel B. Gardner was nominated to succeed himself for town commiteeman. The rest of the ticket is: For assessor, Wellington Moorehouse; for collector, Augustus K. Gale; for constable, Eugene W. Chamberlain; for justice of the peace, William B. Toucy; for surveyors of highway, J. N. Wilcox and Sherman Cooper; for commissioners of appeal, William W. Connolly, John J. Coger and Charles A. Smith; for poundkeepers, H. Willoughby and Oliver Pierson. The appropriations are as follows: For roads, $5,000; for street lighting, $2,700; for poor, $500; for fire department, $600; for hydrants, $700; for maintenance of sewer system, $1,500; for township expenses, $2,500.

The Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting in the Prospect School building last evening, with all present except Dr. Wm. A. Rice. Dr. Rice has not lived here for almost a year, and his resignation was presented to the Board and accepted as far as the Board had the power, and it will be presented at the next annual school meeting. Two rooms have had a new "dust allayer" put on and the committee on buildings reported that it had proven successful. The principal reported a number of cases of chicken-pox, there being no less than fifteen pupils out of one room for this cause. County Superintendent Benj. Holmes, of Elizabeth, made a few remarks to the Board relative to establishing a pedagogic library. Principal Edwards recommended a new system of marking the daily standing of the scholars. They will now be marked on the decimal system: 10—perfect; 9—excellent; 8—very good; 7—good; 6—fair; 5—poor; 4—very poor.

Mrs. L. E. Wooley and child are suffering with the grip.

The Empire Engine Company held its regular monthly meeting last evening.

Mrs. Rea and Mrs. Joseph Ferris, both ill with pneumonia, are reported to be still dangerously ill.

Mrs. Peabody, mother of Miss Katharyne Peabody, a teacher in the Prospect school, is reported ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Seeley moved yesterday from Elm street to the Hetfield farm, just outside of town.

The town committee wants a dog-catcher. Canines are too numerous about the streets. Many complaints have been made about them.

The Westfield Gun Club held its first regular meeting last evening in the parlors of the Park Hotel and took in 15 new members. A sweepstakes shoot will be held soon to get a line on the men to enable the executive committee to classify them.

The Democrats hold their primary tonight and it is almost a foregone conclusion that Harry Knight will be put up to run against "Pop" Gardner for town committeeman, and John M. C. Marsh will be nominated to succeed himself for assessor.

Vice-President Garret A. Hobart's special train went through this bailiwick at 11:35 yesterday and many were on the depot platform in the hope of catching a glimpse of the distinguished citizen of Paterson, but were disappointed. He was not in view.

Springfield, a suburb of Westfield, is in a healthy state financially. Its report, just out, shows the town to have all bills paid, a balance of over $3,000 in the bank, $1,100 unpaid taxes and the town has stone sidewalks throughout. Westfield can't compare with Springfield.

DISCONTENT.

Down in a field one day in June,
The flowers all bloomed together,
Save one who tried to hide herself
And drooped, that pleasant weather.

A robin, who had soared too high
And felt a little lazy,
Was resting near a buttercup
Who wished she was a daisy.

For daisies grow so big and tall,
She always had a passion
For wearing frills about her neck,
Just in the daisy's fashion.

And buttercups must always be
The same old tiresome color,
While daisies dress in gold and white,
Although the gold is duller.

"Dear Robin," said this sad young flower
"Perhaps you'd not mind trying
To find a nice white frill for me,
Some day when you are flying."

"You silly thing," the Robin said,
"I think you must be crazy;
I'd rather be my honest self
Than any made up daisy.

"You're nicer in your own bright gown;
The little children love you;
Be the best buttercup you can,
And think no flower above you.

"Though swallows keep me out of sight,
W 'd better keep our places;
Perhaps the world would all go wrong
With one too many daisies.

"Look bravely up into the sky
And be content with knowing
That God wished for a buttercup
Just here where you a e growing."

—Sarah Orne Jewett

LOVE'S SACRIFICE.

"My dear," said Hero Field, "don't give up. If you yield this way, it's all up with you during your married life. And the idea of a bride in her honeymoon being weighed down with an old grandfather and grandmother-in-law!"

Nannie Eastlake was a bright-eyed girl of nineteen—a girl who had been brought up in a fashionable boarding school. And the first real heart experience that ever happened to her was Donald Aubrey's love.

"It is such an elegant house," said Nannie. "Turkey carpets, furniture of ebony and gold, and the tiniest little gem of a conservatory filled with roses, camelias and the sweetest carnations, and my boudoir all in pink and silver."

"Of course it's all very fine," said Miss Field, "but you'll never enjoy it with those horrid, mischief-making antediluvians sniffing and prowling around."

"But they are Donald's grandparents," pleaded Nan.

"Well, what then? Let him provide for them as other people do. His wife has the first right in the house, and so I'd tell him if I were you. A mother-in-law would be bad enough, but this is ten times worse."

So when Mr. Aubrey came to make his usual evening call that night and Aunt Ponsonby had discreetly made some excuse for leaving the drawing-room, Nannie broached the subject at once.

"Donald," she said, "I have lately been thinking—"

"Yes, dear?"

"And I've come to the conclusion that you ought not to ask me to make a home for old Mr. and Mrs. Vivian."

"Is it not right and natural, Nannie, that their home should be with me?" he asked, his face clouding over.

"I dare say it will be very nice for them," said Nannie, with a toss of her head. "But how about me?"

"Do you object to them?"

"Very decidedly indeed," answered the pretty young girl, fondly imagining that she had but to lift her slender finger to win any boon that she asked of Donald Aubrey.

"I am very sorry," said the young man, calmly. "As I have decided to ask them to remain permanently with me, I cannot permit my wife—"

Nannie reddened.

"I am not your wife yet, Mr. Aubrey, and I will not be your wife if—"

"Think of what you are saying!"

"I mean it. I do not choose to marry into a nest of relations-in-law, and you must choose between your grandparents and me."

"Nannie!"

"I am quite in earnest," said she. "If you really care for me you will give up this unreasonable caprice."

His dark eyes were bent on hers as if to read the very secrets of her heart.

"Is it unreasonable," he asked, "to honor our aged parents? Is it a caprice to retain some natural affection for those who loved and cared for me when I was a helpless child? If you think it is, Nannie, I have been sorely mistaken in your character."

The girl's lips quivered.

"I am then to understand that your selection is made?"

"I prefer my duty to anything in the world, Nannie."

"I have the honor to wish you a very good evening."

"Good!" cried Miss Field the next day when Nannie related to her the occurrence of the evening. "He'll be on his knees to you before three days are passed, and you'll have your own way for good and all after this."

But the three days had passed, and three more on the top of them, and never a penitent lover appeared to sue for Nannie's pardon.

"Oh, Hero, what shall I do?" she pleaded with tears in her eyes.

"Let him go," said Miss Field.

To tell the truth, Hero had been a little envious that Nannie Eastlake had been engaged before herself.

Donald Aubrey was sitting alone in the pretty blue and gold drawing-room that he had furnished expressly with regard to Nannie's taste. Mr. and Mrs. Vivian, early risers and early retirers, had gone to bed, although it was hardly yet dark, when the little parlor maid came to the door and said—

"A lady to see you, sir."

Then Donald found himself looking ing into the deep blue eyes of Miss Eastlake.

"Nannie!" he cried.

"Yes, it is I. Oh, Donald, I have been so foolish, so wrong-headed. And I have come to ask your pardon."

"My dear, dear little Nannie! Not a word more."

"But I must speak, Donald. I must tell you how earnestly I have repented my temper and folly. If you will take me back to your heart, I will try to be a good wife to you and a dutiful daughter to your grandparents."

The wedding day came, and the wedding tour passed away, and Nannie Aubrey came home to the house prepared for her.

The old people were waiting on the threshold to greet her. The young bride kissed and embraced them heartily.

"It is so nice to have you here to welcome us," she said. "You are sure you have been quite comfortable? And grandpapa, has he had his dinners just as he likes them? But I mean to see to that myself now, for you know I am quite a housekeeper already."

But when dinner was over the two old people got up.

"Where are you going?" asked the bride, in surprise.

"Home," said Mrs. Vivian.

"Home is here," said Nannie.

"No, my dear, no," said the old lady, kindly. "Young people are better by themselves. Donald has bought us a nice cottage a mile or two out in the country, where I can keep a cow and grandfather can look after the poultry. You must come and see us every day."

So the old people trudged away, and Nannie looked up into her husband's face.

"Donald, what does this mean?" she asked tremulously.

"It means, my darling," he answered, "that grandpapa and his wife could not be happy in the unwonted confinement of a city. They love the country. So you will have a home without any relations-in-law, after all."

"Oh, Donald, do not repeat my silly words!" she whispered.

Saved by Little Coyotes.

Out West, last spring, two young men were ploughing, when they found two young coyotes, a species of prairie dog. They tried to take the coyotes home. After a good deal of trouble with the father and mother, who struggled to recover the puppies, the men succeeded in driving the father and mother away, and then tied the puppies securely in a bag. They watched the bag for a while, but, as the father and mother did not attempt to come nearer than the edge of the wood, they thought they were thoroughly frightened and would not try to get their babies back. The men followed the plough from end to end of the field, passing the little creatures in the bag several times. Suddenly there was a strange sight when they turned down the field. It was the mother coyote dragging the bag across the field to the woods. She reached the woods with the bag, escaping the men, and there ripped open and let her puppies out.—New York Journal.

The Duchess's Dog.

The young Duches of Marlborough is rarely seen without her pet dog by her side, such a sweet, curly-headed, roguish little spaniel. Really, he is worthy of all the adjectives one may lavish upon him. The "Blenheim Favorite" had for ancestor a spaniel who followed the great Duke all through the battle of Blenheim, which won for that hero the dukedom.

"Handsome John Churchill"—the name by which the first Duke was known—was so much touched by the dog's devotion that he kept him by his side from the day of the "famous victory" until the time of his death. The American Duchess, who has the history of the Marlboroughs at her fingertips, when she found that the little spaniel of whom I write was a lineal descendant of "Handsome John's" pet, adopted him immediately and is rarely seen even in London without the doggie, frisking after her skirts or sitting composedly upon her knee.—From The Woman at Home.

SNAP SHOTS.

The difference between poetry and rhyme is that people will read rhyme.

One good way of getting on in the game of life is to remember what is trumps.

A huckster with a push-cart full of apples makes more noise than a four-horse team loaded with gold for Uncle Sam's treasury.

There is no use in wearing oneself out. The sun keeps our system of planets in good order without working overtime.

Work brings us bread, but singing may bring us a thousand dollars a night. Happy is the man who sings at his work!

Humor is the sunshine that keeps off the storms of life, but some jokes get so old that they look like borrowed umbrellas.

When a man informs you that the whole world is a pack of fools, you may be sure he knows just where to put his hand on an exception to prove the rule.

Christine Nilsson.

Though she retired from the world so quietly and unobtrusively that few people knew that she had really left it, Christine Nilsson, the great singer, is still a beautiful and most charming woman. For her favorite hobby, the Countess De Casa Miranda, as she now is, has taken up a collection of laces, both black and white. For jewelry she has no great liking, though her collection of precious stones is one of the most famous in Europe.—From Answers.

WASHINGTON NOTES

The pages in the Supreme Court of the United States are required to wear knickerbockers. Three of the pages are nearly full-grown men, and when on the street they always wear long trousers. The short knickerbockers are known as their official trousers, and are only worn when the Supreme Court is in session. Pages of the court receive a salary of $90 a month. This is more than either the Senate or the House pages get, their allowance being only $75 a month during the session of Congress. In Congress the pages are not restricted to any particular kind of trousers, but are privileged to dress as their fancy dictates.

Mr. John Addison Porter, of Pomfret, Connecticut, and formerly editor-in-chief of the Hartford Post, is to occupy, under President McKinley, the important and highly exacting office of private secretary to the nation's chief executive. Mr. Porter is the eldest son of the late Addison Porter, long time dean of the Sheffield Scientific School of New Haven, and Josephine Earl Sheffield, a daughter of the founder of that institution, and was born in New Haven forty years ago. After his graduation from Yale, where he was distinguished in the classics, Mr. Porter studied law under distinguished auspices at Cleveland, Ohio, but subsequently left the legal profession for that of journalism. His newspaper experience, covering a period of sixteen years, has embraced service in various capacities with the New Haven Palladium, Hartford Courant, New York Observer, and New York Tribune. He has also been a frequent contributor to the leading magazines.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin is known as the champion pie eater of Congress. His friends say he can eat more pie at one time than any other man in Congress. Whenever the Congressman's digestive organs are in good working order he can usually be seen at the Senate restaurant partaking of two or three pieces of Page's choice pie. Pumpkin pie, "the kind that mother used to make," appeals particularly to the palate of the Badger State Congressman. Frequently he has been seen to eat two pieces of this special kind, and then glance about the counter to see if there was not another variety that he might select.

All but one of the Presidents inaugurated since the election of Abraham Lincoln in the year 1860 had experience in war before their election. Mr Lincoln was Captain of a company raised for the Black Hawk war, and Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison and McKinley were engaged in the war for the Union. The only man inaugurated since the period spoken of who never carried a gun in his country's service is Mr. Cleveland. Andrew Johnson, who became President after Mr. Lincoln was slain, had previously been military Governor of Tennessee; and Mr. Arthur, who became President after Mr. Garfield was slain, had honorably served his state during the war as a Quartermaster-General and an Inspector-General, with the rank of Brigadier.

Mr. Peary, U. S. N., the Arctic explorer, told some interesting things of the polar regions at a recent public dinner. He said he could talk of only one thing, and then laid hold of the pole. Picturing a man standing over the North Pole, he said that this person would have but one point to his compass, and that would be south. He could not move except south. Time would be unknown to him. He would know no night or day. Experiences of Nansen and himself during the last three years, he said, had shown that the ideal party to discover the pole must consist of only two or three persons. The old idea of a large party must be abandoned. By modern methods the pole could be reached without any of the horrors of the Franklin and Greely expeditions. He considered that the man who makes the discovery will rank with Columbus. The question as to what good it would be to such a man to discover the pole would be like asking what good was the wreath at the Olympian games. It would be a tribute to endurance, energy, persistence, the conquering of obstacles. It would be the peerless prize of the day, and should go to an American. It had become possible, with all the recent light on the subject, he said, for him to advise and propose within the last month a practical plan to get there. There were only 260 miles beyond the highest point already reached to be traversed. He thought the only way to reach the pole would be to follow up Greenland as it reaches toward the pole. A certain tribe of Eskimos there could be relied upon to furnish assistance. A fund of $150,000 would keep such a small party as he advised for ten years working steadily away.

SENATOR.

NEW YORK LETTER

The Standard Oil Trust is in process of liquidation. Holders of its certificates have surrendered or will surrender them and receive instead stock in the Standard Oil Company, of New York. This change—for it is little more than a change—is due to the prejudice which has been aroused in many minds against trusts and to the crystalization of that prejudice in the legislation of many States. When the Standard Oil Trust was formed it lost nothing by the frankness of its title. Times have changed. The public knows what trusts mean to them, and legislatures have declared them to be illegal conspiracies in restraint of trade. The Standard was a trust, an organization for the joint operation of hundreds of companies. In becoming the Standard Oil Company of New York it acquires all those privileges which the corporation law of this state gives it and loses not one of its trust characteristics. It is still the giant of its class, and for the accommodation of its Executive Committee, Board, chairmen and general offices is enlarging the great building in lower Broadway, which, when completed will be sixteen stories high, cover a ground space of 100 by 130 feet and be occupied exclusively by the Standard. Of the total number of barrels of oil run from all the petroleum wells in the United States in 1894, the Standard controlled 78 per cent. That was its high water mark on that line. In 1895 the Standard distributed in dividends to its stockholders $36,000,000 the high water mark on that line. It has fought many battles, won many, and the single aim of the men in control has always been profits. It has not mattered much what methods were used; power has been coveted only because it can be translated into profits.

In undertaking to exterminate the tramp and the professional beggar from New York the Police Department is doing the public a signal service.

Consultation between the Police Board and the Charity Organization Society has resulted in the adoption of a comprehensive plan of campaign. Two picked policemen clothed in citizen dress have been detailed for each of the six police-court districts of the metropolis. They are devoting their whole time to patrolling the city in search of beggars.

The first time a man is caught begging he is questioned and warned. If he is a married man he is directed to the nearest office of the Charity Organizaton Society, where, if found worthy, the needs of his family will be relieved. If unmarried, he is directed to the Municipal Lodging House, where he will be helped to find work or to communicate with his out-of-town friends.

Caught offending the second time, the beggar receives more drastic treatment. If the man is unknown to the Charity Organization Society he will be sent to the workhouse for three months. If he has a record as a professional beggar the period of his forced retirement from the street will be greatly lengthened. Women beggars will be treated with the same severity as men.

Once in the workhouse, the beggar will be taught some useful industry. Plenty of hard work will prove a wholesome tonic. To increase the opportunities for healthful toil a municipal farm will soon be established on Riker's Island.

There is a small club of Bohemians in New York the walls of whose quarters are modestly covered with tinted burlap. On these walls, all visitors of note are expected to write their names and a sentiment original to the occasion. It is told that William Dean Howells dropped in one day, looked about, and wrote: "I can't think of a thing. William Dean Howells." A jester happened by, and scrawled below: "Autobiography of William Dean Howells."

New York Herald musical critics have been handling the singers who compose the chorus at the Metropolitan Opera House with especial severity in their recent criticisms of performances. Again and again it has been stated that the chorus singing at the Opera House was discordant and unworthy of a high class musical establishment. The discords really emanate from behind the scenes at the opera and are not to be attributed to the singers who compose the chorus at all. During the last performance of "Carmen" an expert musician, who was stationed behind the scenes at the Opera House for the express purpose of noting the exact source of the poor chorus singing that has caused so much comment, was considerably astonished to find that the Metropolitan Opera House possesses two corps of chorus singers, one of which is paid to sing, while the other sings from pure love of singing and because there is nothing else to do at the moment. The extra chorus is composed of the stage carpenters, call boys, maids whose mistresses are on the stage, and the numerous individuals who congregate behind the scenes. "Carmen" proved to be a very popular opera with the second chorus. Nearly all the stage hands seemed to know the opera by heart, and to be able to sing the foreign words. When they were not conversant with the words the lack of knowledge did not deter them from singing. Carpenters, as they passed about the stage on their various duties sang the chorus as though they were hired for that express purpose, and the shrill voices of a trio of call boys could be heard above the singing even of the trained chorus maids.

McCULLAGH COULD BE FRANK.

But Preferred to Let His Manager Deal With Volunteer Contributors.

Like all other editors, J. B. McCullagh of St. Louis was sorely tried by the individual with a manuscript. He did not care for voluntary contributions on any subject and very few of them were ever used. The people who brought them in were curtly disposed of when they belonged to the masculine sex, but it was not so easy to get rid of them when they happened to be women. It was his habit for many years to bring such callers to my desk, telling them in a gracious way that I was in charge of such matters and would be pleased to have them take a seat and read their pieces to me; and then he would stand back within hearing distance and chuckle over my misery.

On one occasion, however, a visitor of this kind refused to be put off, and insisted that it was his duty not only to publish her article, but to see that it went in the Sunday issue, because more people read the paper on that day than on any other.

"Madame," he blandly replied, "the reason why so many people read the Sunday paper is that we keep such stuff out of it."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Brave Israelite.

The Saturday Review is responsible for the following story of a German Israelite's capture of a French eagle during the Franco-Prussian War.

One of the Rothschilds, anxious to wipe out the stigma of cautious peacefulness under which his race labors, gave notice that he would present a handsome sum of money to any Hebrew soldier in the German army who might capture a French flag. Such a capture was made, and in due course the Jewish warrior came up for his promised reward.

After he had received it, the delighted donor invited the recipient into his private room, and begged him to give all the details of the glorious "battle of the standard."

"Well, my lord, it was this way," said the hero. "The French soldier who carried the eagle was also a Hebrew—one of our race; so we came to an arrangement and did it on a joint account."—From Answers.

She Didn't Look the Duchess.

A funny story is told about a certain dutchess who is very plain, not at all aristocratic in appearance, and not at all particular what kind of a gown she wears while out shopping. One day she went into a big West-end shop, where her face was evidently not well known, and selected some hemstitched handkerchiefs, adding, "You may have them embroidered with an 'X' and a duchess's coronet above." The saleswoman looked in despair at her unattractive customer, and then, in a condescending tone, protested, "Oh, madam, I—I really wouldn't choose a duchess's if I were you!"

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN.

One pities the man and woman who have not once in their lives been lifted off their feet by some great enthusiasm.

The bill in the lower house of the Nebraska Legislature providing for a constitutional amendment giving women the right of suffrage has been defeated, a motion to indefinitely postpone it being carried by a vote of 56 to 36.

A brigade of women, working under a woman foreman, cleans the streets of Cannes. The sweepers use side-brush brooms, and swing them like scythes, those behind removing the dust that the front ones miss. Cannes is claimed to be the cleanest city in the world.

An entirely new feature of palmistry is that of reading palms from photographs. The idea originated with a New England palmist. Since an enterprising woman in New York is doing a large business in supplying plaster casts of hands, it is more than likely that hand photographs with a character sketch attached will be the next fad in palmistry.

A Viennese woman of 40 has already presented her husband with thirty-two children at eleven births. Twenty-six of them are boys and six girls. At the first birth four were born, at the second three, at the third four, at the fourth two, at the fifth three, at the sixth two, at the seventh and eighth three each, at the ninth two, at the tenth and eleventh three each. The mother has nursed them all herself. She has suffered from epilepsy since her fifteenth year, but none of the children so far show any sign of the disease. The woman was one of four children born at one birth, her mother having borne thirty-eight children. She is the wife of a poor linen weaver.

The native tendency of women to gad about is variously repressed in different ages and countries. In China their feet are early put in bandages, compressing them to a point where locomotion is attended with extreme difficulty. In other Eastern countries they are shut up in harems and guarded by large and limitary eunuchs; in Africa they are fed to a point of pinguidity which makes them practically immovable. The North American Indian handicaps his wife with all the impediments of the family, including her papoose; everywhere restraint is laid on her against her naturally fugitive and mobile tendencies. In all these expedients there is a certain measure of oppression and cruelty, but none of them equal in this respect the device of a St. Louis husband, who tied a mouse on the box containing his wife's new bonnet, and thus kept her a prisoner at home for ten days.

BRITISH GUNS SILENT

English Marines Did Not Fire in Yesterday's Rioting at Canea.

ORDERED TO MAKE READY, HOWEVER

Mussulman Gendarmes Refused To Accept a Portion of Their Back Pay and Precipitated the Trouble. The Leaders Escaped.

Athens, March 3.—Details of the trouble at Canea yesterday have been received here. The Turkish gendarmes in that city refused Monday to perform further duty unless they were at once paid fifteen months' arrears of wages. The money, of course, was not paid for the reason that the officials did not have it. Yesterday the men openly mutinied, threatening to burn the town and massacre the inhabitants. Later in the afternoon Major Bor, the Irish officer who commands the gendarmerie, summoned the mutineers to assemble. Trouble being expected foreign marines were ranged in front of the site of the palace of the governor, which was burned a few days ago. The mutineers, who numbered about forty-five, were addressed by Major Bor, who offered to pay them immediately three months' arrears on account. The offer was refused. The men were then commanded to lay down their arms, which they had retained, but they refused to do so. It is probable that a majority of the men were willing to obey the order, but a few turbulent leaders induced them to resist. Major Bor repeated the order three times, but no attention was paid to it. Another officer then laid his hand upon the shoulder of the nearest gendarme, saying: "Lay down your rifle." Immediately a voice from behind cried: "Don't give in. Fire, gendarmes."

Short, But Bloody Encounter.

Then several shots were discharged, one of them killing a Turkish colonel who was standing by Major Bor's side. Thereupon the Russian seamen were ordered by their commanding officer to advance and fire upon the mutineers. The British marines were ordered to make ready, but they did not receive the command to fire. The gendarmes replied to the fire of the Russians, wounding an Italian sailor. Then, five of the mutineers having fallen, the gendarmes yielded. In the confusion the leaders of the mutiny managed to escape. The remainder were surrounded by the foreign sailors and marines and were soon lodged in prison. Major Bor has assured the men that they will all be released with the exception of those who first fired. Two of the mutineers were killed and two others are dying from their wounds. The affair created the most intense excitement in the town, where Col. Suleiman Bey, the Turkish officer who was killed, was greatly liked. His murderers are confined on board the British warship Dauntless.

SITUATION TOO CRITICAL.

British Government Favors Treating the Cretan Trouble with Caution.

London, March 3.—The house of commons debated the Cretan question until after midnight this morning. Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, the leader of the liberal party, made a lengthy speech, but his remarks consisted merely of eloquent rhetorical platitudes. He created the impression in the lobbies that he had been requested by the government to treat the question gingerly, as the situation is too critical for outspokenness. Arthur J. Balfour, the government leader in the house, said that by autonomy for Crete the government meant that, subject to the suzerainty of Turkey, the porte would be powerless to intervene in the local affairs of the island. The Cretans would certainly be enabled to appoint a Christian governor. If the island should be handed over to Greece it would not add an iota to its freedom, while on the other hand its transfer would imperil the peace of eastern Europe. Greece, he added, had attained her object, and if she acted further she would incur the suspicion that she was not animated solely by pure motives. John Morley, formerly chief secretary for Ireland, said that he believed that to compel Greece to withdraw her fleet and troops from the island would endanger peace.

Sad News for a Pardoned Convict.

Boston, March 3.—When John S. Smith walked out of the state prison yesterday a free man, having been pardoned by President Cleveland, he was informed that his wife had just died of a paralytic stroke. Smith was sentenced October 18 to four years in the state prison for robbing mail boxes. During his confinement his wife worked hard to obtain a pardon, but not until a few days ago were her efforts rewarded.

United States Voting Machines.

Hornellsville, N. Y., March 3.—The United States voting mochines were used at the charter elections yesterday. In all the wards the machines worked perfectly, the entire city vote being collected in ten minutes. The election resulted in a democratic victory for all offices except one alderman out of six.

CANADIANS REJOICE

Jollification at Windsor Over Veto of Immigration Bill.

EXODUS TO DETROIT AVERTED

Parliamentary Member Cowan, Who Intended To Introduce a Retaliatory Bill, Expresses the Hope of Continued Friendly Relations.

Windsor, Ont., March 3.—There is much jubilation in Windsor over the news that President Cleveland had vetoed the immigration bill, the passage of which would have caused a great loss and inconvenience to many citizens of Windsor. Especially glad were the families whose members worked in Detroit and who would have been obliged to sell their homes at a sacrifice and move to Detroit had not the president exercised his prerogative. M. K. Cown, member of the Dominion parliament for South Essex, who had determined to introduce a retaliatory bill in parliament, expressed himself as very much gratified on learning that the bill had been vetoed. He hoped the best feeling would always exist between the people of the two countries. On every street corner and in every hotel corridor are heard expressions of pleasure at the president's action.

LAST HOURS OF 54TH CONGRESS

Senate May Sit in Continuous Session Until Final Adjournment To-morrow.

Washington, March 3.—It was twenty-five minutes after twelve o'clock this morning when the senate passed the deficiency bill and adjourned until noon. It is the belief now that the senate will sit in continuous session until final adjournment is reached to-morrow, and even then several important matters may be left unfinished.

House of Representatives.

The old controversy between the senate and house over the matter of the control of ceremonies in connection with the inauguration of the president came to the surface in the house yesterday. Mr. Dockery, dem., Mo., offered a resolution which was referred to the committee on rules, directing that committee to investigate and report by what authority the inaugural stand was being erected wholly in front of the senate wing of the capitol, a departure from the invariable usage since the building was erected, and also to inquire and report whether the house had any control over the inaugural ceremonies. The naval and District of Columbia appropriation bills were received from the senate and the house voted to non-concur in the amendments made by that body and asked for a conference. Mr. Dalzell replied to the strictures passed upon Justice Shiras by Messrs. McMillin, dem., Tenn., and De Armond, dem., Mo., in connection with the decision of the supreme court of the United States upon the income tax case. He asserted that the record of the case gave no ground for the charge that Justice Shiras had changed his mind, and that it showed that Justice Brown had done so. Messrs. McMillin and De Armond refused to accept the statements of Mr. Dalzell, and re-affirmed the charges. Mr. Aldrich, rep., Ill., endeavored to bring up the bill prohibiting the transmission of papers containing illustrated accounts of prize fights, but the house voted, 72 to 33, to take a recess until 7:30 p. m.

The Immigration Bill Veto.

As soon as the house reassembled in the evening Speaker Reed laid before the body a message from President Cleveland vetoing the immigration restriction bill. Mr. Bartholdt, rep., Mo., moved that the consideration of the message be postponed until 1 o'clock to-day, when there would doubtless be a larger attendance than was present then. This was agreed to—104 to 11.

FILIBUSTERING LAURADA.

Believed To Have Received War Material Off the Jersey Coast Last Night.

New York, March. 3.—The captain of a tug arriving in this port late last night reports that when off Barnegat he sighted a steamer, which he believes was the Laurada. A three-masted schooner and a lighter were beside the Laurada unloading goods on her. It is presumed that the steamer is setting out on a filibustering expedition to Cuba, and the goods taken on board are probably arms and ammunition for the insurgents. The United States revenue cutter Manhattan left the Battery pier for Barnegat with the intention of overtaking the Laurada, and if any arms and ammunition are found on board she will be seized.

Hart's Argument To Be Heard To-morrow.

Philadelphia, March 3.—The hearing of argument on the motion for a new trial in the case of J. D. Hart, who was convicted last week on the charge of engaging in a Cuban filibustering expedition on the steamer Laurada, has been postponed until to-morrow. Hart's bail of $7,000 was continued yesterday, but counsel for the defendant was not ready to proceed.

CYCLING COMMENT.

There were quite a number of visitors at the salesrooms of Randolph and Gould, bicycle dealers, on Park avenue, yesterday, and all were much pleased with the wheels shown.

Mr. Merritt, representative of the Waltham Cycle Manufacturing Co., makers of the Orient wheel, was in town yestesday as the guest of F. L. C. Martin, of the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Comyany.

The warm weather, yesterday, brought the cyclists out in considerable numbers. Nobody was particularly anxious to ride fast but all wanted to get out on the roads again and enjoy a little spin in the spring-like air.

The spring trade for the bicycles dealers has opened. The F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company has already sold several of the '97 model wheels. Among the latest purchasers of wheels from that company are Albert Woltman, who has a new Cleveland racer. Mr. Perry, of the borough, has another wheel of the same kind which he has just purchased.

Now is the season to get your wheel cleaned up for the spring use. There is comparatively little good riding at this season of the year but the riding season is near at hand and the wheels that have been stored away for the winter want to be looked over and gotten ready for riding. There is little work on hand in the repair shops and the work of cleaning the wheels can be better handled now than after the regular summer trade begins to come in.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball team from the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. went to Rahway, last evening, and met the team from the association in that city. The Plainfield team had only one of the regular team present but they succeeded in defeating the Rahway boys by a score of 5 to 4.

A PASTOR BICYCLED.

Rev. Mr. Simpson Received a Token of Esteem from Parishioners.

On Saturday afternoon last, after the Rev. Mr. Simpson had finished instructing his confirmation class in the church, he was invited into the choir room by some of the ladies. There he found assembled a number of his parishioners. S. S. Gulon, the junior warden, in a neat speech on behalf of the congregation, presented the rector with an up-to-date Spalding bicycle and all attachments necessary. Mr. Simpson was thoroughly taken by surprise, not having had the slightest intimation of the intended presentation. He was evidently much moved by this token of the affection of his people, and thanked one and all for the valuable and useful gift.

To Miss Edith Clarke, of Netherwood, is due the success of the project, the first contribution being given by Mrs. Miller, of LaGrande avenue, Netherwood. Miss Clarke's indomitable perseverance brought the matter to its happy issue, which will make the 27th of February a red-letter day in the almanac of St. Stephen's parish.

RIGHT TO GRANT FRANCHISE.

Piscataway Officials Need Not Pay Attention to Caveat.

[Special to the Daily Press.]

New Brunswick, March 3.—The New York and Philadelphia Traction company, represented by ex-Assemblyman E. W. Hicks and Vice-President MacAsee, and Counsel P. F. Daly, of Piscataway Township, held a meeting in this city this morning to consider the caveat which was filed last December by a property owner in the township. The caveat was filed before the company asked for any right of way, and it cannot be considered that it was filed against the company.

It was agreed that Mr. Daly should advise the township committee that they had the right to give the company the privilege to lay their tracks along the new road from Raritan to the River road.

The other caveat which was filed was considered to hold good and a hearing will be given at the April term of court.

The meeting which was to have been held this afternoon in Piscataway Township has been postponed until next Monday.

WILLIAM NOBLE APPEARS.

Had Not Heard That His Wife Was Dead Until This Morning.

William Noble, the husband of Mrs. May Noble, whose sudden death on Sunday night at the residence of Olin Francisco, in Newark, is apparently involved in much mystery, arrived in that city yesterday afternoon and went at once to police headquarters.

Noble said that the first he knew of his wife's death was yesterday morning, when he saw the announcement in a newspaper. He at once went to Newark, he said, in order that no suspicion might attach to him.

Noble seemed very much affected over his wife's death, and also over the fact that his old offence had once more been brought to public notice.

County Physician Washington will not hold an inquest in the case, and the dead woman's relatives will see that the remains are not buried in the potter's field.

It Went Away.

The best judicial mot ever recorded is that of Sir George Jessel, the late master of the rolls, when sitting with Mr. Justice Bacon. A demented and enraged suitor who had been unsuccessful, threw an egg at him in the corridor of the courts, which narrowly missed the judge's head. Smilingly Sir George turned round and calmly remarked to the astonished bystanders, "I think that must have been intended for my brother Bacon!"

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES.

HELD IN NORTH PLAINFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOL YESTERDAY.

The Rooms Were Decorated Appropriately, While the Students Donned Colonial Garb—Creditable Class Work Exhibited.

A mere glimpse into the North Plainfield public school building, yesterday afternoon, impressed the visitor with several ideas. A more extended visit deepened the impressions. It was the occasion of the exercises of the eighth grade of the school. The exercises were the first of a series. It is the intention of Superintendent Warde and his corps of teachers to hold exercises every week, the different grades, below the High School, taking turns in holding them. The eighth grade, which is the first class below the High School, was the first to hold them. They were patriotic in character and were devoted to George Washington and his times.

One of the first things to be noticed by the visitor was the appearance of the principal room in which the exercises were held. Nearly everybody is used to seeing a school room appear bare and bleak without pictures or other decoration. This room was very different. There were palms and potted plants sitting about the platform. The tables were covered and there was a neatness and artistic appearance about the room that attracted the attention of the visitor at once.

The room was decorated for the occasion with many American flags. They were arranged as portiers over the doors and windows and draped about the walls while bunting of the national colors was twisted about the chandeliers. On every side were hung examples of the work of the pupils of that grade. Some of their work was given on the blackboard also. Samples of the examination papers in several of the different studies were shown. There were a number of maps, either drawn or made in relief, while some of the work of the drawing class was exhibited. There were a series of pictures of the White Squadron, drawn by a member of the class. The subjects were treated in a practical way and the latest methods of teaching were in vogue.

Exercises were held in the afternoon, beginning at about 3:15 o'clock. Three youthful George Washingtons took possession of the platform and took charge of the programme. Morgan Townsend, in powdered wig and knickerbockers and tailed coat of the style of a century old, acted as master of ceremonies and announced the different parts of the programme. Edward Billis and Donald A. McGee were also in like costume. Of the others who took part in the exercises, those in costume were the Misses Julia Williams, Dora Waring, Caroline Drake, Mildred Everitt and Nellie Valiant. Recitations were given by Eddie Billis, Mary Hoagland, Edna Kennedy, Julia Williams, Carrie Weiss, Roland Horne and Edith Loomis. Essays were read by Frank Bach, Jerry Callahan, Donald McGee, Lillian Haberle and Dora Waring. Misses Nellie Valiant and Dora Waring played piano solos as did Bert Simpson. The latter acted as accompanist while the class united in singing "America" at the close of the programme.

The programme and exhibit was arranged by Miss Luella Crowther, teacher of that grade, and she received the congratulations of all for success in both.

HEARD PHONOGRAPHIC SELECTIONS.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Doane Pleasantly Entertained Friends Last Night.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Doane entertained a number of their friends at their home on West Fifth street, last evening. Thomas Schaefer and his phonograph were present and entertained the guests for part of the evening. There were vocal solos by Mrs. E. D. Barrett and Miss Edith Randolph, and a trio by Miss Ethel Lorton, Miss Ethel Knowlton and Walter Knowlton. The evening was spent very enjoyably.

Those present, beside the host and hostess and their family, were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Knowlton, Miss Elsie and Walter Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Jr., Misses May and Ethel Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Huff, Mrs. Huff, of Clinton; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Barrett, Mrs. Amy Lorton, Miss Ethel Lorton, Miss Edith Randolph, of Scotch Plains, Miss Edna Harris and J Caspar Kirkner.

MADE PEACE, NOT FIGHT

ZACARIAH WILSON NOT ARRESTED FOR BEING IN A SCRAP.

He Was a Witness of the Trouble, and He Succeed in Parting the Men Who Were in the Fight—Two Carpenters Arrested

It was not as a combatant but rather as a peace maker that Zacariah Wilson, of Chatham street, figured in an affray near Washingtonville, Tuesday afternoon. Neither was he nor his son arrested, as was stated yesterday. Mr. Wilson will appear at the hearing on Saturday, however, as the principal witness in the case.

There was a scrap, however, and a rather exciting one at that. An assault was committed by somebody and the matter will have to be settled in court.

Mr. Wilson is a carpenter and has been employed in rebuilding the silk mills at Sterling. While at work there, he became acquainted with three men, two of whom he knew only as Jim and the other as "Lanagan." Sometime ago he brought a watch to Plainfield for Lanagan and left it to be fixed. Tuesday, Lanagan and his two companions came to North Plainfield and went with Wilson to get the watch. One of the "Jim's" was lame and Wilson offered to take the men part of the way over to Sterling as he had to go that way late in the afternoon. The men were not working that day but were laying off.

They had driven as far as Washingtonville when they passed a man in a two wheel cart. The man was Adolph Wolfenskansky. He claims that as the wagon went by, the man called Lanagan jumped out the wagon and ran after him. Wolfenskansky also claims that the man pulled him from his seat. It seems that there was some quarrel between the two men. Wilson heard the noise and turned around to see the other man in the rear seat jump up and go to the assistance of the first. One of the participants states that Wolfenskansky used a stone as a weapon with serious effect on one of the carpenters. Wilson jumped out and ran to where the men were fighting. One of the Demler boys heard the noise and arrived there at the same time.

Wilson pulled first one of the carpenters and then the other out of the fracas while Demler led the other man away and the row was over. Wilson led his two acquaintances back to the wagon and started forth on his journey.

Wolfenskansky appeared before Justice Speer and swore out warrants for the arrest of the two carpenters who he claims assaulted him.

LIBRARY NEEDS $3,500.

DIRECTORS RECOMMEND THE COUNCIL TO APPROPRIATE THAT SUM.

A Cabinet Ordered to be Bought to Place the John Taylor Johnson Collection of Coins in—Other Business of the Directors.

A regular meeting of the Directors of the Public Library was held last night with President Tyler in the chair.

The application of John Leal for eight teachers' tickets, or cards, to be issued in his own name, was granted. The Art Committee was authorized to obtain cases for the John Taylor Johnston collection of coins, presented to the library, and have the words "Presented by the children of John Taylor Johnson," placed there in compliance with the offer of Herbert Johnson. The president reported that the boulder given to the library by Mr. Fountain had been moved and is now in position in the library grounds.

The following resolution was passed:

Resolved, By this Board and this Board doth hereby determine that the sum or amount of $3,500 will be required in the year 1897 for the maintenance of the library and reading room established and existing in the city of Plainfield, under and pursuant to the act of the Legislature.

Resolved, That the president of this Board forthwith certify to the Common Council of the City of Plainfield that the amount or sum of $3,500 will be required in the year 1897 for the maintenance of said library and reading room.

On motion the papers presented by the president were referred to Mr. Tracy.

The Librarian's report for February was read, and on motion received and placed on file.

The Board adjourned to meet on the evening of March 13th.

To Prepare the Way For Successor.

The borough council will hold its regular March meeting tomorrow night when all the business for the present body will be concluded preparatory to the new council taking their seats.

A GOOD TIME FOR VETS.

W. C. T. U. ARRANGED AN ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME FOR THEM.

Mrs. Thatcher, National Superintendent, Could Not be There on Account of Illness—Those Who Took Part Last Night

The committee in charge of the soldier and sailor work of the W. C. T. U. entertained the members of the local G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans in their rooms last evening. The attendance was large from each of the organizations.

Mrs. Tomlinson presided and stated that she was very sorry to announce that the National Superintendent, Mrs. Thatcher, was unable to be present, owing to illness. She then announced the opening number on the programme, an instrumental selection on the piano by Clifford Braider. This was followed with the singing of "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," by Mr. Braider. Miss C. R. Yates was called upon and made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

A feature of the evening was the remarks by the comrades, consisting of W. W. Coriell, I. L. McVoy, Joseph Bogert and M. C. Dobbins. Each told of something in their experience when in the army, and it proved to be very interesting.

This was followed with another solo by Mr. Braider entitled "Anchored." Mr. Tomlinson then announced that the Grand Army had been instrumental in making the colored people free and she was very glad to introduce some friends who would sing. It was a quartette consisting of the Martin Brothers and they sang several pleasing selections, accompanied by Edward Martin on the guitar. They were encored several times and while those present were enjoying a social time with refreshments the quartette entertained the audience with music.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Dobbins, who is chairman of the committee, and she was assisted by Mrs. R. K. Case, Mrs. Silas Yerkes, Mrs. Sutton, Miss Florence Dodge, Miss Yates and several other members of the union.

The rooms were very appropriately decorated with flags and bunting, and the whole affair stirred the hearts of the veterans who thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

FUNERAL OF JESSE METLER.

Rev. Cornelius Scenck Drew a Consoling Lesson From the Young Man's Life.

The funeral services of the late Jesse Metler were held from Trinity Reformed church yesterday afternoon at 2:30, and the gathering of relatives and friends was large. Rev. Cornelius Schenck officiated, and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved ones. He dwelt upon the fact that the departed was a faithful member of the church, the Christian Endeavor Society and the Sunday-school, and especially was he very regular in his attendance. From these facts he drew many consoling words for all. A very impressive lesson was given in which all were urged to be ready for the last call as was the departed.

The floral tributes were beautiful and consisted of a large C. E. monogram of roses from the Christian Endeavor Society of the church, also several bunches of roses and lillies.

Those who served as pall-bearers were A. Martell, Alfred K. Willett, J. Starker, J. Hall, H. Wyckoff, Edward Weaver. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

NO OWNER FOR THE HAT.

A Plainfield colored man made a discovery under the Park avenue bridge, this morning. There lying on the sidewalk, he found a brand new Dunlap hat. He looked around. There was no one in sight, nobody to whom the hat might belong. He interviewed the policeman on the beat to find an owner for the hat but there had been no one about asking for a stray derby. They then decided that the hat had been blown from the head of some politician as he had crossed from the platform of one car to another, in one of the inauguration specials. The chances of the owner returning for his property were so remote that the colored man kept the hat which fitted him very well.

He was sorry for the poor politician whose headgear had so unceremoniously sailed away but then he had the comfort that the silk hat of the man of politics would be called into service and that he would not be called upon to arrive at the Capitol city without any hat.

HER HANDS IN POISON

A LITTLE TOT CAME IN CONTACT WITH ROUGH ON RATS.

Face and Hands Covered With the Article and a Little on Her Lips, But Luckily it Did Not Get Into the Child's Mouth

Edna Frazee, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Frazee, of Oak Tree, who with her mother are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vroom, of Somerset street, had a narrow escape last even from a fatal accident. Mr. Vroom was busily engaged in the attic building a rabbit coop, when the little girl ascended the stairs to where he was working.

Among the rafters was hidden some "Rough on Rats" and in some manner she managed to get hold of the poisonous stuff. A few seconds later Mr. Vroom turned around and saw that her face and hands were covered with the powder. She also had a little of it on her lips. Mr. Vroom took the girl down stairs as quickly as possible and Dr. Davis was called upon. He learned that she had not swallowed any of the powder and that she was all right.

The girl did not seem to realize what she had done and did not appear to be frightened. However, it was a narrow escape, and if she had not been detected in time she would probably have died from the effects of the powder. Today she is all right and no evil effects have been noticed.

SHOT WITHOUT REASON.

Careless Westfielders Came Near Killing William H. Chamberlain.

William H. Chamberlain, superintendent of the Suburban Electric Light Company, one of Westfield's most prominent citizens, came near meeting with a fatal experience about ten o'clock last evening. He and Charles Cox were out with a horse and carriage inspecting lights, and finding the lights out in front of a house in Elm street, Chamberlain went up the pole, which is only about ten feet high, to put in a new globe. Just as he reached for the old globe, a man who was standing on the front steps of a house nearby, exclaimed: "here! here!" and not waiting for an answer fired a revolver at Chamberlain. Chamberlain dropped from the pole unhurt and unhit and Cox thought he was killed and ran to help him, but Chamberlain was up like a shot and made a rush for the doctor. The man who did the shooting said he thought he was a boy out in the road. Mr. Chamberlain was not satisfied with this excuse and he went before Justice E. R. Collins and swore out a complaint against the beligerent. The warrant will be served today.

Stephens, of Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, and Past Sachem W. A. Westphal. Tho good and welfare committee furnished a collation which was enjoyed by the members and guests. After a little music, the Council adjourned.

An Exchange of Property.

G. Q. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, who exchanged his beautiful home for the John Ross farm on Clinton avenue, near the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has just finished buying live stock and farming implements to make it one of the most complete farms in this vicinity. His brother will have charge of the place until Mr. Dolliver tires of city life, when he and his family will leave their many friends in Plainfield and become tillers of the soil

In Readiness for Township Elections.

The county board of elections will sit at the court house, Somerville, on Saturday, March 6th, from 8 o'clock until 5, and again on Tuesday, March 9th, election day, during the same hours, for the purpose of placing on the registry lists the names of the voters who have been inadvertently or otherwise left off. The election will be held in the several townships and boroughs in the county.

Pale Face to be Adopted.

Miantonomoh tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men will meet tomorrow evening. One pale face will be adopted into the tribe and two propositions will be received. The final report of the representative of the tribe to the Great Council will be made. A committee to arrange for a proposed entertainment will be appointed. The Haymakers will have a session after the council fire is quenched.

Mrs. Green, of Somerset street, is slowly improving from a long illness.

JNO. RISBERG ARRESTED.

A PLAINFIELD MAN IMPLICATED IN THE DEATH OF MRS. NOBLE.

Taken in Custody at Newark, Yesterday, Where He Went to Attend the Funeral.—Police Say They Have Damaging Evidence

Three arrests were made by the Newark police yesterday in connection with the death of Mrs. May Noble last Sunday in Mrs. Amelia Francisco's house, No. 93 William street.

Mrs. Francisco was arraigned before Judge Mott in the First Criminal Court on a charge of being implicated in the death of Mrs. Noble.

"I am not guilty; I had nothing to do with her death," she said, when the charge was read. Mrs. Francisco did not even appear concerned when Judge Mott committed her without bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Noble's funeral was held at Bruechner's Morgue yesterday afternoon. The interment was in Woodland Cemetery.

Robert Hibbans, of No. 49 Arlington street, Newark, and John Risberg, of 311 Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, went to Newark in the afternoon to attend the funeral. They were met at the New Jersey Central Railroad station at Broad street by Detectives Christie and Lewis, who placed them under arrest. Both protested that they were in nowise connected with any crime which resulted in Mrs. Noble's death. Risberg admitted that he had advanced money to take her to Newark.

The police say they have letters which will bear on Riiberg and Mrs. Francisco. They do not think Hibbans has done more than to assist Mrs. Noble to secure lodgings with Mrs. Francisco. He was held, however, because he might be able to tell the police more about the case.

"This is not the first case that Mrs. Francisco has had," said Detective Christie yesterday.

Alfred B. Noble, the husband of the dead woman, attended her funeral yesterday.

Risburg is known to have been with Mrs. Noble on frequent trips from Plainfield to Newark. He is employed by the Potter Printing Press Company at which place Hibbans also is employed.

County Physician Washington has learned that when Mrs. Noble demanded that a physician be sent for Mrs. Francisco did not act promptly, and, in fact, delayed sending for a doctor until the woman was dying. When Dr. J. W. Read reached the house Mrs. Noble was dead.

The Autocrat's Debut.

"The Autocrat" is the title of a neat little publication issued to-day by the scholars of the North Plainfield Public High School. It is printed in the best style of the typographical art and is filled with creditable literary productions by the progressive attendants of the school. A number of half-tone illustrations grace the pages, among them being views of the public school building, the High School Cadet Corps, and two views of scenes in Prof. Warde's offices.

—The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church will meet to-morrow afternoon in the parlors of the church.

BURGLARY IN BOROUGH

THE HOUSE OF WILLIAM UHRHAHN ENTERED LAST NIGHT.

A Sum of Money and a Watch Stolen by the Unwelcome Visitors—Part of the Booty Taken Out of Uarhahn's Room.

A daring robbery was committed at the home of William Uhrhahn, of 13 Regent street, last night by some unknown man. He was seen by Mrs. Uhrhahn but fled before she could call her husband.

Mrs. Uhrhahn was disturbed about midnight by the slamming of the door of the attic room in which the colored man, who is employed about the place, slept. She went up and closed the door. As she was returning she thought she heard voices. She supposed that it was her sister who sleeps in the same room with her. Her sister was fast alseep, however.

She returned to her bed and after lying there a few minutes, turned over to get some medicine. Then she noticed that a man was standing at the foot of her bed. There was a lighted lamp in her room and another one in the hall. Her husband sleeps in the next room with the son.

"Oh, Emma," she screamed, to her sister, "there is a man in the room." The man wore a brown overcoat with the collar turned up around his ears and a derby. When he heard the screams of the frightened woman he turned his back to the bed and walked out of the room. Mrs. Uhrhahn aroused her husband and the colored man up stairs.

The midnight prowler had departed by the back door which he had left unlocked. There was a bench standing on the back porch in front of one of the kitchen windows. There were no signs that the window had been touched however.

It looked as if the burglar had entered through the back door.

Mr. Uhrhahn's trousers had been left at the head of his bed. They were found in the hall with $27, which had been in the pockets, missing. His watch had hung at the head of the bed, and was also missing. It was valued at about $5. Nothing else was missed.

Mrs. Uhrhahn's sister fainted at the sight of the intruder, and was revived with difficulty.

INNER MAN REMEMBERED.

A Feast of Goods Things at Seventh Day Baptist Church.

It was the inner man that was remembered by the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church, last evening. They gave a supper in the church parlors and prepared such a feast of good things that the many visitors were highly delighted. The parlors were decorated for the occasion with flags and potted plants while each table had a bouquet of cut flowers upon it.

The committee which arranged the supper and the informal programme that followed consisted of Miss Mable Maxson, chairman, Miss Nancy Randolph, Miss Elizabeth Allis, Miss Lucy Dunham and Arthur J. Spicer. Several of the committee had charge of the kitchen where they were ably assisted in their efforts by Asa Randolph. The waitresses were the Misses Earnestine Smith, Myrtie Randolph, Bessie M. F. Randolph, Louise Clawson, Anna Wooden, Evelyn Lewis, Ida Randolph and Lena Tomlinson. Will Mosher was the cashier.

The programme which followed the supper consisted of several tenor solos by Elmer E. Runyon and two readiugs. One was an account of the first inauguration and was read by Sidney R. Titsworth, and the other was the inauguration of today by Miss Louis Clawson.

Re-election of Officers.

At the quarterly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Linda D. Butler; vice-presidents, Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. S. T. Wilson, Mrs. Reuben Knox; secretary, Mrs. B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Mrs. Morgan S. Taylor. Mrs. A. Gilbert was elected treasurer pro tem, in Mrs. Taylor's absence.

Rubber Factory Closed.

The Meyer rubber factory, of Milltown, one of the largest controlled by the Rubber Trust, is to be abandoned. The management has received instructions to send all orders on hand to the New Brunswick factory recently opened. The closing down of the factory at Milltown takes away the livelihood of nearly 400 families who live in the little town.

A Strictly Cash Business.

Woodhull & Martin, the successors to J. Linn Edsall, will open their dry goods store next Saturday. They will do business on a strictly cash basis, extending credit to no one.

ADJOURNED SINE DIE

The Fifty-fourth Congress Ended at Noon.

USUAL CLOSING SCENES ENACTED

Resolutions Eulogizing Vice-President Stevenson and Speaker Reed Adopted. Resume of Work Accomplished. Senate in Special Sessions.

Washington, March 4.—The Fifty-fourth congress adjourned at noon to-day with the usual ceremonies. In the senate resolutions thanking the vice-president for his courteous conduct and impartial rulings were passed and resolutions eulogizing Speaker Reed were adopted by the house. Numerous farewells were exchanged and there was soon a general scattering of members of the house for points of vantage to view the inaugural parade. In accordance with the proclamation issued by President Cleveland on February 24, the senate was reconvened in extraordinary session immediately after final adjournment, Vice-President Hobart, presiding, he having previously taken the oath of office in the senate chamber before high dignataries of the United States and representatives of foreign governments, as a preliminary necessary to the organization of the senate, to participate in the inauguration of the new president, receive the certificates of the new members, swear them in and receive such communications as may be made by the executive.

The Cabinet.

The following are the names that President McKinley will send to the senate for confirmation as members of his cabinet, the only change that may be made at the last moment being the shifting of the naval and interior portfolios, which it is said will be made if Mr. Long will agree to accept the change:

Secretary of State—John Sherman of Ohio.

Secretary of the Treasury—Lyman Gage of Illinois.

Secretary of War—Russell A. Alger of Michigan.

Secretary of the Navy—John D. Long of Massachusetts.

Attorney-General—Joseph McKenna of California.

Postmaster-General—James A. Gary of Maryland.

Secretary of Agriculture — James Wilson of Iowa.

The Work Accomplished.

The Fifty-fourth congress has passed into history, not alone with a new record as to the expenditures authorized, amounting to more than $1,000,000,000, but in the number of bills and resolutions introduced in each house, in which matter all previous records are surpassed; nearly 11,000 bills and 3,300 resolutions being introduced in the house alone. Only a very small proportion of these passed the house and still fewer became laws. In addition to the appropriation bills, the most important measures which became laws were those creating the commission to determine the true divisional line between Venezuela and British Guiana; prohibiting prize-fighting in the territories; permitting the appointment in the army and navy of former United States officers who served in the confederacy; making one year's residence in a territory necessary for a divorce; incorporating the National Society of the Daughters of the Revolution; defining the penalty for interference with railway trains and persons riding thereon; substituting salaries for fees of the United States marshals and district attornies, and the joint resolution for an international monetary conference.

The Immigration Bill Veto.

The passage by the house of the immigration bill over the president's veto was a foregone conclusion, but the vote, 193 to 37, surprised even its most hearty supporters and the result was cheered by members on the floor and by the crowds that packed the galleries. Although several features of the measure met with much opposition, on the whole it is generally believed to be a move in the right direction.

The Extra Session.

Washington, March 4.—The general understanding that congress will be called in special session on March 15 is unofficially confirmed. The new president will then send a message to congress calling attention to the state of the government's revenues and urging the speedy enactment of a general revision of the tariff.

Monetary Conference Bill Signed.

Washington, March 4.—The president has approved the bill providing for an international monetary conference.

The Proposed Dinner to Cleveland.

New York, March 4.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day there will be a report upon the plan recently announced to give a dinner for Grover Cleveland in recognition of his efforts to uphold the national credit. There has been an exchange of letters with Mr. Cleveland on the subject. It is understood that Mr. Cleveland has declined the offer of a complimentary dinner, and the plan to give the testimonial has, therefore, been abandoned.

Olney To Practice Law.

Washington, March 4.—Secretary Olney has definitely concluded not to accept the professorship of International Law at Harvard, tendered to him by President Eliot, but will resume his law practice in Boston in the course of a month. He intends to remain in Washington until the latter part of next week

HE NEVER REFUSES ALMS.

Yet There are Reasons Why Mendicants Shun Him.

There is a young lawyer of New York who has not refused alms for years, but who is shunned by every beggar who has met him.

He has hit upon the expedient of giving but giving sparingly. His pockets are kept well supplied with small coins, and for every mendicant who approaches he produces a penny. He reasons that if the man is starving, as he claims, a penny will save his life, and if he is a professional, as is more likely, he has neither particularly inconvenienced himself nor afforded a beggar the means to gratify a thirst.

Long experience has given him an unerring instinct for a mendicant. He can tell by the expression of a man's face a hundred feet away if he intends to solicit alms. When such a one approaches him and opens his mouth to speak, he reaches in his pocket without a word, hands him a penny and saunters on, not even looking at the mendicant. Frequently the air grows blue behind him, and a string of earnest oaths pursues him from the beggar whom he has not even given the satisfaction of telling a hard-luck tale.—New York Mail and Express.

Horses Wear Snow Shoes.

All the horses working at the placer mine under the shadow of Pilot Peak, Plumas County, California, wear snowshoes. The altitude of the place is about 5,500 feet and enormous quantities of snow fall there in the winter, not infrequently reaching to the depth of twenty feet, says the San Francisco Call.

To overcome the disadvantages of the snow and enable the miners to carry on the projects of the mine snowshoes are put on the horses. By doing this supplies of groceries, meats, canned goods and the product of the mines can be transported. All picks, shovels, giant powder and similar things that have to be taken about in winter are handled in this way.

Only California-bred horses are used. It has been found these are the best, and, if possible, mountain horses—those that are raised at high altitudes. The horses go right along in the snow. They usually take a fast walk, but sometimes they trot a little.

They get so accustomed to the snowshoes that they do not stumble or fall at all, and like them so well that they don't care to walk without them. They will put up their feet to have the snowshoes put on.

An Egyptian Bride.

At the marriage in Egypt of Princess Minet Hanen, sister of the khedive, the bride came in preceded by a woman musician all dressed in white satin. She was supported by two bridesmaids. Her gown was of white satin, but one could scarcely see the material because of the heavy embroidery. Her neck and arms were simply covered with diamonds, and on her head she wore a high crown of precious stones, to which was attached her veil of silk and gold. On either side of her head were ornaments of gold and jewels, with threads of gold reaching to the ground, of such weight that the bridesmaids had to carry them. She was one of the most beautiful women ever seen, and when she was seated on the throne it was a picture. She and her surroundings were beautiful beyond description. When she retired the khedive stood on the throne and threw newly coined money among the ladies for luck.

A Queer Story.

Here is an amusing instance of British class formality. The lady's maid of Mrs. Benevolent was stricken down with typhus fever, and Mrs. Benevolent, having a great liking for the maid, declared she would nurse the girl herself. This she did, through a long illness, and after her complete restoration to health the maid was asked to resume her duties. Her answer was an expression of gratitude for the kindness and care she had received, concluding with the sorrowful "regret that I shall not be able to return into your service, as I cannot engage myself to one who is not a lady, and, of course, no lady would have nursed me and waited upon a servant as you have done in my case."—San Francisco Argonaut.

THE CZAR AN EPILEPTIC.

His Seizures More Frequent Since He Assumed the Throne.

The peculiar ailment of the Czar has been no secret at the German courts for some years. Since he was a lad emerging from boyhood it has been known that he was subject to occasional fits. They were rare, however, and were supposed, after the closest medical diagnoses, to be likely to disappear as his physique strengthened. The seizures which in his early youth took place about every four months, became more frequent, and of a distinctively epileptic type, but they were never particularly trying to his constitution until after he became burdened with the work and troubles inseparable from the throne. During the last year he has pronounced epileptic seizures about once a month. These facts are not mere matters of press reports or diplomatic gossip. The private correspondence which continually proceeds between the Danish, German, English and Russian royalties—their family correspondence, which is quite distinct from the diplomatic—contains much that never leaks out. But each high royal personage, male or female, generally has a confidant, and through these sources the alarm as to the Czar's condition has become known. His royal relatives are distressed by the possibility of body and mind being weakened if the seizures do not lessen in frequency, and are understood to concur in urging the Czar to give up most of his imperial duties to the projected new Council of State. His medical attendants have prescribed a strict regimen, designed to strengthen especially the nervous system.—New York Tribune.

IT'S HUMAN NATURE.

A Reformed Gambler's Experience When Exposing the Tricks.

"I tell you," declared the reformed gambler, "that there are people in this country who insist upon being swindled. Nine out of ten of the men who are caught know that they are going up against some kind of a bunco game. They have read all about it, but it is the infernal egotism of the average man that leads him into the trap. He knows that others have been caught, but he's too smart for anything of that kind, don't you see.

"I was at a county fair in Iowa exposing the tricks of gamblers. My graft was in selling a little book that I had on the subject. There was a pretty lively gang there from a back township, and when I showed them how the shell trick was done, one big fellow insisted that he could locate the elusive pea, and was bound to bet on his proposition. I told him that I was out of the business, but that he was mistaken. Then they set up a cry that I was a fraud and afraid of my own game. I went over the whole thing again and showed them how they were fooled, but I must give the fellow a chance or they would wreck my whole outfit.

"At last, just to save myself, I let him put up his money and tendered it back to him after I had won. Then it took three other men to keep him from whipping me because I took him for a squealer."—Detroit Free Press.

Her Relatives Mostly Grandparents.

Living near Waterford, in Marshall County, is a little girl who has a multiplicity of grandparents, but a scarcity of relatives in the younger generations. She has three grandfathers, four grandmothers, no uncles, aunts of first cousins, and never will have. Her father is the baby, her mother is the baby, and she is the youngest of the family.—New Albany Gazette.

No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping-Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. BIG POWER HOUSE BURNED.

Philadelphia Trolley Roads Crippled by a Disastrous Fire.

Philadelphia, March 4.—The power house at Thirteenth and Mount Vernon streets, from which the Union Traction company operated a half dozen of its lines of trolley cars, was destroyed by fire last evening. The loss is about $500,000 principally on the valuable machinery in the building. The loss is covered by insurance. The power house was a large brick structure covering a third of a block and contained eight dynamos and other valuable machinery. While some of the employes were swinging a big crane around the iron chain hanging from the arm it struck a generator. The blow smashed the generator and a violent explosion followed. The breaking of the generator blew out every circuit and wrecked all the dynamos which were running. Following the explosion fire broke out and gutted the building and destroyed the eight dynamos or rendered them useless and irretrievably damaged the other delicate machinery in the building. During the progress of the fire August A. Bender, and a well-dressed, good-looking young man, were run over by a fire engine and killed. Both men were looking at the fire at the time. The destruction of the power house will seriously cripple the surface transit facilities of the city for some time.

Glycerine Magazine Explodes.

Wellsville, N. Y., March 4.—The Rock Glycerine company's magazine on the Fassett farm about a mile and a half from Wellsville postoffice, blew up with an awful explosion yesterday afternoon. There was no loss of life nor great damage to property except in the village of Wellsville, where, particularly on Main street, $2,000 worth of window lights were destroyed. Of the magazine building not a scrap of a board or a piece of tin bigger than a toothpick could be found, and the site of the building is a big hole in the ground.

Walcott Defeats West.

New York, March 4.—The twenty-round contest between Joe Walcott of Boston and Tommy West of Chicago, at catch-weights, which occurred in the arena of the Broadway Athletic club, last night, resulted in a victory for West. Both men were on their feet at the conclusion of the twentieth round, but West had done the cleverest work and the referee awarded him the bout.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY

Line of Action Not Yet Decided Upon by President McKinley.

THE FLAG TO BE RESPECTED ABROAD

First Efforts of the New Administration To Be Devoted to Placing the Country Upon a Sound Financial and Business Foundation.

Washington, March 4.—Questions of greater importance to the country at large than the ambitions of individuals or the claims of party factions have engrossed the mind of President McKinley ever since his election, although he has heretofore given no public sign of his intended policies, foreign and domestic. A close personal and political friend of the president, speaking of the situation to-day, said: "This is to be a business administration. That is one settled policy. The first efforts of the new administration will be devoted toward putting the government on a sound financial and business basis, which is the first step toward prosperity. President McKinley and his advisers are determined that his administration shall be a success, not only because they realize that the country demands it, but that failure will react, not upon individuals, but upon the country as a whole."

President McKinley's Foreign Policy.

It may be stated upon the highest authority that the new administration goes into office without any fixed foreign policy in general or Cuban policy in particular, except a general policy of Americanism. Citizens of the United States in Cuba will be protected and respect for the flag of the country will be enforced, but it is the purpose of President McKinley to do this quietly, yet firmly The administration will endeavor to command respect at home and abroad without alarming the financial and business interests of the country by any sudden and unexpected exhibition of a vigorous and warlike foreign policy. There seems to be no doubt that when the new congress meets every influence will be brought to bear to secure such legislation as may be necessary to make the receipts of the government equal to the expenditures and to secure it promptly.

Pestered by Office Seekers.

Close friends of the president do not hesitate to say that he is already pestered by office seekers. While the extension of the civil service has greatly reduced the amount of patronage, there are still many good places left, and the rush for them is already well under way. In the corridors of all the principal hotels men may be seen hustling about seeking signatures to petitions. These men have looked over the lists and find about 1,600 good places within the gift of the president. But, according to the friends of President McKinley, after the chief appointments in the diplomatic service are made he will devote the next few weeks to other business which he deems of utmost importance.

Death of Justin Sackett.

Springfield, Mass., March 4.—Justin Sackett, 82, who died yesterday from old age, was one of the best known of landscape gardeners in his day, and as the one who laid out Forest park in this city he will be long remembered. He also had charge of the laying out of St. Johnsbury, Vt., cemetery, the Northampton hospital grounds, the tracks and dike at Hampden park and the Oak Grove cemetery of this city.

Naval News.

Washington, March 4.—The flagship Philadelphia, with Admiral Beardslee aboard, has been ordered to leave San Diego, Cal., at once for San Jose de Guatemala, to attend the opening of the Guatemalan international exposition. Crusier Cincinnati has arrived at Genoa where she will be docked, and the Detroit is at Singapore on her way home from China.

Victims of a Fiend.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 4.—It is now believed that John and Percy Henderson, father and son, who were burned to death in their boarding house on Chapline street, were the victims of a fiend. Both men had retired and were asleep and it is supposed that some miscreant poured oil on their bed and ignited it. The police are investigating.

Andrew Carnegie's Condition.

Greenwich, Conn., March 4.—The physician attending Andrew Carnegie said this morning that his patient's condition was about the same as yesterday. He is reported to be in no immediate danger, although it is feared pneumonia may set in.

Death of William Blake.

American Ship Reinsured.

AN EXCISE BOARD.

A few days ago a prominent Plainfield man in speaking about the unpleasant task which the city council has to perform each year in dealing with the licenses said that he thought that when the city passes into the second-class the job would be taken away from the city fathers. It seems that with second-class cities an excise board is provided for, whose purpose is to do nothing else but treat with licenses. They are elected for that one purpose and the people could have the say as to whether there should be "no" license or license men, and it would remove all doubt on the subject.

NO NEIGHBORLY INTEREST.

Though in a social and business way the city and borough interests are clearly affiliated, it is a rather strange fact that politically the people of the city seem to evidence no interest in affairs across the brook. A lively contest is now going on in the borough for municipal offices—in fact, the first time the Democrats and Republicans have come to a direct issue in several years—and yet it is so seldom that the matter is mentioned on the city side that the borough might as well be a thousand miles away so far as concerns their election creating a neighborly sentiment or interest.

DESCRIPTION OF THE INAUGURAL.

Though the pressure of business, the lack of funds, or a thousand and one other incidentals, may have prevented you from witnessing the inaugural ceremonies in Washington today, there is no need not to know what is going on at the Nation's capitol. In today's Press there is published a complete and graphic description of the induction of President McKinley into office. It is fully illustrated and of such paramount interest that it is one of the best features of today's paper.

NOT IN EFFECT YET.

The bill which Senator Reed has succeeded in having passed by the Legislature providing for the use of blue envelopes in balloting will not go into effect until July 1st, and, therefore, will not make any change in the township elections to be held next week.

ASKS $10,000 FOR BEING JILTED.

Miss Deckhut Brings Suit Against Wealthy Farmer Ludlow, of Cranford.

A breach of promise suit for $10,000 has been commenced in the Supreme Court at Trenton by Miss Carrie Deckhut, aged twenty-three, of Cranford, against John J. Ludlow, aged thirty-five, a wealthy Cranford farmer.

Miss Deckhut is a farmer's daughter, whose land adjoins that of Ludlow. She claims that in January, 1894, defendant asked her to become his wife in the presence of her mother, and his suit was accepted. Ludlow had, she asserts, put off from time to time the wedding, but she had entire confidence in his promises. Now he refuses entirely to make her his wife, hence the suit. Offers were made to the young woman to settle, but the amount was not sufficient, she declares, to compensate her for the injury sustained. Ludlow has served several terms on the Union county juries, and is one of the best-known young men in Cranford. The case will be tried at the May term.

To Become a Trained Nurse.

Miss Elizabeth Eick left town today to enter upon her duties at the Elizabeth City Hospital. Miss Eick has made arrangements to enter the training class in that institution to take a professional course for nursing. During the past four years Miss Eick has been a resident of this city, and was engaged in dressmaking. While her customers and many friends will greatly miss her, they all will unite in saying no young lady is better qualified to lead a life of self sacrifice than Miss Eick, and they all wish her great success in her new field of labor.

—The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. BOWLERS WON.

Defeated the High School Boys in Two Games Last Night.

The bowling team of the Plainfield High School made its first appearance as an organization last evening on the alleys of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., and while the High School boys were defeated in both games, they made the association bowlers, who were their opponents, hustle to win. There was a sameness about both games which was remarkable. In each game the High School team had to roll an up-hill game to overcome the lead that the Y. M. C. A. boys had secured in the first frames. In each game the High School boys almost caught their opponents in the ninth frame and were then defeated by 28 pins. The balance of victory in each game was the same.

The Sutphen brothers, two of whom were on one side and one on the other, secured the honors for the best bowling. The individual scores were as follows:

Y. M. C. A.

	First game.	Second game.
Sutphen, M.	147	125
Crane	113	100
Bristol	119	126
Schloss	122	140
Sutphen, Clarence.	166	128
	667	629

High School.

	First game.	Second game.
Sutphen, Carman	142	138
Brower	145	117
Long	151	116
Smith	93	126

Carroll L. Runyon, of the High School, acted as umpire.

Talking Excursion.

A meeting of the members of Gazelle Engine Co., No. 1, was held last evening, at which time the question of running an excursion this summer was discussed. Pleasure Bay was one of the places spoken of as a desirable objective point. The matter was not settled, however, and at a meeting in the near future there will be a further discussion.

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. Henderson, editor Daily Advertiser. For sale by T. S. Armstrong Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL.

O'Hooligan's wedding is the title of a rip-roaring farce comedy, which has scored a big hit throughout the country and which is billed to appear at Music Hall tonight. The play is exceedingly funny and deals with an Irish wedding in the typical Celtic style. The parts of Mike O'Hooligan is taken by John Flynn, and that of Julius Kranze, by Larry Tooley; both are well and favorably known to the amusement-loving public and both have parts that fit them like a glove.

Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys," will be seen at Music Hall next Tuesday. Ada Bothmer, the star of the company, is one of the most popular soubrettes on the American stage, she can sing better than most who dance, she is a better dancer than most women who can sing. She is an acknowledged actress and her great versatility is admitted by all the leading critics; she possesses that indescribable magnetism which makes her audience feel as if she was akin to them and they are proud of her. Manager Bothmer has surrounded her with one of the strongest companies of singers and comedians ever seen in one company, and she gives them all a chance to show what they can do, and in the "Bunch of Keys' the audience get full value for their money, as it is the funniest, cleanest, brightest and best farce comedy on the road. The story is cleverly told, the climaxes sensational, and the dialogue is pointed and beautifully expressed.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Paul Kraetzel is ill with the plurisy.

James Vail, of Plainfield, has accepted a lucrative position as clerk with Adam Dealaman.

Miss Lizzie Streuble, of High Bridge, left for her home today after a very pleasant visit with her cousin, Miss Della Fritts.

Contractors Milligan and Apgar completed, yesterday, a new barn on the Earl property, to replace the one destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

The many friends of Rev. S. F. Custard will regret to learn that he had a relapse yesterday, and his condition last night was not so favorable.

Miss Ethel Gray who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Sallie Gray, of Washington avenue, returned to her home in Irvington, yesterday.

A private investigation is going on to ascertain, if possible, the incendiary who applied the torch to Charles Coriell's store house on the night of the Republican caucus.

W. H. Carman has a variety of live stock in his butcher shop. He has two thoroughbred dogs, two domesticated rabbits and a pair of cats, and they all get along together, like one family.

The members of St. John's R. C. church celebrated Ash Wednesday with appropriate exercises in the church yesterday. Rev. Father Bogard, of Somerville, conducted the services.

Borough Commissioner Adam Dealaman is building up a large trade in the bicycle line. Within the past few days he has found ready sales for two Crescent and one Cleveland bicycles.

After an illness covering a period of a week or more, Miss Mamie Hunt was able to leave her bed and sit up yesterday for a short time. The attending physician now pronounces her out of danger.

The postmaster's commission at New Market runs out in May, and thus far there are several persons looking for the position. Robert Pierce and Charles Day are said to be foremost in the race at present.

The name of Charles Dixson has been quoted in another paper as aspiring for the appointment of postmaster. But it is understood from postal authorities that Mr. Dixson neither wants the office or aspired for it.

After a "slack time" of a few weeks, caused only by a scarcity of Virginia corn cobs, necessary in the manufacture of corncob pipes, Walter Smith has received a large consignment of cobs and his works have been started up again.

Out of the six Councilmen nominated at the Republican caucus, Monday evening, four were railroad men and the other two carpenters, it is said. The men are representative citizens, but among a certain class it is said that the railroad men are out of the borough all day, and the carpenters are liable to be before spring. Be this as it may, the ticket is considered a strong one, and its backers predict its entire election.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Miss Alida Messler has been visiting her cousin, Miss Laura Redden, of North avenue, Plainfield.

The Democratic primary is to be held in Bucket and Engine Company's fire house Friday evening, and there is likely to be some contention over the nomination of township officers.

With the near approach of spring, the farmers hereabouts are polishing up their farming implements, and some of them along the base of the mountain are all ready to begin plowing and seeding.

Since the ice has gone from the mountain ponds brook fishing is being freely indulged in by many of the local anglers and some fine specimens of the finny tribe are exhibited about town each day. Cat fish and perch are said to be biting well at present.

Some of the better element of base ball enthusiasts are agitating the subject of putting a base ball team in the field the coming season. Possibly the only outside talent that would need to be engaged would be a swift pitcher. There is plenty of good material right here in the Plains to fill out the nine.

The matter of leakage to the roof on the Public School building has been brought to the attention of the board of school commissioners and an immediate remedy will be perfected. The ceiling in the school is boarded and on this account the damage has been lessened to a great extent.

PASSING COMMENT.

Arthur Smock, colored, of Red Bank, firmly convinced that one's luck is gone when one loses his rabbit's foot. He has lost his rabbit's foot. Last fall he tried to rescue a friend from a policeman and had to leave town. A few days ago he returned, surrendered himself to Justice Child's and was paroled. Within twenty-four hours he was arrested three times by three different policemen, all of whom knew he was wanted. Finally he got a written statement from the Justice that he needn't be arrested any more.

It is understood that Counselor McClure, of this city, has been invited by the committee of the "Indoor Fly Casting Tournament," to be held at Madison Square Garden, March 13th and 19th, to enter the contest and compete with the best fly casters at home and abroad. The counselor has quite an extensive reputation as a fly fisherman and fly caster, and it is conceded that he is ranked first in the Megantic Club, of 300 members, both in his expertness in taking fish on the fly, and in the length and beauty of his cast. It is hoped by friends that the first vice-president of the above club will enter the contest and bring a trophy or two to Plainfield.

The conductor of a train running between Washington and Philadelphia is quoted as telling a story which illustrates the pitiful possibilities of human ignorance that still exist, despite the schools that are scattered so thickly over all parts of the country, and the migratory habits of a majority of the inhabitants. "On my last trip," says the conductor, "I found a young colored girl in the train who, when I approached, hurriedly untied one corner of her handkerchief and presented money to pay her fare to Philadelphia. I counted it out, and she had just enough. When I told her there was no change she began to cry, and said she had come from Charleston, S. C., and wanted to go to Plainfield. She said she knew no one in Philadelphia, and she had no money left. I felt sorry for her, and when we arrived at Philadelphia I took her up to the ticket receiver to see if he could pass her on to Plainfield. He was a little skeptical, and questioned her closely. She said she had paid her fare on the train all the time, and the receiver asked her why she hadn't bought a ticket at Charleston. She said she had. 'Where is it?' asked the receiver. 'Here it is,' she replied, untying another corner of her handkerchief. There it was, sure enough, good for all the way from Charleston to Plainfield, and hadn't been punched once. The ticket was redeemed, and there were quite a few dollars left after the girl bought a ticket for Plainfield.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

WESTFIELD DEMOCRATS.

NOMINATED A TICKET IN OPPOSITION TO REPUBLICANS.

Christopher Harden Nominated For Committeeman and John M. C. Marsh For Assessor—The Other Nominations.

The Democrats held their primary last evening. Lawyer John B. Green was made chairman and Irving I. Ross, secretary. In taking the chair, Mr. Green alluded to the cut and dried programme which the Republicans rushed through Tuesday evening, and said that the Democratic primary (last night) was not machine made. In spite of this it is evident that a deal had been made with the G. O. P., for the logical candidates, Mr. Knight or Mr. Alpers refused to run. Christopher Harden was nominated for town committeeman; John M. C. Marsh, for assessor; A. H. Clark, for collector; Henry C. Sargent, B. H. Woodruff and I. P. Whitehead, for commissioners of appeals; John Darsh and David E. Miller, surveyor of highways; James R. Patterson, justice of the peace; Gustave H. Koester, for constable, and the appropriations to be voted for are the same as those recomended by the town committee. A resolution was passed to have a committee of three appointed with power to fill vacancies and to investigete whether the town could not have a full quota (5) committeemen, and if so to put the names of two additional candidates on the ticket.

Miss May Clark is ill with the grip.

Harold Francis is on the grip calender.

Mrs. Keller went to New York yesterday.

Luther Whitaker made a call in New York yesterday.

Mrs. S. S. Mapes visited friends in Brooklyn yesterday.

Miss Alice Barton is still confined to her bed with the grip.

The Board of Health meets tomorrow evening in the town rooms.

The Town Committee will hold its last session of the year tomorrow evening.

J. H. Cash, publisher of The Leader, is suffering with a bad case of the grip.

Central Council, No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold an important meeting tomorrow evening.

Mrs. Lewis, Dr. R. R. Sinclair's grandmother, will be ninety-seven years old next Saturday.

Judge E. R. Collins and Lawyer Paul Q. Oliver are now members of the Westfield Gun Club.

Miss Lulu Austin, of Elizabeth, has returned to her home after visit of several days with friends here.

Miss Georgie Bogert will give her dancing lessons to the members of the social club this evening in the rooms of the club.

Mrs. Mary Townley, mother of James Hervey Townley, and one of Westfield's oldest inhabitants, passed peacefully away at her residence on Central avenue Tuesday afternoon after a long illness at the ripe old age of ninety-four years. Mrs. Townley was an active member of the First Baptist church, and was beloved by all who knew her. The funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Dover, N. H., Oct. 31, 1896—Messrs. Ely Bros.: The Balm reached me safely and in so short a time the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. I have a shelf filled with "Catarrh Cures." Tomorrow the stove shall receive them and Ely's Cream Balm will reign supreme. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman. Cream Balm is kept by all druggists. INAUGURATED.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY VICE-PRES. HOBART.

A VAST POPULACE GREETS THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

WASHINGTON NEVER SAW SUCH A CROWD BEFORE.

THE PLAN OF PUBLIC POLICY.

The Inaugural Address Was a Dignified, Conservative and Plain Exposition of Republican Principles, With No Tinge of Criticism for Past Administrations or for Bryan, or Free Silver.

Cleveland and McKinley Exchanged Calls and Then Dined Together—The Parade the Ball and the Costumes Worn by the Canton Ladies—Mother McKinley a Conspicuous Figure at the Ceremonies.

Feller says, he says ter me,
"Don't you wish thet you could be
Ridin' in a keeridge fine
While the others stood in line?
Where the flags is flyin' gay
On inauguration day,
Ez the idol of the crowd,
Wouldn't you feel mighty proud?"
Then I says, says I ter him,
"Tain't no use ter try ter trim
Hitchin' posts weth foliage fine:
He plays his part; I play mine.
How'd I feel a-makin' bows?
How'd he look a-feeding cows?
'Twould be painful fur ter see Me ez him or him ez me."

Washington, March 4.—With all the pomp and noise and commotion usually attending the inauguration of a president, Citizen McKinley was installed as chief executive of these United States to-day. Retiring President Cleveland did as much for the success of the occasion as he could, but his huge frame was racked with rheumatic pains which the day before had kept him to his bed, and it was under the strain of great physical suffering that he performed his part.

General Horace Porter, as marshal of the untrained host, seemed omnipresent, while Mark Hanna was quite as conspicuous among the statesmen and politicians.

Many forms of civilization crush one upon the other here. The farmer from Levinsville, Va., with his farm truck crowd upon the carriage of an Ambassador. The soldiers in full uniform are here, with a touch of old memories in their regalia, and chipper young officers are tacked on to some slouched-hat Governor as a staff.

Every one feels a sort of proprietorship in the things in and about Washington. The hand-shaking mania of the office seekers and politicians seems infectious and everybody wears a "kiss-the-baby" smile. Good nature flows unrestrictedly, and one comes to realize as he views the crowd that we are but children of a larger growth with a tendency to the enjoyment of any sort of a public function, ranging in scope from the county fair to the inauguration of a president.

Inauguration Day.

The first thing President McKinley did when he awoke this morning was to look out of his window and see what kind of a day had dawned. Major McKinley arose early, and, following the example set him by James Madison and John Quincy Adams, he donned a suit of clothes made entirely of American wool and American manufacture. Both of his predecessors named wore American made clothes, and a special mention of this is made in their biographies.

Breakfast was served to the President-elect and Mrs. McKinley in their private dining room, and the occasion was made a joyous one by the presence of a number of the party which accompanies Major McKinley to Washington. Following the breakfast, the President-elect received a few of his friends.

The carriages of the committee were drawn up on F street, at the ladies' entrance to the hotel, and the President-elect and the Senate Committee descended from their rooms on the third floor by the elevator and walked through the corridor to the carriages. The military escort lined up on F street, and, as the President-elect entered the carriage, accompanied by the two members of the Senate Committee, Senators Sherman and Mitchell (of Wisconsin), they saluted.

From White House to Capitol.

The President-elect and Senator Sherman occupied the back seat, with Senator Mitchell facing them. The carriage proceeded on F street to Fifteenth, and to Pennsylvania avenue, and thence to the White House followed by the military escort. On entering the house Major McKinley was received by President Cleveland. After a few minutes of greeting President Cleveland and President-elect McKinley, accompanied by Senators Sherman and Mitchell, left the White House and enter the President's private carriage. This was drawn by four horses. The procession under the military escort and the President-elect's Guard-of-Honor then proceeded down the avenue to the Capitol.

SECRETARY OF STATE SHERMAN.

The procession halted at the east entrance of the Senate wing of the Capitol, a passageway having been kept by the soldiers and police for the carriages. The great plaza in front of the big white building on Capitol Hill was packed with the citizens from all over the United States who had gathered to see the oath administered. The crowds had an excellent opportunity to see both the President and President-elect, for after leaving their carriages they climbed the broad steps leading to the Senate entrance.

Meanwhile the President and President-elect held a reception in the President's room. The scene in in the President's room. The scene in the Marble Room and in the rooms where the President and President-elect remain is always one of great interest as well as of brilliant display. The Diplomatic Corps, in their court costumes, assemble in the beautiful Marble Room to await their entrance to the Senate chamber.

off for different classes of invited guests. The diplomatic gallery is reserved for the families of the Diplomatic Corps, and the executive gallery is reserved for the families of the President, Vice-President, President-elect and the Presidential party. The Senators' families and friends have their own gallery, and the public gallery is given over to the families and friends of the members of the House; if there are any seats remaining those who have general tickets may take them.

In the meantime, the procession of those who had seats on the floor was be formed, and as each body of distinguished men entered the south door, they were announced by Doorkeeper Alonzo Stewart. The Diplomatic Corps were introduced first and took their seats. Then came the Supreme Court, followed by the Cabinet, the officers of the army and navy, the Governors of States, and last the members of the House of Representatives, followed by the members-elect of the next Congress. When they were all seated, the Vice-President-elect was escorted to the seat on the right of Vice-President Stevenson, but not on the dais with him, for he occupied the seat two or three seats lower, the one which is usually occupied by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate. When he took his seat, President Cleveland and President-elect McKinley entered from the south door leading from the grand corridor, and were escorted by the Committee of Arrangements to the two large leather chairs in front of the Vice-President's desk.

Vice-President Hobart Takes the Oath.

By the time all were seated the hour of noon had arrived, and Vice-President Stevenson rapped the Senate to order and administered the oath of office to Vice-President-elect Hobart. The retiring Vice-President then made his valedictory address, and after he had finished he rapped the body to order and declare the Senate adjourned sine die. Immediately Secretary of the Senate William R. Cox read the President's proclamation convening the Senate in Senate in executive session—called executive because only one branch of Congress is in session. When this was finished, Vice-President Hobart grasped the gavel and rapped the Senate to order and declared it in executive session. He then delivered his address to the Senate and when he had finished he declared the Senate ready for organization.

It was then that the new Senators were brought forward and took the oath of office. After they had all been sworn in the Senate took a recess, and the procession was formed and moved from the Senate chamber to the east porttico of the Capitol, where the President-elect was sworn in and delivered his address. The procession through the long corridor of the House to the rotunda was a most imposing one. Headed by the Marshal of the District of Columbia and the Marshal of the Supreme Court, the Presidential party follows, and behind comes the Senate, Diplomatic Corps, the Cabinet, secretaries, incoming and outgoing; the members of the House of Representatives, the Governors of the States, the Washington newspaper correspondents and the officers of the Senate and the House.

TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

Address of the President and the Parade Following It.

In front of the Senate wing of the Capitol is erected the huge stand on which the distinguished crowd is gathered, and where the President takes the oath of office. Massed in front of this structure is the great American public, all anxious to witness the solemn ceremony. It is an impressive, but simple affair, and after the multitude has ceased cheering, President McKinley advanced to the front of the stand, and beside him was Chief Justice Fuller, who administered the oath of office.

McKinley has always prided himself on his consistency, and he carried into his inaugural speech the plain, conservative sentiments which he has proclaimed for years in Congress and on the stump.

He is a mild-mannered man, who observes the amenities, and there was no rancor, no abuse of Cleveland's administration, no reflection on Bryan and the Democracy. Ever and always, William McKinley has avoided harsh criticism.

President McKinley's attack on Democratic ideas was in mild language, but none the less emphatic in meaning. He did not draw a happy picture of business conditions. He said that our foreign trade has been diminished and our domestic trade has suffered incalculable loss. Confidence in home enterprises has almost wholly disappeared. Our shops are closed, or running on half time. Our men at home are idle, and while they are idle, men abroad are occupied in supplying us with goods. Our unrivalled home market for the farmer has also suffered greatly because those who constitute it, the great army of American wage earners, are without the work and wages they formerly had.

GEN. MILES OF THE RECEPTION COM.

The loss of earning power alone in this country in the past three years, he asserted is sufficient to have produced our unfortunate business situation. If our labor were well employed and employed at as remunerative wages as in 1892, in a few months every farmer in the land would feel the glad change in the increased demand for his products and in the better prices which he would receive.

Mr. McKinley declared that we are not a nation of classes. He eulogized the seventy millions under his rule as sturdy, honorable people, who will never be dominated by demagogues. Washington and Webster were quoted as giving similar views warning the workingmen against the play of passions and the destruction of liberty fruits in the name of liberty.

Silver was given very friendly assurances. Free coinage was not approved, but a demand for a double standard with international concurrence was earnestly made. Civil service reform was declared the position of the party for twenty-four years past.

President McKinley congratulated the country that sectional lines no longer exist. He insisted that the era of reconciliation, so long and earnestly desired by General Grant, and many other great leaders, north and south, has happily come and the feeling of distrust and hostility between the sections is everywhere vanishing, never to return. Nothing is better calculated to give strength to the nation at home, increase power and influence abroad, and add to the permanency and security of free institutions than the restoration of cordial relations between the people of all sections and parts of a beloved country.

MARK A. HANNA.

The resident's remarks on Cuba were not inflammatory, but they warned Spain without giving any material consolation to the insurgents. He did not advise a recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban republic, but he indicated the feeling of this nation that Spain does not trample on the rights of American citizens. On all else but that topic the inaugural remarks on Cuba were conservative.

No foreigners should come in who do not mean to become citizens or who belong to the debased and criminal classes of other lands. Against all who make war on our institutions the gates must be closed. A fervent appeal for liberal pensions and a promise to right the wrongs committed by the Cleveland administration was made.

The address was delivered in a voice that was distinctly heard at a considerable distance from the stand, and this, notwithstanding much confusion.

After he has finished his remarks, the procession was reformed, and returned to the Senate chamber. The President and ex-President, however, did not enter the Senate, but went at once to the President's room.

After luncheon the President and the ex-Vice-President left the Capitol by the Senate entrance, followed by the Vice-President and ex-Vice-President, and the Committee of Arrangements, and proceeded at once to the carriages awaiting them. President McKinley, during this ride, occupied the seat of honor in the first carriage, and on his left was seated ex-President Cleveland, while in the second carriage Vice-President Hobart had ex-Vice-President Stevenson on his left. As soon as they were seated, the order for the march was given cession moved up the avenue.

Following the Presidential party came the great parade. Instead of going to the White House, as in former years, the President was driven at once to the reviewing stand in front of the White House and the procession filed by. Ex-President Cleveland did not go to the stand, but was driven to the White House, where he was met by Mrs. Cleveland.

Among the special aids appointed by General Porter as members of the Grand Marshal's staff are four sons and one grandson of former Presidents of the United States. The grandson is Ulysses S. Grant, third, a son of Police Commissioner Grant, and the sons of former Presidents are Webb C. Hayes, Harry A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur and Russell Harrison.

AT THE INAUGURAL BALL.

Its Brilliant Scenes Will Close a Day of Pageantry.

Mrs. McKinley and the aged mother of the President, who witnessed the ceremony at the Capitol, left that building in carriages, and were conducted to the place where they were to see the parade. At 3 o'clock the President took his place on the White House grand stand to review the parade, and for hours after that and until dusk he returned the salutes of the thousands of marching men that filed past him. It was nearly 7 o'clock before the President was allowed to retire to the White House, where he took his first meal as Chief Executive of this great nation. But he was not allowed to tarry over this feast, for he had to dress and prepare to go to the inaugural ball. He was expected to arrive there shortly after 9 o'clock, and the Committee of Escort waited upon him and conveyed the party in carriages to the Pension building, where the ball was held.

On his arrival at the entrance he was met by the Reception Committee, which conducted him on the tour around the ball room, and then to the rooms reserved for his use in the first balcony. Here the President and Mrs. McKinley, Vice-President Hobart and Mrs. Hobart held a reception. Before midnight the party was obliged once more to descend to the floor, and advance in procession across the great dancing floor to the rooms where the Presidential party were served with supper.

At midnight the President and his party were allowed to leave the ball room and go home for some needed rest.

MRS. M'KINLEY.

When the President awakes the next morning the great burden and responsibility that will rest upon his shoulders for the next four years will make itself felt. He will find the White House besieged by callers, and office seekers galore will swarm about him. The first thing he will do after he breakfasts, no doubt, will be to prepare the list of nominations of his new Cabinet, for when the Senate meets at 12 o'clock the President is expected to name his official family to that body, and ask them to exercise their constitutional privilege of confirming the nominations.

The Decorations and Menu.

The decorations are entirely of yellow, trimmed with white, the material being wrapped about the pillars of the corridor and hung in alternate draperies from every part of the wall. Not a particle of ceiling or wall was seen except what is in white or yellow, while in the center of each of the three sections of the roof was hung a dome covered with white and yellow. From this dome immense streamers were drawn to the sides of the walls, so that the effect was that of a white and yellow striped roof.

The floral decorations were on a most elaborate scale, and consisted exclusively of growing plants. About the large marbleized pillars were twined long wreaths of maidenhair ferns. At the foot tall palms reared their

The entire ceilings and walls were covered over with the yellow and white cloth and with ferns and smilax, while at the pillars there were nearly every description of plant known. The whole place was a huge greenhouse.

The tables were set in the main building in the lower corridor running along the north side, and they were in the rooms as well as in the halls. One dollar was charged each guest for supper. The bill of fare consisted of

In the beautiful illumination of the Pension building fifty arc lights and 8,700 incandescent burners were used. One of the features of the ballroom is an American flag in colors, composed of incandescent lamps. By means of a mechanical contrivance the effect of waving is given. Hundreds of canary birds in cages, guaranteed to sing, despite electric brilliancy and crowds, was another feature of the ballroom decorations.

The Expenses of Inauguration.

The expenditures of all kinds made necessary in preparations leading to the pageant of March 4 and the following festivities in the shape of the inaugural ball, supper and promenade concerts were not less than $50,000, and will vary between that figure and $75,000.

MRS. HANNA.

The train on which Major McKinley and his party came from Canton, arrived on Tuesday morning. After leaving the train the President-elect and his party took carriages and were driven up the avenue. The great thoroughfare was thronged with crowds of enthusiastic and patriotic citizens, who gave the President-elect a welcome worthy of so distinguished and popular a citizen. The Presidential party drove to Fourteenth street, and stopped at the ladies' entrance to the Ebbitt House.

For the last month or more Proprietor Burch, at the Ebbitt House, has been preparing the apartments to be occupied by Major McKinley and his party. During his Congressional life the President-elect lived at the Ebbitt House, occupying a modest suite of apartments on the third floor of that well-known hostelry. Mr. Burch, remembering, this determined to fix up the old rooms and let them be a part of the floor taken by the Presidential party. So it happened that Major and Mrs. McKinley occupy their old rooms, but they are so changed and beautified that the McKinleys hardly recognized them. They look out on Fourteenth street. As there are some fifty or sixty persons in the immediate party, almost the entire floor is given over to them.

Wednesday night Major McKinley dined at the White House with the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The President's children have been removed to the new home at Princeton, and Mrs. Cleveland and the President were alone in the big house.

MRS. HOBART. MRS. HANNA.

MRS. M'KINLEY.

It is confidently expected by the executive committee in charge of the arrangements that the receipts from all sources coming into the hands as revenue will not be far short of $80,000. This sum will be realized by the sale of privileges, ball tickets and other concessions. As presidential inaugurations have grown more and more elaborate the committee has found a continually diminishing surplus remaining after a settlement of all accounts. It has become the custom to devote the excess of receipts over expenditures to charitable purposes in the District of Columbia.

The committee having in charge the inauguration of Mr. Cleveland four years ago was left with but $3,000 when all expenses had been adjusted.

The chief source of revenue to the committee arises from the sale of tickets to the inaugural ball. No complimentary tickets are issued. Each person attending must pay $5 for the privilege. In this way, if 10,000 people attend, the receipts from that source alone will reach $50,000.

The largest single item of expense to be met by the committee is for decorating the inaugural ballroom. For this work the total sum of $15,000 will be expended. Three separate contractors will have charge of the decorations. One will furnish the flowers, another the bunting and a third the electric lights.

A beautiful souvenir, prepared at the expense of the committee, was given free to each purchaser of a ball ticket. These souvenirs were not offered for sale and the only manner in which they can be obtained is by purchasing a ticket.

The grand stand in the White House lot, a rather ambitious architectural contrivance, was faced by the Mark Hanna stand, occupying the entire length of Lafayette Square. They called it the Mark Hanna stand because Mr. Hanna had engaged 250 seats on that stand for the use of members of the National Committee and their families.

CORWINE CAPTURED

Absconding Navy Paymaster Apprehended at Chicago.

$3,000 OF STOLEN MONEY RECOVERED

He Was Paying Off Another's Shortage When He Was Driven To a Desperate Act—Sympathy Is with Him.

Newport, R. I., March 4.—The police department has been notified of the arrest of paymaster John Corwine, U. S. N., at Chicago, and the police there report having secured upwards of $3,000 of the $5,000 which he drew upon a check an hour or two before his departure from this city Monday. The local department secured a clue as to his probable destination, and the arrest was made after telephoning to that city. Detective Richards, who went on the case, will bring Corwine back from Chicago. Corwine was wired asking if he would come on without a requisition, to answer to a complaint against him brought by the First National bank, the United States depository in this city. Mrs. Corwine is in Washington pleading for her husband. She claims that the difficulty is due to a shortage of his pay clerk on the United States ship Nipsic on a Pacific cruise. Corwine made no complaint upon the promise of the clerk to make up the shortage in instalments, but this finally failed. The government officers appear to have known something about the case, which originated ten years ago, but owing to the loss of the Nipsic at Samoa, her accounts have never been audited, and Corwine has been gradually making up the shortage, but appearance of the chief inspector here this week drove him to a desperate act. There is much sympathy here for Corwine, who has been living quietly and making up a rapidly as possible.

THE STORM IN ENGLAND.

Reports of Death and Destruction Still Coming In.

London, March 4.—Reports of the havoc wrought by the gale are still being received. A dispatch from Cardiff says that a boat containing six workmen was swamped in the harbor there and its occupants were drowned. A number of trees in a churchyard at Tiverton, in the county of Devon, were torn up by the roots, displacing great quantities of earth and exposing to view several coffins which, from the inscriptions on the plates, which remained legible, had lain in the cemetery for more than a century. The schooner Amaranth arrived at Cowes, Isle of Wight, and reports that her captain was carried overboard by a heavy sea which boarded her and was drowned. Many sailing vessels are reported to be ashore on the south coast of England, and a large number of deaths are said to have been caused throughout the country by falling trees and walls.

Against Liquor License.

Malone, N. Y., March 4.—At the town elections of Franklin county there were numerous surprises on the four excise propositions submitted. Eight out of sixteen towns heard from declared against all forms of licenses. These include Bangor, Belmont, Brandon, Burke, Dickinson, Duane, Fort Covington and Westville. Altamont, Bombay and Malone voted in favor of all forms, while Chateaugay, Constable and Moira voted in favor of the pharmacists' license only, Waverly for hotels only and Harrietstown for all forms of license except saloons.

Bram May Appeal to U. S. Supreme Court.

Boston, March 4.—The exceptions filed by counsel for Thomas M. Bram, the convicted murderer of Captain Nash of the American barkentine Herbert Fuller, have been allowed and he will be formally notified of the fact in the United States circuit court this afternoon before Judges Colt and Webb. His sentence will not be imposed this week, but some day soon thereafter. The allowing of Bram's exceptions puts him in a position when his sentence shall have been imposed, to apply to the United States supreme court for a writ of error.

Lehigh Valley Railroad Earnings.

Philadelphia, March 4.—The net earnings of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company for January, 1897, as compared with January, 1896, show an decrease of $185,522.28. The two month of the fiscal year to January 31 shows a decrease in net earnings of $269,517.16. The net earnings of the Lehigh Valley Coal company for January, 1897, show a decrease of $175,405.74. For the two months of the fiscal year the decrease in net earnings was $220,023.39.

Rioting in a Prussian Town.

Berlin, March 4.—It has just become known that serious rioting took place at Neuwied, Rhenish Prussia, last Sunday. A mob attacked and stoned the police, who drew their swords in self-defense, but were obliged to retire to the station. Thereupon the mob threw paving stones at the station and cheered for anarchy. Numerous arrests were made.

New Naval Cadets.

Washington, March 4.—The following appointments, among others, of cadets to the Military academy, West Point, are announced: Normal Guillot, Bushkill, Pa.; Jacob Hill, alternate, East Stroudsburg, Pa.; Marshall P. Page, Norfolk, Va.; Robert C. Reed, alternate, Portsmouth, Va.

Revenue Cutter Manhattan Injured.

New York, March 4.—The revenue cutter Manhattan was towed into a slip near the Battery last night by a tug. She blew out a tube while off Governor's island.

HOME FOR FREE MASONS.

DESIGNED FOR THE AGED AND INFIRM OF THE ORDER.

The Grand Lodge Has Appointed a Committee—Palatial Residence and Private Park Selected—Probable Cost $40,000.

The Free Masons of this State are about to establish a home for the aged and infirm members of the order, after the manner of their brethren in other States. The matter was finally determined upon at the recent session of the Grand Lodge, and those in charge of the proposed home hope to have it opened before the close of the present year.

A number of the more prominent Free Masons of this jurisdiction have for several years been working for the establishment of a home, but up to the present time their efforts have not been successful. While, it is said, that all the members of the order in the State were favorably inclined to the movement, there were some matters that delayed the final success of the plan.

At a recent session of the grand lodge, held in Trenton, it was voted to establish a home, and a committee was appointed to carry out the plans. Grand Master F. W. Fortmeyer is at the head of the committee. The committee intends to purchase a residence and private park located about one mile from Trenton, and the transfer of the property, it is understood, will soon be made. The park consists of 13 acres, and the residence is large and commodious. Originally it cost about $40,000, and it is said to be very fine.

It is the intention of the committee to go at once to work upon the matter, and the members hope to have the necessary alterations made, so that the home can be completed before January, 1898. The estimated cost of the property, together with the work of improving the residence and putting it in readiness for the reception of immates will not exceed $25,000.

BENFORD BOY SENT TO A HOME.

Pleaded Hard Not to be Sent Back to His Mother.

Andrew Benford, the son of Maggie Benford, has been sent to a home in Newark. Several weeks ago he fell from a coal car and had one leg crushed by the wheels. He was taken to the hospital and the leg was amputated. He has now recovered from the effects, but is unable to do anything on account of his crippled contion. He begged hard not to be forced to return to his mother and his home in Paradise alley, but to be allowed to remain in the hospital. That was not to be thought of, and through the influence of Rev. Father Smythe a place was secured for him in a Catholic home at Newark.

His mother tried in every way she could to have her boy returned to her, and appealed in turn from the Chief of Police and the City Judge to all the leading citizens of the town. The boy was very anxious not to go back and as the police knew something of her, it was decided that it would be best for the lad to send him to the home. His brother is now spending a term in the county jail for trespassing on the railroad.

MORRIS COUNTY HORSES SAFE.

John Miller's Arrest Completes the Round-Up of "The Morgan Gang."

With the arrest of John Miller, Morris county officials believe they have behind the bars the last member of a gang of horse thieves, who have stolen more than twenty-five horses during the past three years. Miller has been wanted since last September.

He was captured in a hotel in Bushkill, Pa., yesterday afternoon and taken to the county jail at Stroudsburg, Pa., for safe keping over night. He was brought to Morristown today and locked up. His brother Charles was taken to Trenton State Prison on Monday of last week to serve a two years' term for horse stealing.

The Miller brothers belonged to the Morgan gang, which terrorized the northeastern end of Morris county for four years.

Receiver For a Newspaper.

William Carman, of Metuchen, was appointed receiver of the Metuchen Recorder by Vice Chancellor Emery yesterday in the Chancery Chambers. Several days ago James A. MacLauchlan, one of the owners of the paper, asked for a dissolution of partnership and the appointment of a receiver, alleging that J. F. Kempson, his partner, did not conduct the paper properly. The appointment was made with the consent of the defendant in the case. The receiver is the clerk of the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

L. Wagner, wholesale druggist, Richmond Va., says; "I had a fearful attack of Sciatic Rheumatism, was laid up almost two months; was fortunate enough to get Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. This cured me after doctor's prescriptions had failed to have any effect. I have also heard of fine results from others who have used it." Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, corner Park and North avenues, Plainfield.

INSOLENT CADS ABROAD.

ASKING UNESCORTED GIRLS IMPERTINENT QUESTIONS AT NIGHT.

Several Young Ladies Stopped in Washingtonville by Men Who Acted in a Way to Frighten Them—Practice Must Stop.

Washingtonville has of late been infested with tramps who have had a habit of stopping women on the road at night and threatening them. A few nights ago Miss Lauerssen was stopped and it was only after the most persistent effort that she succeeded in getting rid of the men who were following her. They asked her all sorts of questions and after she had given them a reply they would ask the same questions again. She finally stopped in the house of a friend and thus escaped the men.

Tuesday evening Miss Carrie Spencer while going from her house to call at the home of Wm. Demler she was met by three men who asked her the shortest way to Plainfield. She told them that they were on the right road and again they asked the same question. She gave the same reply when one of the men told her that he would walk with her. This frightened Miss Spencer and she got away from the men as soon as possible by going into Mr. Demler's house which she had reached by this time.

No one seems to know who the men are, but it certainly looks as though there was some good work to he done in the way of ridding the locality of a dangerous set of people.

NOMINATED FOR ELDERS.

German Reformed Church Arranging for Annual Congregational Meeting.

The members of the German Reformed church held their regular monthly meeting last evening, and made preparation for the annual congregational meeting which will be held Wednesday evening, April 7th, at which time the consistory of the church will be elected. There will be one elder and two deacons to elect. Last evening Phillip Bach and M. Mentzenbach were nominated for the office of elder, and the nominations for deacons was laid over until the annual meeting. The above-named members were appointed as a finance committe to examine the church accounts and compile a report to be read at the annual meeting. A few days before the meeting the officers of the church will meet and prepare their reports to be presented at that time.

An Evening of Sociability.

The evening was passed in the usual manner playing games and with singing familiar songs. There were also several instrumental selections. A very enjoyable supper was provided during the evening. These socials held frequently furnish a great deal of amusement for the members and at the same time are the means of securing new members.

She was the youngest daughter of the late Augustus DeGraw, of Park avenue. A husband and four children survive her. The children are Clara Force, Edna Force, George Force and Augustus Force.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

ROSELLE INVADED, TOO

SEVERAL RESIDENCES BROKEN INTO TUESDAY NIGHT.

Supposed That the Same Burglar or Burglars Worked There and Then Went to Cranford on a Thieving Tour.

The burglars who operated so extensively in Cranford Tuesday night are supposed to have first tried their hand at Roselle. At any rate, between 12:30 a. m. and 2 a. m. they entered and ransacked the homes of T. C. Van Brunt, Oscar Suydam and E N. Squire, all together in Westfield avenue.

They first went through the home of Mr. Van Brunt, securing some jewelry and money. They got away undetected, and were operating on the second floor of the Suydam house, when Mrs. Suydam was awakened. She ran to a window and screamed. Several neighbors went to her rescue and the burglars disappeared.

The members of the Squire family were not awakened by Mrs. Suydam's screams, and fifteen minutes later the bold burglars had entered the Squire house. One of them fell against the bed in which Mr. and Mrs. Squire were sleeping, and husband and wife were awakened. Squire jumped out of bed and the robber ran downstairs, closely pursued. He dashed out the front door and scrambled into a wagon in front of the house and in which several confederates were seated.

The wagon was driven rapidly out of town and probably direct to Cranford, as the operations there began about an hour later. At the home of Walter Irving, in Cranford, the burglars found all the bedroom doors locked. They got a fine gold watch, some jewelry and $25, and the Irvings did not know they had been robbed until morning. The thieves went to the Grows, to John Martin's and John M. Crane's, and then to the West's. The two villages are in a state of terror.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Borough Clerk Arnold showed his personal patriotism today by decorating his horse with flags in honor of the inauguration of President elect McKinley.

—A box of fish fell from a truck on Park avenue in front of the Codington building, yesterday, and its contents was scattered about the street. The driver and some sympathetic passers by collected the remains and stowed them away on the truck again.

—The funeral of Mrs. Agnes Goodall McNair, wife of the late Captain James McNair, of Scotch Plains, was held this morning in Brooklyn. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Farrah. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives. The interment was in the family plot in Greenwood cemetery.

A Compositor's Work.

Sixty-five years ago Hiram Lukens entered The Intelligencer office, at Doylestown, to learn printing, and he is there yet, setting type as fast as anybody around the place. His record of continuous service with one establishment is probably unequalled in the business. Several times the management has changed but he has never left his case. Three sets of floor boards have worn away under his feet in that long time, and 130 pairs of thick soled boots have been put on the retired list. For over 19,500 working days his eyes have been trained on the type, but still his vision is unimpaired, and he handles the smallest size with ease. It is quite fair to estimate that he has set and distributed an average of 8,000 ems of type a day, or a total in sixty-five years of 156,000,000 ems. This is equal to 28,888 columns of common type.—Philadelphia Record.

Biggest of Drawbridges.

The opening to traffic of the elevated tracks, known as the Park Avenue Improvement of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, marks the highest type of safe railway operation. The steel structure, with its four tracks, is the largest drawbridge in the world. This draw span, 400 feet in length, 58½ feet in width, swings 2,500 tons of steel and iron upon a pivotal pier of solid masonry. The movement and control of the bridge are so accurate that the whole mass of metal is under the control of one man.

The structure, built on what is known as the shallow floor system, is carried by plate girders, and supported by steel columns.—New York Sun.

"I suppose you'll hardly believe it," said the colonel, who is writing the liberetto of a comic opera, "but I began work right after dinner last night and worked hard till 3 o'clock this morning on eight lines—just eight lines."

Obeying Orders.

There was a new Irish porter at the hotel, and one of the guests told him he wanted to be called at six. Promptly at that hour there was a loud rap at the door, and a shout, "I have a message for you." The guest jumped out of bed, and opening the door, received a large envelope. This he hastily tore open and read on a slip of paper inside, "Please get up at once."

A Village Under One Roof.

Most of the large towns in France contain workmen's model dwellings or tenement houses, which have been dignified with the picturesque appellation of barracks, but none of these has attained to the colossal proportions of the "Freihaus," situated at Wielden, a suburb of Vienna. This building has thirteen courtyards and accommodates 2,112 persons, belonging to all classes of society. One postman is specially appointed to deliver letters to the inmates, whose correspondents have to be careful to put on the cover not merely the Christian name and surname of the addressee, but the number of the yard, the staircase and the flat, if they want the letter to reach its destination.—Golden Days.

Gave the Court a Recess.

In the early eighties "Jim" Shultz was Justice of the Peace in Twin Groves Township, Neb. One day an attorney was exceedingly domineering in his words and actions. His Honor finally gave vent to his feelings as follows: "The court will now take a recess. Mr. Attorney, you are a liar and a scoundrel. The court will now come to order. Mr. Attorney, if you open your head I'll fine you for contempt."—San Francisco Argonaut.

HOUSE WITH A HISTORY.

REVOLUTIONARY MENORIAL SOCIETY DESIROUS OF BUYING THE PLACE.

It Was There That General Washington Made His Headquarters For One Winter —Plainfielders Appealed to For Relief.

In the four Middle States there are extant just four houses that stand, or should stand, high in the affections of the American people. With Faneuil Hall in Boston they are entitled to be called the cradles of American liberty. During the most critical times of our country's history in them all public interest centered, and for successive anxious months toward one or the other of them the thoughts of all patriotic Americans turned with the deepest hope and solicitude. These four historic mansions were at various times during the Revolutionary War the headquarter of General Washington, and are ordinarily designated as the Stone House, at Newburg, N. Y., the Stone House, at Valley Forge, Pa., the Ford Mansion, at Morristown, and the Wallace House, at Somerville. Three of these dwellings are in the possession of Washington Associations, composed of patriotic citizens who zealously guard them against decay and destruction, and preserve within their walls valuable manuscripts, relics and antiquities relating to Washington and the Revolution. Strange as it may appear, one of the famous mansions, the Wallace House at Somerville, is today uncared for by any public association and historically is known to but few persons outside of its own vicinity. Happily, thus far its successive owners have appreciated its close connection with great events in our country's history. It stands today, therefore, almost, if not quite the same as when it was the home of General and Mrs. Washington, and the headquarters of the Continental Army.

This Wallace House, completed in the autumn of 1778, stands in the midst of a grove of old oaks, some 600 feet back from the main street at the west end of Somerville. During the winter and spring of 1778 and 1779 when seven brigades of the Continental Army were cantonned at Camp Middlebrook, it was General Washington's headquarters, and for six months this honored house opened its doors to many distinguished people. Here Mrs. Washington spent the winter with her husband. Here, too, came constantly Governor Livingston, Lord Stirling, Generals Green, Knox and Streuben, and other great men of that day. It was in this house that the commander-in-chief received, with great honors, in April of 1779, Mr. Gerard, the newly accredited minister from France, and it was here that the celebrated Spanish envoy, Don Juan de Miralles, came to pay his respects to the distinguished American general.

There has recently been formed in this State a society, its object being the preservation of just such historic places as this old mansion, and it is desired that the Plainfield public become acquainted with the work of the Memorial Society and share in the honor of saving from demolition such houses as the Wallace House located so near this town.

The president of the society is Mr. Richard F. Stevens, of Newark, treasurer, Mr. Ernest E. Coe. The shares are $10 each, and annual dues $1 for each member. It is earnestly hoped that some of the patriotic and public spirited citizens will become shareholders in this enterprise. Mrs. J. K. Myers, 139 East Seventh street, Regent of the Continental Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will gladly receive subscriptions for this fund. This Chapter whose members are Plainfield women are going to give a reception on the evening of April 19th, the anniversary of the battle of Lexington, in the beautiful home of Mr. Charles W. McCutchen, for the benefit of this object, details of which will be given later.

Ran Into the Fence.

While a farmer, living near South Plainfield, was unloading lumber from a freight car near the site of the old freight house yesterday morning, the horses attached to his wagon became frightened at the engines and started to run away. They brought up against the fence that surrounds the iron fence around the little park there and laid out three lengths of the fence. The career of the horses came to a sudden stop, however.

Changes of Lawyers.

Several changes are about to be made by some of Plainfield's lawyers. A. H. Cornish will open an office at Summit, Charles H. Angleman will hang his shingle out at Westfield, and Isaac Runyon, of this city, and Frederick Pope, of Somerville, will open an office in this city.

WEEK OF DEPREDATION.

BOUND BROOK TERRORIZED BY A PERSISTENT GANG OF THIEVES.

Several Houses Broken Into and Money, Jewelry and Clothing Stolen—Unknown Man Held Up and Robbed Last Night.

While this locality has been infested with many thieves and robbers, Bound Brook has had her share and the citizens are thoroughly aroused over the wholesale method employed by several persons who are suspicioned. Almost every night since last Saturday some place has been robbed and in nearly every case the unknown thieves have succeeded in getting something.

Last Saturday night the Union News stand was broken into and $7.50 was removed. Nothing else was disturbed. The same night the home of Miss Ida Simon, a dressmaker, was entered, but the intruders were frightened away before they got anything. Operations were suspended then until Monday evening when the roundhouse was broken into. This time three dinner pails and an overcoat was taken.

On Tuesday night the home of J. McNabb was robbed and the theives got away with silver to the value of $75 and about $30 in cash. The next night and attempt was made to break into the house of Ex-Mayor Perry, but the men were fruitless in their efforts.

Last night it is said that a passenger from Washington upon his arrival at Bound Brook was stopped and relieved of all his money. He was then left by the roadway to get to his destination as best he could.

With all these robberies staring the authorities in the face they are nonpulsed and scarcely know what to do. Their indignation has reached a high point and they are determined to take steps to ascertain who the theives are and if possible bring them to justice.

ACTIVE LIFE ALWAYS.

SKETCH OF THE BOROUGH DEMOCRATIC MAYORALITY CANDIDATE.

Comes From Old Revolutionary Stock and Inherits the Sturdy Character of Forefathers—A Successful Business Man.

Col. John F. Wilson, the Democratic candidate for Mayor of the Borough of North Plainfield, was born in Baltimore, Md., sixty-five years ago. His early life was spent in Northern Alabama where he attended school. His grandfather, Col. Benjamin Wilson, was an officer in Revoluttonary War and was one of the pioneers that settled in Ohio. His father, John H. Wilson, was an officer in the U. S. Navy, and fought with the gallant Decatur in our war with Tripoli. Mr. Wilson, himself, entered a business college and be became an accountant and business man. When the Civil War broke out he joined the southern cause, and had an important command at Gettysburg. Over thirty years ago he entered the coal business in Baltimore. Soon after when the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal Company became insolvent, he was induced to come to New York and take charge of the business. It was only under his management a short time when it was put on a solid footing again.

During the thirty years of his connection with this company the losses of the company is bad debts were less than one-tenth of one per cent, which is a better showing than that of any other company reported. Col. Wilson has lived in North Plainfield for twenty-five years. He is one of the largest taxpayers in Somerset county and the largest taxpayer in North Plainfield.

Mr. Wilson retired from a successful business career in 1892 when he was forty-five years in business, as he had promised himself that he should do this. Since that time he has lived continuously at his home on Greenbrook road, and he is well informed on questions of local importance. He is kindhearted and benevolent as many public an private acts of his attest. He is of commanding presence and a forceful character. He has had a thorough business training and his sound, sturdy judgment qualifies him for any important position that requires a vigorous executive.

MENTAL VIEW OF ROME.

REV. C E. HERRING DELIVERED A LECTURE ABOUT THAT CITY.

The Talk Accompanied by Views Taken of Picturesque City—Lecturer's Words Were of Interest to the Cultivated Audience.

A cultured and appreciative audience gathered at the First Presbyterian church last evening to hear Rev. C. E. Herring give his interesting lecture on "Pagan Rome." There are many things about this ancient city which makes it one of the most widely studied places in the world, and the speaker introduced a number of views showing the most important. His description of the same was listened to with pleasure by the audience.

Mr. Herring in commencing his lecture said that the name of the city was derived supposedly from the original word which means "river," but this was not generally accepted as true. He considered Rome a modern city and spoke of the many young men to be seen who enjoyed the riding on a a bicycle, and they could be seen going out in groups to take a spin.

He spoke about the monument erected to the unknown god, and the view of it displayed a richly carved piece of marble. The view of the Roman forum with its massive pillars and beautiful images was graphically described and the many little details concerning it was a source of pleasure. A strange coincident was related about the vestal virgins, six of whom were chosen to serve thirty years, after which they could return to their homes. They were highly esteemed among the ancient Romans.

Another interesting view was the one showing the chamber where Peter and Paul were supposed to have dwelt. It was curious for its quaintness, and it is said that Paul was confined there, but it is not definitely known whether Peter was with him at the time.

The speaker said that during the first five centuries the people of Rome drank the water from the rivet Tiber, with all its filth There were eighteen aqueducts in the city and some of them were forty miles long. An interesting thing about the Romans was related, and that is that they were great people for bathing. In the city there was one bath which could accommodate 3,600 bathers at one time, and the entire facilities in the city in this line made it possible for 60,000 people to bathe at any one time.

Regarding the police of the city it was stated that they served as firemen as well, and were very vigilant. These officials were given the privileges of the baths with the rest of the Romans.

In speaking about the amphitheatre it was said that the one in Rome would seat 450,000 people at a time, and that there was generally racing from early morning to late at sundown, and the place was always filled with enthusiastic spectators. Along this same line Mr. Herring stated that the Colosseum was considered by many to be the greatest thing that Rome ever had. The people seemed to take a great deal of delight in seeing the Christians destroyed by the brutal methods employed at that time.

Mr. Herring also spoke concerning the golden candlesticks, and he said some people expected to find the original ones, which were used in Jerusalem, in the River Tiber, but as the sand bottom in the river drifted so much it would be almost impossible to lay any great stress on this fact.

An interesting thing about the lecture was the speaker's remarks about the special care exercised by servants in looking after the women. The great amount of work required was in dressing the hair which kept the servants very busy, for a woman generally would want her hair dressed every little while, and every time it would be put up in a different style. A peculiar habit of the women was to cover the face, just before retiring, with dough. During the night the dough would harden and it would be washed off in the morning with milk. In this way they thought they could preserve the complexion.

Mr. Herring's lecture was accompanied with the most beautiful views which fully described his remarks and gave the audience a clear and adequate idea of the subject.

Mr. Herring was assisted by Mr. Rowley, of New York, who operated the slides in a most efficient manner.

The next lecture will be on "Christian Rome," Tuesday evening, April 6th.

Flashes of lightning were seen in the southern horizon at intervals throughout Wednesday evening. They appeared to come from a heavy bank of clouds that lay above the horizon. They were noticed by many.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL DUTIES.

R. K CASE TO BE SUPERINTENDENT OF FIRST BAPTIST SCHOOL.

Annual Meeting Held Last Night When the Reports of Officers Showed that the School Did Much Good During the Year.

The annual meeting of the First Baptist church Sunday-school was held last evening in the lecture-room of the church, at which time officers were elected and the reports for the year were received. Superintendent R. K. Case presided, and called for the reports of the home school and the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school.

Treasurer Frank Jones reported that the receipts during the year had been $2,087.83, and the expenditures $1,977.88, leaving a balance of $109.95.

Secretary Charles Smith stated that the school had grown very much during the past twelve months and all the departmeuts were in the best of condition.

The city missionary, Miss Shinn, reported her work for the past quarter and told something of her efforts in organizing a home department for those who are not interested in Sunday-school work. At present she has about sixty members and the membership is rapidly increasing. The idea of this department is to get the parents sufficiently interested so that they will agree to devote a half hour a week to the study of the lesson; also to get them to contribute something each week to the work and get their children to attend the school. Miss Shinn said that she was very kindly received wherever she called and that she had great cause for encouragement in her work. She reported the collection of $6 36 for the first quarter.

For the missionary committee Mr. McCutchen reported that the work in that department was in excellent condition and, while not as much money had been enpended during the past year as during previous years, the committee was doing good woork in other ways.

Superintendent M. C Dobbins, of the Mt. Olive Sunday-school, submitted his annual report, which showed that at present there is a membership of 208 with an average attendance of 104. During the year there were thirty-five conversions, and there are now ten candidates for baptism. Two deaths were also reported. The collections for the year were $79.09, of which amount $3 56 had been contributed to the state and county Sunday-school work; $1.60 to the Primary Teachers' Union and $1.15 for the minutes of the state association.

These reports were followed by the election of the officers which resulted as follows: Superintendent, R. K. Case; secretary, C. H. Smith; librarian, B. J. Shreve; treasurer, Frank Jones; assistant secretary, Harry Drake; superintendent of the Mt. Olive school, M. C. Dobbins; secretary, Charles Conover.

A social time was then enjoyed by all during which Miss Bessie Blair and L. H. Bigelow, Jr., rendered several solos, and refreshments were served.

His Sixty-third Birthday.

On Wednesday evening last M. J. Cramer, of Lebanon, Hunterdon courty, celebrated the anniversary of his sixty-third birthday, and there was a large family gathering. Mr. Cramer was presented with a very handsome antique oak chair by his relatives. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bower, of this city. There were also guests present from Marksboro, Somerville, New Germantown, and Easton.

Danced in Central Hall.

"The Little Four" Social Club gave their first reception and dance last evening in Central Hall. The affair was a great success and everybody had a good time. Lewis Peterson was floor manager and music was furnished by O'Reilly. The committee consisted of G. M. Anderson, Lewis Peterson, George Peterson, William Groves and Henry Lee.

To Receive An Official Visit.

Senate Lodge, Knights of Honor, held a very interesting meeting last evening, and they received a communication from the Grand Dictator that he would pay them an official visit. The entertainment committee of the lodge was instructed to make arrangements for the occasion which will occur on the evening of March 18th.

A Handsome Front.

The handsome new front of Lederer's store on West Front street was exposed to view yesterday by the contractors, Messrs. Pearson & Gayle. The floor of the store has also been let down to a level with the sidewalk, and when Mr. Lederer gets ready for his opening his store will be one of the finest in the vicinity.

MURDERERS' APPEALS.

JOHNSON AND CLAWSON CASES BEFORE COURT OF APPEALS.

In the Case of Clawson the Decision of the Lower Court Was Confirmed—He Must Hang Unless He is Pardoned.

The murder case of Jacob S. Johnson, the colored preacher of Somerville, was argued before the court of error and appeals, on Wednesday. Johnson is under sentence to be hanged on the charge of murdering Annie Rogers for her money. The crime was committed September 15, 1895, and Johnson was convicted and sentenced to be hanged on March 11, 1896. The case was taken to the Supreme Court and argued at the June term, and the judgment below affirmed.

Messrs Stelle and Meehan appeared for the condemned man and argued that the verdict of the Supreme Court should not be permitted to stand, but should be reversed for the reason that that tribunal held in effect that the County Court act of June 13, 1895, was unconstitutional; that the exclusion of negroes from jury duty, if not done designedly but as a matter of course, is legal, and that the decision of the trial Judge on a challenge to the array was of fact, and not subject to review; that the ninth section of the Jury act, which enacts that the Sheriff shall deliver a list of the jurors summoned to the clerk, who shall file the same, and that no person shall serve as a juror whose name is not contained on said list, if objection be made, is directory and not mandatory and declarative law; that the testimony as to the similarity between impressions of footprints made in a box of sand in the presence of the jury and footprints made months before at the locus in quo, was one of the identity and competent. The footprints sought to be proven and identified, having at the time no existence; that the weight of evidence was not in favor of the prisoner, and was sufficient to sustain the verdict of guilty.

The Court of Errors and Appeals on Monday affirmed the decision of the court below in the case of Elmer Clawson, the boy murderer of Harry Hodgetts. Clawson must now hang unless the Court of Pardons intervens and it is understood that a petition in his favor has already been forwarded to that Court. The petition urges a commutation of his sentence to imprisonment to life.

THE BOROUGH HEALTH.

MUST NOT BE ENDANGERED BY DUMPING REFUSE.

At the Annual Meeting of the Board Last Night the Inspector Was Instructed to Keep a Sharp Outlook for the Violations

The annual meeting of the Borough Board of Health was held last evening at the home of Rev. W. E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, at which time the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Andrew Love; secretary and treasurer, Rev. W. E. Honeyman; counsel, C A. Reed; inspector, W. N. Pangborn.

The reports showed that during the past year about three hundred vaults and cesspools had been inspected and cleaned. The dumping grounds were inspected twice a week in the summer and once a week in the winter. It was stated that the board had experienced a good deal of trouble by the constant practice employed by Plainfielders who persisted in dumping rotten eggs and apples in the borough. The inspector was instructed to watch carefully and if the guilty ones are detected they will be dealt with severely as the law directs. It was also stated that some people were still polluting the stream and close watch is being kept in the hopes that evidence may be secured.

The health of the borough was reported to be in the best of condition and no serious contagious diseases had entered its borders.

The Board ratified the work of the committee, and will purchase the building as soon as all the legal impediments are removed.

Postmaster Sheridan, owner of the building, having died insolvent, the matter cannot be adjusted and the property disposed of before next June.

CHARGED WITH A LIFE.

MRS. FRANCISCO ADMITS RESPONSIBILITY FOR MRS. NOBLE'S DEATH.

In Her Confession Made Yesterday She Implicates Jacob Risberg, Saying He Was Responsible for Mrs. Noble's State

Mrs. Amelia Francisco, in whose house at No. 93 William street, Newark, Mrs. May Noble died on Sunday night under suspicious circumstances, has confessed that she is responsible for her death. Mrs. Francisco was arrested on Wednesday and charged with the crime on the strength of evidence gathered by Detectives Christie and Lewis. Jacob Risberg, of Plainfield, who sent Mrs. Noble to Newark from this city last Friday night, and Robert Hibbans, who took her to the home of Mrs. Francisco at Risberg's request, are implicated in the death of Mrs. Noble by Mrs. Francisco's statement.

As told in yesterday's Press, both were arrested in Newark on Wednesday. Risberg was held and Hibbans, who pretended to tell all he knew of the case, was paroled on his promise to appear when wanted as a witness. After Mrs. Francisco made her statement yesterday he was rearrested and will be held as a witness.

The statement was in the nature of a confession and was made by Mrs. Francisco in the county jail to Detectives Christie and Lewis and Deputy Warden Hampson. She declared that Risberg was responsible for Mrs. Noble's condition and knew that she was to be treated. Hibbans also knew for what purpose he took Mrs. Noble to her house, she said. Mrs. Francisco admits having given her a powerful powder, which caused her death. Risberg and Mrs. Francisco were arraigned in court today and charged jointly with causing Mrs. Noble's death.

Risburg Held Without Bail.

John E. Risburg was arraigned before Judge Mott in the First Criminal Court, Newark, this morning, charged with being jointly responsible with Mrs. Amelia Francisco for the death of Mrs. Mary Nobie, which occurred at the Francisco home, 93 William street, last Sunday night. Risburg was held without bail.

The penalty for the crime alleged is imprisonment for not less than ten years and $1,000 fine. Robert Hibbins, who, at Risburg's request, took Mrs. Noble to the Francisco house, was also held without bail as a witness. Mrs. Francisco's confession of her part in the woman's death rendered an inquest in the case unnecessary. After Mrs. Noble's death Hibbins took the dead woman's gold watch and chain and disposed of them. The detectives recovered the articles where Hibbins admitted he had placed them.

MARRIED QUIETLY

Mrs. Margaret Kirch Becomes the Wife of Lafayette Rosensteihl.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Kirch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kirch, of Somerset street, and Lafayette Rosensteihl, also of Somerset street, was celebrated last evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of Rev. George Hauser, who performed the ceremony. Miss May Conover acted as maid of honor and Henry Bohl was the best man. The bride and groom are both well known young people of the borough and their friends wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life. Mr. and Mrs. Rosensteihl will reside in the borough.

Four Signed the Pledge.

The meeting at Reform Hall last evening was one of the best held in some time. W. C Smith conducted the exercises and made remarks appropriate to the occasion, as did also several other members of the club. There were many features introduced and the programme was an entertaining one. Vocal and instrumental selections were given by W. C. Smith, Jr., and several readings by the members helped to pass an evening of pleasure. Four persons signed the pledge at the close of the meeting and five new members were elected.

Evening of Music and Reading.

An evening of music and readings will be given at the Plainfield M. E. church for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society, on Friday evening, March 19th, in Vincent chapel. Miss Allen, of Hackettstown, will be the reader; Mrs. Collier will be the soloist; Charles Lewis, basso; Miss May Whitney, Miss Livinia French, pianists; and Clarence Mills, violinists.

Promised to Do Better.

William P. Jeroleman, of Liberty Corner, who was taken to the Somerville jail last Saturday on the charge of cruelty to animals, has been released from custody on his promise to treat his horse better.

—The usual weekly dance of the Scandia Society will take place tomorrow evening.

THE INAUGURAL BALL

Last Night's Function Was a Brilliant Success.

EXCELLED ALL PREVIOUS EFFORTS

The Decorations Were Magnificent and Gorgeous in the Extreme—Reception of the Presidental Party—Mrs. McKinley's Gown.

Washington, March 5.—The inaugural ball has become a notable feature of the festivities connected with the installation of the president of the United States, but in its earlier days no such elaboration was attempted as that which marked the grand function last night. This crowning event of the inaugural ceremonies was of a vastly different character from the first affair of the kind held in Washington. It was on Madison's accession to the presidential office in 1809 that that the precedent which led to the event of last night was established. With few omissions, the inaugural ball has occurred regularly every four years. So far as the new president is concerned it is a perfunctory occasion but it gives an opportunity to the ladies of his family, or those who for the time being are associated with him in the public mind, to display elegant toilets that have been planned since the day of the election. The first inaugural ball to be given in the pension office building, where Major McKinley's friends assembled in his honor last night, was held on the day President Cleveland began his first term, March 4, 1885. Since then the other similar affairs have been held there. The completion of the magnificent new library of congress suggested its use for the McKinley social festival, but a serious and determined opposition resulted. Major McKinley did not express any preference in the matter until the sentiment of the public on the subject had been thoroughly ventilated and then made a hint that he did not wish the library building to be used. That no more admirable place could have been selected for the affair than the pension building was proved last evening.

Magnificent Decorations.

Early in the evening the various committees in charge of the ball had perfected their arrangements and were on hand to carry them out. Just before 8 o'clock, the hour set for the function to begin, the current governing the electric lights was turned on and the wide, broad and high interior was transformed into fairyland. From dome and gallery and from pillar, post and rafter thousands of luminous gleams came forth bringing into the view the results that an army of decorators had labored so long to obtain. More than a hundred thousand yards of cloth had been used in the drapery; six thousand incandescent and fifty arc lights had been wired and established in their proper places, and forty thousand roses, not to speak of yards upon yards of smilax and other foliage plants had been arranged in the most artistic manner.

Triumph of the Decorators' Art.

At the east end of the court was the triumph of the decorators' art. It was a representation in golden challie cloth of the golden gate at the World's Fair. Here Victor Herbert's celebrated band held forth during the evening playing the promenade music between dances. The golden gate was constructed high above the heads of the participants in the ball on a platform extending from the first gallery fifty feet out into the court. Whatever seemed artifical in the scheme of decoration was relieved by the profusion of flowers and greens. Big palms sprouted forth from the bases of the main pillars and swayed on stands arranged about them high above the heads of the participants in the pleasures of the function. In the center of the hall a rustic fountain in action made a pleasant picture.

Not an Exclusive Function.

The inaugural ball is not an exclusive function. Everybody of respectability who cares to attend can do so by paying five dollars for a ticket. Naturally the attendance was large and shortly after 8 o'clock the floor was well filled. Members of the diplomatic corps in their official uniforms, officers of the regular army, members of the staffs of state governors, generals, colonels and a host of other titled militiamen together with black coated civilians made a picturesque display of socially inclined humanity.

Arrival of the Presidential Party.

The appearance of President and Mrs. McKinley and the Vice-President and Mrs. Hobart was the feature of the evening. It was 9:40 o'clock when President and Mrs. McKinley, accompanied by Private Secretray Porter and Charles J. Bell, chairman of the inaugural committee, arrived. They were met at the entrance by a committee and escorted to the reception room. A number of distinguished people were then presented to the president and his wife. A little later Mr. and Mrs. Hanna, Gen. Osborne and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Abner McKinley arrived. Vice-President Hobart's arrival followed that of the president. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hobart. After a brief reception in the apartments assigned to him, he and Mrs. Hobart joined the presidential party and assisted in receiving the invited guests. To satisfy the demands of the crowd downstairs the president and vice-president, accompanied by their wives, walked out on the balcony overlooking the floor. They were repeatedly cheered. The distinguished quartette bowed their acknowledgements, the band played an inspiring air and the ball was fairly opened.

Mrs. McKinley's and Mrs. Hobart's Gowns.

The gown worn by Mrs. McKinley was very handsome. The material was what is known as cloth of silver. The ground work was of white satin, heavily woven with silver thread in a conventionalized lily design. The train, which was plain, full and sweeping, measured two yards and a half in length. On the left side it was open over a panel of seed pearls embroidered on satin. Mrs. Garret A. Hobart was attired in a white silk gown with a corsage of unique design.

Sale of Wine Prohibited.

The resolution of the inaugural ball committee prohibiting the sale of wine at the ball was adhered to rigidly. The only place where wine was served in the pension building was at a reception given in a large room at the east end of the building, adjoining the general supper room, where Carl G. Essner, the caterer of the ball, personally entertained the president's party, members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps, Gen. Miles and staff, National Chairman Hanna and party and other distinguished guests, including leading members of the senate and house. Prior to this reception an elaborate supper was served in this private room, where the president and the vice-president and their ladies and a few others, twenty-five in all, were seated at a magnificently decorated table.

Magnificent Illuminations.

Washington, March 5.—The illuminations last night surpassed any former display in Washington and the fireworks were exceptionally fine. For the first time in the history of the government an order issued by the retiring cabinet officers caused every electric and gas light in the great department buildings to be lighted, with brilliant results. The classic roof-lines of the treasury were outlined with incandescent bulbs, a huge American shield ornamented the state department facade, and from the highest elevation of the war department a sixty-foot garrison flag floated aflame against the black sky illuminated by the powerful searchlights.

BOSTON'S GAS EXPLOSION.

More Than Two Score Injured, Besides the Loss of Eight Lives.

Boston, March 5.—The victims of yesterday's subway gas explosion at Tremont and Boylston streets now number six dead, two fatally, and two score, more or less, injured. The dead are: Rev. W. A. Start, bursar, of Tufts college; conductor G. D. Bigelor, Miss A. Matilda Bates, Benjamin Downing, hack driver and William E. Vinal. The explosion came like the boom of a cannon just as the cars were almost in the center of the space and was followed by smoke, which seemed to arise from the very bowels of the earth, and then flames shot upward and blazed in the midst of the thoroughfares where there is more travel than anywhere else in a given section of the city. Horses lay dead on the pavement; panic-stricken passengers were endeavoring to escape with their lives from the interior of burning cars, and steam fire engines were on the scene pouring tons of water upon the rapidly disappearing electric vehicles. The glass in the buildings was shattered along Tremont street, as far south as Lagrange street and north beyond the Tremont theatre, east to Washington street and west almost to Park square.

The Queen's Jubilee.

London, March 5.—The secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, replying to a question on the subject, stated that six colonial premiers had accepted the invitation to visit London this year upon the occasion of the queen's diamond jubilee. The Canadian premier, Wilfred Laurier, Mr. Chamberlain added, had requested that he be allowed to consult with his colleagues. In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain remarked that the invitation met with a hearty reception.

Cuban Sympathizers Rejoice.

New York, March 5.—The sympathizers of the Cuban insurgents celebrated the inauguration of President McKinley last night by burning an effigy of Gen. Weyler in Winyah Park, near Pelham. The action of the villagers is the result of agitation by women who are connected with the Cuban league.

Appointed by Gov. Wolcott.

Boston, March 5.—Gov. Wolcot has appointed George W. Johnson of Brookfield a member of the state house commission, vice John D. Long resigned.

A VALUABLE DOLL.

Was the Means of Making Peace Between Gen. Cook and the Apaches.

That dolls can serve a purpose beside amusing a child is shown by the following anecdote told by Major John G. Bourke, formerly on the staff of General Crook, the great Indian fighter.

It was in Arizona, while the general was trying to put a band of Apaches back on the reservation. He had been chasing them for a month without success, and he did not think it right to openly attack them, since they had committed no overt act, although no one knew how soon they would.

One day a party of soldiers captured a little Indian girl and brought her to the fort. She was quiet all day, saying not a word, but her black beads of eyes watched everything. When night came she broke down and sobbed as a white child would.

The fort was in despair until Mr. Bourke had an idea. From the adjutant's wife he borrowed a doll that was a beautiful creation, that had come to the adjutant's little girl the previous Christmas. When the young Apache was made to understand that it was hers to keep, her sobs ceased and she fell asleep.

When morning came the doll was still clasped in her arms. She played with it all day, and seemingly all thought of ever getting back to the tribe, under the spell of enchantment placed over her by the doll, had left her.

Not so the officers of the post, however, for the thought of having to keep the girl without having the tribe to make some inquiries as to her welfare bothered them to no inconsiderable extent. Several days passed with no sign of overtures being made by the tribe. Finally, in despair the girl, with the doll still in her possession, was sent back to the tribe.

When the girl reached the tribe, with her proud prize tightly grasped in her hands, she created a sensation among the Apaches, and her mother later went back to the post with her.

She was received in a hospitable manner and kindly treated, and the effect of her visit was such, that through her overtures were made to the tribe, with the result that soon afterward the band moved back on the reservation.

The Speedy Razorback.

A wild boar hunt was the exciting sport a number of the young men of South Jacksonville had looked forward to last week with a great deal of pleasure. The wild boar was a razorback hog. He was installed in a pen and fed with red pepper, gunpowder and dynamite, and became as fierce as his reputed cousin of the Black Forest.

On the day of the hunt a cavalcade assembled at the meeting place armed with javelins and spears made of bamboo, with hunting knives tied to the end.

The wild boar was liberated and trotted away into the woods. He squealed a half-contented, inquisitive, where's-the-rest-of-my-family sort of squeal, with no thought of the pursuers, who spurred and whipped their horses into furious pursuit.

The wild boar trotted along—just simply and coolly trotted. He didn't look as if he were going, but the gait soon distanced his pursuers, and they were robbed of the pleasure of "jabbing" him full of holes.—Florida Times-Union.

A Pig's Long Fast.

A strange story comes from Cummings, S. D., and is vouched for as being absolutely true. Charles Davis, living near Cummings, lost several pigs during the first severe storm of the winter, which occurred on Thanksgiving Day. Several attempts were made to find them, but without any success. Mr. Davis managed to locate one of them with a long pole, with which he was digging into a large snowbank. The snowdrift was opened and a unique hog-pen discovered, with a solid roof of icicles. The pig which it contained was far from being dead, and, excepting the loss of considerable flesh and all of its tail, which had been frozen off, appeared to be none the worse for its long fast of fifty-seven days.—Cor. St. Louis Press.

It Was Her Last Cigar.

Some time ago Olga Nethersole, wishing to give realism to a rehearsal of Carmen, insisted in spite of a protest from her stage manager, on smoking a cigar.

"As the author said Carmen was to smoke a cigar, that is what Carmen is going to do," declared Miss Nethersole.

Her face grew pale.

With determination she puffed the third time. But then the cigar was dropped, and she fled to her dressing room.

There was no more rehearsing that day.

That evening and thereafter Carmen smoked cigarettes.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

WAS ASTIR BRIGHT AND EARLY

Will See Only His Official Advisers for Several Days Yet — Important Foreign Missions the First To Be Filled.

Washington, March 5. — President McKinley was at his desk in the executive mansion bright and early this morning and attended to some personal correspondence before the arrival of Private Secretary Porter, after which the work of putting things in shape for the transaction of public business was begun. The new secretary of state was among the early callers. The president has much urgent preliminary work on hand and only his close advisers will succeed in seeing him for the next few days and the horde of office-seekers now in the city will save shoe leather and car fare by remaining at their hotels or lodging places for the present. After the confirmation of the cabinet members by the senate this afternoon the more important foreign missions will engross the attention of the president and the appointments will be made as fast as possible. After this is accomplished President McKinley will probably enjoy a day or two of rest. Mrs. McKinley is confined to her room to-day. She is ill and the excitement of yesterday's functions has greatly fatigued her. Mother McKinley has not suffered any from the events of yesterday and is spending her time getting acquainted with the inns and outs of the executive mansion.

HANNA SWORN IN.

Senate Convened at Noon To-day To Confirm Cabinet Nominations.

Washington, March 5.—The senate convened at noon to-day with Vice-president Hobart presiding, all of the new senators sworn in yesterday afternoon being present. After the reading of the minutes the credentials of M. A. Hanna were presented and he was then sworn in as senator to fill the place made vacant by the resignation of John Sherman. The new senators besides Mr. Hanna, are fifteen in number and the old senators who have been re-elected twelve. The new senators, are: Edmund W. Pettus, Alabama; Alexander S. Clay, Georgia; Henry Heitfeldt, Idaho; William E. Mason, Illinois; Charles W. Fairbanks, Indiana W. O. Harris, Kansas; Samuel D. McEnery, Louisiana; George L. Wellington, Maryland; Thomas C. Platt, New York; Joseph B. Foraker, Ohio; Boies Penrose, Pennsylvania; Joseph H Earle, South Carolina; George Turner Washington; John C. Spooner, Wisconsin, and Joseph L. Rawlins, Utah. The old senators, reelected: Allison, Gallinger, Hansbrough, Jones, Nevada; Jones, Arkansas; Kyle, Morrill, Perkins, Platt, Connecticut; Pritchard Teller and Vest. The first work to be taken up will probably be the confirmation of the new cabinet.

FAILURE OF APPROPRIATIONS.

The Extra Session of Congress Will Now Have Unexpected Work.

Washington, March 5.—Five of the annual appropriation bills failed to become laws owing to the refusal of President Cleveland to approve them. The sundry civil, the naval, the Indian and the agricultural bills reached the White House so late that Mr. Cleveland was unable to give them that close scrutiny upon which he insisted. He therefore refused to sign any of them. The refusal of the president to approve these bills compels a more thorough organization of the house of representatives than was intended by Speaker Reed. Under the rules of the house the Indian bill is considered by the Indian committee, the naval bill by the naval committee and the agricultural bill by the agricultural committee. Of the bills that failed only the sundry civil was reported by the committee on appropriations. To this extent the house will have to be organized by the appointment of committees more general in their character than was intended by Speaker Reed. No new estimates will be needed and the bills will probably be rushed through the house at the earliest possible moment. Upon his arrival at the capitol the bill to provide for a commission to create a labor commission was presented to President Cleveland, but acting upon the advice of Secretary Carlisle he declined to sign it owing to the impossibility of ascertaining what the provisions of the bill contemplated.

Allegheny College Celebrates.

Death of an Old Telegraph Operator.

Pittsburg, March 5.—Maj. Marion M. Markle, for more than a half century connected with the telegraph business, most of the time in this vicinity, died last night after an illness of several weeks.

Greenwich, Coun., March 5.—Andrew Carnegie's condition is improved this morning.

Rome, March 5.—The chamber of deputies has just been dissolved.

WEYLER IN HAVANA

His Sudden Return from the Field Causes Astonishment.

NO POPULAR DEMONSTRATION GIVEN

Believed by Many That the Change in Administration at Washington May Have Had Much To Do with His Unexpected Return.

Havana, March 5. — Capt.-Gen. Weyler arrived here last evening on the transport Legazpi from Ceibarien, province of Santa Clara. He was accompanied by the members of his staff. The arrival of the party was not expected so soon, and when the signals on Morro Castle announced that the Legazpi was to the eastward, bound in the news spread rapidly and caused somewhat of a scare among the Spaniards, who could not imagine why the captain-general should have hurried to reach Havana. Gen. Weyler landed at the Muelle de Caballeria, which is but a short distance from the palace. Here he was received by the Marquis de Ahumada, who has been acting in his absence, and other authorities. There was no great crowd present, and the scene was vastly different from that which characterized his return from the "pacification" of the province of Pinar del Rio. Instead of riding through crowds of cheering admirers he walked from the waterside to the palace, where he soon retired to his apartments, without having received any popular welcome. This was due, perhaps, to his unexpected arrival, which did not allow of any official preparations being made to welcome him. No reason is given for Gen. Weyler's return to Havana. It is generally well known that his campaign in Matanzas and Santa Clara has been an ignominious failure, and that while he was claiming to have compelled the insurgents to retreat eastward to Puerto Principe they had, in fact, dodged past his columns and pursued their way westward. It is thought that the change in administration in Washington may have much, if not all, to do with his return, as he has been led to believe that President McKinley will not sanction the illegal arrest and detention of American citizens, which in many cases passed without protest from the Cleveland government.

READING EARNINGS.

Operations of the Railway and Coal and Iron Companies for January.

Philadelphia, March 5.—The statements of the operations of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway and Coal & Iron companies for January show that the gross receipts of the railway were $1,538,426, and the operating expenses $887,853. Improvements and renewals aggregating $39,861 deducted from the profit in operating leaves a surplus for the month of $610,711, a decrease of $87,793 as compared with the surplus for January 1896. The gross receipts of the Coal & Iron company were $1,694,065 and the operating expenses $1,790,965, causing a loss in operating of $96,899. The total deficit for the month was $134,257, a decrease of $156,598 as compared with January, 1896.

KING GEORGE'S DEFIANCE.

Ready for War with Turkey.—The Powers Impotent in the Interior.

Paris, March 5.—Le Jour publishes an interview which its correspondent at Athens has just had with King George of Greece. His majesty is quoted as saying that Greece will yield to no admonition, and is ready for war with Turkey. The powers, the king is said to have added, might blockade Greece, but they could do nothing in the interior. The Greeks were prepared to fight to the death, he continued, and Macedonia was ripe for revolt.

Greeks Preparing for War.

Athens, March 5.—The warlike preparations here continue without abatement. The reserves of 1891, 1890, 1889 and 1888 have been summoned to join the colors and they are responding with alacrity. All seem imbued with the desire for open hostilities against the Turks and the greatest enthusiasm is reported everywhere. It is stated that there will be a general mobilization of the Greek forces later. It is reported that the Turkish troops on the Greek frontier are commanded by German officers of the Ottoman army, and this adds to the bitterness felt against Germany for her attitude in the present trouble.

Mrs. Thurston Acquitted.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 5.—The jury in the case of Rachel Eliza Thurston, charged with the murder of her husband by administering poison to him in November of 1895, has returned a verdict of not guilty. On a former trial she was convicted and the verdict was set aside because of the misconduct on the part of the jury in using intoxicants during the deliberations.

Blown to Pieces with Nitro-Glycerine.

Buffalo, March 5.—A frightful nitroglycerine explosion occurred on Albert Pike's farm at Orchard Park last evening. Pike was instantly killed and a laborer from Bradford, Pa., name unknown, was blown to pieces. The building in which the nitro-glycerine was stored was completely destroyed.

BOROUGH NOMINATIONS.

REPUBLICAN.	DEMOCRATIC.
For Mayor, Charles Place.	For Mayor, John F. Wilson.
For Councilmen, Tunis J. Carey, Murray Burtis.	For Councilmen, Edwin T. Douglass, George W. Bird.
For Ju'ce of the Pe'ce, Dr. J. H. Cooley.	For Ju'ce of the Pe'ce, [illegible]

For Com. of Appeal, Alexander Thorn.	For Com. of Appeal, Elston M. French.
For Constable, James Line.	For Constable, David J. Carney.

BUT LITTLE DEMOCRATIC MONEY.

According to Col. Price, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, the Democratic party machine went through the national campaign last fall on $2,600—all the money at the committee's command. This means little more than an average of $100 for each county in the State. Of the amount subscribed, Senator Smith gave $1,000 and the rest was the result of more than 600 appeals to Democrats all over the State. According to Col. Price, the Republicans burned more money in red fire in a single demonstration in New York than the Democrats had in the whole campaign in New Jersey.

A NEWSPAPER CHANGE.

The New Brunswick Fredonian has been undergoing frequent changes of management of late, and the latest to try a hand at making a successful newspaper is W. Scott Snyder, who acted as assistant secretary to the Republican State Committee last fall. In the sense of providing a lively newspaper the Fredonian has been a success for the past year, but as a paying enterprise it is said to be a woefully failure.

GOOD ROADS CHEAPER.

The New Brunswick Home News calls attention to the fact that it now costs but 50 cents per square yard for macadam road building, while a few years ago the cost of such roads was $1.07 per square yard.

REPUBLICAN DISCONTENT.

There seems to be a good deal of discontent among the Republicans of the borough over their ticket and the Democrats are thereby counting on more than their own party's support.

A NEW DIRECTOR.

Curtis M. Thorpe an Officer of the Y. M. C. A.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association held last evening the following men were present: W. D. Murray, E. L. Bonny, H. O Newman, James W. Jackson, A. B. Beers, Nelson Runyon, Stephen Cahoone, Henry M. Maxson, A. C. LaBoyteaux.

The Educational Committee reported the work of the Educational Department for the month. There were 28 sessions of the seven educational classes held during the month. The rooms committee reported that the association rooms had been used during the past month by fourteen different outside parties.

Curtis M. Thorpe was elected a member of the Board of Directors to fill a vacancy in the Board.

The Rooms Committee reported that the globe and fixtures for the light to be in front of the building had arrived and would probably be put up in a day or two.

—The members of Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F., met in the Babcock building, last evening, and received one new candidate for membership. This order is rapidly increasing in membership, and bids fare to become one of the strongest in the state.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Miss Anna Titsworth is visiting among friends in Rhode Island.

David Lord and family moved into the old Mollinson homestead at South Plainfield today.

C. W. Blain says there is little or no frost in the ground, and he intended to plough for early corn today.

Almost every boy in town now has a pocket full of marbles, for the season for marble playing is now open.

The engagement is announced of Miss Jennie Thompson, of New Haven, Conn., to Charles Milliken, of this place.

Little Katie Marienscheck gathered big bunch of beautiful and fragrant violets yesterday, about the first of the season.

The little steam whistle on the corn cob factory proves to be a great convenience to mechanics, who now start and stop work by its accurate time for tooting.

No encouraging reports were sent out, yesterday, concerning the condition of Rev. S. F. Custard. Last night he seemed to be gradually growing weaker.

A party of fourteen Dunellenites went to Plainfield last evening by the trolley, to attend the Music Hall performance. They were well pleased and are now talking of getting up a New York theatre party for some evening next week.

Col. Grover and wife, who gave such an admirable entertainment in Whittier School Tuesday evening, entitled "Reminiscences of the Late War," with stereopticon accompaniment, will repeat the entertainment at New Market tomorrow night.

The street lights were burning here at 4:30 o'clock yesterday while the sun was still up. Heretofore much difficulty has been experienced in getting them to burn at all. But the company is giving far better service now, and it is thought that hereafter there will be no cause for complaint.

One hay carter from beyond Millstone came to grief just west of Dunellen yesterday. The roads were very rough, and by accidentally running into a deep rut in the roadway the load "shifted." It required an hour's hard work to get the hay righted and before the driver could proceed on to Newark.

A monster grey and black eagle, shot near Clinton, Hunterdon County has been artistically mounted by T. W. Sisty and placed on exhibition in Adam Dealaman's show window. The bird measured some five feet from tip to tip and had just gathered up a full grown rabbit and a chicken when dis covered and shot.

A union temperance meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Presbyterian church, Sudday evening. As this day will be known as railroad men's day in the church, the meeting will be addressed by engineer William Carey, of the New Jersey Central Railroad, running between Newark and New York.

The voters of the Dunellen school district will hold their annual meeting for the election of five members of the Board of Education in the Whittier school building on Tuesday evening, March 16th, at 8 o'clock. At the meeting there will also be submitted to the voters for their opposal or rejection to the raising of the following taxes: For current school expenses, $2,200; repairs to buildings, $500; text books and supplies, $300. These amounts, it is believed, will be voted with but few dissenting votes.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., spent yesterday with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radford of West Front street.

The Democratic primary will be held in Bucket and Company's house this Friday night, and some surprises are promised the voters.

Miss Marion Blimm, aged five years, and little Madaline Blimm, her sister, aged two years, are both ill, and Dr. Westcott has been attending them.

Fred Clark received his appoint ment as postmaster here several days ago, but his commission did not arrive until yesterday noon. Mr. Clark will probably retain his efficient force of clerks for a time, at least.

Here, as in other parts of the State, the Jr. O. U. A. M. is making itself felt, both politically and socially. Past Councilor Chas. Frantz, of Twilight Council, is slated for the nomination of Town Committeeman. Mr. Frantz is spoken of in the highest term, and his nomination is considered equivalent to his election

Whitfield Mundy and Peter Mutchwaner, of New Brunswick, rode over on their wheels yesterday and had a light lunch with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Turton. They reported considerable head wind from the west and in some places the roads were frozen and impassible. The county roads, were, however, in fair condition and smooth.

Clarence Lambert and John Singer, the latter of Westfield, shot a match at live birds on the grounds of the Climax Gun Club, at Benner's Hotel, Wednesday afternoon. There was a good delegation of shooters present during the afternoon, who shot in sweepstate contest. Lambert's score was 11 and Singer's 14. A considerable amount of money is said to have changed hands on the result.

There is said to be two factions in the Republican party here at present, and neither one knows what the other is doing. One faction claims that the older and more experienced heads want to hold office for life with a pension attachment, and the younger element want to elect their officers, who are in favor of decided improvements at the Plains. Just what the outcome will be remains to be seen at the primary this evening.

Joseph Grieves, officiated.

The political situation is still the sole topic of conversation. The exhibition of the sewer assessmunt maps is acting like a boomerang for the G. O. P. stronghold. Added to this is the dissatisfaction on the part of a great many of the voters in being called on, or expected to vote for a cut and dried ticket, railroaded through the primary. They claim that they came to the primary to make nominations and not to endorse a caucus nominee, and many of them aver that they will not do so. The latest phase of it now is, according to rumor, that a petition is being circulated with the intention of calling a public meeting and nominating a citizens' ticket. It requires the signature of twenty-five voters and it is said that double that number can be secured in a few days. Neither party seems to be satisfied with its ticket. Christopher Harden, who heads the Democratic ticket, is well thought of, but is not popular in his own party, it is alleged, because he is said to have come out for McKinley last fall. They are confident of electing the assessor, John M. C. Marsh, but for the rest of the ticket there is not now much hope, unless the dissatisfied Republicans carry out this threat and nominate a third ticket.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP

NORDICA'S AGE RENDERS PHYSICAL CULTURE NECESSARY.

Guilbert's Modesty is Not Displayed in Her Interviews—Viola Allen Gives a Glimpse Behind the Scenes—Bernhardt and the Legion of Honor.

To preserve her slimness, Madame Nordica is continually sparring with a stout inflatable bag, which cannot resent any amount of punching. Miss Emma Eames goes in for gymnastics. Another well known operatic singer at present a statuesque creature, but who has had distinct warnings of a possible calamity in the shape of embonpoint, has taken to "bowling." In addition, all these women have regularly to undergo massage.

In an interview, just before she sailed for Europe, Yvette Guilbert said: "For several years past I have been explaining to people why I don't go on the stage. 'Why don't you act?' I have been asked by the critics in Paris until I am tired of answering the question. Now I propose to try. I can do it even if I don't succeed at it at first. I could not sing six years ago as I do now. I began very modestly. One doesn't learn everything in a day. No artist really great ever stepped on the stage and was perfect from the commencement. I may not be an actress when I commence, but I know I can become one. A year ago I thought that I should never go on the dramatic stage. I was unique, and I dreaded the risk of failure, but I feel that I can make the attempt now. My reputation is established, and I am rich. A failure can not affect me very seriously now. Besides, I won't fail. I shall succeed, may be not at first, but eventually." Yvette said that in New Orleans she had for the first time enjoyed the experience of singing before an audience which was as much in sympathy with her as the audiences that listen to her in Paris. She is taking back to Europe enough money to enable her to stay in Europe and let this country lie fallow for a year. She is said to have made on this trip between $30,000 and $40,000. The lack of appreciation which attended her efforts did not diminish her profits. They were arranged before she returned here. That is the reason they happen to be as great as they are.

Viola Allen has been writing to the New York papers about the seamy side of stage life, and the burden of her story seems to be that monotony of the dreariest sort is the curse of existence behind the scenes. On this subject she says: "If you are in a stock company your relative positions in the various plays are very much the same. Miss A. must at times during a five years' engagement get weary of being constantly proposed to or jilted by Mr. B., or Mr. B. must become most excusably tired of proposing to or being jilted by Miss A. six nights and a matinee year in and year out. I have often wondered myself that we have not, in sheer desperation, defied the author some night, and when I was proposed to, instead of consenting to marry the hero, have flatly refused him by way of variety. If I had done so it might have broken up the play, but it would have been an immense relief. Did you never have a nervous desire to say or do something that you ought not to, to laugh, when at a funeral or the like? Well, that is the way you feel sometimes during the long run of a play."

The proposal to bestow the Legion of Honor medal upon Sarah Bernhardt is bitterly opposed in some of the French papers. One writer, in reply to the plea that Mme. Bernhardt deserves a reward for her struggles in the cause of art, says that in reality the "great Sarah" has struggled, "not for her art alone, but for a deafening, turbulent, tedious, implacable and greedy notoriety. Always and everywhere, quand meme, we find her 'struggling.' By means of her hats, by means of her toilets, by means of her dogs, her negroes, her poets, the tame panthers she brings back from her travels, she is ever before us struggling." This is, of course, perfectly true, but it does not constitute a reason why an actress of genius should not be decorated.

ROSE FANCHON.

How He Saved Himself.

A spring poet sent some verses entitled "Why do I live?" to a California journal, and signed them "Bully Boy." The verses were not published, but the following paragraph appeared in the "Answers to Correspondents"—"'Bully Boy.'—We cannot use your contribution, but we can answer your conundrum. You live simply because you sent your verses instead of bringing them."

SKILFUL SURGERY.

ASTONISHING RESULTS OF A NEW PROCESS IN BONESETTING.

By it Patients are Able to be About Within Twenty-four Hours After Sustaining a Fractured Limb—A Practical Test of the Ambulatory Bandage.

That a man who is unlucky enough to fall and break a leg doesn't any longer have to spend weeks imprisoned in bed waiting for the fractured limb to mend but may be up and about sometimes within twenty-four hours after the accident was made plain to the doctors assembled in the surgical section of the Academy of Medicine in West Forty-third street, New York. A workman who fallen off a scaffold a fortnight before walked about the room without the aid of crutches and with only the slightest perceptible limp, although his leg, which had been broken, was still done up in plaster of paris.

The ambulatory system has been in use in Berlin for some time. It is simple. In the case of the fracture of either of the bones of the lower leg the patient is placed in a recumbent position and the injured bones are set in place and bound securely with an ordinary muslin roller bandage. No cotton whatever is used in the binding. Outside of this roller a plaster of Paris gauze bandage is wound. This hardens and leaves the limb incased in a plaster cast which generally extends from the toe tip to the knee joint. It holds the broken parts of the limb immovable, and hardens rapidly. The best quality of cast and bandage is always employed, and the patient is encouraged to walk without crutches, after twenty-four hours. Care is taken, of course, to avoid all possibility of inflammation setting in. The reason the patient can walk so soon is that the weight of the body is supported upon the upper part of the ambulatory cast, which acts as a crutch.

Dr. Fiske cited a case where a patient 72 years old had been able to walk within eight days after the application of the ambulatory splint. The healing of the bones goes on while the patient is walking about just as if he were lying down, as the fractured limb is in no way disturbed by the exercise. In fact, the reuniting of the fractured parts is hastened, and the stiffness of joints resulting from the old method of keeping a patient in bed and quiet is greatly reduced.—New York Sun.

A SOUTHERN SHERIFF.

Wishing to Save the Jail, He Made No Resistance to the Lynching.

"Speaking of lynchings," said Jenkins, "reminds me of an incident that occurred in one of the country parishes of Mississippi several years ago. I was making a trip through a certain section of that state when the community was startled by a peculiarly atrocious murder and assault. The affair took the people by the ears, and for a few days, or until the culprit was captured, there was a perfect storm of fury on the part of the inhabitants of the county in which the murder took place. The culprit was a negro, and it happened that the parish officials were the first to lay hands on the fellow. He was conveyed, with some show of secrecy, to the jail and locked up. Well, it didn't take long for the news to spread, and then the people, as usual, began to make ready for the lynching. They did not seem to consider the matter that the negro was in the hands of the county—not a bit of it. I was curious to see how the affair was to turn out, and some little while before the mob started for the jail I set out for that institution. When I reached the location, imagine my surprise when I found the sheriff calmly seated on the front steps of the jail with a rifle in his hands. Alongside of him was the negro, with fear depicted on his face. Both were watching the road. Approaching the sheriff, I asked him why he did not have the negro locked up and if he didn't know the mob was coming to lynch him.

"'Oh, yes,' he answered, 'I know the boys are coming, and that's why I've got the "nigger" ready. You see,' he remarked, apologetically, 'I know the fellers are bound to have the "nigger," and then the jail is brand new.'

"While I was pondering over this reply the sheriff added, 'And it would be a pity to have the new doors broken up.'"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

An American Luxury.

"The thing I especially enjoyed after a somewhat lengthy sojourn on the other side was a real genuine American grate fire," commented the traveler. "In London I felt as if I was burning something very precious with the landlady charging sixpence a scuttle for coal. I remember sitting around a stove in an English hotel. The weather was cold and the coal in the stove bunched together. I took a poker and stirred it up.

"'That makes it burn faster,' commented the landlord, gravely.

"'That's just what I want,' I replied.

"A red-faced, hearty Englishman broke in: 'You Americans are decidedly thin-blooded, don't you know.'"

Unpardonable Affront.

"I hear that Goldy is going to take a company to Cuba and help the insurgents. He thinks there's rich plunder in it."

"Doesn't surprise me a bit. I found that he was a free booter when I asked him for his daughter."—Detroit Free Press.

"When a man loves, he asks for hope, when he marries, he asks for faith; when he meets his father-in-law, he asks for charity."

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Subject for March 7—The Ethiopian Convert, Acts viii., 26-40. Golden Text: "Then Philip Opened His Mouth, and Began at the Same Scripture, and Preached Unto Him Jesus." Acts viii, 35.

26. "Arise and go toward the south." Thus spake the angel of the Lord to Philip while he was in the midst of this great work in Samaria. He is sent from what seems to be a very great work out into the desert, and he is not told why he is sent. Simple and whole hearted obedience is the one thing required of a servant or a soldier. Angels that excel in strength do His commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word. They do His pleasure (Ps. ciii, 20, 21). If we are good servants and soldiers, we will hold ourselves according to II Sam. xv, 15; I Chron. xxviii, 21; II Sam. iii, 36.

27. "And he arose and went, and, behold, a man of Ethiopia." Philip sees what may be the object of his mission, one man, an Ethiopian, the treasurer of Queen Candace, who had been to Jerusalem to worship. The time will yet come when Ethiopia shall stretch out her hands to God, when from beyond the rivers of Ethiopia suppliants shall bring an offering to the Lord (Zep. iii, 10; Ps. lxviii, 31).

28. "Sitting in his chariot, read Esaias the prophet." What he had heard or seen at Jerusalem we are not told, but we may well imagine that he had heard somewhat concerning those who had filled Jerusalem with their doctrine and concerning Him of whom they spake. He must have been an earnest seeker after light, for God sent Philip all the way from Samaria to be his teacher and to lead him to Christ.

29. "Then the Spirit said to Philip, Go near and join thyself to this chariot." Whatever Philip may have thought he now knew the object of his mission. His trained ear heard the message of the Spirit, and without hesitation or question he obeys. I believe it is possible to live always and fully under the control of the Spirit and have God working in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure. If this is our whole hearted desire, He will fulfill the desire of them that fear Him (Ps. cxlv, 19).

30. "Understandest thou what thou readest?" With this question Philip introduced himself to the man in the chariot, having run to him as soon as he was commanded by the Spirit. When the Lord sees any one intent upon understanding His word He will take pains to instruct him. Gabriel was sent from heaven to Daniel to make him understand and to show him the truth (Dan. x, 14, 21; xi, 2). The holy Spirit has been given to every believer to teach and to guide into all truth (John xiv, 26; xvi, 13).

31. "How can I, except some man should guide me?" Thus graciously answered the treasurer, and he invited Philip to step into the chariot with him. How smoothly everything goes when the Spirit is working! Philip, sent by the Spirit, finds one in whom the Spirit has been working, and therefore one ready to be taught. The Spirit might have taught the eunuch Himself without the help of any man (I John ii, 27), but God saw fit to use human instrumentality. It is blessed to be used of God! Only be willing, and He will use you.

32, 33. "He was led as a sheep to the slaughter." Thus he read in what we would call Isa. liii, 7, 8, concerning Him of whom Moses and all the prophets did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph (John i, 45), but he knew Him not. This whole chapter will doubtless be the general confession of Israel as a nation after they shall have looked upon Him whom they have pierced (Zach. xii, 10) in the day when they shall say, "Lo, this is our God! We have waited for Him, and He will save us." (Isa. xxv, 9).

34. "I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this?" Whether the prophet was speaking of himself or of some other man, the eunuch could not make out. The prophets were types of Christ and did in their lives foreshadow in some measure the sufferings of Christ. Isaiah and his children were signs in Israel (chapter viii, 18), and Jeremiah says himself, "I was like a lamb or an ox that is brought to the slaughter" (Jer. xi, 19).

35. Philip began at the same Scripture and preached unto him Jesus. He would probably go back to the Passover lamb of Ex. xii and to the daily burnt offering, and possibly to the coats of skins of Gen. iii, 21; then on to the Lamb of God, of whom John the Baptist spake. He could easily find in Isa. liii the sufferings, death, resurrection and future glory of Christ. But whatever line he took, he must certainly have shown Christ to be the only Savior of sinners and the fulfillment of every type and shadow.

36. The treasurer evidently took it all in and received Jesus Christ as his Saviour, for, coming to water, he asked for baptism. Having received Christ, he would as quickly as possible confess it before all who journeyed with him, and doubtless he would preach Christ to many, for he could not keep the good news to himself.

37. "If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest." This is the one only essential to salvation, that Christ be truly received in the heart. "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved" (Rom. x, 9). To believe on Him is to receive Him (John i, 12).

38. The driver of the chariot and other attendants may have overheard and understood the whole conversation. They certainly now beheld that which the treasurer could more fully explain to them as they went on their way.

39, 40. The eunuch goes on his way rejoicing, and Philip, caught away by the Spirit, is found at Azotus, and preaches the gospel in all the cities from there to Caesarea.

Saluting a Cat.

There is at least one place in the world where the cat was until recently held in high honor, and received the attention due to one of so high a station in life. That place is India, where in a fortress the sentries invariably used to present arms to every cat that appeared on the scene.

The custom is accounted for by this singular anecdote, which comes from what appears to be good authority:

Some fifty years ago it happened that a very high English official died in an Indian fortress, at a place that is one of the centers of Brahminic religion, and at the moment when the news of his death met the Sepoy guard at the main gate, a black cat rushed out of it.

The superstitious guard presented arms to the cat as a salute to the dying spirit of the powerful Englishman, and the conscience took such a firm hold upon the locality, that up to a few years ago neither exhortation nor orders could prevent a Hindoo sentry at that gate from presentng arms to any cat that passed out at night.—Harper's Round Table.

Seasick Animals.

Human beings are not the only ones who suffer from sea-sickness. Lions and tigers may be majestic when they have unwavering earth or rock against their paws, but a sea-sick lion or tiger is as miserable as any man ever was, and does not look a bit more kingly than a wet rabbit. Even its roars and growls have a weepng sound in them. A monkey is a pitiful object when it is sea-sick, and its forlorn facial expression is so human, and the way it clasps its paws is so natural, that the man who is not sea-sick necessarily sees something to laugh at in the misery of the creature. A dog is a woeful object when at sea. It has a way of doubling all up, with its tail between its legs and head hanging down, that shows deep-seated pain. To free itself the dog goes through all sorts of contortions. It will stretch out on the deck, groan and squeal, sometimes rising on its haunches and lifting its head, and howling long and miserably, as some dogs do at the sound of music.

Discovery of Old Armor.

An extraordinary find of French and English armor, dating from the time of the Cruisades, has been made at Constantinople. The armor was discovered by mere chance in a hitherto concealed niche in the old wall of the city, where it had lain through many centuries.

PERHAPS THIS MAY HELP YOU.

"My food does me no good," you say. Then it does you harm. There is no halting place between these extremes. Digested food alone gives health and strength. Undigested food sours, or ferments, in the stomach and becomes a poison to the whole body.

It causes headache, heart palpitation, liver and kidney trouble, distress after eating, pains in the chest and sides, and the tired, languid, heavy feeling we hear so much about. When the digestion goes wrong every function of the body goes wrong. Yes, and the mind, too. Men fail in business and die poor for no other reason than this—they are weakened, dulled and stupefied by dyspepsia. The lives of a host of women are blighted in the same way. You may be one of this miserable multitude. The writer of these lines was one of your number a short time ago. I tried dozens of things to get cured; just as you have done, no doubt. The thing which at last succeeded with me may succeed with you. It is a discovery of those wise and good people—the Shakers, of Mt. Lebanon, N. Y.—called the Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is not a purgative, which at best gives only transient relief. It is in itself a digested food and also a corrector of the digestive function. You can eat and digest your food while taking this cordial. It helps you at once and soon makes the stomach vigorous and healthy. It is not like any other so-called dyspepsia cures. It is prepared by the Shakers principally from herbs cultivated by them. They do not ask us to spend a dollar for a bottle while we are in the dark as to its virtues. They take that risk themselves. Almost any druggist will sell you a trial bottle for ten cents, so that you can see whether it is what they say—and adapted to your case. And isn't the mere chance of a cure worth that much?

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redye ing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry rive. will receive your work.

Newspaper Comment on the Inaugural Address.

TARIFF POLICY CRITICIZED IN LONDON

The Desire for the Restoration of Our Merchant Marine Also Doesn't Suit. The President's Remarks on Arbitration Praised.

London, March 5.—The Standard commenting upon President McKinley's inaugural address, says: "It is a mild and not unpleasing effusion. The tone is a little smug and goody-goody, but kindly. Beneath its smooth words, however, a most serious purpose is observable. The refrain of the discourse is not peace with all men, but more protection. Experience is of no use yet to either Mr. McKinley or the American people. They have not yet suffered enough for their economic heresies." The Standard foresees blows aimed at the British iron and woolen industries, and, possibly, Canadian dairy products and lumber. It thinks, however, that on broad, general grounds there is not much room to regret the reversion of the United States to high protection, which, anyhow, relieves Great Britain from the fear of destructive competition. The United States, it says, is going to deliberately circumscribe its field of operations and again prey upon its own vitals. It adds that Mr. McKinley's dream of a restored mercantile marine must also remain unrealized.

Conflicting Views.

The Daily News says that on the whole the most satisfactory and reassuring feature of the address is the way in which it is tempered with the doctrine of the defeated party. Even the tariff paragraph is an endeavor to compromise between conflicting principles. The passage relating to a restoration of the merchant marine is one of the most significant, but it not exactly for to-day, especially as the United States will never have an export trade to speak of. The Chronicle says: "It is a very safe utterance, and will doubtless commend its author to the good opinion of the American public. It will also confirm the estimate of other countries that he is a very prudent man, his opinions on specific matters apart. The tone throughout is good and manly. It is satisfactory to notice that he promptly assumes moral and political responsibility for the arbitration treaty. We wish we could believe the declaration against trusts was more genuine than we fear it is."

Arbitration Gratifies Them.

The Daily Telegraph says that the principles which inspired the McKinley bill could hardly have been re-enunciated in a more uncompromising form. Gratification is expressed by all the newspapers at President McKinley's remarks on arbitration.

IT MEETS WITH APPROVAL.

The President's Policy, as Outlined in His Address, Pleases Business Men.

Washington, March 5.—Telegrams from a dozen of the larger cities in all parts of the country contain information that President McKinley's policy, as announced in his inaugural address, meets with general approval in business circles. The address contained about 5,000 words. The president began with a discussion of the money question, and he said, in part, as follows:

Stability of Currency.

"The responsibilities of the high trust to which I have been called—always of grave importance—are augmented by the prevailing business conditions entailing idleness upon willing labor and loss to useful enterprises. The country is suffering from industrial disturbances from which speedy relief must be had. Our financial system needs some revision, our money is all good now, but its value must not further be threatened. The several forms of our paper money offer, in my judgment, a constant embarrassment to our government and a safe balance in the treasury. Therefore, I believe it necessary to devise a system which, without diminishing the circulating medium, or offering a premium for its contraction, will present a remedy for those arrangements, which, temporary in their nature, might well in the years of our prosperity have been displaced by wiser provisions. With adequate revenues secured, but not until then, we can enter upon such changes in our fiscal laws as will, while insuring safety and volume to our money, no longer impose upon the government the necessity of maintaining so large a gold reserve, with its attendant and inevitable temptations to speculation The question of international bimetallism will have early and earnest attention. It will be my constant endeavor to secure it by cooperation with the other great commercial powers of the world.

Economy Is Demanded.

"Economy is demanded in every branch of the government at all times, but especially in periods like the present of depression in business and distress among the people. It has been our uniform practice to retire, not increase, our outstanding obligations, and this policy must again be resumed and vigorously enforced. Our revenues should always be large enough to meet with ease and promptness, not only our current needs, and the principal and interest of the public debt, but to make proper and liberal provision for that most deserving body of public creditors, the soldiers and sailors and the widows and orphans who are the pensioners of the United States. We should have more revenue, and that without delay. A surplus in the treasury created by loans is not a permanent or safe reliance. The best way for the government to maintain its credit is to pay as it goes—not by resorting to loans, but by keeping out of debt—through an adequate income secured by a system of taxation, external or internal, or both. It is the settled policy of the government, pursued from the beginning, to raise the bulk of our revenue from taxes upon foreign productions entering the United States. Nothing has ever been made plainer at a general election than that the controlling principle in the raising of revenue from duties on imports, is zealous care for American interests and American labor. It is, therefore, earnestly hoped and expected that congress will at the earliest practicable moment enact revenue legislation that shall be fair, reasonable, conservative and just, and which, while supplying sufficient revenue for public purposes, will still be signally beneficial and helpful to every section and every enterprise of the people.

Reciprocity.

"In the revision of the tariff, especial attention should be given to the re-enactment and extention of the reciprocity principle of the law of 1890, under which so great a stimulus was given to our foreign trade. The depression of the past four years has fallen with especial severity upon the great body of toilers of the country. Business conditions are not the most promising. It will take time to restore the prosperity of former years. However troublesome the situation may appear, congress will not, I am sure, be found lacking in disposition or ability to relieve it, as far as legislation can do so. The restoration of confidence and the revival of business, which all parties so much desire, depend more largely upon the prompt, energetic and intelligent action of congress than upon any other single agency affecting the situation.

Our Great Nation.

"It is inspiring, too, to remember that no great emergency in the 108 years of our eventful national life has ever arisen that has not been met with wisdom and courage by the American people. Equality of rights must prevail and our laws be always and everywhere respected and obeyed. Lynchings must not be tolerated in a great and civilized country like the United States; courts—not mobs—must execute the penalty of the law. The declaration of the party now restored to power has been in the past that of 'opposition to all combinations of capital organized in trusts, or otherwise, to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among our citizens,' and this purpose will be steadily pursued, both by the enforcement of the laws now in existence and the recommendation and support of such new statutes as may be necessary to carry it into effect. Our naturalization and immigration laws should be further improved to the constant promotion of a safer, a better and higher citizenship. Reforms in the civil service must go on. But the changes should be real and genuine, not perfunctory, or prompted by a zeal in behalf of any party, simply because it happens to be in power. Congress should give prompt attention to the restoration of our American merchant marine, once the pride of the seas in all the great ocean highways of commerce.

Firm and Dignified Foreign Policy.

"It has been the policy of the United States since the foundation of the government to cultivate relations of peace and amity with all the nations of the world, and this accords with my conception of our duty now. It will be our aim to pursue a firm and dignified foreign policy, which shall be just, impartial, ever watchful of our national honor and always insisting upon the enforcement of the lawful rights of American citizens everywhere. We want no wars of conquest; we must avoid the temptation of territorial aggression. War should never be entered upon until every agency of peace has failed; peace is preferable to war in almost every contingency. Arbitration is the true method of settlement of international as well as local or individual differences." The president urges the ratification of the Anglo-American treaty now before the senate. He will convene congress in extra session on March 15 with the object of enacting legislation which will relieve the public treasury and at once stimulate business.

Newburg's Big Blaze.

Newburg, N. Y., March 5.—The loss by the burning of Thomas Shaw's Son's planing mills yesterday afternoon is placed at $100,000. The Shaws have built many of the finest structures in this city and vicinity, including churches, schools and the Academy of Music. James Hastings, jr., a son of school trustee James Hastings, is the most seriously injured of the three firemen hurt. He was struck on the head by a beam of wood.

Arrival of an Overdue Steamer.

Halifax, N. S., March 5.—The overdue mail steamer Numidian arrived here at noon. She was delayed by the breaking of the valve of her low pressure engine. The captain states that nothing was seen of the disabled steamer Cambrian.

Deaths from Bubonic Plague.

Bombay, March 5.—The reports of the health authorities show that since the beginning of the bubonic plague in this city to the present time there have been 8,383 cases and 6,979 deaths from the disease.

A French Steamer Wrecked.

San Sabastian, Spain, March 4.—The French steamer Blanche has been wrecked while leaving Pesages, three miles east of this port. The crew were lost.

Dennett Out of the Asylum.

New York, March 5.—Arthur F. Dennett, formerly superintendent of the Parkhurst society, was discharged from Bloomingdale insane asylum yesterday as cured.

JUST FOR CHRISTIANITY.

THAT IS THE AIM OF THE CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE.

Dr. Farr Drew a Parable From the Book of John, Helpful to Those Who Heard His Remarks Last Night.

The rooms of the W. C. T. U., in the Cycle Academy, were comfortably filled by those last evening who had gathered to hear Dr. Farr lecture there under the auspices of the Christian Alliance. He lectured directly from the Bible, and he quoted and spoke from John 2:1 to 12 inclusive:

"One thing we all can do," said the Doctor, "is to worship the Virgin Mary and whatsoever the Lord sayeth unto you, do."

"The Oriental foot-bath was given to teach a lesson of humiliation and the first miracle of Moses was turning water into blood. According to the New Covenant water was turned into wine, but water is the prevailing type of the present day and wine is a type of the ages that are to come. We are now on the side of the cross and we have no right to partake of wine at the present day. Jesus has been in Heaven 2,000 years, and there are many more heathen now than before. Satan always offers the best first, then deteriorates and makes worse. God gives the worst first and it grows better until the tides of blessings come rolling in, and when we get to Heaven we get the wine. God will transform; that which is low He will elevate, that which is dark He will illuminate, those who are weak He will strengthen. Repentance on the threshold of the Christian life is to change one's mind. We must become spiritually and Heavenly-minded. We repudiate our strength when we come to Christ, exchanging that which is human for what is divine."

Dr. Farr stated that at Old Orchard Beach, eleven years ago, the Christian Missionary Alliance was formed by people banding themselves together for mutual benefit, Christianity and sociability. It does not in any way conflict with or interfere with any other religious organization, much more it is helpful in itself and is prolific of much good. "Suffering with Christ," said the speaker in conclusion, "is an exalted honor. Study the word of God and accept that theory which is most consistent to your own personal welfare."

Dr. Farr then devoted a few minutes to answering questions, to every one of which he had a ready and most enlightened reply. The audience sang a hymn and the meeting came to a close.

THE MORRIS PLAINS JAIL ESCAPE.

Mistake in the Identity of the Insane Fugitive.

The insane convict, Charles Brooks, who escaped from the Morris Plains Asylum on Tuesday, has turned out to be the notorious house burglar instead of the swindler of that name.

The escaped convict has been suspected by the New York police of implication in the robbery of Mrs Bradley-Martin's jewels. He was arrested in Jersey City in June, 1893, after robbing the house of ex Sheriff Cronin. While being pursued by the police he fired two shots at Capt. Kelly and two at Policeman McGurk. McGurk continued the chase at the risk of his life, and, overtaking Brooks, clubbed him into submission.

Brooks was sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment. McGurk was promoted from patrolman to detective for his bravery. Detectives are scouring the State for Brooks.

Serious Fire Narrowly Averted.

Yesterday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock a very serious fire was averted at Thickstun's lumber and coal yards. In some way sparks set fire to the tressel work, and when the flames were discovered by a workman about the place, considerable wood had been destroyed. In a few minutes the whole trestle would have been in flames. It only required a small quantity of water to extinguish the fire. The damage was slight.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Toward the payment of this sum, Mr. Rockefeller of New York, has promised to contribute $250,000. It is reported that a number of other contributions from different States toward the $253,000 that remains to be collected will be announced after the Newark conference.

BAD STORM IS DUE.

It's Central in Michigan and is Moving Rapidly Eastward.

The prediction for a fair day which was made yesterday by the weather prophets was hardly fulfilled.

Weather Prophet Dunn admitted this morning that a very severe and extensive storm, with its central point in the neighborhood of Michigan, was in progress and was moving eastward at a rapid rate.

The snow in this section of the county, Sergt. Dunn said, was likely to turn into rain, which might continue all night and a part of tomorrow. It would be accompanied by considerable fog and warmer weather.

The temperature was higher this morning all over the country.

The storm is accompanied by a very strong wind, which was blowing 52 miles an hour in Chi ago this morning, and all through the lake region its velocity was from 30 to 40 miles an hour In New York the wind was blowing 10 miles an hour.

Women Interested in School Work.

The need of a new school building has impressed itself so stronly upon the women of Crandford, that a large number of them have determined to attend the annual school meeting on March 16, and exercise the right to vote. The Board of Education is unanimouly in favor of erecting a new building on the site of the present structure. The plan is bitterly opposed by most the residence of the south side of town, who contend that the erection of a small school south of the railroad track would meet the needs of the south-side pupils and relieve the congestion in the existing school-house.

Easily Had.

Bankers are already looked upon as acute men, not easily overreached, but the following story shows that they may sometimes be outwitted when least suspecting a defeat.

A poor Irishman one day went to the office of an Irish bank and asked for change in gold for fourteen £1 Bank of Ireland notes. The cashier at once replied that the Cavan Bank only cashed its own notes.

"Then would ye gie me Cavan notes for these?" asked the countryman in his simple way.

"Certainly," said the cashier, handing the fourteen notes as desired.

The Irishman took the Cavan notes, but immediately returned them to the official, saying:

"Would ye gie me gold for these, sir." And the cashier, caught in his own trap, was obliged to part with the money.—From Answers.

"I can't see why it is," said Bobby, "that when little boys are cross folks say they are naughty, and when papas and mammas are cross folks say they are nervous.—Tid-Bits.

NICE WORDS AT THE END

THE OUTGOING BOROUGH COUNCIL INDULGE IN PLEASANTRIES.

Councilman MacLaughlin Says That He Has Profited by Experience and Advice—Different View of Clerk's Duties.

The last and shortest session of the present Borough Council was held last evening, and it was marked by a little pleasantry which was appropriate to the going out of the Mayor and two Councilmen.

Owing to the fact that Councilman Lounsbury is ill and Councilman Valiant is away, neither was able to be present. In accordance with the custom it was 8:30 when Mayor Hegeman called the meeting to order, and the first business taken up was the receipt of a statement from Collector Spencer showing that since his last report he had collected $409.19.

Julius Stahl, in a communication, reported that Peter Seader had served the borough seven years as a fireman and asked that he be given exemption papers. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Mr. Peck stated the fire department was in good shape and that the new house was about completed. All necessary apparatus had been secured except the electrical and that had been arranged for.

Mr. Woolston made a brief report of the work accomplished by the street committee since the last meeting and said that it would be necessary to issue two additional certificates for $2,000 in connection with the work of opening Watchung avenue. A resolution was offered by Mr. Woolston to the effect that the same be issued. This makes in all $34,000 in certificates.

Mr. Peck offered a resolution that a loan of $1,500 be made and that the same be charged to the borough account.

The ordinance referring to the opening of Whitewood avenue was called up and passed to its third reading. The ordinance will go into effect on March 27th.

This finished up the business of the Council and Mr. McLoughlin started the ball a rolling, so to speak, by making a few complimentary remarks. He said that he desired to tender his appreciation to the retiring Mayor and Councilmen, and he felt in so doing he would voice the sentiments of the people of the borough. Since he had been in the Council he felt as though he had profited by the advice and experience gained in being associated with the members of the present body.

The Mayor could not keep his seat and was obliged to respond, which he did in his usual happy manner. He said that during the past two years that it had been his pleasure to be the executive head of the borough, he had been surrounded with efficient and courteous gentlemen. He felt sure that the remaining members would perform their duties as conscientiously as they had during the past, and that the incoming Mayor, whoever it might be, would receive the same courteous treatment that had been accorded him. In closing Mr. Hegeman thanked all the members for the kindness extended to him.

Mr. Woolston said that he would like to say one word regarding the borough clerk. He admitted that when he first came into office he was prejudiced and thought that the clerk was getting too much salary, but as he became acquainted with the duties of the office he felt sure that the clerk was being paid no more than he should for the work that he was doing. He thought that it would be a great mistake to reduce the salary of the office.

The last speaker was Mr. Peck, and he said that as a retiring member he would like to say a few words in appreciation of the kindly sentiment expressed by Mr. McLaughlin. He said he could look back with great pleasure during the past two years, and while a Councilman he had tried to act conscientiously. Regarding the salary of the clerk Mr. Peck said that by experience he had learned that a person will get cheap service when they pay cheap wages.

With Mr. Peck's remarks the Council for the present year adjourned sine die. After the meeting the members remained to shake hands and bid each other an official good-bye, and everybody parted the best of friends.

WAS HIBBINS A TOOL?

MRS. FRANCISCO INSISTS THAT HE IS VERY MUCH TO BLAME.

Hibbins Asserts That He Did Know For What Purpose Mrs. Noble Went to Newark—Mr. Hibbins is in Custody.

A general topic of conversation in the west end of the city is the arrest and charge made against John E. Risburg, implicating him in causing the death of Mrs. May Noble. Risburg is well known in the Fourth ward. His wife died about a year ago.

One surprise to the Newark officers was Mrs. Francisco's statements regarding Robbert Hibbins's connection with the affair. She denounced Hibbins for having said that he had been used as a "tool" by Risburg. Hibbins, she declared, knew that Mrs. Noble was coming from Plainfield, where, as has been published, both men are employed by the Potter Printing Press Company. Hibbins, she says, knew that he was to escort Mrs. Noble, but whether Hibbins made the arrangements to have Mrs. Noble taken to Mrs. Francisco's house neither of the officers will now admit.

After Mrs. Noble's death, Hibbins, according to Mrs. Francisco, took a gold watch and chain which had belonged to the deceased and put them into his pocket. When he left the house she said the jewelry went with him. Before concluding her story Mrs. Francisco became very nervous. She persisted in her statements that if Mrs. Noble had not misrepresented some things to her, all trouble would have been avoided, and the crime would not have been committed.

After leaving the jail the detectives concluded that as they were in a great measure responsible for Hibbins being given his liberty, and fearing that he might leave the State if he learned that they had an idea of what Mrs. Francisco had imparted, they quickly agreed that if, for no other reason than for their own protection, Hibbins should be again made prisoner. They went at once to his home, 49 Arlington street, where they found him. Hibbins was not told why he had been arrested a second time until he reached police headquarters. There he was questioned only regarding the watch and chain and he very quickly, the officers say, told where they could be found, and the detectives recovered the articles last night. The detectives learned, after recovering the watch and chain, that Risburg had given Mrs. Noble the jewelry and $5 last Friday, shortly before her departure from Plainfield. The chain belonged to Risburg's wife, who died some time ago.

FIGHT FOR WARREN FREEHOLDER.

Democratic Primary in Warren Township this Afternoon.

The Democrats of Warren Township are up in arms. Their primary was held this afternoon. The main contention was for the office of Freeholder and there were several candidates in the field. The greatest rivalry in the make up of the ticket was for the office of Freeholder. While the primary was not held in time for The Press to announce the result, the following persons are prominently spoken of as candidates: James Ralph, Robert Zergeible, Joel Coddington and Wm. Miller. Mr. Zergeible is the present incumbent and he has done much good for the township.

Good People to Deal With.

We are pleased to announce the Grand Union Tea Company as one of our latest patrons to our advertising columns. This company does but little advertising through the medium of printers' ink. They claim the quality of their goods to be the best medium and their success in this city and elsewhere would indicate the accuracy of their claim. Their business in this city is flattering despite hard times. Good goods and honorable deelings are elements that count in business and as an exponent of this fact we cite the Grand Union Tea Company, 138 West Front street, as a shining example.

Parodoxiana.

Happenings parodoxical, are, after all, quite common. Everybody will admit, for instance, that it is a great "blow" to a man when he can't "raise the wind;" or, if a married man fails to catch a train he has promised to return on, that he "catches" when he gets home. But the parodox most instinct with truth is this—the best way to keep a house warm is to have it coaled; if you have any doubts about this, order your coal of Stevens & Co.

GESANG AND TURN VEREIN ARRANGING FOR FUTURE EVENTS.

Exhibition by the Turning Section to be Followed by a Family Gathering—Children to be Given an Outing.

The officers and members of the Gesang and Turn Verein have for some time been considering methods whereby a greater interest could be awakened, and they have arranged several events which will tend to accomplish this purpose. The first event will occur on Easter Monday, when an exhibition by the Turning section will be given and the Singing section will render a programme of music. The affair will close with a dance and admission will only be by invitation.

The next will be given on the last Sunday in April, when there will be a family gathering for the members and their wives. The committee in charge will arrange a programme and each member will be expected to contribute in some way or other to the enjoyment of the event. This has been arranged so that the families may become better acquainted and thus interest themselves in the work.

The last and one of the most important events will take place early in the spring when the children of the Turning section will hold an outing for educational purposes. For some time past those in charge of the society have felt that the younger members should become interested in the work of the society and this method has been suggested by Henry Haurand. The idea is to take the young people to some historic point of interest and give them an object les son which will be indelibly impressed on their minds. The first outing will probably be to Washington Rock and Wetumpka Falls. A competent person will chaperone the party and tell the young people all that is of interest in a historical way about these two places. The rest of the day will be devoted to playing games, and a feature of the affair will be the refreshments which will be desirable.

There are now twenty members of the younger division of the Turning section and new members are constantly coming in. If the above outing is a success they will be given every month.

THE BRIGHT SIDE'S, INDEED.

King's Daughters Entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux.

The Bright Side Circle, Kings Daughters, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, of Fairview avenue, last evening. The house was thronged with the members and their friends who thoroughly enjoyed the pleasing programme and the genuine sociability. Interspersing the social chat, those present were entertained with vocal and instrumental music. The first number was a piano solo by Walter Raynolds, which preceded a vocal solo by Miss Emma Purdue, of Orange, who was accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian A. Force. A vocal duet by Miss Grace Powell and Charles Powell was followed with another vocal duett by the Misses LaBoyteaux. The programme closed with a vocal solo by Stacy Raynolds. Each of the above numbers were given in a pleasing manner and were heartily received by all present. The rest of the evening was devoted to a social time and the serving of dainty refreshments.

Change of Place of Worship.

The members of the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church, who have been worshiping in the basment of Reform Hall for some time past, have found it necessary to change their place of meeting, so they have leased the upper story in the old Alert Hose Company's house on Madison avenue where, beginning tomorrow morning, meetings will be held in the morning and evening and Sunday-school in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. D. Johnson will be in charge. The rooms have been cosily fitted up, and the members seem well-pleased with their new place of worship.

According to Home

According to Homer, the sage and poet, "he is a fool who only sees the mischiefs that are past." To see the mischiefs that are before you it is necessary to care for the eyes. How to do this at little cost will be made apparent to you by a call at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.

A Missionary Address.

Mrs. Rosetta Sherman Hall, M. D. of Corea, will address the Sunday-school Missionary Society of the Methodist chnrch in Vincent chapel, tomorrow at 3 p. m. Her little son, in Corean costume will accompany her.

A BODY CUT TO PIECES.

HORRIBLE DEATH OF A WOMAN ON CENTRAL RAILROAD TRACKS.

Her Remains Scattered Along the Track for a Distance of 200 Feet—Supposed to be Those of a Penniless Woman.

About 6:30 o'clock last night a middle-aged woman, of medium height and weight, appeared at the ticket window at the Netherwood station and asked about getting to Waverly. She had no money, however, and Station Agent Erickson was unable to supply her with a ticket. She tarried around the depot for a moment and then disappeared. She was dressed in some cheap material and carried a basket on her arm.

It was 7:30 o'clock when Track Walker Doyle, between this city and Netherwood, approached the station at Netherwood. In the flickering light cast by his lantern he discerned what looked like a bundle of rags lying on the main east bound track directly in front of the station. He stopped to investigate and was horrified to see the mangled head of a person laying but a foot away from what was finally determined to be a portion of a woman's dress with fine particles of flesh ground up and bespattered all over it.

A few feet further was the detached arm with the fingers clutched together as if set in the throes of death. The track walker hurriedly notified Station Agent Erickson of the ghastly discovery and with the light from the lantern each carried, an inspection of the track for a couple of hundred feet towards this city showed various detached portions of a human body, while in a spot about twenty feet square the ground was literally bespattered with blood and pieces of flesh and brain.

A few minutes after a west bound train came along and Doyle came to this city and notified Station Agent Haynes and the police authorities of the finding of the body. Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely went to Netherwood in a hack and found the remains in the manner described above. A few minutes later County Physician Westcott arrived from Fanwood and then a further investigation of the ground was made. Another arm was found along the embankment and a basket and a number of crullers were discovered scattered about. The finding of the basket and crullers proved pretty conclusively that the remains were those of the woman who had enquired about going to Waverley. As near as Station Agent Erickson could remember the clothes also resembled those worn by the woman he saw. Undertaker Casey was sent for and he gathered up the remains in a basket and brought them to the morgue in this city.

It is supposed that after the woman left the Netherwood station at 6:30 o'clock she wandered down the track and was probably struck by a train going west and thrown over onto the east bound track. Then when the local train leaving the North avenue station at 7:03 o'clock came along it struck the body and dragged it to the point where the head was found.

Conductor McGuire, of the street railway service, says that at 6 o'clock a woman about fifty years of age, carrying a basket, rode to Netherwood on his car. She said she had no money and the conductor took pity on her and paid the fare himself. This was probably the same woman.

County Physician Westcott did not deem it necessary to hold an inquest, and he will grant a burial permit today. The remains will be interred in the potter's field.

Conferred the First Degree.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., met in Pythian Hall, last evening, and conferred the first degree on two candidates. Perseverance Lodge is one of the most substantial of its kind in the State, and its officers are only those that are tried and trustworthy.

No Petitions for Edith

Edith Baehr's friends sent no petitions to the meeting of the Board of Freeholders Thursday afternoon. The Board has no authority, except to investigate the case and treatment of prisoners in the county jail. The jail committee approves the discharging of prisoners at the expiration of their terms, with the customary time allowances for good behavior, but beyond these matters the county legislators have no jurisdiction.

Died at a Ripe Age.

The death is announced of Mrs. Stephen L. Miles, which occurred at the home of her daughter in Washingtonville at 9 o'clock today. Old age, 79 years, is the only cause assigned for her death. The children left are Mrs. G.W. Bullman, of Washingtonville; James Q. Miles, of this city; Rev. E. S. Miles, pastor of the M. E. church at Hyde Park, and Mrs. A. M. Field, of Florida.

NEW POLITICAL FACTOR.

SECRET SOCIETY INFLUENCE IN A SCOTCH PLAINS PRIMARY.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., Made a Fight Against Town Committeeman Miller, But Did Not Win.

Though there has been such a thing as secret society interference or participation in politics in some portions of the country—especially so of the A. P. A. element in the west—it has been an unknown factor in this section of the country until last night, when at the Republican primary at Scotch Plains a large number of the members of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., entered the caucus and made a fight against the candidacy of one man without attempting to disguise the fact that it was the society influence which was moving them to such activity.

Twilight Council has become quite a strong order in the Plains and is composed largely of young men. While its principles and motives have far from anything to do with politics, it is a fact that by some understanding the majority of the members arrayed themselves against the idea of renominating Town Committeman L. B. Miller, who has filled the office for many years. Charles G. Frantz was decided on as a candidate in opposition to Mr. Miller, and it was openly understood that the Junior Mechanics were supporting Mr. Frantz almost to a man. Just why this was so it was impossible to learn, unless that it was that the young men who were opposed to Miller belonged to the Mechanics, and in the absence of any political organization they had tacitly banded together under the guise of a fraternal friendship already existing for other purposes.

There was a good deal of buttonholing in the primary and when the ballots were counted it was found that out of a vote of eighty Mr. Miller had received a majority of six, thus making his nomination. The opposing force was considerably disgruntled. It was a general source of regret among many people that the Mechanics had entered politics.

The Republican majority in the township elections varies from five to twenty and it is feared that if the Mechanics carry their contest to the polls, and support the Democratic nominee in retaliation for the defeat last night, the chances of Mr. Miller for another term will be jeoparidized.

There was a contest for collector between John Robinson and Thomas S. Whitenack, the former winning by twenty-two majority. The other nominations were as follows: Justice of the peace, August Klemser; constable, Norman Dunn; commissioners of appeal, Charles W. Brown and Andrew Shaffer; surveyor of highways, Augustus D. Osborne.

The appropriations were fixed as follows: Roads. $1,250; poor, $400; repairing sidewalks, $250; fire department, $300.

The Democrats also made their nominations last night as follows: Town committeeman, Theodore Bruchman; assessor, Charles H. French; collector, John L Darby.

NOT PREPARED FOR THEM.

A Pleasant Surprise Party Given to Mr. and Mrs. Westphal.

The early part of the evening was enjoyed in listening to the following programme: Piano solo, Miss Anna Gray; recitation. Mr. Haskett; vocal solos, Miss H. Howard and W. G. Gray; piano solo, Mr. Fielding; vocal solo, Miss Thompson. Dancing and games were participated in afterwards.

The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westphal, Councilman and Mrs. William A. Westphal, Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Couley, Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. Hasket, Mr. and Mrs. McInnes, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bowden, Mrs. and Miss Montgomery, Miss Lucy Westphal. Fred Schomp, D. B. Gray and Masters James and John Gray.

THE NEW STORE OPENED

WOODHULL & MARTIN'S ESTABLISHMENT MAKES A FINE SHOW.

Interior Redecorated in White and Several Departments Rearranged—Everything in Readiness for Business.

The new dry goods store of Woodhull & Martin in the Babcock building, formerly conducted by Edsall, was opened for business this morning.

Every shelf, every counter and every point that affords the vantage of display was covered with a fine exhibition of some of the countless articles that go to make up a dry goods store in this modern age when the resources of every foreign country are drawn upon to supply and satisfy the fancies of a fickle public. The whole air about the store was one of newness and progressiveness, an augury of success for the firm who succeeded J. Linn Edsall.

The interior of the store has been redecorated throughout, and in many instances rearranged, so that it presented a most inviting appearance to the large number of visitors who came to view the fresh stock of goods and the innovations that the new firm offer to the public. Where formerly the interior was finished in natural woodwork, it has now been transformed, under the touch of a small regiment of painters in the last two weeks, into a great white palace. The ceiling and every counter and piece of furniture is garbed in snowy white paint. The effect altogether, with the vast array of multi colored goods on display obviating all semblance of monotiny in the general aspect, is very pleasing. While many of the departments remain in the same location as under the Edsall regime, there have been several changes, and always to the advantage of both firm and patron.

The cash desk on the main floor is located in the center and is connected with every department on that floor by the Swazee cash system, which is the swiftest and most convenient in use by stores transacting a heavy business. To the left of the cash desk on the opposite side of the aisle is located the private office of Messrs. Woodhull & Martin, fitted up with all the latest office fixtures.

Those departments that have been moved and where they are now located are as follows: Notion department, left side center; shirt waists consolidated with the white goods in the rear, next to millinery department; art goods to rear under skylight, thus affording a much better light; dress goods to right of left aisle; children's department to left side recess.

Entering the front of the store and walking down either of the two side aisles the view is magnificent as the eyes are greeted with a perfect maze of everything to be found in an up-to-date dry goods emporium.

The various departments are under the charge of experienced clerks and have been dressed in an attractive style. A particular pleasing feature in the dress goods department is the diagonal manner in which the rolls of costly fabrics have been laid on the shelves, a pleasing relief from the usual style.

Directly in front of the cash desk a new department has been established, where on a wide counter is displayed a wealth of Japanese porcelain ware. Suspended over the counter is a magnificent Japanese bead lamp, glistening as the little flame burns within.

Approaching the stairway leading to the basement from either aisle one's eyes are struck with the two jardinieres, on each side of the second landing, from which, wave beautiful palms. The steps are carpeted and noiselessly the visitor descends to where the crockery, glassware, household goods and carpets and rugs are kept. The partitions that formerly darkened the view in the basement have been removed and now an uninterrupted survey of the whole lower floor is possible from any one point.

The departments that have been abolished in the establishment under the new management are the grocery, drugs, soda water and confectionery. The new firm will devote every energy to keeping the other branches of the business in a condition that will satisfy and please the clientile of trade they confidently expect to acquire.

Messrs. Woodhull & Martin both intend to take up their residence in this city and devote their personal attention to making the business a successful one.

On the front windows a handsome and artistice monogram, composed of the letters W and M, has been painted in gold leaf. The interior of the windows are trimmed in such a manner that it has got to be a pretty prosaic individual that can pass without stopping to admire the decorations.

Nathan E. Lewis, of West Eighth street, is spending Saturday and Sunday with his parents at Ashaway, R. I.

KNOW THEY'RE WEAK

Greeks Also Know What a War with Turkey Would Mean.

WOULD SET ALL EUROPE ABLAZE

The Powers Find Themselves Confronted with a Serious Problem---Active War Preparations Continue in Greece.

Athens, March 6.—Advices just received here show that the force of Christians who are investing Heraklion number 15,000 men. The insurgents have stopped all communication with the town by land, and it is certain that unless the foreign warships actively intervene in behalf of the Moslems the town will shortly be compelled to surrender. The small detachments of sailors and marines landed from the various warships still occupy the town, but without the aid of the fleets they could make but a feeble defense against the overwhelming numbers of the insurgents. The greatest activity is being displayed in Athens in making preparations to give battle to the Turks should they cross the Greek frontier. The ministry of war presents a most animated scene. Officers in uniform throng the corridors and orderlies are constantly being dispatched in every direction with orders to different commanders. The telegraph wires are constantly busy with dispatches to officers in distant places. The most energetic measures are being taken for the mobilization of the forces. There is a similar scene of activity at the ministry of marine, where everything possible is being done to place the fleet in readiness for any contingency. There is no sign anywhere of the king or government receding from the position they have taken, and it is ominous that in face of the threat of combined Europe the warlike preparations are being carried on with feverish activity.

Why the Greeks Are So Confident.

The most intense enthusiasm is everywhere displayed and the people display no fear of the result of an appeal to arms. They know full well that the Greek army by itself is no match for the numerically superior Turkish forces, but they also know that in the event of war the whole of southern Europe would be set on fire. It is this that the powers wish to prevent, but if they attempt to use force to compel Greece to accede to their demands there is a very strong probability that Greece will apply the torch that will start the conflagration, the result of which no one can foretell. It is believed here that the powers, seeing the chance of their becoming involved in a general war owing to their conflicting interests, will make haste slowly in attempting to force the Greeks to withdraw their support from the Cretan Christians.

To Mobilize the Forces.

It has been decided that there shall be a general mobilization of the Greek forces. The reserve forces alone give a total of 104,500 men, and behind that is what is called the territorial army, which numbers upwards of 146,000 men, a not by any means insignificant force. The standing army numbers about 25,000 men of all arms. Ammunition and supplies for the troops are being supplied as rapidly as possible.

Orders Given for a Great Gun.

Albany, March 6.—The Watervliet gun factory has been ordered to manufacture a 16-inch gun, which, on completion, will be shipped to the Sandy Hook proving grounds to undergo tests to determine the advisability of constructing this type of gun for coast defense purposes. It will weigh about ninety tons, and with a charge of 1,060 pounds of brown prismatic powder is expected to throw a solid steel projectile six feet in length and weighing 2,300 pounds over a range of ten miles.

Germany Wants More War Vessels.

Berlin, March 6.—Admiral Hollmann, commander-in-chief of the German navy, appeared before the budget committee of the reichstag and stated that five ironclads, ten cruiser, twenty-two torpedo boats and other increases were needed to enhance the naval strength of the empire. The fleets of France and Russia, he added, had made immense progress in recent years. In case of war Germany could not confine her naval operations to the defense of her coast, but her warships would have to cruise on the high seas.

REVIVAL OF BUSINESS

Trade Conditions Continue To Present Favorable Indications.

IMPROVEMENT, HOWEVER, IS SLOW

Slight Increase in the Number of People at Work---Better Demand for Most Products on the Whole and the Money Market Is Easy.

New York, March 6.—Dun's weekly review of the state of trade for the week just closing will, to-day, say: The slow and gradual improvement observed for some time has continued during the past week and without material check. Some cloak makers here and the ore handlers at one yard in Cleveland have struck, but the aggregate force employed in all industries has still somewhat increased. There is a better demand for most products on the whole, with continuance of speculative buying in some, notably in wool, because of expected duties. Meanwhile the money markets continue as easy and undisturbed as if there had never been anxiety about the gold reserve, and fairly large sales of stock on London account during the week, possibly because of international anxieties, have made no perceptible difference in American markets. An extended review of building in New York for seven years discloses strong reasons for confidence in the real estate market. The report of failures for February by branches of business shows a slightly larger average of liabilities in manufacturing branches than in previous years, but there is abundant evidence of the prevailing caution in purchases in the fact that failures of traders show decreased liabilities. The average for railway stocks has declined a little. The reports of earnings are not very favorable, but, nevertheless, show for four weeks of February an increase compared with last year. On some of the granger roads quite unfavorable returns have been made, but the general volume of traffic has been large, and the Chicago east-bound shipments larger than in any week for February. The west-bound traffic is light but improving. Payments through clearing houses for the first few days of March show a decrease compared with last year.

Wheat, Corn, Cotton and Wool.

Reports of probable needs abroad have helped speculation in wheat somewhat, though the price is still lower than two weeks ago. Corn is at about the price of two weeks ago. Cotton has declined and with good reason, for although receipts from plantations fall off, the decrease is not greater than the decrease in consumpiton owing to stoppage of mills. As there is comparative little cotton available in the country, the market is a very convenient one for speculators to manipulate. While many of the mills have stopped production of cotton goods for a time, the general outlook is not on the whole unchanged, and the demand for goods does not improve, while print cloths are a shade lower. The mills accumulated stocks far in excess of the actual demand during the months of dulness, and their enforced restriction at this time is merely paying a debt. The demand for wool has diminished, though only a little, and sales are quite a third more than the full consumption of all mills, if all were at work, but the speculative buying continues. Western holders are too stiff for eastern purchasers, and the buying of domestic wool has slackened. Although some more mills have gone into operation, the course of the market has not favored great activity, but it may be said that for goods of the higher grades there is a better demand than heretofore.

Boots and Shoes, Iron and Steel.

The boot and shoe industry can reckon a good many more shops at work, and shipments have been as large for the past four weeks as in any previous year, but the preponderance of women's cheap goods must reduce the value of the product marketed to a considerable extent. The market for materials has not changed to any important extent. While the demand for Bessemer pig has sustained the recent advance at Pittsburg and Grey forge is still quoted at the old price there and there is less cutting of prices to get more business in finished products, the general range of prices still continues low. Wire nails have been advanced by very heavy buying, without change in cut nails, which are dull, and there is less evidence of eastern mills selling rails below $20, except for export, some sales of that character having been made at $18. Western makers are said to be firm at $21 per ton. But the demands of most important railroads have been supplied for the present, the consumers of billets are not in the market just now, and with somewhat larger production of pig iron it may be doubted whether, outside of rails, the demand for finished products equals the capacity of the works. Failures show but slight increase over those of 1896 or 1895. There is rather more increase in iron and machinery failures than in other branches. The feature of special interest is the conservatism in trading indicated by the decrease in liabilities of trading failures in nearly every branch of business, contrasted with the slight increase in liabilities of manufacturing failures.

Chief Justice of Samoa.

Washington, March 6.—W. L. Chambers of Alabama, who was formerly United States land commissioner at Samoa, has been agreed upon by Great Britain, Germany and the United States as chief justice of Samoa to succeed Judge Ide, who is also an American. The king of Samoa makes the appointment and will undoubtedly confirm the selection.

VALUABLE MAINE PELTS.

An Island Colony of Foxes Whose Skins Will Bring Good Prices.

There is an island off the coast of Maine, six miles outside of Boothbay harbor, where the rarest of one species of fur-bearing animals are found in numbers. They are black and silver foxes, and it may be said in beginning that they did not get on the island by themselves.

A few years ago a gentleman who who was summering at Boothbay harbor, conceived the idea of stocking one of the numerous islands in that vicinity with black and silver foxes, that are now almost extinct in the wild state. He looked around for a suitable island and finally hit upon Outer Heron as possessing all the conditions necessary to the success of such a colony as he desired to plant.

An order was sent to a fur company engaged in breeding black foxes on an island in Alaska, for a consignment of the animals, and thirty good specimens were started east. The journey took many months, being made by vessel and steamer to San Francisco, and thence overland, and when the consignment arrived at Boothbay harbor, only seven of the foxes were alive.

They were put on Outer Heron and have thrived and multiplied, from all indications. A silver fox is by no means a cheap animal—the pelt of a good one is worth from $75 to $100—but the black fox is much more valuable, the pelts being worth as high as $400 each.

The climate on Outer Heron is said to be very much like that on the Alaskan island from which the founders of the fur colony were imported. The animals have found good places in fissures of the rocky shores in which to build their homes, and from what can be seen of them they appear fat and well conditioned.—Boston Daily Globe.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? FOR INSUBORDINATION.

Gage Upholds Carlisle in the Suspension of a Deputy.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 6.—William N. Rome, senior deputy in the office of the revenue collector of Brooklyn, has been suspended for insubordination. A telegram has been received by him informing him of the fact. It came from Commissioner W. S. Forman, in Washington, who acted under the direction of the secretary of the treasury. This action was taken because Rome on Thursday last telegraphed to Secretary of the Treasury Gage that as senior deputy he had assumed the place of collector, which had become vacant by the failure of the senate to confirm John C. Kelley as collector. This, notwithstanding that Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle had appointed deputy collector Alex McKinney to assume the office of collector. McKinney is in possession of the office. Rome contended that his hasty appointment was irregular.

THE COMPETITOR CANARD.

Schooner Still in the Havana Navy Yard and the Prisoners in Cabanas Fortress.

Havana, March 6.—A number of inquiries were received here regarding the report that the Spanish authorities had released the captured filibustering schooner Competitor and her crew and that the vessel had been sunk by a Spanish warship after leaving the harbor. There is not the slightest foundation for the report, which probably had its origin in the mind of some imaginative reporter. A visit to the navy yard would have revealed the fact that the Competitor is lying at the anchorage in which she was placed after being brought here nearly a year ago. The men who were captured on her are still in the Cabanas fortress, and as far as can be learned from the close-mouthed officials there has been no change in their condition since they were tried and sentenced to death.

SPAIN CHANGES HER ATTITUDE

Guilty Americans in Cuba To Be Expelled Instead of Otherwise Punished.

Washington, March 6.—The state department has just received the following cablegram from Consul General Lee at Havana: "All quiet. No excitement here now. I hope to secure prompt trial of all Americans imprisoned. Those found innocent to be released and those guilty to be sent out of Cuba." This dispatch, which came in cipher, indicates a change of attitude on the part of the military authorities in Cuba under orders from Madrid, as guilty Americans, on conviction, are to be expelled from the island instead of being otherwise punished.

First Assistant Secretary of State.

Washington, March 6.—Ex-congressman Bellamy Storer of Cincinnati, who has been tendered and has accepted the office of first assistant secretary of state, now filled by Mr. Rockhill of Maryland, is expected here Monday next. Mr. Storer is a Harvard graduate. He was a member of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, serving on the foreign affairs and commerce committees of the house. He has been for some years a student of international questions, and it was this knowledge which is understood to have influenced President McKinley in tendering him the appointment.

Acquitted of the Charge of Murder.

Norristown, Pa., March 6.—Walter L. Clinch has been acquitted of the charge of killing Wm. McCue. Clinch was an attendant at the state hospital for insane here, and McCue was an inmate of the hospital, having been sent to the hospital from the penitentiary as an insane patient. A few days after his arrival he was found dead in his room with marks of violence on his body. An investigation followed and Clinch was arrested and brought to trial on the charge of beating McCue so badly as to cause his death. McCue had killed two men in his time.

Names of New Torpedo Boats.

Washington, March 6.—One of Mr. Herbert's last official acts as secretary of the navy was to issue an order naming the new torpedo boats as follows: No. 11—Farragut. No. 6—Porter. No. 7—Dupont. No. 9—Dahlgren. No. 10—T. A. Craven. The vessels are named after naval officers who served with distinction during the war of the rebellion. Boat No. 6 was named the Farragut, but as No. 11 is the larger the name of Farragut was transferred to her.

Cleveland To Go Yachting.

Greenwich, Conn., March 6.—E. C. Benedict has come to Greenwich to look over the improvements which have just been made in his steam yacht Oneida. Mr. Benedict said that the yacht was going on a cruise in a few days, and that ex-President Cleveland would be on her. The gulf of Mexico will be the yacht's destination.

Connecticut Legislation.

Hartford, March 6.—The house has passed a bill prohibiting trout fishing in streams in Stamford, Darien, New Canaan and Norwalk until May, 1900, under a penalty of $50 or not less than $10 and costs. Both houses have rejected a bill which provides that private banks shall be placed under the supervision of the state bank commissioners.

Italy Demands Satisfaction.

Constantinople, March 6.—The Italian ambassador has made a formal demand upon the porte for satisfaction for the firing of a shot across the bows of an Italian mail steamer while the vessel was passing through the Dardanelles Thursday night.

Carlisle's Future Plans Not Determined.

Washington, March 6.—Logan G. Carlisle stated this morning that ex-Secretary Carlisle had not yet decided where he would locate or what he could do. It is understood that he has several offers under advisement.

SHERMAN'S CAREER

The New Premier Has Been in Continuous Public Service 42 Years.

ONLY EXCEEDED BY SENATOR MORRILL

Unfounded Rumors That a Contest Was Made in the Senate Against the Confirmation of Two of the Cabinet Members.

Washington, March 6.—John Sherman, whose nomination as secretary of state was confirmed yesterday afternoon by the senate, together with the other members of President McKinley's cabinet, has just completed forty-two years of public service, continuous with the exception of one day. In 1854 he was elected a member of the Thirty-fourth congress and his term began March 4, 1855. He served three terms, or six years, in the house of representatives, and in March, 1861, entered the United States senate. His service in the senate continued until March 4, 1877, when he entered the cabinet of Hayes as secretary of the treasury. On March 3, 1881, Mr. Sherman resigned as secretary of the treasury, and for twenty-four hours he was out of office. He had again been elected to the senate and his term began March 4. With the exception of one day when he resigned without any particular reason, Senator Sherman's continuous public service is longer than that of any other living American statesman except Senator Morrill. He has served six years in the house, four years in the cabinet and thirty-two years in the senate. Justin S. Morrill of Vermont, who is twelve years older than Sherman, entered congress at the same time, and his service has been continuous, but the Ohio statesman entered the senate ahead of the distinguished Vermonter. There are only two men living who entered congress earlier than Sherman and Morrill. They are Senator Harris of Tennessee and representative Galusha A. Grow of Pennsylvania. The former entered congress in 1849 and the latter in 1851, but their service has not been continuous. The Thirty-fourth congress, in which Mr. Sherman began his public service, was a notable one, and among its members were many prominent men. Nathaniel P. Banks was elected speaker of the house after a contest that lasted sixty-one days. If Senator Sherman lives to serve out his term in the McKinley cabinet, he will then have been, at the age of seventy-eight, forty-six years in public office, his service continuous, with the exception of the one day already noted. He has already served longer in the senate than Thomas H. Benton and longer than any other man, living or dead, except Morrill. When Sherman first entered public life Abraham Lincoln was a comparatively obscure country lawyer in Illinois.

There Was No Hitch or Objection.

The length of the executive session yesterday afternoon led to the circulation of several unfounded rumors that a contest was being made against the confirmation of at least two of the members of the cabinet selected by President McKinley. Rumor had it that the opposition was aimed at Mr. McKenna and Mr. Alger. The delay was not unusual. The nomination of Mr. Sherman was confirmed immediately without the formality of a reference to the committee. While this is not the invariable rule, it is generally extended to ex-senators as an act of courtesy. All the other nominations were referred to the various committees, which, after an informal discussion of the nominations, made favorable reports in each case. Mr. Teller addressed the senate briefly. He said he did not propose to oppose any selection Mr. McKinley had made. He recognized the fact that the cabinet was the official family of the executive, and the president ought not to be hampered by the senate in the choice of the men whom he desired for his advisers. Yet he criticised the selection of Mr. Bliss for the interior department on account of the fact that he was not qualified by legal training for the business of the office. Mr. Hoar, rep., Mass., replied to Mr. Teller's criticisms by praising the ability and qualifications of Mr. Bliss and, addressing himself to the one point made by Mr. Teller, asserted that this could be easily overcome by the selection of assistant secretaries who would have those qualifications that would guide the secretary in his rulings. No other speeches were made. The names of General Alger and Judge McKenna were not mentioned in the discussion, and all the nominations were then confirmed without a formal vote being taken, and President McKinley's cabinet, as previously forecasted in these dispatches, is made up as follows:

The New Cabinet.

John Sherman, Ohio, secretary of state; Lyman J. Gage, Illinois, secretary of the treasury; Russel A. Alger, Michigan, secretary of war; Joseph McKenna, California, attorney-general; James A. Gary, Maryland, postmaster-general; John D. Long, Massachusetts, secretary of the navy; Cornelius N. Bliss, New York, secretary of the interior; James Wilson, Iowa, secretary of agriculture.

POOR POLICY.

A secret society cannot sustain the purposes for which it exists if its members are prone to enter the body politic and attempt to wield an influence as members of that society. It is therefore surprising to hear of the action of a number of Junior Order American Mechanics at Scotch Plains last night, when they made a contest in the Republican primary as members of that order. Secret societies should not dabble in politics if they expect to retain the respect that should be accorded to them.

A SACRED DUTY.

An exchange well says that the man who evades paying his personal tax is dodging an obligation that is almost sacred. His personal property, from its movable character, is more closely related to him than any other of his holdings; it needs the protection of the law and the government more than any other property, and, therefore, the owner should willingly contribute his share to the support of the institutions the protection of which he and his property enjoy at all times.

THE GOLD RESERVE.

President McKinley found nearly $150,000,000 in the gold reserve of the treasury when he took the reins of government in his hands Thursday.

PASSING COMMENT.

Every day the subject of the Central Railroad Company purchasing the Rheaume property, at Fourth street and Watchung avenue, is discussed not only by commuters at the early morning trains, but by persons who take the afternoon trains to and from New York. This forenoon two elderly gentlemen were looking at the site and one said to the other: "What a pretty place this would be if that lumber yard was away from there, and nice driveways and flower beds substituted in its place."

* * * *

A resident of East Front street, in speaking to a Daily Press reporter recently, said that he thought there was a great work for the Town Improvevemnt Association to do in this city. His attention had been called to the fact through the wretched condition of the walks on East Front street, above Farragut avenue. In muddy weather it is impossible to go through that section without the greatest difficulty. It is thought that if the above association would take the matter up the City Council would be led to act very soon.

GETTING READY FOR RACES

The Driving Park to be Opened May 1st With a Good Programme.

The track of the Gentleman's Driving Park Association is being put in shape for the spring opening which will probably take place on May 30th. There will, however, be trotting there before that time. Some of the horses which will be entered for the series of trotting contests are A. C. Vail's team of handsome pacers, with records of 21 and 22. James R. Arkyll, of Westfield, "Royal," with records of 24 and 25; J. W. Johnson's black stallion "St. Albins," 2.15; Bob Fairbairn's "Lillie M." 2.24 "Lillian M," is a half sister to "Robert J," the acknowledged fastest pacer in the world. Mr. Fairbairn's trotter, "Whipple," which can also turn the track in 2 22 will participate in the races. Jed Smalley's "Westcott" with a record of 2 22 and Thomas Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig," in the 2 24 class.

These races in the past three years have proved very attractive and each Saturday afternoon the lovers of horse racing go to the track not to bet, but to witness friendly contests.

Mechanics to Have Their Own Building.

The Junior O. U. A. M. of Mt. Bethel are to be congratulated upon their energy and push, for they are about to put up a new building of their own. Grandview Council, No. 248, broke their own ground on Thursday for a new hall. The building is to be 20 by 40 feet in dimensions, two stories high and is to be fitted up with a store and lodge rooms above. The Council now numbers some 30, and the most important part is that the bembers are going to do the whole work themselves. It is expected to have the building finished by the middle of April.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Louis Snyder has completed his contract for a new barn at Finderne.

Small shipments of coal are being received by the Dunellen dealers, but they only get a few cars at a time.

Mrs. Henry Kirchner, of Front street, is confined to the house suffering from an aggravated attack of the grip.

The condition of Rev. S. F. Custard does not seem to improve as rapidly as his friends would desire. In fact he is no better.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith have gone to Whitehouse Station today, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Green, an aunt of Mrs. Smith.

Samuel Churchill, who has been visiting his brother George, of Front and Washington streets, will return to New York today.

The members of the Independent Order of Forresters will meet in their rooms Monday night, when the ceremony of initiating several new members will be gone through with.

Miss Mamie Hunt, whose serious illness from bronchial trouble has been noted in these columns, is somewhat improved today, and her friends now look for her speedy recovery.

Tailor Hecht is experiencing better times already. Since McKinley's election, he says, his business has been steadily increasing, and he is taking on new hands from time to time.

It was stated at Dunellen, yesterday, that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company was about to erect car and repair shops on a tract of the company's land at Samptown, known as South Plainfield.

The roads about Dunellen are in a fairly good condition, but now that the frost is coming out of the ground considerable work will be necessary to put them in good repair before warm weather sets in.

The young men and misses are just now on the qui vive over the arrival of a fortune teller in town. They are all having their fortunes told regardless of expense, and some of the girls are now biting their finger nails because they have been told that their chances are slim until another leap year shall roll around.

As usual on Friday nights the Dunellen street car depot (?) was barred against all comers, and the rain came down in torrents, too. It's a pity the Dunellen folks won't let the street cars run into the town anyhow, instead of making its own residents walk a quarter of a mile to and from the cars and along a street which is absolutely dangerous to traverse at night, on account, of the scarcity of street lights.

Contrary to expectations there is, as yet, but one ticket in the field for the forthcoming borough election, and that is the regular Republican ticket placed in nomination on Monday evening. There has been much talk and considerable hustle to get up a citizens' ticket, in opposition to the ticket already nominated, but as yet nothing definite has been reached, and from present appearances, the election will simply be complying with the law and there will be but the one ticket to be voted for.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Edward Hand is ill at his home suffering with a severe cold and the symptoms are bordering on pneumonia.

The managers of the mountain crushers are now working their forces every day, in order to pull up with their orders.

The little Blimm girls, who have been so seriously ill, are now able to be about their room, but they are acting under stringent orders from Dr. Westcott.

Several flags were unfurled about town and festooned in windows yesterday, in honor of McKinley and Hobart taking their seats as the executive rulers of the nation.

Carman R. Hetfield was out from Brooklyn, yesterday, looking around his property opposite the Emory Hotel property. Mr. Hetfield intends to make extensive repairs and improvements both inside and out the house.

Night before last two Plainfield youths who were in the Plains until after the "owl" train came up, started to hoof it back to Plainfield. They reached the North Avenue station about 3 a. m. and awaited the opening of the smoking room.

Fred Clark, the new postmaster, was little at a loss to know, yesterday, just when to demand admission to the postoffice precincts. Yesterday being Friday, and Fred being a little superstitious, he thought may be it would be as well to wait until Monday, which he decided to do.

THEATRICAL.

Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys" polished up to date will be presented at Music Hall Tuesday night. This rattling farce comedy is a satire on hotel life, but could be called a parody on all kinds of life. By many it is considered to be the best that bears the name of that well-known writer. The name of Hoyt alone is enough to assure the theatre going public a good hearty laugh. The plot of "A Bunch of Keys" is one of the funniest ever conceived. A farce comedy with a plot is a novelty in itself, although "A Bunch of Keys" is one of the errliest of Hoyt's endeavors. New lines, songs, dances and medleys have been added which gives a freshness to the performance, and an up-to-date entertainment is being given by this company this season.

Mrs. M. E. Dwight, of Rockview avenue, is ill at her home suffering from the grip.

Mrs. Isaac Brokaw, of Duer street, is visiting her son, Harry H. Brokaw and family, at Philadelphia.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, Druggist, corner Park ane North avenues, Plainfield.

Charles H. Angleman who has opened a law office in the First National Bank building, is a graduate of the Plainfield High School and also of the New York University Law School. He served his clerkship in the office of Counsellor W. S. Angleman, of Plainfield, and was admitted to the bar last June.

The W. G. C. will have another trial shoot next Tuesday. It had one trial shoot Thursday, at 25 birds each, and the following scores were made: W. Chamberlain, 20; C. Burtis, 12; Cyrus Wilcox, 19; B. Burtis, 7; George Peck. 18. As soon as the trials are completed the captain will classify the gunners and arrangements will be made to get up matches.

There was and "Old Folks" concert rendered in the Presbyterian chapel last evening, under the direction of Roland Randolph. The participants were all clad in old style garments. The programme consisted of: Piano solo, by Mrs. Hart; chorus, "Come My Beloved"; recitation, by Carl Whitehead; chorus; phonograph; chorus; recitation, by Nettie Johnson; ladies' double quartette; piano duet, Mrs. Hart and Miss Johnston; chorus; recitatiod, by Miss Halsey; chorus; phonograph; chorus; ladies' double quartette and "The Dearest Spot," by a full chorus.

Austin Dennis is secretary and treasurer. There was an act passed in 1892 forbidding any town or city officer being interested in a concern furnishing supplies to a town. Anyway, J. A MILLION DOLLARS

HOW DR. RAINSFORD WOULD SPEND IT FOR CHARITY.

The Famous Critic of the Bradley Martin Ball Answers the Question, "How Would You Spend a Million Dollars in Charity?"

Rev. Dr. Rainsford has told what he would do with millions if he had them In reply to the question, "How would you spend a million dollars in charity if that sum were placed in your hands to-morrow?" the minister who criticised so harshly the lavish expenditures of wealth upon the Bradley Martin ball, replied:

"I would do one of three things, and am not equal to the task of choosing between them. The only way I can find out of it is to be allowed $3,000,000 instead of $1,000,000, for I guarantee a good investment on three times the money."

The question was asked Dr. Rainsford by the editor of the Illustrated American, and in a recent issue of that publication he made an interesting reply. The three things which he hesitates as to a choice between are:

REV. DR. RAINSFORD.

First—To buy as large a plot of ground as the million would purchase in the very heart of the city and make a children's playground of it.

Second—Establish enough kindergarten schools to accommodate all of the children of the city over three years of age.

Third—Erect dwellings for working men to be rented at a low rate, sufficient merely to pay a percentage on the money invested, the money from such rents to be reinvested for the same purpose.

Dr. Rainsford declares that in order to effectually help the poor the giver must know something of their actual condition. Charity, he says, not only fails to do good in a great many instances, but often succeeds in pressing toward pauperism those whom it seeks to relieve.

"When we are dealing with poverty," he goes on, "we are dealing with a disease that affects mind and body and character, and therefore need to avail ourselves of whatever experience or scientific knowledge others have acquired. We must know something about those whom we wish to relieve, and in order to know properly we must go ourselves. Every good citizen should know something of the main and important things in his city's life.

"In other words, when it comes to spending money, use proxies by all means, till your own intelligence is trained. But let no living soul do the studying for you, and so rob you of the solemn, yet large and hopeful view of life that such study will bring."

Then Dr. Rainsford describes more fully the details of his plans for spending a million—or rather for spending three millions.

"First I would buy as large a plot as I could in the most densely inhabited part of New York, knock the houses on it down, clear the ground, put a fence around it, but no sod on it or obstructions of any sort, give it to the city on the condition they guard it—and there, Winter and Summer, let the people breathe and the children play. It is impossible to exaggerate the harm done the children of our city by refusing them, as we practically do, the right that every child should claim—of playing in order to grow.

"Second, our public school system in New York takes the children when they are six and is supposed to keep them until they are fourteen. Everyone who knows anything about education knows that education should begin at least at three. The time will come, and it may not be far away, when room will be made for every little tot in our cities in a kindergarten.

"In the third place, I would like to establish another trust fund, similar to that which George Peabody has given to London. It should be used to erect, where they are most needed, buildings for the working men, to be rented at a rate to pay a certain percentage on money invested for the same purpose."

CURRENT COMMENT.

A party of Cuban revolutionists are said to have captured $600,000 of Spanish silver in a recent raid. If the report is true, the affair will rank as the most successful free silver movement of the year.

The Greater New York, it is computed, will have 464 miles of car track within its limits. Philadelphia has 400, St. Louis 291, Baltimore 225 San Francisco 231, and Louisville 150. Chicago has 593 miles, and Buffalo about 600.

Furniss, the English caricaturist, has discovered a wonderful resemblance between the face of Senator Gorman and that of the new Archbishop of Canterbury. It should be stated, however, that the resemblance ends right there, says the New York Mail and Express.

An inventive genius has devised a scheme by which to make a hen stamp the date on every egg she lays. An ancient egg is easily detected anyway, hence the invention will not be very useful. Now will somebody kindly invent a machine to stamp the age of spring chickens?

Church cars are a recent Russian improvement. They are intended for the Siberian Railroad. The cars look like ordinary first-class carriages, but the windows are shaped like those of Byzantine churches. One-third of the space, shut off by the holy gates, is devoted to the priests, and the rest is for the congregation.

The German carp introduced in American waters a few years ago prove destructive to other fish, and fortunately they seem to be on the decrease. The Legislature of New Jersey inposes a heavy fine on any person who introduces these fish in the waters of the state, and the fish commissioners of New York have come to a like decision.

In two states of the country, and in only two, California and Kentucky the electoral vote was divided between the two candidates. Mr. McKinley received eight of the votes of California and Mr. Bryan one, and Mr. McKinley received twelve of the votes of Kentucky and Mr. Bryan one. These were also the two states, and the only two, in which the vote for Palmer and Buckner was large enough to exceed the McKinley plurality. In California McKinley's plurality was 1,822; Palmer's vote was 2,006. In Kentucky the McKinley plurality was 281; the Palmer vote was 5,114.

The attention of financiers all over the world has been drawn to the financial budget of the Russian Minister of Finance. His "prosperity budget" shows an increase of revenue of nearly 79 million rubles over last year's, and an increase of ordinary expenditure of only 53,750,000 rubles. Of the immense expenditure of 129 million rubles, 64 million were expended in building the Siberian railroad and its branches. It is especially interesting to note that this handsome increase of revenue came chiefly from railroad systems. In devoting the surplus to further extensions of those systems, therefore, she is investing her capital in the very enterprises from which it has been derived.

By the census just completed in France, the population of that country is shown to be 38,517,975, which is an increase of only 175,027 over the population it had in 1891. This is an ominous showing, but the Minister of the Interior is trying to minimize the alarm it has produced by pointing out that of late years there has been a large emigration to the colonies, especially to Algeria, and that more troops are now kept in remote possessions than formerly. At the same time he is compelled to confess that there is a marked tendency in the population to remain almost stationary, and that it does not increase in anything like the same proportions as its neighbors. While in twenty-four departments the inhabitants have increased, there has been an absolute diminution in sixty-three.

The immigration restriction bill recently adopted by both houses of Congress, and designed to exclude after the 1st of next July immigrants who are unable to read and write, provides a peculiar test. At each of the inspector's offices of the United States there are to be pasteboard slips with printed extracts from the Federal Constitution in double small pica type of not less than twenty nor more than twenty-five words. These slips are to be kept "in boxes made for that purpose," so that they shall be concealed from view, are to be duly numbered, and printed in different languages. The immigrant, having designated the language in which he claims to be proficient, is "required to draw one of said slips from the box and read, and afterward write out in full view of the immigration officer the words printed thereon." It will be seen, therefore, that the plan affords a practical test of the immigrant's ability both to read and to write his own language.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is indeed "The World's Great Spring Medicine." It has come to be recognized as the best possible spring medicine to take, and the people everywhere use it during the trying spring months to tone up anew the relaxed nerves and reinvigorate and enrich the blood. A spring medicine is a necessity if one wishes to keep in perfect health and vigor during the changes from winter to summer. This perfect spring medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, is exactly what the system needs at this season. It not only purifies, but makes rich, red blood; it not only strengthens and invigorates the nervous system, but re-energizes and revitalizes the nerves by feeding them with renewed nerve force and power; it is not only an aid to digestion, but it creates a regular, natural, and healthful action of the bowels, liver, and kidneys, which in the spring are always sluggish and inactive. By all means use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy this spring.

HOUSE CAUCUS.

Republicans Will Probably Nominate the Old Officials.

Washington, March 6.—The following call for a caucus of the republican members of the house of representatives has been issued by Chairman Grosvenor: "Notice is hereby given to the republican members of the Fifty-fifth congress that a caucus will be held in the house of representatives at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, March 13, 1897, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of the ensuing congress and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the caucus. The caucus will lack the element of interest that usually attaches to such gatherings. In the present case it will be held to nominate the house officials of the Fifty-fifth congress, which will convene in extraordinary session on the following Monday and as far as can be learned the present official list will be renominated without opposition. It was reported several weeks ago that the Illinois delegation would present a candidate for sergeant-at-arms in opposition to Mr. Russell, but this purpose appears to have been abandoned. There has been no suggestion of a candidate in opposition to Mr. Reed nor of the officers, excepting that of sergeant-at-arms.

STAR POINTER SOLD.

The Famous Stallion Knocked Down to J. A. Murphy of Chicago for $15,600.

New York, March 6.—Star Pointer, the famous pacing stallion, was sold and resold at Fasig's sale at Madison square garden last night. At the first sale the son of Brown Hal and Sweepstakes was knocked down to Denton Pearsall of Bronxville, N. Y., who bid $16,000, a hundred dollars better than the offer of James Handley of Providence. When Pearsall came to the cashier's office his check was refused and the horse was again put up for sale. The bidding was started by Handley at $10,000, but the Providence horseman dropped out of the race early, and after a spirited contest between "Bod" Palmer of Boston and James A. Murphy of Chicago, the millionaire, the bay stallion went to the latter for $15,600. There were about 5,000 people present at the sale

SENATOR FROM KENTUCKY.

Maj. A. T. Wood Chosen and an Extra Session of the Legislature Called.

Canton Visitors at the White House.

Washington, March 6.—The Canton friends of President and Mrs. McKinley called by invitation last evening and spent an hour at the White House. The invitation was extended to the personal friends of the president and his wife only. The special train which brought the presidential party from Canton will return to-day and those who are not to remain in Washington of the president's relatives and friends will go back to Ohio on it. The president's mother and sister will remain in Washington for a fortnight.

Died at the Age of 100 Years.

Pittsfield, Mass., March 6.—Betsy Spaulding Barrett, of Hinsdale, died last evening, aged 100 years, 5 months and 7 days. She was never married, and always lived within half a mile of where she was born. A half brother, aged 80, and a sister of 76, are living. Deceased was a nurse, and at the age of eighty read the Bible through in one year.

Worcester's Great Fire.

Worcester, Mass., March 6.—It is now estimated that the damage inflicted by yesterday's great fire will reach nearly $500,000. The fire was the worst that has visited Worcester in many years. All the firemen who were injured by the falling walls are resting this morning as comfortably as could be expected from the nature of their hurts.

Caucus of Republican Senators.

Washington, March 6.—A call has been issued for a caucus of republican senators this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The purpose is to select a chairman of the caucus to succeed Mr. Sherman, but it is probable that other matters may be discussed.

STORM AND FLOODS

Great Destruction and Loss of Life in the West and South.

MANY TOWNS ARE UNDER WATER

Buildings Wrecked and Unroofed by the Wind in Tennessee and West Virginia. Sad Stories Expected When Country Districts Are Heard From.

Huntington, W. Va., March 6.—A hurricane passed over this city yesterday afternoon, doing thousands of dollars damage. Wires are down south of here. The hurricane in southern West Virginia proved far more disastrous than the recent flood. Hundreds of buildings were unroofed and many smaller ones were upset. The south end of Marshall college building collapsed, causing a panic, and many ladies fell and had to be carried from the building. In Central City every industry suffered a heavy loss, while the massive chimneys on Washington school fell through the roof and went to the second floor. A dozen children were more or less injured. Several churches were badly damaged.

Cyclone in Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., March 6.—The rigorous, brief but terrific cyclone which struck Nashville yesterday did considerable damage. For the third time since its erection, nearly half a century ago, the sky-piercing spire which adorns the McKendree church, possibly the largest and wealthiest Southern Methodist congregation in the United States, has suffered injury. This time it has been completely wrecked, lifted from its base and scattered over the roofs of adjacent business houses and the nearby alleys. Scores of the big down town business houses were unroofed and the Masonic temple slightly damaged. No fatalities have been reported as yet, but the worst is feared when the country districts are heard from.

Storm Victims in Kentucky.

Louisville, March 6.—Western Kentucky was also in yesterday's storm's path. In Christian county a negro was killed by the blowing down of a barn, and two others probably fatally injured. Near East Christian, Robert Hall, a farmer, was fatally injured by a piece of flying timber. Five railroads are cut off from Louisville to-day by the heavy rains in Indiana. Every line north of the Ohio has trains scattered all over Indiana between Louisville, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. The Pennsylvania only succeeded in getting in one train, and the St. Louis service was badly demoralized.

Floods in the Middle West.

Cincinnati, March 6.—Yesterday's rain storm throughout the Missouri and Ohio valleys was the heaviest in two years. All rivers and creeks are flooded and great damage is reported at many points in Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and in this state. In this city the flood is almost as great as that of last week.

Flood Damage at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, March 6.—The rain storm which deluged this city yesterday did much damage. The northwest section of the city is under water, and boats were put in use in order to rescue residents in that neighborhood. The railroads report many washouts, and trains are much delayed.

High Waters at Columbus, O.

Columbus, O., March 6.—The Scioto river is a raging torrent and occupants of the buildings along its banks are moving out. The damage is great.

An Attempt To Burn Up 135 Paupers.

St. Johns, N. F., March 6.—An incendiary attempt was discovered last night to burn the Colonial pauper asylum in this city. The asylum has 135 inmates. The firebug placed his inflammable materials beneath a fire alarm box located in the building, so that it was first destroyed, thus preventing an alarm being sent to the fire department. Had the fire gained headway an awful holocaust would have been inevitable, a majority of the inmates being aged and infirm.

Does Not Like McKinley's Policy.

Paris, March 6.—The Journal Des Debats does not appear to be satisfied with the language employed by President McKinley in his inaugural address. It says he was vague and unsatisfactory in several respects, in regard to which it was desirable that he should be precise, especially concerning the customs regime and bimetallism.

Cleveland in Virginia Waters.

Norfolk, Va., March 6.—Ex-President Cleveland, accompanied by Capt. Evans, Capt. Lamberton and Dr. O'Reilly, arrived here on the Maple at 8 a. m. The party was at once transferred to the lighthouse tender Violet and proceeded via canal to Hatteras inlet for a few days shooting.

Death of Prince Louis de Bourbon.

London, March 6.—Prince Louis de Bourbon, comte d' Aquila, formerly an admiral in the Brazilian navy, died here yesterday. He was born in Napier July 19, 1824, and married at Rio Janeiro in 1844, Princess Januaria of Braganza.

Chadwick Lead Co.'s Works Burned.

Salem, Mass., March 6.—The works of the Chadwick Lead Co. at Forest River were practically destroyed by fire last night, entailing a loss of $25,000. Fifty men are thrown out of employment.

Andrew Carnegie's Condition Improving.

Greenwich, Conn., March 6.—Andrew Carnegie is reported to be somewhat better this morning. It is now said that the danger of pneumonia developing is past.

DIVISION IN THE RANKS.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS ARE ALARMED ABOUT MR. PLACE'S ELECTION.

A Select Conference Held Last Night and Attended by Prominent Party Workers—The Present Mayor Wasn't There.

A very select invitation affair was held in the borough last evening after the Council meeting and only those who carried the proper credentials were present. The gathering was held for the purpose of ascertaining just what the political outlook is. This action was deemed wise from the fact that there is a division in the ranks of the G. O. P. Since the primary meeting held recently there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction among the Republicans and when the supporters of Mr. Valiant learned what had been done they began to discuss the situation in a very grave manner. They said that Mr. Place would not be elected. Others who are always true their party said that they would stand by the work of the primary whatever might happen.

The meeting held last night was attended by about fifteen or twenty prominent Republicans among whom were Dr. Cooley, Senator Reed, Councilman MacLaughlin, A. V. D. Honeyman, H. N. Spencer, ex-Mayor Place and several others. The fact that the present Mayor was not invited has occasioned considerable talk and, as the Mayor is not in the habit of going where he is not invited, he was not present.

Those who were present discussed the situation and seemed to think that the whole ticket would be elected.

MORE MONEY FOR ROADS

THE APPROPRIATION WAS NOT MADE WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Several Taxpayers of North Plainfield Township Object to Increased Expenses But They Talked Without Result.

The North Plainfield Republican primary was held yesterday afternoon in the school house at Washingtonville. The attendance was the largest for many years past and there was a great deal to interest those present. When it came to the question of fixing the appropriations all was not lovely. J. Doty was selected as chairman of the primary and George Bullman was the secretary.

The following nominations were then made: Freeholder, George Bullman; town committeeman, W. H. Morris; assessor, A. P. Voorhies; collector, Worth Coddington; overseer of the poor, George Steward; commissioners of appeal, Amos Vail, Phillip Ackor, Charles Mooney; Surveyors of highway, Ephraim Ackor, George Spier.

At this point the fun commenced as the appropriations were brought up for discussion. Last year the amount set aside for roads was $1,000 and many thought that if it was true that there was a balance in the treasury there was no need of raising any additional amount, and if anything was done the appropriation should be lowered as the farmers were now paying all that they could afford to.

The primary was attended by Mrs. Olssen, who owns property in the township, and she wanted to know if the $500 subscribed by the property owners for the widening of the road for the trolley was included in the appropriation. She was informed that it was not and that the committee had nothing whatever to do with the above amount. She objected to any increase in the tax rate.

The appropriation for the roads was made $1,500, which is an increase of $500 over last year. The amount appropriated for the care of the poor was $150 and the salary of the town committeemen was made $25, which is a decrease of $25 from that usually paid.

One of the features of the meeting was the closeness with which Thomas Taylor, Democrat, was defeated for the nomination for assessor. His nomination was made in jest and he was only defeated by one vote.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

After having been confined to the house for eleven days and paying out $25 in doctor's bills without benefit, Mr. Frank Dolson, of Salt Ste. Marie, Mich., was cured by one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm costing 25 cents and has not since been troubled with that complaint. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

City Court.

This morning was the time when Carminico Colluico was to be arraigned in the City Court for sentence. The charge upon which he had been committed was selling liquor from a wagon. His sentence was deferred for a week.

BAD LOT OF MEN THERE.

SIX DESPERATE MEN CONFINED IN SOMERSET COUNTY JAIL.

Four of Them Are Confined on the Charge of Murder and Two Are Accused of Assault With Intent to Kill.

Sheriff Wyckoff has a bad lot in the Somerset County Jail at this time. There are six men confined there who are murderers, or who are accused of that crime or of assault with intent to kill. They are:

Jacob S. Johnson, convicted of the murder of Annie Rogers, along the Raritan river at this place, September 15, 1895. The case is now in the Court of Errors and Appeals, and a decision will be rendered at or before the June term.

Elmer Closson, convicted of the murder of Harry Hodgetts at Pluckamin, on August 29, 1896. The Court of Errors and Appeals affirmed the conviction on Monday, and Closson will be resentenced soon.

Frank Deluca, accused of the murder of John Pilacci at Bernardsville, on January 3, 1897, by hitting him with a club.

Guiseppe Piverotto, accused of murderously assaulting his wife at Raritan, on February 14, 1897, by hitting her with an axe and stabbing her with a knife.

Antonio Macaci, accused of stabbing Raphael Bruno at Rocky Hill, on February 5, 1897.

The last four cases will come up at the April term of our courts.

DEFEATED THE POND TOOL WORKS CRACKS AT BOWLING.

Large Number of Spectators Attracted to Witness the Game by the Spirit of Rivalry Between the Teams—Individual Scores.

There was bowling in all its glory on the East Second street alleys, last evening, and there was an unusually large number of spectators present who had been attracted there by the announcement that the Cleveland Cyclers were to compete in the first of a series of games with the Pond Tool Works employe experts. Both teams had "coachers," and there were also many "rooters," but everybody was good natured and the contest went along without special incident. The Cleveland Cyclers started the ball rooling and kept it up all through the game, and at the close their score was 1325 to their competitors 1280. The individual scores are as follows:

STATE PRISON OFFENCE.

A dastardly attempt at assault and rape was committed this forenoon in Hyde's woods, when Stella Maag, 7 years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs Phillip A. Maag, of Jackson avenue, was accosted by Fritz Fries, of Grove street.

The little girl was in company with some other girls and they were gathering plants when Fries came along and attempted to assault her.

He tore the clothes of the little girl and then picked her up and was going to carry her off, when a man happened to see the occurrence. He went at once to the home of Mrs. Maag and told her what had happened.

John Hughes, also of the borough, and a brother-in-law of Mr. Maag, hurried to the place at once just in time to catch Fries. He then brought him to the lockup where he will be held until Monday when a hearing will be given.

At the time the assault was made Fries threatened the girl's life by telling her that if she screamed he would kill her.

Mr. Maag was greatly incensed when he learned what had taken place and was anxious to have the hearing today.

Those who have heard of the assault are indignant and are determined that the cowardly assailant shall be fully punished.

Naval Reserves Delayed.

The Naval Reserves of New Jersey, who went to Washington for the inauguration, were scheduled to reach Jersey City at eighteen minutes to seven o'clock yesterday morning. When their friends reached the Pennsylvania railroad station they found posted a notice that the train, an Atlantic coast line express, was indefinitely delayed. Inquiry showed that traffic had been delayed by a wreck. The Reserves arrived shortly after noon, tired and hungry, but happy.

—Collector Spencer, of the borough, has just received a very handsome pair of ducks from Virginia. They are a present from his friend, Augustus Trust, who is stopping at the latter place.

A WHITE WING AT WORK

Members of the City Improvement Society to Persevere in Spite of Jibks and Tests—Thirty Days Trial to be Given.

The City Improvement Society, an organization of New Brunswick society women, is sparing no effort to make the town better and cleaner. Mrs. Williamson, wife of the Mayor, is president, and is backed by the wives of W. R. Duryee, Charles Hart, Samuel Long, D. D. Williamson, Mrs. M. H. Hutton, with Mrs. Janeway, the Misses Booram, Hill, Atkinson, Anable, Williamson and about fifty others. The regular monthly meeting was held yesterday.

The society recently decided to employ a man to clean up the streets daily for one month. He picks up every piece of paper and rubbish he can find.

The movement was started in order that the effect of having cleaner streets may be felt by the public and that eventually contributions may be secured to continue the work. Then men will be hired by the year.

Recently the society placed green cans at various places throughout the city, where waste paper might be thrown. Local wits declared that cuspidors on every corner and mats at street crossings would be the next reform, but the ladies persevered.

Last spring a man was engaged for a month to keep one street clean. So favorable an impression was created that ever since the residents of that street have continued the work.

PROBABLY MURDERED BY TRAMPS.

The police are investigating the mysterious death of a stranger found at the foot of the railroad embankment on Union street, in Elizabeth, early yesterday morning.

It was thought the man was one of a gang of tramps in a boxer of the Pennsylvania road, and that in a row he was struck with a coupling pin, the marks of which are on his forehead and body. It is believed he was then thrown out of the car as the train passed through Elizabeth. Mr. Bennett, an expressman, heard a man groaning at midnight, but failed to investigate. The body was found at daylight. There was nothing on the person to lead to identification.

Lighting a Fire With Ice.

You can light the fire with a piece of ice if the weather is fine.

Take a piece of clear ice about an inch thick, chip it into the shape of a disc, and with the palms of your hand melt its two sides convex, thus giving the form of a double convex lens or burning-glass. This you should do with considerable accuracy, and you may have to practise some time before you can accomplish it.

When your ice lens is complete, hold it where the sun's rays will fall on it, and focus them so that they will be directed on a piece of light paper or tinder. A blaze will burst up at once. —From Answers.

NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS.

CENTRAL RAILROAD TO ASSIST IN MAKING A BETTER CITY.

Railroad Embankment to be Repaired, and it is Intimated That the Rushmore Property Will be Bought by the Company

The officials of the Jersey Central Railroad Company have done much in the interest of the commuters of this city in the past and, from present appearances, it looks as if they intended to continue to do so in the future. A conference was held Saturday afternoon between General Superintendent Peddle, of the railroad company, and Councilmen Frost and Barrows, of the street committee of the Common Council.

One of the places visited was the portion of the railroad embankment that lies along East Third street, near Watchung avenue. The rains have washed the earth down from the embankment over the sidewalk, and it was the wish of the committee to have a stone embankment put up there to keep the earth off the sidewalk and street. Mr. Peddle thought favorably of the plan and agreed that the company would do its part of the work and build a stone wall at once.

Another place of importance that was discussed was the property lying about Grant avenue station. According to the action of the council, it is necessary to lay a curb and stone sidewalk about the property according to grade. To follow the city lines it will be necessary to change several culverts and make some changes in the general arrangement of the ground. All those Mr. Peddle agreed to do and work on them will begin at once. These changes will greatly improve the appearance of the station as well as be a great relief to citizens who have to walk in that direction in stormy weather.

While nothing was definitely stated regarding the changes to be made about the North avenue station, especially to the park on the opposite side of the track from the station, the Councilmen were given to understand that a change was coming very soon.

In conversation with a Press reporter, this morning, regarding these changes, Councilman Barrows said that they were led to believe from what they learned at the conference, that the company intended to buy the property now occupied by Rushmore & Co.'s lumber yard and make the entire plot of land into one park. A capacious waiting shed will be erected across the tracks from the present station and connected with the main station by a subway under the tracks while fences will be put up between the tracks as at Westfield and Elizabeth.

Speaker Unable to be Present.

Dr. Rosella Hall was announced to lecture in Monroe Avenue chapel last evening, but she was unable to be present. A letter was received from her and read, stating that one of her children had received a severe scalp wound and another one was very ill. Dr. Hall had also expected to speak in Vincent chapel on Thursday evening of this week, but whether or not she will be able to fill the engagement is not known. She is president of the Medical Department of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and is spoken of as a fluent talker.

Park Club Bowling Tournament.

The indivual bowling tournament at the Park Club has come to an end after several months duration. Many exciting games were rolled and while some of the members of the club did not take much interest in the tournament, there were many that did and the competition was an exciting one. The tournament was won by F. O. Ball, one of the regular bowling team of the club. Of the eighteen games he had to roll, he won fourteen and made an average of 181 in all the games he rolled, which is an exceedingly good one.

Man's Duty to Man.

Rev. C. E. Herring preached a very strong sermon last evening at the First Presbyterian church on the subject of "Man's Duty to Man." The speaker said that nowadays there was a great deal of plotting among men, and sometimes on the part of professing Christians who resort to all sorts of methods to get money from people who cannot afford to pay it. Mr. Herring held that it is the duty of man to help his brother man, even though he is not as rich.

Heaviest Taxpayer.

It might be said that Col. Wilson, the Democratic nominee for Mayor in the borough, paid taxes last year to the amount $300.

IT IS COMING THIS WAY

TROLLEY ROAD SAID TO BE ASSURED FROM ELIZABETH TO WESTFIELD.

Property Owners Are Anxious for it and an Application for a Franchise is to be Made to the Proper Authorities.

It now seems an established fact that the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company will have a trolley road in operation between Elizabeth and Westfield, says the New Jersey Contractor. Roselle property-owners, together with the Westfielders, are unanimously in favor of the road and the majority of Crandfordites have signed the company's petition.

Very little trouble will be experienced in getting in line the dilatory property-owners, and at the next meeting of the Board of Freeholders the petition will be presented by the company.

The route of the new road is laid out as follows: Starting at Morris avenue in Elizabeth and running through Sayre street to Chilton street, then crossing some lots to Westfield avenue and out Westfield avenue to the farthest line of Westfield.

Possibly in the near future the line may connect with the Plainfield city railway. On the Elizabeth end the cars will connect with the Consolidated Traction line and passengers will be transferred. The fare is to be five cents, it is understood, and if this plan is carried out passengers may board a car at the Staten Island ferry and ride to Westfield with but one change of cars for five cents. If the line is connected to the Plainfield line the fare will be double to this city.

As the Westfield and Elizabeth tracks are to be laid in Elizabeth and townships it will be necessary to secure the consent of common council and the respective township committees.

This new road will be laid in a first-class manner and the cars will be the best of their kind. The projectors of the scheme are well-known in the state, the capital stock is $200,000, and the officers are Chandler W. Riker, Newark, President; Adrain R. Riker, Vice-President and Treasurer; Edwin W. Hine, Secretary.

RELIGIOUS WORK IN BULGARIA

Thirty-eight Years of Constant Work Has Had a Good Effect.

The cozy and pretty little Monroe Avenue chapel was filled with a large and appreciative audience last evening to listen to an interesting missionary address by Miss Rhoda Pavleva, a missionary in Bulgaria and Macedonia. James McGee presided, and after a brief service of song the speaker was introduced as one who had spent ten years in Macedonia and was in this country taking up a course of medicine.

She said that thirty-eight years ago missionaries first found their way into Macedonia, holding meetings in inns and taverns. Finally they were invited into the homes of the people. Later the missionaries were persecuted; boys and men would spit at them and drive them from the streets with sticks and stones; the priests collected up all the Bibles and religious tracts and burned them.

The speaker said that she graduated from a girls' school in 1885 and was then called away from Macedonia. Now 2,000 people are receiving religious training in Sunday schools.

A New Book by a Plainfield Writer

There has come into our hands a new book, published last year by Thomas Y. Crowell & Company, of Boston, entitled "The Victory of Ezry Gardner," the author of which is Miss Imogen Clark, of Rockview avenue. The book is well worth the reading. There are pleasant descriptions of moor and sea, close analysis of the character of the homely hero who thought himself unworthy to be called a hero, and an uplifting influence in the honest endeavor of a soul struggling after truth and God, whose result is conscious victory.

Happy Day For Trinity.

At the communion service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning the hearts of Pastor Schenck and his people were full of gratitude and praise to God for an accession to the church of twelve persons, eight by letter from other churches and four on confession of Christ as their Saviour, two of the latter being young men, and two young ladies, all belonging to the Sunday-school of the church.

Post Consolidation to be Settled.

Major Anderson Post, No. 100, G. A. R., will meet on Saturday evening of this week at which time the members will decide as to whether they will disband and join Post No. 73. The chances are that the above action will be taken as almost every member is in favor of the consolidation.

OBSERVANCE OF LENT.

REV. A. C. NICKERSON'S TIMELY THOUGHTS ON CHRISTIAN DUTY

He Says that Lent Comes to Focalize our Giving Up and in a Way affords a Resolute Looking into the Eternal Life.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson preached in All Souls church yesterday on an interesting topic, taken from Matthew 4: 4—"Man shall not live by bread alone." In part he said:

"Reverence is one of the noblest traits of human nature. Evenly held it crowns a man with perfecting dignity. It moves to worship and to service of some sort for the object reverenced. This has been so from the lowest savagery to the loftiest Christian idealism. Life is in action. The motive of service causes us to feel the touch of God's hand. Something of asceticism is a part of all true religion. Wise men see the good in what the indolent, the shiftless, the vicious flinch from. Acceptance of darkness, pain, trial, as divinely sent to us, leads through all thickets of selfishness directly to the cross of Christ. Reverence looks up to God, as the man with the diseased eyes looks, so bidden by the oculist, into the dazzling light set before his face, for there his weaknesses are analyzed and their remedy discovered. Reverence also looks down to the world that it may assist in healing it of its distress. There is no true reverence which loses itself in adoration. Nothing softens us and draws us together like the consciousness of our common, human need. Men need to feel, not their superiorities, their safety from loss, their uncertain strength, but their sense of shortcoming, their brittle hold on life, their desire to repent and do better together. This law of action, of rigorous self-denial, has been a part of man's best life from the earliest times. It is in the nature of man, since that nature is made in the image of God.

"Therefore, The prompt shouldering of some cross, for the good the discipline will bring, has always been and must continue to be a prominent feature of all worthy religious living.

"There are many reasons why men believe that He who 'had not where to lay His head' was a frequent visitor to this community. The Christian is afraid of too much luxury, too great ease, too continuous enjoyment, untempered by labor.

"Lent comes to focalize our giving up, to call attention to what many will not do without special effort. It is a resolute looking into heaven, a check given to worldliness. Truly, it is only 'for a time,' but how many of us do good and live well otherwise than spasmodically?

"How many of us do not neek stated times when we shall set our houses in order? Of course there is danger of substituting the few weeks devotion for what should be the unfaltering practice of the whole year. Worship may be perfunctory rites taking the place of self-examination and self-exaction. Limited sustenance for the body may cut off rather than increase the soul's supply. In churches, where the righteousness of another is substituted for our own, a habit is to be feared which delegates to the priest and the officers a function belonging to us all by virtue of our creation in the image of God. And fasting must not be put over against feasting. The effect which the relinquishment has on ourselves is alone of value.

"Put misuses of Lent aside, do we not all need to seek of our own option, a cerrective? Do we not need to be more fervent religiously? More charitable toward our neighbors whose opinions differ from our own? More true to duty when fidelity means self-sacrifice? And must we not harden our souls through endurance to Christian activity? In this season we must think of life as it is, exigent, changeable and quickly sped."

Congregational Conference.

The semi-annual conference of the Congregational churches of Northern New Jersey will be held tomorrow in the Bound Brook Congregational church. There will be addresses by a number of well-known divines, among whom will be Rev. Lyman Abbott, of Brooklyn. The delegates from the Congregational church of this city will be Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rockfellow, Rev. M. E. Dwight and L. B. Morgan.

An Approaching Nuptual Event.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander, of Rutland, Vt., have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Susie Lena Alexander, and William Symons, of this city. The wedding will take place Wednesday evening, March 24th, at the home of the bride's parents, 23 Melrose avenue, Rutland. Mr. and Mrs. Symons will be at home, 406 East Third street, Friday evening, March 26.

REFUSED TO BURY WIFE.

HUSBAND FOUND FOR THE WOMAN KILLED ON THE TRACK.

Dead Woman Was Mrs. Hannah Melveske, Who Lived at Waverly, and is Said to Have Had Flighty Spells.

The mangled remains of the woman that were found on the tracks of the Central Railroad in front of the Netherwod station, last Friday night, were identified yesterday by M. Melveske, a laborer living at Waverly, as those of his wife, Hannah, aged fifty years Melveske says that his wife has had flighty spells at different times and last Thursday she left home in the morning with the basket, which she was seen carrying in Plainfield the next day, saying that she was going to Baltimore to visit relatives. It is supposed that she walked all the way from Waverly, but where she slept Thursday night it is not known.

Melveske says that his wife came from Bavaria thirty years ago. He said he was too poor to bury the remains and refused to take charge of them. He did not seem much sorrow-stricken over the loss of his wife. The remains were interred in the Potter's Field by Undertaker Casey.

It was through the efforts of Railroad Detective Dougherty, and the publicity given by the newspapers, that Melveske was led to believe that it was his missing wife who had met her death in such a horrible manner as the account in Saturday's Press told.

Prizes for Choristers.

A number of prizes for good behavior and good attendance were awarded to the members of the choir of the Grace P. E. church at the evening service yesterday. A cross was given to Miss Louise Egan. Medals were given to seven others. Linn Adams and Reginald Chandor received the first medal. Miss Mary Collier, Blanchard Fosgate and Albert Ford were awarded the second medal. Walter Hockridge received a medal for the first month on the book prize, and Charles Shepard for the second month on the same prize.

A Successful Opening.

The opening day at the new dry goods store of Woodhull & Martin was most successful. All day Saturday the store was filled with the best people in the city who was pleased with the treatment received and the fine display of new goods. One thing evidenced was the systematic arrangement of every department and this will be a feature of the store. A place for everything and everything in its place.

The following Citizens' ticket was nominated in North Plainfield township, Saturday evening: For Freeholder, Augustus Mobus; for assessor, Charles P. Sebring; for collector, Robert M. Clark; for constable, Thos. H. Taylor; for overseer of the poor, Francis Bartel; for surveyor of highways, Thomas McGann; for commissioners of appeal, Hiram Trust and E. S. An Aged Woman Dead.

The death of Mrs. Margaret Hewitt, aged 70 years, occurred yesterday at the home of her son, William Hewitt, No. 410 East Third street. Mrs. Hewitt had only been ill about a week and death was the result of pneumonia. The deceased had lived in this city many years and was an attendant at Trinity Reformed church. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon from the house, No. 410 East Third street.

Two Hundred Chicks Burned.

The brooder belonging to Tenney Beardsley, back of Scotch Plains, caught fire yesterday morning from the kerosene lamp which is used to heat it. The brooder was completely destroyed as were the two hundred young chickens it contained. The wagon house and tool house adjoining, were also burned and the contents, including a quantity of grain and several sets of harness, were destroyed.

Helping to Build a Church.

A meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe, Red Men, was held Friday evening. One proposition was favorably acted upon and another one received. At the request of the Tribe in Sinclair, Pa., the tribe made a contribution towards the rebuilding of a delapidated church in that town. The meeting was followed by an entertainment by Thomas Schaefer on his phonograph.

Named After McKinley.

The two sons of Caspar and Annie Schroepfer, of Park avenue, were christened by Rev. E. M. Rodman at the afternoon service yesterday in the Grace P. E. church. Their names were Conrad Francis Henry and William McKinley Schroepfer.

BAND OF BOY ROBBERS.

EDWARD SMITH LOSES ALMOST $500 BY A BAD SON.

The Boy is Only Twelve Years Old But, is Associated With a Number of Boys in This City. He Spent the Money Freely.

Last Saturday night about 9 o'clock Edward Smith, of South Plainfield, called on Chief Grant and told him that his twelve year-old boy had left home with a large sum of money. The boy had been traced to this city where he purchased a ticket for Newark. Chief Grant at once telephoned to Newark and in exactly ten minutes after doing so he received word that the boy had been caught in the Boys' Lodging House on Market street. Chief Grant sent word to hold the boy until he could go to Newark and bring him to this city. Yesterday morning young Smith was brought to Plainfield and placed under arrest.

The boy was associated with Howard Whitney, James Hinkle, Irving Young, Edward Demarest, David Demarest and Cornelius McCarty, all of this city, who have been helping him spend the money which he stole from his father at odd times for the past three weeks.

It appears that young Smith found the money, which amounted to over $400, in a bureau and that he has been helping himself to it at different times. Howard Whitney handled the money as it was secured and David Demarest spent it. The boys spent about $40 for guns and revolvers at Drier's store on West Front street. One day the boys took an excursion to Bound Brook and all enjoyed a dinner at that place. Eating seems to have been one of the features of the good times which the boys had, for they admitted to having spent lots of money for dinners. In all there is about $75 accounted for and the balance, about $400, cannot be found. Young Smith says that he lost some of the money but he don't know just where.

This morning all the boys were brought before Justice Nash when an examination was held. James Hinkle, Irving Young, Edward Demarest and Cornelius McCarty were released as they were only held as witnesses. Howard Whitney was held as an accomplice for the things which were purchased and stored in the cellar at his home. David Demarest was also held as an accomplice for having assisted in spending the money. Thomas Smith was also held. Bail will probably be furnished and the boys will be released.

Most all of the boys come from well-known and respected families and their parents feel the blow of disgrace exceedingly.

An attempt will be made to ascertain if possible where the remainder of the money has gone. As yet the boys are unable to tell of its whereabouts. The authorities are inclined to think that it has been hidden away in some secluded spot.

The boys when arrested did not seem to feel the gravity of their crime and were apparently unconcerned.

Young Smith gives no reason for going to Newark and when he was found he had no money with him. He had paid five cents for his lodging.

This afternoon he said that he had given all his money to David Demarest and the latter hid it away. This the Demarest boy denies.

Rev. Mr. Whitney, father of Howard Whitney, and Mrs. Demarest, together with their sons, are at Justice Nash's office this afternoon holding a consultation and trying if possible to learn what has become of the money.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

There was the usual business transacted at Justice Newcorn's court today. Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in the case of Runyon vs. Conway, on contract. The case of Thatcher vs. Thorn, on contract, was adjourned for a week at the request of counsel. Summons were issued in the case of J. M. Hetfield, executor, vs. Martin, landlord and tenant, returnable on the 10th, and Hetfield, executor, vs. Winn, landlord and tenant, returnable on the 13th.

Fries Released on Bail.

The case of the State against Fries, charged with assault, was adjourned in Justice Crosley's court this morning until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The defendant was released on $300 bail which was furnished by his father, William Fries. Judge DeMeza represents the plaintiff and Lawyer Walter Gordon Williams the defendant.

A Big Cock Fight.

There was a cock fight at Garwood, Saturday night. The pits were dug in a cellar. Birds were there from Orange, Scotch Plains, Elizabeth, Westfield, Plainfield and Garwood. The Orange birds won six out of the nine matches.

QUALIFIED TO BE MAYOR

A BOROUGH REPUBLICAN PLEADS FOR SUPPORT FOR MR. PLACE.

An Honorable Man, a Progressive Citizen, Steadfast Republican and a Good Official He Thinks He Ought to be Elected.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—In the columns of The Press on Saturday evening was a statement that in the borough "there is a division in the ranks of the G. O. P. Since the primary meeting held recently there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction among the Republicans."

Your article may mislead some persons not posted on the situation, which I will sum up in brief. There was recently held in the borough a usual and orderly Republican primary. It was called in the ordinary way and attended by about one hundred and forty Republicans, being the largest and most representative primary which I have ever seen in the borough. As was natural, there were two candidates presented, both good men, for the Mayoralty. There was no rivalry between the men, because neither had personally sought the office. Neither, as a matter of fact, wanted the nomination. Neither was present at the caucus. Neither had such a claim upon the party that any man present was under obligation to vote for him in preference to his opponent. It was absolutely and purely a question of judgment or feeling, or both, as to which should receive the nomination.

By a majority of about seventeen votes, Hon. Charles Place, a former excellent Mayor of the borough, was selected. Those who voted for Mr. Valiant did so under the honest belief that he would make an honest mayor. Those who voted for Mr. Place knew the man to be entirely honest, straightforward and a lifelong Republican. If there ever was a respectable, business like primary conducted on fair and honorable principles, this was one. There was no speechmaking, no denunciation of candidates, no attempt by anybody in the primary to induce votes by fear, threats, money or the hope of reward.

To say there can be "great dissatisfaction" with such a primary, so conducted, is to presuppose that the Republican party is composed of men who neither understand the obligations of party fealty nor have within them a conscience drawing them toward their duty to the reputable head of a reputable and worthy ticket.

You have stated to your readers something about the qualifications of Colonel Wilson who is running on the Democratic ticket. I suspect Charles Place does not need an introduction to the readers of the Press. He is a man who was formerly Deputy Secretary of State to the State of New York, but who has resided in North Plainfield for about a quarter of a century. He is a real estate owner, a thorough Republican, from principle and not for revenue, (since he has never held a Republican office in New Jersey in his life, though he was once our candidate for Congress in hopeless days simply to keep the party united). He is a church man and has been president of the Board of Trustees of the largest religious organization in this community for many years, carrying on its business with fidelity, punctuality and unusual success. He has been twice honored with the mayoralty in days when there were about half as many Republicans in North Plainfield as there will be next Tuesday. He was then a safe, courteous, conservative, judicious, painstaking official. Since then he has always taken an interest in the borough as a private citizen. He has attended every primary, he has usually presided over them, has been counselled with on scores of local questions, and no man in taking such counsel has ever gone from him impressed with the fact that he was other than candid, fair, reasonable and a lover of whatever would help improve our municipality.

If, under any circumstances, there can be "great dissatisfaction" with such a man, I would like to see what kind of person the people of our borough could place in nomination who would suit those who are dissatisfied.

A Boroughite.

Sent to the County Jail.

Frank Murphy and John Smith, two disreputable characters from St. Louis, were arrested by Detective Blackford last evening for trespassing on coal cars. As they could not pay their fine of $3, they were sent to the county jail for ten days. Chief Grant took the offenders to Elizabeth this morning.

Just D. and D.

Michael Crowley, an employee at the Pond Tool Works, was arrested on Somerset street yesterday afterooon by Marshal Hansen for being drunk and disorderly. This morning he was arraigned before Justice Crossley and was fined $15, which was paid by the young man's brother.

ALL ATTEND CHURCH

The President, Vice-President and Cabinet Spend a Quiet Sunday.

MRS. MCKINLEY TOO ILL TO GO OUT

Washington, March 8.—President McKinley's first Sunday in the White House was a quiet one. No callers were received and the president had an opportunity of resting from the fatigues of the week. He arose later than usual much refreshed from a hard day's work on Saturday. At 10 o'clock he prepared for church, and, accompanied by his mother, attended services at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, corner of Four and a Half and C streets, N. W., where President Grant was accustomed to attend. As the president's intention had been announced the crowd was very large, and the president and his venerable mother had considerable trouble in reaching the church vestibule. The president was shown to what is called the presidential pew. The other occupants were his mother, his brother, Abner McKinley, and Private Secretary and Mrs. Porter. The Rev. Dr. Johnston, pastor, formerly of Canada, opened the services by prayer, and the Right Rev. Bishop Newman, of Omaha, Neb., formerly of this church when Grant was president, preached the sermon. The sacred edifice was crowded, the aisles were all filled and many could not gain admittance. Bishop Newman took for his text: "I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentence." From this text he preached an eloquent discourse. Good laws, good government, knowledge and philanthropy, the pastor said, were all good, but would not be sufficient. "Seek first the kingdom of heaven," is the first and last principle of political economy. When the distinguished party left the church by the C street entrance, the crowd was so great that the police had to clear the way. As President McKinley passed with his mother on his arm the crowd cheered and the president doffed his hat several times. Entering the carriage the party drove at once to the White House. Mrs. McKinley, the president's wife, was so fatigued that she could not attend church with her husband. After returning to the executive mansion; the president remained within doors until afternoon, when he took a short walk with a friend, returning from which he spent the remainder of the day with the members of his family. Vice-President Hobart and wife attended service at the Church of the Covenant, the Rev. Dr. Hamlin preaching the sermon; Secretary of War Alger, wife and daughter at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. Radcliffe delivering the discourse; Secretary Long and daughter at All Souls church, the Rev. Dr. Leavitt preaching the sermon, and Secretary McKenna attended St. Matthew's Catholic church, at which Father Lee preached.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

This Promises To Be a Busy Week---Some of the Work.

Albany, March 8.—This promises to be a busy week in the legislature. It will take the assembly but two or three days to catch up in its work after the week's recess. The annual appropriation bill which passed the assembly some time ago will be passed by the senate this week, and a conference committee will then be appointed by each house to consider the changes made by the senate in the appropriations for the different state departments. The annual supply bill will soon be ready for introduction. The final hearing on the Greater New York charter will be held by the cities committees of the two houses to-morrow evening. The Lexow trust investigating committee has completed its report and Senator Lexow says it will be presented to the legislature to-morrow or to-morrow night. Senator Wieman's bill prohibiting printing in the state prisons except such as may be needed in these institutions will have a hearing before the senate committee on penal institutions to-morrow afternoon.

College Athletes.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 8.—The baseball management makes the announcement that athletic relations between Cornell and Michigan university have been resumed. Baseball Manager Atkinson has arranged for two games with the Cornell team for this spring. The first game will be played in Ithaca, N. Y., on May 22 and the second in Ann Arbor on June 12.

House Democratic Caucus.

Washington, March 8.—S. M. Robertson, secretary of the democratic caucus, has issued a call for a caucus of the democratic members of the house of representatives of the 55th congress, to meet in the hall of the house of representatives in the afternoon of Saturday, March 13.

Fought a Duel with Axes.

No Present for Mr. Bayard.

London, March 8.—Ambassador Bayard denies the report that he has received a present from the queen. It was said that the gift was made while Mr. Bayard was at Windsor.

THE SENATE SESSION

This Week Likely To Be Devoted Wholly to Nominations.

PEACE TREATY MAY BE REPORTED

Not Expected That President McKinley Will Be Able To Send in a Batch of Appointments Every Day---Senate May Take a Holiday To-morrow.

Washington, March 8.—The senate will not meet continuous during the week. The special session between now and the calling of the session of congress, on the 15th inst., will be devoted to the consideration of nominations and nothing else, unless the general treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain should be reported from the committee on foreign relations. It is not expected that President McKinley has his appointments so well in hand that he will be able to send in a batch every day. The cabinet has been confirmed, and it is probable that the senate after the meeting this afternoon will adjourn until Wednesday. The committee on foreign relations will meet Wednesday. Senator Davis, the ranking member, by resolution of the senate, has been made acting chairman, and there is no reason why this committee should not go ahead with the general treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain and the Alaskan boundary treaty, the only business before it. If the committee is able to agree Wednesday upon the treaty and the amendments, if any are considered to be necessary, the treaty will probably be reported and some of the time of the senate consumed in the discussion of that convention. The retirement of Senators Sherman and Cameron leaves the committee just as it stood in the last congress, these senators being opposed to each other on the vote on reporting the treaty.

KENTUCKY SENATORSHIP.

Ex-Chief Justice Holt Gaining Ground in His Candidacy.

Washington, March 8.—Maj. A. T. Wood, the Kentucky senatorial appointee, is now in Washington and will report to the senate this afternoon. He will probably remain on the ground whether he is seated or not. Though he has never been considered a senatorial candidate, Major Wood has decided to place his claims before the Kentucky general assembly. Ex-Chief Justice Holt is gaining ground in his candidacy. Representative Carroll of Louisville is his son-in-law. Mr. Carroll is a gold standard democrat, and is credited with having the promises of the gold standard democrats that they will vote for Holt when it becomes clear that a gold democrat cannot be elected, which is already evident. The gold democrats last year held the key to the election.

The Queen's Jubilee.

London, March 8.—The forecasts of the queen's jubilee progress through London, which are appearing in the press, are ventures on probabilities. Some features of the royal progress may be accurately foretold. The eight cream colored horses, never seen unless at the grandest ceremonials, will draw the queen's carriage. The procession from Buckingham palace to St. Paul's will include most of the personages and notables of the jubilee procession, and will be on a vast scale. Every county and provincial town will send representatives, and the number of regular and volunteer troops will far exceed any total hitherto massed in London.

English Bimetallists Pleased.

London, March 8.—Mr. Meniel, secretary of the Bimetallic league, has informed a reporter that British bimetallists are greatly pleased with President McKinley's reference, in his inaugural address, to the question of international bimetallism and his statement that it would be his constant endeavor to secure it by co-operation with the other great commercial powers of the world. The British bimetallists will do all they can to induce the government to co-operate with him.

Charged with Coercing His Employes.

Desmoines, Ia., March 8.—J. D. Stockton has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of coercion of employes. He is manager of the Clifton Coal company, and the charge is that he compelled employes to buy at the company's store. Other mines in the vicinity are under the same suspicion. The state law makes the offense punishable by fine, imprisonment in jail or penitentiary, but very few cases have ever been carried to the point of conviction.

Death of Rev. E. Cobham Brewer.

London, March 8.—Rev. E. Cobham Brewer, LL. D., is dead from apoplexy at Edwinstowe. Dr. Brewer was born in London in 1810. He won high honors at Trinity college, Cambridge, and was ordained a deacon in 1834, a priest in 1836, and proceeded to the degree of LL.D. in 1840. In 1850 was published his "Guide to Science."

Sullivan's Alleged Challenge.

Carson, Nev., March 8.—The only item of news which keeps the sports in Carson alive is John L. Sullivan's challenge to the winner of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight. Sullivan's alleged challenge is not taken seriously by either of the champions. They both laughed it off as a jest.

Furnace Resumes at Newport, Pa.

Newport, Pa., March 8.—After an idleness of more than a year the fires in Marshall Brothers' furnace are lighted to-day. Fifty men are at work and enough orders are booked to keep the furnace running for a year.

A STRANGE WAR ON SATAN.

How the Playbills of a Church Were Used by the Salvation Army.

Last year one of the big circuses experienced considerable annoyance throughout Central Indiana because of the warfare waged against it by the Salvation Army. The Salvationists met the circus men on their own ground and declared war by pasting tiny strips of paper bearing Scriptural texts and religious warnings upon the circus billboard displays.

The trouble began at Muncie. A member of the Salvation Army at that point, seeing popular attention directed toward the circus billboards, decided that they furnished the best medium by which to introduce his Scriptural texts to the public. Within the next half hour those circus displays were completely metamorphosed. The picture of an aeronaut falling in a parachute from a balloon bore the inscription, "Sinner, you are bound for hell. Go the other way." The long neck of the giraffe was labelled, "The straight and narrow way is the best." The snake-charmer, wrapped in the folds of a monster serpent, admonished to "Shun the deadly cup; it stingeth like an adder." An acrobat, turning a somersault in midair, apparently grasped in his hand the question, "Where will you spend your eternity?" The lion-tamer, in a cage with several beasts which apparently were about to make a meal of him, was admonished to "Watch and pray."

It is safe to say that no circus bills ever attracted more general attention or caused more comment.—Chicago Times-Herald.

HUNTING WILD HORSES.

Queer Fun for Sportsmen in the Rocky Mountains.

"You may talk about hunting deer and elk and mountain goats, but for real sport horse hunting is destined to lay all such shooting in the shade in the near future."

This remark was made by one of the cattle kings of Utah. Continuing he said:

"In the Rocky Mountain ranges there are now roaming about fully 2,000,000 horses that may be said to belong to no one.

"In the Rocky Mountains in Montana, Utah, Nevada and elsewhere it is now generally acknowledged that range horses are a public nuisance, and they ought to be exterminated. They eat up the grass needed for the cattle, and they are as hard on a range as sheep. The horses eat grass right down to the roots, thus in dry weather completely destroying the range they graze over.

"The sport of hunting horses is encouraged by stockmen, and can be indulged in with impunity. It is destined, I think, to become very popular, as it is exciting and somewhat dangerous."—Detroit Free Press.

The Bicycle in Japan.

Mr. Gilbert must rewrite "The Mikado." Japan has adopted the bicycle. No more graceful, posing, diagonal attitudes; those three little maids now scorch home from school on pneumatic tyres, says Saturday Review. The Tokio post-office officials now ride with impunity, and, according to latest information, the metropolitan police are sending expensive orders to two local workshops. For not only does Japan ride, but the deft fingers of her craftsmen are busy making machines. Moreover, they make them well; for—it sounds incredible, but the statement comes on very good authority—the Yokohama Bicycle Works have lately received an order for one hundred machines from America! and the American machinists are supposed to be licking creation in the bicycle business. There is a melancholy sense of disillusion about it all. The lover of Oriental strangeness may now give up Japan in despair. It was bad enough when the Mikado's army took to trousers and torpedoes; it was worse when his subjects descended to common journalism; but with the advent of the bicycle the most fatal link with the unpicturesque West has been forged.

A Liberal Government Salary.

Charles Burton carries the mail daily, except Sunday, between two towns twenty miles apart, receiving for this the munificent reward of one cent a year. It is necessary for him to travel forty miles a day, or 12,520 miles during the year. The payments on star routes are made quarterly, and the question arises as to how Uncle Sam is going to pay the quarter of a cent, but the contractor will not likely sue if the payments are postponed till the last quarter, and then the Government can forward the copper, which will be in full. The worst part about the business is that Mr. Burton has the contract for four years at the same rate. The cause for the remarkably low contract is that Burton was determined to have the route over an enemy, who was also a bidder, and besides he had stages and horses, which he had been using for years for that purpose.—Stanford (Ky.) Interior Journal.

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. HELLENES ORDERED HOME.

The Call To Arms Read in the Greek Church in New York.

New York, March 8.—The Greek church in this city was the centre of interest yesterday to all the Hellenes in this city. It was known that the call to arms addressed to Greeks here would be read at the service. The dispatch was received from Athens Saturday by Demetrius N. Botassi, the consul general here. There is no minister from Greece to this country, and Mr. Botassi, being senior consul, acts in such cases. There was a large crowd in the church. During the service the priest read the message of Alexandre G. Skouses, minister of foreign affairs, as follows: "Reserves belonging to classes of 1866, 1867, 1868, 1869, 1870, 1871, 1872 and 1873 are called to their standards. The only ones exempted from military service are those belonging to the auxiliary corps, and they are exempted in virtue of the law. Notify all the Hellenes within your jurisdiction to present themselves soon as possible, and please communicate contents of this dispatch to all Greek consular authorities in the United States. Recommend them to induce the reserves to return to Greece." Mr. Botassi has issued a proclamation to his fellow countrymen, and it has been posted everywhere that Greeks are likely to see it. It is as follows: "In the name of King George, I wish to officially notify all the reserves of the Grecian army who are in this country that their fatherland calls them back to its ranks. And to all Greeks, whether they have fought in bygone days or whether they have not, I say, in the name of my king: 'Your country needs you.'"

BLIZZARD IN THE NORTHWEST.

In Some Places the Snow Is Far Over the Tops of Telegraph Poles.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—Reports this morning from 100 towns in the northwest indicate that another great snowstorm is raging, perhaps the greatest of the winter. A serious blockade is on in South Dakota. No trains have been moving to Watertown, Huron, Millbank and other points for the past forty-eight hours. The South Dakota legislature, which adjourned at Pierre, is unable to leave that place owing to the blockade. General Superintendent Harding of the Great Northern has just come in from North Dakota and says he never saw anything like the quantity of snow up there. He says that in the mountains in many places it was far over the tops of telegraph poles and so deep that the rotary plows could do little better than cut a tunnel rather than a swath.

Death Warrant Read to Gentry.

Philadelphia, March 8.—Sheriff Grow Saturday afternoon read the death warrant to James B. Gentry in the county prison, where the actor has been since his conviction of the murder of Margaret Drysdale (Madge Yorke), the actress. Gentry was much overcome and spoke no word before or after the reading of the warrant. Gentry is to be hanged on April 22.

To Be Put to Death This Week.

Sing Sing, March 8.—After a series of legal complications and delays Arthur Mayhew, the negro who has been confined over nine months in Sing Sing prison, will be put to death this week. The day has not yet been determined upon by Warden Sage, but it will in all probability be Wednesday. Mayhew, on March 7, 1896, fatally assaulted and robbed Stephen Powell, a merchant of Hempstead, L. I.

Sale of Tickets for the Big Fight.

Asher of the Baldwin hotel, purchased $1,500 worth of $40 tickets. During the afternoon nearly 200 tickets were sold. About half were for $40 seats.

An Italian Bark's Slow Voyage.

Baltimore, March 8.—The Italian bark Anita S., which left Paysandu, Uruguay, for Baltimore on August 15, 1896, is at last safe in port, after one of the slowest trips on record. The vessel was given up as lost weeks ago. She was not heard from at all in months, but was spoken seven times within the last forty-five days.

The Catholic Church and McKinley.

Rome, March 8.—It is reported in vatican circles that Archbishop Ireland is using his influence with President McKinley to induce him to appoint ambassadors to Italy and France who will be more favorable to Romanism than those who have held those posts.

May Die of Hiccoughs.

Glen Cove, L. I., March 8.—William Bond of Cedar Swamp is suffering from hiccoughs, which began about two weeks ago. They were checked for a while by a physician, but broke out again in a short time, and he is now very weak. It is feared that recovery is impossible.

Engaged to Senator Hanna's Daughter.

Toledo, O., March 8.—The engagement is announced here of Thomas B. Beery and Miss Mabel Hanna, the daughter of Senator Mark Hanna. The prospective bridegroom is a member of the firm of Leggett & Beery, bridge builders, of this city.

Convicted Murderer Dies in Jail.

CORWINE ARRAIGNED

The Naval Paymaster Released Under $3,000 Bail.

NAVAL OFFICERS DEMAND HIM

Much Sympathy Expressed for the Unfortunate Man at Newport—All But $50 of the Missing Money Recovered.

Newport, R. I., March 8.—Paymaster John Corwine, U. S. N., who left the naval station last Monday and was arrested in Chicago on Wednesday, was brought here yesterday afternoon and waived the reading of a warrant charging him with obtaining $5.000 from the First National bank under false pretences. His case was continued until Friday next, and A. C. Titus gave $3,000 bonds for his appearance. An officer from the naval station then demanded the custody of Corwine, in accordance with the order for his arrest issued by the secretary of the navy. This tended to complicate matters. If the federal authorities secured possession of Corwine they would be obliged to take him on board ship and confine him in his stateroom, pending the holding of a court-martial, in which case his bondsman would be unable to produce him in the state court. After an hour's consideration the matter was finally submitted to Commodore Wallace, who consented not to contest the state court, and the navy department will accordingly await the ending of the present action. Mr. Corwine was accordingly allowed to go to his family. Of the $5,000 that he seeured from the bank all but $50 have been recovered, and that amount will be made good, so that when the case comes up for hearing there is every indication that the bank's charge will be withdrawn. Mr. Corwine's position is unfortunate and the deepest sympathy is felt for him in all quarters. It is not true that Mr. Corwine took away his checkbook. He gave it to his wife to send to the station but she failed to do so. The officers who brought him here report him to be in a most dejected mood, and believe his claim that he was crazed. He was glad to get back, and brightened up materially after being arraigned.

WILHELM'S NAVAL POLICY.

Public Opinion Reacts in Favor of His Request for More War Ships.

Berlin, March 8.—Nobody has the slightest doubt that the proposal for the increased naval credit is the kaiser's personal demand. The exact strength of the opposition to the credit in the reichstag cannot yet be gauged, but the government is convinced that the demand will be rejected, and upon an adverse vote in the imperial body will dissolve the reichstag and go before the country in a new election upon two leading planks in the electoral platform, namely, the revival of the socialist coercion act, as announced in the emperor's recent speech at the banquet of the Brandenburg provincial diet, and a large increase of the navy in respect of ships, armament and men. Apart from the standing of the deputies in the reichstag upon the question of voting an extra credit for the increase of the naval strength there is a noticeable public reaction in favor of Admiral Hollmann's proposals under the influence of news that the attitude of England is menacing to the Transvaal government. Extracts from the leading London newspapers are being published here asserting that if war should occur between Great Britain and Germany the former would close up every German port and blockade the entire German coast. The publication of these extracts has had a tendency to strengthen the kaiser's naval policy with the public. While an open quarrel with England is not yet in sight, there is a general feeling that something of the kind may happen in the near future, and the drift of the popular discussion of the situation is that it would be well to be amply prepared when such an event occurs. Chancellor von Hohenlohe has arranged to speak before the budget committee of the reichstag this afternoon and will announce upon that occasion that the ministers are solidly in favor of the naval demands and will under no circumstances depart from their position.

Embezzling County Clerk Sentenced.

Auburn, Ind., March 8.—D. D. Moody, ex-clerk of Dekalb county, pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement of $2,700 of county funds during his term of office and was senteneed to the penitentiary for one year. County Auditor Borst, ex-Treasurer Sawvel, ex-Deputy Auditor Dills, ex-Deputy Treasurer Fair, ex-Surveyor Hook and other county officials and ex-officials are also under indictment for embezzlement or larceny. The county has been robbed of $50,000 during the last ten years.

Want Ambassador Uhl Retained.

Berlin, March 8.—The prominent American residents and sojourners in Berlin have cabled to President McKinley a petition requesting that the Hon. Edwin F. Uhl, United States ambassador, be retained at his post, as his recall would be deeply regretted by American citizens throughout Germany, irrespective of political leanings.

Fears for a Missing Steamer.

St. John's, N. F., March 8.—Considerable anxiety is felt regarding the whaling steamer Esquimaux, which is now thirty days out from Dundee, bound for this port to prosecute the seal fishery. Her sister ship, the Terranova, arrived ten days ago. There are about forty persons aboard the Esquimaux.

TALK OF A JUDICIAL CHANGE.

A stir has been caused in legal circles by the report that a move is afoot among certain influential Republicans to cause the removal of Supreme Court Justice Job H. Lippincott from the Hudson county circuit to Union county. The plan was arranged, it is rumored, in the interests of Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins, who was appointed Justice Magie's, now Chief Justice, successor. Justice Lippincott is a Democrat, Mr. Collins is a Republican of wide influence. Incidentally there are several desirable appointments which will go to Republicans in the event of Justice Lippincott's transfer and Mr. Collins' appointment to his bench. Justice Lippincott was appointed a judge in 1888 to serve in Hudson county. When former Justice Werts was nominated and elected Governor, he appointed Justice Lippincott to fill the vacancy caused by his election. Since that time Justice Lippincott has presided over the Hudson County Court, and is said to enjoy the confidence and respect of the legal fraternity, irrespective of political beliefs, to a degree that is hardly surpassed by the terror and hatred offenders have of him. Justice Collins, it is said, has remarked that he prefers the Union County Court because of the less arduous duties it will impose. Lawyers and politicians are awaiting developements with interest.

THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

Every vote in North Plainfield will be bitterly fought for at the borough election tomorrow, when for the first time in several years the Democrats and Republicans will come to an issue in a local contest. In the municipal campaigns of recent years across the brook the Republicans have elected their candidates without opposition, but this year the Democrats stirred themselves from the lethargy that has heretofore marked their actions, and a ticket, headed by Col. John F. Wilson for Mayor, was put in the field. Mr. Wilson is the heaviest tax payer in North Plainfield and besides his personal popularity he has the dissatisfaction that is brewing in Republicans ranks at the present time to assist his chances of victory. It cannot be denied that the nomination of ex Mayor Charles Place came as an unexpected development in the Republican camp and has caused somewhat of a split in the ranks. Of course, the Republicans have a good working majority to fall back on in the hope of success. Though the leaders are not over-confident about a victory they seem to think that Mr. Place will pull through, even though with a reduced majority.

THE LEGISLATURE.

It is predicted that the Legislature will adjourn in about three weeks. There is a lot of important business yet to be transacted, and the presumption is that night and day sessions will be held by each house beginning this week. This must be done if the Legislature intends to get through its business in that time. All the vital questions of the session are still pending, and, as most of them are of a controversial character, there is an outlook for much exciting debate. Foremost among those questions are the proposed constitutional amendments, the Jersey City equal taxation bills, the Railroad Commission bill, the proposition for the creation of a jury commission in each county, the Bicycle Baggage, Marriage License and Salary Reduction bills, the drafting of a new appropriation law for the next fiscal year and the anti-trust bills.

A young son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyons, of Front street, was christened yesterday.

A special collection amounting to $40.50 was taken up in the M. E. church yesterday morning and this amount is to be presented to Rev. S. F. Custard, the disabled pastor, whose condition is reported as not improved.

It is understood that at the next Council meeting, one or more petitions will be presented asking for road repairs. Now that the frost is coming out of the ground, there are many places where deep and dangerous ruts have been left in the road bed.

The union meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., in the Presbyterian church, last evening, was largely attended. The meeting was made more attractive by the singing most of which was congregational in its nature, and the address of the evening was attentively listened to.

The Emerydale station was closed up tight again Saturday evening, and, as usual, the street car passengers stood around in the dark. Even a lamp in front of the station would prove a great benefit to the traveling public, and the cost would hardly exceed $2.50 for a whole year for oil. Such little things are much appreciated by the public in general and the cost to the railway company would be trifling.

Tomorrow night takes place the annual election of the school district of Dunellen. The election will take place in the Whittier School building, and besides the election of five members of the Board of Education, the amount of money thought necessary for running expenses, repairs, text books and supplies, it is thought, will not fall short of $3,000 and this is the amount the voters will be asked to decide upon.

The programme was arranged by the art committee, of which Mary W. Knight, is chairman. There were brief talks on current events and book notes. All sorts of political rumors are afloat. Whether there is any truth in them remains to be seen. One rumor has it that the Republicans are trading off Moorhouse votes for Gardner votes, thus insuring the election of N. B. Gardner, Republican, and Ad. Clark, Democrat, for collector. One thing is certain, the Republicans are on the anxious seat and will resort to any honorable means to gain the victory. Mr. Clark is the son of Freeholder Clark, an industrious young man, and it is thought that he will prove stronger than the machine, for he was not scheduled to beat. However, his father knows a thing or two about politics, and is now working for his son. It is also said that the Democrats will print a list of the sewer assessments and pass it out to the voters, headed "What the Republicans have done for you." Yesterday a conference was held by some influential Republicans, who are loud in denouncing the action of the the railroaded primary, but what the object of the secret conference was the gentlemen will not at present say. It now looks as though Christopher Harden, John M. C. Marsh and Ad. Clark, Democrats, will be elected at the polls tomorrow.

A surprise party was tendered to Thomas Young, Friday night, the occasion being his twenty-second birthday. He was presented with a number of gifts.

The election tomorrow promises to be quite exciting, because there is some talk of springing another ticket in the field to night. The town is usually Republican by large majorities and this year there will probably be no exception to the rule.

Coles' Hill, on East Front street, has been in a wretched condition all winter and now, after many complaints, the street authorities are doing a little work on the centre of the street. A few loads of crushed stone have been deposited in the low places, but there is yet plenty of room for more.

In some manner the picket fence in front of the Shepherd property, on the street running from Mountain avenue to Front street, got afire yesterday afternoon and was burning briskly when S. G. Taynor, the blacksmith, and Aleck Fillmore, his assistant, came along and saw the conflagration. The two men tried to stamp the fire out with brush, but found it impossible. Then they took off their overcoats, so they say, and whipped out the flames with the tails. About fifty feet of fence was damaged.

THEATRICAL.

One of the standard comedy successes that invariably attracts crowded houses wherever it is presented is Hoyt's cleverest and brightest farce comedy "A Bunch of Keys." This production from the first was an instantaneous success, and it has, for a long time, been recognized as an attraction certain to draw all the laughter likes of the theatre going public. The clever parody on hotel life is, of course, the center feature of the play, and the ludicrous situations in which the leading characters are involved, make the scene one of the funniest ever seen on any stage. The company is headed by Ada Bothner as "Teddy." Entire new novel and pleasing specialties, music, song, dances, etc., are introduced making an up-to-date performance, at Music Hall tomorrow night.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic or alterative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old people find it just exactly what they need. Price 50c and $1 per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—The vestry of the Grace P. E. church will hold a meeting this evening in the vestry rooms.

THE CABINET WOMEN.

NO SINECURE TO LEAD OFFICIAL WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

Public Receptions Where All Who Wish to Come Must be Greeted—Calls and Handshakings Without Number—How the Cabinet Women Rank.

The position of the wife of a cabinet officer is no sinecure, but onerous and exacting; the honor and distinction which the position confers are correspondingly great, and are, perhaps, an offset. At least there is some compensation, for the post is one that most women in official life are ambitious to fill, even when they understand and appreciate its exigencies.

There is an unwritten law that the Cabinet shall lead in official society. It is a position accorded it by both the Senate and Supreme Court, although these bodies take official and social precedence of the President's advisers. A reason for this custom is not difficult to formulate. There is among the members of the Cabinet an esprit du corps, possible because of the smallnes of its numbers, their political affiliation, and their ambition to contribute in every possible way to the success of the Administration of which they are a part. They are, in a word, the official family of the Executive, and responsible for social as well as official matters.

MRS. WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

It is a democratic body in an emphatic sense, and has already been criticised for any attempts at exclusiveness. Its doors once a week are thrown wide and hospitably open, and whoever will can enter. This privilege is sometimes abused, but the wonder is that it is so little abused. The crowds that throng the Cabinet houses on reception days—as many as a thousand cards have been received of an afternoon, which represent, at a low calculation, five hundred callers—are orderly and well-behaved.

The public receptions are by no means the only duty peculiar to a Cabinet place, but one of many. The calls received must all be acknowledged in some way. Formerly it was the custom to return these visits in person, but this involved ceaseless labor, and frequently an afternoon would be spent in fruitless search for an address in some obscure part of town. This was finally proved impracticable, and now all visits are returned by card, except those of high officials and personal friends.

The cabinet is expected to be in attendance at all social functions of an official character at the Executive Mansion, and on state occasions the women of the Cabinet assist the wife of the President in receiving, and must stand in line and suffer with her the ordeal of handshaking. They are, too, hostesses at frequent entertainments. Members of the Senate, the House, the judiciary, and officials of their departments must be entertained at dinner; receptions must be given for those not entitled to this consideration. Entertaining, indeed, becomes a business with them that they pursue as industriously and conscientiously as their husbands pursue their official duties, and however clever, astute and experienced a man must be to make a success in a Cabinet place, his wife must be equally clever, astute and experienced to make a success of her department.

The rank of the Cabinet women follows the law made by Congress in regard to the succession to the Presidency, and begins with the wife of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of the Treasury follows, then the Secretary of War, the Attorney-General, the Postmaster-General, the Secretaries of the Navy, of the Interior and of Agriculture.

Uncle Davy's First Thought.

One cold blustering morning in December, 1864, the tent of the late American General Mahone, who was an exceedingly thin man, was pitched on a bleak Virginia hillside. He was indulging in a morning nap, when "Uncle Davy," his negro body servant, tiptoed in, and, stumbling over something, knocked down the general's rot and spilled him on to the ground. Springing to his feet, the irate officer seized a sword and gave chase to the flying Davy. The darkey jumped a fence, and, feeling safe, turned back towards his master, whose notably slender unclad limbs were shaking with the cold, and said: "Good Lawd, Massa William—you ain't trustin' yo'se'f in dis wind on dem legs, is you?"

John Milton.

Milton was born in 1608 and died in 1674. His first poem of note, "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity," was written in 1629; the "Paradise Regained" was finished a short time before his death. His literary labors covered forty-five years. His greatest poem was written by the hand of an amanuensis, and his most serious annoyance was the petulance of his daughters, who sometimes refused to write when he was in the mood to compose.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Eaton Jackets Popular for Linen and Pique Gowns.

By Special Arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.

The modes in bodice decoration are legion, and, whatever the later French models may bring forth, the little bolero will hold its own throughout the summer with all sorts of wide collar effects, which may be put on as a yoke or loose at the edge like a collar. The bodice which blouses a little in front is still very popular, and some of the latest gowns are fitted very close and plain at the waist, where they are finished in two points, neatly corded after the manner in favor. Surplice effects, too, will be much in favor. Various trimmings of embroidery afford a favorite way of producing the desired shape, but there will be a variety of Eton and zouave jackets among the cloth gowns for spring wear which will have sleeves like the more pretentious spring coats. Eton jackets will be the most popular style for linen and pique gowns, and serve all the purposes of waists when worn with fancy vests or false fronts.

Transparent materials of all kinds will prevail this season for dressy gowns, but they are shown in greater variety than ever before in all sorts of mixtures of silk and wool, cotton and linens, and fabrics not transparent are made to appear so by being woven to look like one material over another. This kind of dress stuff is called moire grenadine, and has the appearance of a thin, open-meshed, fine black wool canvas over a colored silk. It comes in green, plum red, and brown, and is certainly a very charming novelty, giving the fashionable effect without the expense of a silk lining. Grenadines in both silk and wool are displayed in very attractive patterns, and the old-fashioned barege has come up in a new guise with a silk warp in the daintiest sort of textures and colors.

Tucked bodices are very popular in silk and thin materials, and a pretty example of this is shown in a linen batiste with narrow crosswise tucks for the yoke, which is outlined with cream lace insertion. The fullness below is tucked in groups three inches down from the yoke and the insertion is set in between. The sleeves have two small puffs, with insertion between and up and down the close part, which wrinkles slightly between the rows. The skirt is gathered on to a plainer part around the hips, which is trimmed with three rows of insertion. Another model for batiste or muslin has two lace-edged ruffles at the head of a Spanish flounce, full bodice with a ruffle of lace down the side where it opens, and a frill of material and one of lace over the sleeves. A pretty model for gauze, net, or thin silk grenadine shows bands of beaded galoon down the skirt and on the bodice, and narrow lace edges all the frills.

"Gregson, I'm getting oldish now, and I tell you, seriously, that I don't remember ever to have told a lie in all my life." "Well d'you know, Burnett, I'm getting a little forgetful myself."

A FRENCH MOSLEM.

KISSES THE STEPS AS HE ENTERS THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.

Though a Frenchman He Adopted the Mohammedan Religion, and Devotes Himself to Teaching His New Belief in France.

The most curious figure in the French Chamber of Deputies is Dr. Grenier, the Mohammedan member for Pontarlier.

A sensation was produced among the French legislators by the appearance of a member wearing the costume of one of the nomad tribes of the Algerian desert.

He wore a flowing white burnous about his body, and his head was covered by a turban. The laws of his religion required him to wear his turban in the Chamber, for it is a Mohammedan rule always to keep the head covered in a place where great respect should be shown.

On his arrival at the Chamber Dr. Grenier knelt and kissed the steps before he entered and repeated this ceremony immediately after passing the vestibule.

As one of the youngest members of the Chamber, he was called upon to act as temporary secretary pending the election of the regular officers for the coming session. As he followed the President of the Chamber to the desk assigned to him he again knelt and kissed the floor.

Dr. Grenier, although a Frenchman, has features which adapt themselves rather well to the Arab dress. He was converted to the new religion in the French colony of Algeria. He made the orthodox pilgrimage to Mecca and then sought to become a mollah or priest. One of his legs, however, is shorter than the other, and as the Mohammedan law requires that a priest shall be free from physical deformity, he could not take up the sacred office. Disappointed in this he determined to devote himself to propagating his new religion in France.

He settled in Pontarlier, where he gave free medical treatment to the poor and succeeded in making eight converts to Islam. His originality and charity enabled him to be elected Deputy.

The French Chamber has lately had a large supply of eccentric members. Among them was Thivrier, the workingman member, who always wore his blouse in the House. Another member was a professional strong man, who had gained fame by his ability to catch a cannon ball fired at him.

A CITY WITHOUT WHEELS.

A Mexican Town Where a Carriage is a Tradition.

Catorce is Spanish for fourteen. The tradition is that so many soldiers deserted from the Spanish army in Mexico some time in the last century, climbed to this almost inaccessible spot, turned bandits, discovered that the mountain under them was full of silver, began to mine and in due course became rich and respectable. To-day Catorce enjoys all that goes to make life comfortable and agreeable, save one thing. The telegraph and the telephone have reached the city, on poles which have been planted along slopes on which goats can hardly hold footing. There are pianos in the houses of the well-to-do. If the stranger is so fortunate as to be doing business with one of the substantial residents of Catorce about the dinner hour he will be entertained in a way to make the memory of hospitality on the mountain most satisfactory.

In every sense save one Catorce is metropolitan, as things go in Mexico. Catorce has no wheels. By this it is not meant that Catorce is without the bicycle. Catorce not only has no bicycles, but it has no wheeled vehicles of any kind. There is not so much as a pushcart within the corporate limits. The back of the burro is Catorce's common carrier.

'It is not strictly accurate," said Mr. Kaufman, the leading druggist of Catorce, and one of the three English-speaking residents, "to speak of this city as never having known the presence of a wheeled vehicle. The oldest inhabitants will tell you of a tradition that once a carriage was seen in Catorce. The occasion was the celebration of a certain very notable anniversary. The carriage was separated into as many parts as practicable. The pieces were loaded on the backs of burros. When they reached the city they were put together. The carriage was used as the chief feature of a procession. There was only one street in the whole city on which the carriage could be drawn. That was the thoroughfare to the cemetery. After the celebration, the carriage was taken apart and carried down the mountain in the same way that it had been brought up.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HE TOOK HIS COUNSEL'S ADVICE.

It Was Good Advice, Too, Considering the Lawyer's Inexperience.

It is told of an Indiana judge that shortly after his admission to the bar many years ago he was loitering about a country courthouse when a presiding judge suddenly summoned him to appear in court, and appointed him counsel for a prisoner about to be tried for stealing a horse.

"But, your Honor," he demurred, "this is a charge which may result in sending the prisoner to the penitentiary if the case goes against him, and I do not like to undertake the responsibility of his defence."

"Nonsense," exclaimed the Court, "the case is not at all complicated, and I am sure you will handle it in a manner which will conserve all your client's interest."

"I have had no chance, your Honor, to acquaint myself with the facts in this case, and if the trial must proceed at once I must beg to decline to represent the defendant," insisted the young attorney.

"Your duty in the premises is clear," continued the Court. "I will allow you sufficient time to consult with your client and map out your line of defence. You may retire with the prisoner into my private room for consultation. Thirty minutes will give you ample time. Go into that room; have the prisoner state his case fully to you; imagine yourself in his place, and advise him to do just what you yourself would do under the circumstances."

"And if I do this will the court hold me blameless for whatever may result?" asked the attorney.

"Certainly, sir," replied the judge.

The lawyer and his client retired for consultation. At the end of thirty minutes the former came out of the private room and said: "Your Honor, we are now ready to proceed."

"Where is your client?" inquired the Court.

"I do not know, may the Court please," replied the counsel.

A bailiff ran into the consultation-room. A window twelve feet from the ground was open, and there were two heel marks in the soft earth outside.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

NAVAL BILL PRICE TOO LOW.

Not Believed Uncle Sam Can Secure Armor Plate at Less Than $400 Per Ton.

Washington, March 8.—The armor question will be the first subject taken under consideration by the new secretary of the navy, who expects this week to ask for bids in order to determine promptly whether or not the manufacturers will agree to furnish the plates at the price fixed in the naval bill. There are nearly 9,000 tons required for the battleships now building, representing, at $400 a ton, $3,600,000. There is not the slightest chance that either the Bethlehem or Carnegie companies will bid on the armor or agree to deliver a single ton for less than $400 per ton. The head of the naval ordnance bureau says that the call for bids will be merely perfunctory and that it is quite certain that no firm in the country can undertake to furnish the quality of armor required for the price fixed in the bill. If the Illinois Steel company, which is said to have no plant capable of manufacturing armor, should enter the list of bidders, it is asserted at the navy department that the government could not award a contract to it, no matter what price it might present, and that it will not be the policy of the government to encourage it to establish a plant. The purpose of asking bids at an early date is in order to lay the entire armor plate question before the extra session of congress. It is known at the navy department that no armor will be manufactured at the price fixed in the naval bill, and that until congress authorizes the secretary to raise the price to $400 a ton it will not be possible for the navy department to purchase any plates required for the new ships. If the extra session fails to amend the present bill all work on the Illinois, Alabama and Wisconsin will have to be stopped within six months from date.

The Cramps Not To Enter the Field.

Philadelphia, March 8.—Edwin S. Cramp, superintending engineer of the Cramp Shipbuilding company, declares that there is no truth in the report that the firm intends to make a bid below $300 a ton for armor plate for the battlesnips Alabama, Illinois and Wisconsin, provided the government agrees to a twenty-year contract. They had all they could do, he said, building ships without going to the expense of erecting an armor plate plant. Neither was there any truth, he declared, in the story that his firm would prepare a new kind of armor for ships, a wall of cellulose backed by a thin sheet of steel.

The War in Cuba.

Havana, March 8.—The forces of Gen. Aldave have had several encounters with rebels near Guiro and other places in the province of Santa Clara. The government reports, as usual, state that the insurgents were defeated and dispersed. The losses of the rebels are said to have been heavy, though only four of their dead were found. The troops lost a captain and a private killed, and a captain, a lieutent and twenty-five privates wounded. While in pursuit of the rebels the troops destroyed a number of plantations and prefecturas and the house of the insurgent leader Aleman.

Dead at the Age of 155 Years.

City of Mexico, March 8.—A man who, if his story was true, was undoubtedly the oldest person on earth, Jesus Campeche, was buried at Guadalajara Saturday. According to his affirmation and other testimony, he was 155 years old. He said he was born in Spain in 1742 and came to this country when he was 14 years old. He had copies of the church register at Valladolid, Spain, showing the date of his birth and baptism. The papers are genuine and they undoubtedly belonged to him.

Little Girl Burned to Death.

Port Norris, N. J., March 8.—The residence of Elihu Reed was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night and his four-year-old daughter, Bertha, was burned to death. Mr. Reed and one other of his children were seriously burned. Mrs. Reed is prostrated by the catastrophe and is in a serious condition. The fire was caused by an overturned lamp.

GREECE IS PLUCKY

Her Reply to the Powers Is Practically a Refusal.

EVACUATION OF CRETE IMPOSSIBLE

The Unsettled State of the Island Proof of the Futility of the Measures of Reform---With Regard to Autonomy, It Is for Cretans to Decide.

London, March 8.—A dispatch to the Central News from Athens gives the following summary of the reply to the ultimatum of the powers which Greece will hand to the diplomats to-day, when the time expires in which a reply can be made: It will recall that Greece in 1896, in deference to the wishes of the powers, used her influence with the Cretans to induce them to accept reforms offered by Turkey. It will point out that the continued unsettled state of the island is proof of the futility of the measures of reform. With regard to the autonomy of the island the reply will state that it is for the Cretans to decide whether they will accept or not. It will declare that the evacuation of Crete by Greece is impossible, because peace, to restore which Greek troops and warships were sent to the island, remains seriously disturbed.

Turkey Accepts the Terms of the Powers.

Constantinople, March 8.—The diplomats here have received the answer of the porte to the collective note presented on Tuesday last setting forth the desires of the powers regarding the granting of autonomy to Crete under the suzerainty of Turkey. The porte assents to the terms of the powers, and says it hopes that there will be a definite understanding between itself and the powers respecting the details of the autonomy to be granted. This reply bears out the statement of the United Associated Presses that the sultan is rather glad than otherwise to have the long-disputed Cretan question settled, even though he practically loses the island.

Cretan Agitation in London.

London, March 8.—A large radical meeting was held in Hyde park yesterday to give voice to the feeling in favor of Greece which generally obtains among the masses of England. Among the speakers were Joseph Havelock Wilson, M. P. for Middlesborough, and Edward J. Morton, M. P. for Davenport. Resolutions were adopted, amid much enthusiasm, expressing sympathy with the Cretan Christians in their struggle for freedom, congratulating Greece upon her firm resolve to protect the Cretans, and protesting against the coercion of Greece by the powers. One of the resolutions urges Lord Salisbury to refuse to disgrace the British flag by lending it to support the Turks.

Bloody Struggle Inevitable.

Canea, March 8.—It is stated here that the reply of Greece to the demands of the powers will be a positive refusal to obey, and that a bloody struggle is therefore inevitable unless the powers recede from their position. It is known that Col. Vassos, the commander of the Greek army of occupation, has received instructions from King George to hold all the positions in the island now occupied by the Greek troops, and to prepare to resist to the bitter end any attempt on the part of anybody to dislodge him.

Charged with Murder After 28 Years.

New Bloomfield, Pa., March 8.—Twenty-eight years ago Melinda Snyder, a girl then 18 years old, disappeared from her home in Liberty Valley, this county, and no trace of her was ever found. Now Hugh Smith, a man 75 years old, residing in the same valley, is under arrest, charged with killing the girl and burning her body, after cutting it up into small pieces. A dispute between Smith and another person brought the crime to light. Further arrests are expected.

A Family Wiped Out by Measles.

Toluca, Ill., March 8.—The Palmer family has been exterminated by measles. William was taken sick with measles and died in less than a week. He was buried Friday, Feb. 27. The other three brothers were stricken down with the measles a few days later. Edward died Friday morning, Thomas died Friday night, and Silas, the youngest, died yesterday.

Two Men Burned to Death.

Peterboro, N. H., March 8.—A frame dwelling, two stories high, on North street, East Jaffrey, was entirely destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. Charles L. Knowlton, aged 43 years, and Crosby Lakin, aged 55 years, were burned to death. Lakin leaves a wife who is at the insane asylum.

Warren Noah Herrick Dead.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., March 8.—Warren Noah Herrick, formerly a well known and wealthy merchant of St. Joseph, Mo., is dead at his home here. Mr. Herrick was born at Minton, Vt., in 1821, and was a great grandson of Henry Herrick, son of Sir William Herrick of Leicestershire, England.

Death of Mrs. Belle Stevens.

Mount Vernon, N. Y., March 8.—Belle Stevens, aged 63, wife of Capt. J. F. Stevens, formerly a well known shipmaster of Banger, Me., is dead at her home in this city. Her husband, one son and a daughter, who is the wife of Col. John E. Bryant, late United States marshall of Georgia, survive her.

Elmira's Postmaster Dead.

Elmira, N. Y., March 8.—George H. Cotton, postmaster of Elmira, died at his home in this city last evening after a brief illness of two days with pneumonia. He was 37 years of age and married.

GIFT OF THE GOOD BOOK.

A PRESENTATION MADE TO TRINITY REFORMED SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

The Bible Given by Mrs. Lydia Beach in Memory of Her Late Husband—Received Appropriately by Mr. Anthony.

For a long time past the officers and members of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school have felt the need of a suitable Bible to be used in the school, and when it was learned that they were to receive one as a present there was a deep feeling of appreciation.

The presentation took place yesterday afternoon after the session of the Sunday-school. All of the teachers, officers and members adjourned to the main part of the church, where the exercises were held.

The opening exercises consisted of a prayer by the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and Scripture reading by Superintendent E. E. Anthony of the Sunday-school. Mr. Schenck then presented the Bible on behalf of Mrs. Lydia Beach, wife of the late Joseph Beach, in whose memory it was given. The pastor spoke somewhat as follows:

"One of the signs of the times is the privilege of seeing people interested in God's Word. We meet in the world all classes of men who profess not to believe the Bible. I thank God for the Y. M. C. A., the Christian Endeavor Society and the Sunday-school, because their aim is to teach and preach the Word as it is given. I am glad to note an increasing love on the part of all for the Bible.

"I prefer to call the Sunday-school a Bible school for it is a place where we come to study the Word as it is revealed and it is eminently proper that the Bible should have a prominent place.

"Last August it pleased God to take from our midst a man with a beautiful Christian character; one who was devoted to God and His Word. Mr. Beech had a peculiar love for the Bible, and when Mrs. Beech expressed her desire to present a Bible to some school, I suggested that she present it to our school. She readily gave her consent and I now take great pleasure in presenting to this school this very handsome Bible. We shall think of the donor and of the devotion of the departed for the Word and we shall cherish his memory in whose name it is given."

Superintendent Anthony accepted the Bible for the school and made a few remarks as follows:

"There is one thing which we have reason to be thankful for, and that is the great blessings conferred upon this church by Godly men and women. It is an incentive to the young. We have seen the sweet and childish faith of those who loved God and we shall cherish their memory always for what they were to us.

"I think of the late Elder Field and Mr. Beech, with their shining faces and their hearts filled with love for God. The Holy Word was given to the people for comfort and help and what could be more fitting than such a present to our Sunday school. I am sure that I voice the sentiment of the school when I say that we shall always remember the donor and the memory of the departed."

The exercises closed with the singing of "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," and the pronouncing of the benediction by the pastor.

The Bible is a large one and is very handsomely bound. It will be placed on the desk in the Sunday-school room where it is needed. On the first leaf of the Bible is inscribed these words: "Presented to the Sunday-school of the Trinity Reformed church by Mrs. Lydia Beach, in memory of her husband, Joseph Beach, March 7th, 1897."

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THE JUNIORS' POSITION.

SAY THEY DID NOT TRY TO INFLUENCE REPUBLICAN VOTERS.

It is Claimed That No One Supported Charles G. Frantz Because He Was a Member of the Junior Order.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In your issue of last Saturday is published an article headed a "New Political Factor," in which it is alleged that there was a tacit agreement among certain members of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., to oppose the candidacy of one man in the Republican primary held last Friday at Scotch Plains, and that members of the order were urged to vote for Charles G. Frentz, his opponent, because he was a member of the order. We wish to say that the assumptions made in the article were entirely wrong and did the members of the lodge a great injustice. The facts are simply these:

Forty-eight hours before the primaries, Charles Frentz was approached by a friend (not a member of the Junior Order) who asked him if he would allow his name to be placed in nomination for town committeeman. Mr. Frentz gave his permission. He was defeated by six votes, and out of the number that cast their ballots for him, were just six members of the Junior Order. Mr. Frentz is a Past Councilor of our order, and is a well-known and popular citizen of Scotch Plains, and has a host of friends, and he would be the last one to ask the Junior Order to use its influence in his behalf. There was no concerted action by the members. Many of the members did not know that Mr. Frentz was a candidate, and can positively state that while the voting was going on there were eight members in the Council room who did not vote in the primary. The members of the Junior Order come from the Republican and Democratic parties, and it is perfectly proper that they should exercise their individual choice for any candidate in an election without being criticised.

In justice to Mr. Frentz and the Junior Order we hope you will publish this denial, as we wish it distinctly understood, that the Junior Order is not a political organization. Neither does it meddle with politics.

CHRIST'S ESTIMATE.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck's Sermon in the Series on "The Bible in the Crucible."

In the Trinity Reformed church last evening the pastor preached on "Christ's Estimate of the Old Testament," this being the third of the series of sermons on the general subject, "The Bible in the Crucible." The text was John, 10-35, "And the Scripture Cannot be Broken." He spoke in part as follows:

"It is interesting to notice what was Christ's opinion of the Old Testament, its inspiration, its authenticity, its genuineness. All Christians trust Him and His attitude toward any question is sufficient to determine the position of His disciple. What was our Lord's testimony to the Old Testament Scriptures; what was His opinion of them; how did He view them; how did He quote them; what did He think of the very word and letter of Scripture; what use did He make of them, and what reliance did He put upon them? What we think of those Scriptures may amount to little, but what Christ thinks amounts to a great deal. Follow Jesus in the days of His flesh. With what grave and tender respect He holds in His hands the 'volume of the book,' to quote all its parts and to point out its least verses. A word, a single word has for Him, whether of a song or a historical book, the authority of a law. 'It is written.' That was the arbiter of all questions, the silencers of all objections. There was no disposition on His part to go behind the returns and question the validity of the utterance. With confident submission He receives all the Scriptures without disputing their sacred canon. From His cradle to His tomb, and from His resurrection from the tomb to His disappearance in the clouds; in the desert, in the temple, in the synagogue, it is the Bible, it is ever the Bible; it is Moses, the Psalms and the Prophets He quotes, explains and expounds. Not only was our Lord's endorsement of the Old Testament general; it was particular also. He employs special verses and words, incidents and illustrations, with which to defeat Satan, meet the objections of Pharisees and Sadducees, and instruct His disciples. Even in the agony of death on the Cross He gives testimony to the word of the Psalmist that 'the Scripture might be fulfilled.' Moreover, those miracles which some irreverent critics discredit, He endorsed as facts. The miracles of the creation of man and woman; of the deluge; of the destruction of Sodom; of the exodus; of the brazen serpent; of Elijah and Elisha, and of Jonah in his preservation and in the conversion of the people of Nineveh, our Lord confirmed as actual occurrences. He adds His testimony to the permanence of those Scriptures. 'Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law.' 'The Scriptures cannot be broken.'"

Lively Primary in Warren.

A lively caucus was held in Warren township Saturday afternoon by the Democrats in Mt. Bethel. Every section of Warren township was represented and more Democratic votes were cast than has ever before been the case. The struggle for freeholder and committeeman was most severe and finally resulted in Joel Coddington, of Mount Horeb, being nominated for Freeholder, and Henry Rogers, of Washingtonville, for Committeeman. The other officers were not changed. Fifteen hundred dollars was voted for stone roads.

ARABS OF THE DESERT.

Though nomads, the Arabs are rovers from necessity rather than choice, says Century, and where fodder and water are found in sufficient abundance they form permanent camps, surrounding their tents with a compound of durra stalks, and frequently building stone or mud lodges for their guests. When on the march they are content with very small tents, easily packed and carried, but in their permanent camps their homes are of regal proportions. Some of the tents cover two thousand square feet, and are about eleven feet high in the center, sloping to five feet or so at the sides. The tent-cloth was, as usual, made of goat hair, and parti-colored in broad stripes of black, green, maroon, blue and white, while from the seams depended tassels from which other cloths are hung to divide the tent into separate apartments when occupied by a family. These tent-cloths are spun by the women and children, as also are their saddle-cloths and trappings. The furniture is simple. Rugs are spread over the sand, and reclining cushions scattered about them. In the corner is a zeer, or large water-pot, and by it a cubi yeh, or drinking cup, of brass or copper. Round the side of the tent is a row of painted boxes, in which are packed the household goods and chattels when moving, while a few quaintly wrought lamps, and, half buried in the sand, a large earthen bowl used as a fireplace, complete the list.

No Help for Her.

"Have you hired help now, Mrs. Wingly?"

"No; hired dish smashers, extravagant wasters and patience-wreckers. I can't find any help."

FOUR-LEGGED TRADERS.

Mice that Replace With Other Articles All the Things They Steal.

There is a mouse in Florida locally known as the trading mouse. It is commonly a woods mouse, but it quickly adapts itself to human habitation. A colony of such mice carried two bushels of shelled beans thirty feet during six nights recently and replaced the beans with seed pods of a weed. Jewelry, too, has been taken by these little traders. One woman on the east coast of Florida at an Indian River winter resort found a number of seeds instead of a pair of earrings that she had left on the bureau. A search in the place where the seeds had been kept disclosed the earrings.

A man who had a box of poker chips in his room in an open-topped box was surprised to find in their stead a string of prayer beads, a small crucifix, and a number of shells. He started an investigation immediately. A priest who had roomed near by was equally puzzled by finding the colored poker chips in his room.

It is generally believed that the trading mouse learns its curious ways by robbing squirrels or bluejays of nuts laid by for future use.—New York Sun.

It Meant Business.

Here is a Jew story, and, oddly enough, it comes from a certain handsome clerk in the State Department, who is himself one of the Chosen People. A Jewish merchant here in town took his young son not long ago to see "Julius Caesar" played. S. P. Q. R. appeared on fasces or columns in every scene.

"What does S. P. Q. R. stand for, pa?" asked the boy. The father wasn't to be put out of countenance because of a trifling ignorance of Latin.

"It stands for small profits, quick returns, my son," he made answer.—Washington Post.

DEBASED AND DISGRACED

FIVE WOMEN WHO HAVE LOST ALL THEIR SELF-RESPECT.

All Are Victims of Drink and Spend Most of Their Time in the County Jail—All Had Good Relative Connections.

Spending most of their time in jail, lowered to the very depths of degredation, shunned by nearly every acquaintance, lost to respectability, and seemingly too base and vile to be reformed, are five women well known to newspaper readers in this locality, says the New Jersey Contractor. The quintette of feminine depravity referred to are not the only ones at whom the finger of scorn is pointed, but the terrible condition of these women is a lesson to others.

The women in question are recorded in the city book at the county jail, as follows: Elizabeth Cahill, aged 35, home Cranford; Ann Ford, aged 65, home Elizabeth; Mary Ann O'Sullivan, aged 30, home Westfield; Julia Lee, aged 43, home Elizabeth; Johanna Haley, aged 60, home Plainfield.

Mary Ann O'Sullivan was a Westfield girl. Fond of dancing and pleasant evenings she learned to drink. When but a girl of sixteen she became fond of intoxicants, but ceased when a respectable hard-working man offered to marry her. After the wedding Mary drank heavily and became a familiar figure at saloons. Her husband stood the trial for a few years, and then finding it impossible to cure her left his home. That was two years ago. Six months later Mary was locked up for being a drunken nuisance, and since then she has been arrested four times. Her five sentences will bring the total number of days served up to 395 out of 500.

Johanna Haley is one of Plainfield's worst women. She gave up a happy home for an existence on the streets, and was landed in jail about six year's ago. For some time after serving her sentence she managed to keep clear of evil associations, but the temptation was too strong, and since then she has been back to jail eleven times.

While in jail these women scrub, clean and wash. They are pretty well experienced with the work, and when behind the bars sing and seem happy.

Elizabeth Cahill was some years ago one of the prettiest and most promising young women in Cranford. She was married to a man who was well-known and generally respected, and taken to a home where everything that love or money could procure was to be found. Her husband was made warden of the county jail, and his political star was bright. It was then this woman developed a taste for strong drink, and a few years later she became a slave to the habit. Bowed down by the disgrace, the husband gave up politics, and withdrew in seclusion to care for his children while the wife went on growing from bad to worse, and finally landed in jail. This was in 1890. Attempts were made to reform her, but all failed, and since 1890 the woman has been in jail 22 times. Her spells of freedom last from an hour to a few days.

PREPARING THE TROLLEY'S WAY.

Another Hearing by Piscataway Officials to Brunswick Company.

An adjourned meeting of the representatives of the New Brunswick Traction Company and the members of the Piscataway Township Committee was held at Nelson's Hotel, in New Market, yesterday, but the attendance of the farmers and others most deeply interested in the proposed scheme was not so large as at the previous meeting. The traction company's legal representative produced maps and details of the proposed new route and connection with the Plainfield street railway company's tracks just east of Dunellen, but these were only examined and discussed, and no definite action was taken.

While it was not stated with any absolute certainty, it is understood that the company is cognizant of the fact that by running the line from New Brunswick to Boand Brook and thence to and through Dunellen, they may strike a snag at the latter place. Dunellen merchants need all their own customers in order to do a paying business, and with the introduction of the trolley, many would doubtless run over to New Brunswick shopping, the same as they go to Plainfield now. The meeting was adjourned for one week.

Dr. Barnes' Literary Work.

Dr. C. R. Barnes, of Grove street, is compiling a new Bible dictionary which will make its appearance before a great while. He is also writing a series of articles for a New York paper on an important Bible topic.

—During Lent, W. D. Murray's Bible class, which is held Tuesday evenings, will meet at his residence, 205 West Ninth street. Ladies as well as gentlemen are invited to attend.

THE CHURCH ROUNDERS.

PASTOR GIBSON WANTS HIS FLOCK TO STAY WITH THEIR CHURCH.

He Says That There Are Too Many Colored People Who go From One Church to Another Whenever Anything is Going on.

At the Mt. Olive Baptist church last Sunday afternoon the pastor, Rev. Mr. Gibson, gave those present a great surprise, and it has set the members of the church and Sunday-school to guessing as to what they will do.

For sometime past this church has experienced great difficulty in counting on its membership, and the cause of it has been that the members would make a circuit of the other colored churches in town whenever anything was going on to attract them. This sort of thing has been very trying to those in charge of the church, and they have been considering ways and means to put a stop to it. In consequence last Sunday Mr. Gibson startled his congregation by making a statement that the members of the church would have to decide on one thing or the other. That is, to either remain at the church or else settle at some other church of their choice. He spoke of the various members of the church going to other churches and then drifting back to their first-love. This he said would have to stop, and then he stated that he would give them one month in which to make up their minds as to what they would do.

It is generally understood that the members of this church have gone out from it and been the means of helping to start other church, and that there are colored Baptists scattered all over town who should be identified with this church.

It is confidently believed that this new order of things will tend to bring the members together, and that they will settle down as it is thought they should.

—Next Tuesday evening the members of Martha Washington Council, Daughters of America, will hold a "China Social," for the members only.

YOUNG FRIES HELD.

FURNISHED BONDS FOR $800 TO APPEAR BEFORE GRAND JURY.

The Examination Held Before ustice Crosley This Morning—The Little Girl's Story Could Not be Shaken at All.

The case of the State against Fries, charged with assault on Stella Maag, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Maag, of Jackson avenue, came up before Justice Crosley this morning at 10 o'clock. The plaintiff was represented by William DeMeza while Lawyer Williams represented the defendant. The former was assisted by his brother Judge DeMeza and the latter had the aid of Lawyer Swackhamer.

The plaintiff was heard first and Stella Maag was examined. She told a very straight story and it was almost impossible for the defense to use her testimony to help their case. The whole affair seemed to be very clear in her mind and she told every little important detail concerning it.

Two or three witnesses were called for the plaintiff, and they substantiated the original story. The defense argued their side and contended that there was an absence of evidence to hold the defendant for the Grand Jury. It was practically demonstrated that there was an attempt at assault although no harm had been done.

After hearing both sides, Justice Crosley held Fries in $800 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. His bondsmen were N. B. Smalley and William Fries Usual Batch of Legal Cases.

There was the usual batch of cases to come up before Justice Newcorn this morning. In the contract case of Schorb against Berthon, judgment was rendered in full for the plaintiff. The case of Linke against Carson, on contract, was adjourned until the 15th. The case of Linke against Wallace, on contract, was also adjourned to the same date. The case of Linke against Reisburg, on contract, has been discontinued. Summons were issued in the contract cases of Lane against Gilby, Runyon against Curtillo, and Collins against Wallace, all returnable on March 15th.

Died at the Hospital.

Mrs. Ellen Mara, of South Plain field, who has been at the hospital under treatment, died at the above place last evening. The deceased was sixty years old and been suffering from a disease for a long time. The body was removed to the home at South Plainfield this morning from which place the funeral will be held.

—The New York University Musical Clubs will give a concert at the Y. M. C. A. Hall, on Thursday evening, March 25th.

A CLEVER SNEAK THIEF.

ASSUMED TO ENGAGE BOARD BUT ONLY TO PLY HIS TRADE.

He Was of Dusky Hue and After Obtaining a Room at William Fisher's He Departed With Clothes and Jewelry.

A colored adventurer, supplied with a plentiful supply of nerve, visited his brethern in this city to the sorrow of the latter and, it is supposed, to the benefit of the wanderer. For a week the duped ones have been looking for the stranger but, as it was evident that he had left the city, they have now divulged the story of their experiences.

A week ago last Saturday afternoon a smooth-tongued colored man called at the home of William Fisher, 638 West Third street, and wanted to get board. Fisher is the sexton of the Grace P. E. church and was attending to his duties at the time. His wife was at the house, however, and showed the stranger a bedroom. He appeared very much pleased with the room and said that he would take it. He then explained to Mrs. Fisher that he had an abscess under one arm and that he would be greatly obliged if she would bring him some warm water and mutton tallow with which to dress it. Mrs. Fisher procured the required articles and left the man alone in the room. She remembered to remove her husband's gold watch to a place of safety as she left. After a time the boarder returned to Mrs. Fisher, thanked her, reiterated his statements about the excellence of the room and departed, promising to return at about 5:30 o'clock. They have not seen him since although Fisher, who is a special officer, has been very anxious to do so.

After the stranger had gone, Mrs. Fisher investigated and found that the would-be boarder had collected more than his share of the articles in the room. Her silver watch was gone as were two rings and a pearl stick pin. But the saddest blow to Fisher was the loss of his best trousers, which the colored individual had evidently taken a fancy to and appropriated.

The stranger was a colored man of light complexion, and with a small moustache. He wore a light serge suit and a black derby. He looked well except for his hat which was evidently of a former generation.

An investigation was started and it was learned that the same man had visited the houses of Wm. Mayhew and Spencer Conway on West Fourth street, and at the latter place tried to work the same little scheme that he did at the home of Fisher. Conway put him in a room where all the valuables were stowed away under lock and key and he departed no richer than he came, promising to return at 5:30 o'clock to occupy the room. As in the other case, they are looking for him still.

RECEPTION TO THEIR PASTOR.

A Social Time Arranged by Members of All Souls Church.

A very enjoyable reception was tendered by the members of All Souls church last evening to their pastor, Rev. A. C. Nickerson.

Between the hours of 8 and 8:30 the congregation and their friends began to gather and in a very short time the parlors of the church were well filled and everybody joined in the social conversation which occupied most of the evening.

The pastors of the city were well represented by Rev. Dr. Richards, Rev. C. L. Goodrich and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who extended a most hearty welcome, on the part of the clergymen of the city, to Mr. Nickerson and his wife.

Toward the latter part of the evening the members of the Ladies' Society served light refreshments. After all present had partaken of the repast the people began to say good night and to prepare to wend their way homeward, feeling that they had gained much by their short evening, and everyone felt very sure they had accomplished the purpose of the reception, namely, in becoming better acquainted with their new pastor.

To Devote His Whole Time to the Work.

John C. Whiting, of East Sixth street, wno has held the position of Lay Assistant of the "Old First" Presbyterian church, New York, since January 1st, has resigned his position as Secretary of the Boy's Department of the Twenty-Third street Young Men's Christian Association, New York, in order to give his full time to the work of the church. His resignation will take effect as soon as a successor is secured.

Endeavor Evangelistic Meetings.

The Christian Endeavor Local Union have decided to hold a series of evangelistic services, which will commence on Sunday, April 4th, in Trinity Reformed church.

BURGLARS AT DUNELLEN

FOUR HOUSES ENTERED AND A FIFTH ATTEMPT MADE.

Edgar Milliken's Wearing Apparel is Snatched From His Bedside While He Slept—Silverware and Money Gone.

Burglars were on the rampage at Dunellen last night, but fortunately for the residents little of value was taken. It is evident that at least three persons were implicated in the four or five robberies committed there during the night, as footprints in the soft ground seem to indicate. Just where their operations began is not known, but it is supposed that Edgar Milliken's house on Dunellen avenue was the first house entered, by using a putty knife or some other sharp tool, running it between the two sashes in a front parlor window.

This morning the first intimation the family had of the robbery was when Mr. Milliken arose and looked around for his clothes, which he always had on a chair near the foot of the bed. After a hasty search the clothes were found in the hallway at the foot of the front stairs. The pockets had been turned inside out, and papers and trinkets strewn about on the floor. From the dining room were taken four pieces of silverware marked "M. W. B.," and a lot of plated ware had been bent and tarnished.

William B. Mead's house was also broken into in the same manner, but here the family was packed up ready for removal, so nothing of value was taken.

Frank L. Reed's house on Dunellen avenue was entered and a pocket book belonging to his wife, with a little change in it, was taken. A front parlor window was found wide open when the family arose this morning.

The robbers had evidently intended to "crack" Engineer Dunham's house, too, for at two o'clock some one was heard prowling about the premises. Mr. Dunham had been out to a meeting of the Forresters and was not yet asleep. He jumped up and grasping his revolver made a quiet tour of the house. It was found that one of the front windows had been tampered with and an effort had been made to spring the catch on the parlor window, but without success.

Mrs. Dunham told a Press representative this morning that she saw two suspicious looking but fairly well-dressed men loitering in the neighborhood during yesterday, but she paid no particular attention to them.

From the reports gleaned from the several places it seems to indicate that it was the same two or more who operated all around, and this theory is strengthened by the fact the footprints noticed about each house are of much the same.

Chief of Police Warden was notified of the robberies early this morning, but he has no clue as yet.

The home of Charles Dieneen, conductor on drill engine No. 30, was also entered by the burglars. This morning Mr. Dieneen found his coat and vest laying in the hallway while a silver watch that he had carried for twenty five years, was missing. The burglars also made away with a little savings bank that belonged to Mr. Dieneen's young child.

TO WIDEN THE ROAD.

North Plainfield Township Award the Contract to J. Wilson & Co.

The North Plainfield Township Committee met last evening and awarded the contract for widening the road and removing the rocks for the extension of the trolley, to J. Wilson & Co., of Washingtonville. The work will commence at once, and according to the contract it must be completed by April 20th. The above firm's bid for the work was $500, and this being the lowest bid they were given the contract. The other business that occupied the attention of the committee was of a routine nature.

Jesse Lawson's Rise in the World.

J. and L. Peterson, of 346 East Third street, write to the Press to say that the statements made in the News last night concerning Jesse Lawson were erroneous. They say that he was educated at the High School in this city, after which he went to New York as a shipping clerk. He saved enough money to enter Howard University at Washington, D. C., where he graduated and afterwards studied law. He married Rosetta Coakley, who was engaged in the colored public schools of Washington. It was Alexander Truat that the First Baptist church partly educated and not Jesse Lawson.

—The funeral services of the late Mrs. Margaret M. Hewitt will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the house, 410 East Third street. The deceased was the mother of the late William B. Hewitt, who died about a year ago.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO VOTE.

A FORMER PRIVILEGE IN SCHOOL MATTERS MAY BE RESTORED.

Constitutional Amendment Now Pending Before the Legislature Greatly Interests Those Advocating Equal Suffrage.

Among the amendments to the Constitution which will come before the New Jersey Legislature this week or next, is the one restoring to the women of the State, school suffrage in rural places; (i. e. where school meetings are held.) It will be remembered that the Legislature of 1887 passed a law enabling women to vote for school trustees, and on all other questions relating to schools and their management. This law was declared to be in part unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, in 1894, although women are still able to vote at school meetings for appropriations, and they are eligible as school trustees, if elected by the votes of men. Indeed, a number of women are now filling this position, in different parts of our State as they are found to make efficient trustees.

An amendment to the Constitution, restoring to women the right to vote for school trustees, was passed by the Legislature of 1895 and (with slight verbal alteration,) by that of 1896, with hardly a dissenting voice, in either Senate or Assembly.

Petitions asking the Legislature to restore school suffrage to women have been signed by more than 7,000 persons, representing every county in the State, and 166 towns. The ladies especialy interested in the passage of this measure have already begun to visit Trenton. As this will be the third successive year that they have made there pilgrimages, in order to give the mothers of our State a voice in the education of their children, they are hoping very much that the Legislature will not change the amendments again, for if this is done, the change of the Constitution must be delayed another year and all amendments will have to be passed once more in 1898.

CASTING THEIR BALLOTS

NO EXCITING FEATURES IN THE BOROUGH ELECTION.

Considering the Fact That There Are Two Tickets in the Field it is Remarkable That the Voting is So Quiet Today

Save for a few people standing about the polls one would hardly realize that that there was an election in North Plainfield today. It is a most quiet election considering the fact that there are two tickets in the field. However, there seems to be a deep under current and it is hard to tell just which way the contest is going to end.

Here and there one can see a candidate running about conversing with the voters and trying to persuade them to cast their ballot on his side. It seems to be conceded that a large portion of the voters in Washington Park are voting for Col. Wilson for Mayor and also for Edward Douglass for Councilman.

Both sides have their workers and the strange part of it is to see prominent Republicans working for Democratic nominees. Some of these workers do not hesitate to let people know that they are working that way.

One important personage that the Republicans seem to steer clear of is Mayor Hegeman. The workers do not seem to know just how he is throwing his influence. Regarding the parlor meeting held last Friday evening, it is said that it was undecided just where the meeting should be held, and in the efforts to find a place Mayor Hegeman was forgotten until the last moment. It was then too late, for His Honor had several pressing engagements and could not attend. It is said that his name headed the list of the invited ones.

During the morning the voting has been very slow and there has been apparently no hurry evidenced on the part of the voters. In the first district the vote was 130 up to noon, and in the second district it was 155 up to the same hour. During the noon hour the voting was brisk.

Col. Wilson walked to the polls early this morning and cast his ballot and the Republican nominee, Mr. Place did the same thing. Most all of the candidates voted early.

Several prominent Republicans and Democrats who are obliged to go to New York every day will come out early this afternoon and will devote all the time to electioneering.

The Republicans will not give up the fight and the Democrats seem to be as persistent as ever. There does not seem to be very much betting on either side and few takers can be found.

Mrs. J A. Blatz, of Somerset street, is confined to her home with the grip.

TOMMY WOULDN'T TELL.

THE SON REFUSED TO GIVE HIS FATHER ANY CLUE TO HIS MONEY.

An Amusing Colloquy Between Them in Newark—Three of the Boys Implicated Are Held for the Grand Jury.

As told in yesterday's Press, Justice Nash put the boys implicated in theft and spending of the $500 missed by Edward Smith, of South Plainfield, through a star chamber proceeding in the endeavor to get some trace of the $400 that cannot be accounted for. Each one of the boys told a conflicting story and after the Justice had finished questioning the culprits he was not any wiser than before he started. The Justice believes that the boys have hidden the money somewhere. Thos. Smith, David Demarest and Howard Whitney were held to await the action of the grand jury. They were released on $100 bonds.

The Newark News of yesterday contained the following amusing dialogue between Smith and his son when the latter was found in Newark Saturday night:

Chief Grant came to this city after the prisoner yesterday morning, and he was accompanied by the boy's father, James Smith, a prosperous-looking man of about fifty-five years, who told Acting Captain Astley that his son had stolen $400 instead of $150. When Doorman Johnson brought the lad from his cell, his sire surveyed him from head to foot for a few seconds, and then turning to Chief Grant, he said:

"For the love of mercy, look at that boy. What's the matter with your face lad? Are ye pizened?"

Tommy's face was red and swollen from weeping.

After shaking his head for a few seconds the father said: "Tommy, my boy; Tommy, my boy; you'r on the rocky road to the reformatory; you'll have one of them zebra jackets on your back afore long. Tommy, what did yer do with my $400?

"I didn't take the money," whimpered the boy as he dug his fists into his eyes.

"Oh! oh!" said the old man, shaking his hands and head. "Tommy, have you no fear, on this the Lord's day of rest? Wipe that lie off your tongue; wipe it off, boy! Tommy, my boy, where is that money?"

"I ain't got your money," sobbed Tommy.

"He had only nine cents when he was brought in here," broke in Lieut. Astley.

"Hold a minute!" answered Mr. Smith, who was becoming impatient. "Tommy look up at me. Look up at your poor old father, who saved years for that money! Wipe out the lie; speak out like a man. Tommy where's your father's money?"

"I ain't got your money!" cried the lad, though he didn't look up.

"How much money did you give that Demarest boy?" asked the father sharply.

Tommy's manner indicated that he knew he was caught. He answered, slowly, "Five dollars;" then for the first time he looked up in a surprised way, and might just as well have asked his father how he knew Demarest got the $5

"Where's the rest of that money?" asked Mr. Smith, brightening up at the partial confession.

"I ain't got no more," answered the boy, and his father stood aghast. For about a minute he appeared to have lost his power of speech; then in a stern, rolling way he said:

"Tommy, the wheels of justice are rolling down on you; don't you know they'll gobble you up? Have you no fear of the devil? Speak up, like a good little man, Tommy; tell father where's his money."

"I an't got no money," answered the youngster.

"Tommy, you do be a thief," said the father, losing all patience. "I'll change your name, by heavens! You can lie like a heathen, but you can't get away. The telegraft and the telephone is too swift for you. Mayhaps ye can beat your dad, but you can't beat the 'lictricity. Tommy, before we leave ye here to be ate by the jail birds tell me where's my money? Be a good boy, Tommy; tell your father where's his money."

"I don't know," responded the lad.

Lieutenant Astley, who with Detectives Stainsby, Cosgrove, Jaegers and several others, were enjoying the lecture, wanted the old man to continue, and said, handing him a box of thirty-two-calibre cartridges:

"We took these from your son, Mr. Smith."

"What's them?" asked Mr. Smith.

"Bullets," answered the Lieutenant after handling them rather gingerly for a few seconds, looking first at his son, then at the box. Mr. Smith and the boy talked of something beside

DILEMMA OF POWERS

Greece's Reply Only Adds to the Seriousness of the Situation.

THEIR NEXT MOVE NOT YET KNOWN

Blockade of Grecian and Cretan Ports Probable --- Greek Vice-Consul Expelled from Crete --- Fierce Fighting at Heraklion.

Berlin, March 9. — The reply of Greece to the identical note of the powers has been received here, and, as was expected, it is unsatisfactory. In consequence Germany and Russia have signified their approval of an immediate blockade of the Greek and Cretan coasts.

Salisbury Calls on the Queen.

London, March 9.—Lord Salisbury went to Windsor castle last night, where he conferred for some time with the queen. The subject of the conference has not been made public, but it is supposed that it had some bearing on the Cretan question. According to announcements previously made the queen is to start for the Riviera tomorrow, and the prime minister would undoubtedly have visited her majesty under any circumstances prior to her departure. It is announced here that French, German and Russian ministers have approved the carrying out of the threat contained in the identical note of the powers to blockade the coasts of Greece in the event of her refusing to accede to the demand that she withdraw her troops from Crete and her fleet from Cretan waters. Their reason is that although the reply of Greece gives some hope of a compromise it does not comply with the demand made by the powers.

Cretan Matter in French Chamber.

Paris, March 9.—Ex-Minister Goblet pressed the government last night to consult the chamber before taking any active steps in regard to Greece. Prime Minister Meline and M. Hanotaux both declared that it was impossible. Greece's reply and her intentions were officially known, but, they added, there would be no military operations by France without the assent of the chamber. M. Millerand, a socialist member, asked that to-morrow be fixed for debating the question. Prime Minister Meline refused to fix the date, and he was supported by the chamber by a vote of 325 to 194. M. Jaures, socialist, said that he would renew the interpellation on the subject daily.

Greek Vice-Consul Expelled.

Canea, March 9.—Admiral Canevaro, commander of the Italian fleet here, has notified M. Barkalis, the Greek vice-consul, that he must leave the island. M. Baraklis was recently instructed by King George to go to Selino to intervene with the insurgents there in behalf of the besieged Mussulmans of Kandamos. The vice-consul insisted upon going in the Greek warship Hydra, but this the foreign admirals would not permit. They offered to place a Russian torpedo boat at his service, but M. Baraklis declined to accept this offer. It is supposed that his banishment is due to this refusal.

Greeks Determined To Rule in Crete.

London, March 9.—The Morning Post publishes a dispatch sent from Athens last night saying that Greece in the course of her reply demands the annexation of Crete to her territory on the grounds of historic rights and community of race and religion. Nevertheless, she declares that she would withdraw her fleet from Cretan waters if the powers would delegate to the Greek army the work of pacifying the island. After this work was accomplished the Cretans should be allowed to freely express their opinion as to the future of the island.

Fighting at Heraklion.

London, March 9.—A dispatch from Heraklion, island of Crete, to the Central News says that the insurgents, who besieged the town yesterday, declared an armistice and closed upon the place. The Ottoman troops resisted the insurgents from three points in the outskirts, and there was sharp fighting. No further details are given.

Ministers To Be Withdrawn.

Rome, March 9.—It is semi-officially announced that owing to the adverse reply of Greece to the demands of the powers, the latter will at once withdraw their ministers from Athens.

Greeks at Lowell Ready for War.

Lowell, Mass., March 9.—The Greeks of Lowell for some weeks past have been in communication with Greeks in other cities of the country and have decided almost to a man to take up arms for their native land in case their services are required. An enthusiastic meeting was held in this city last Saturday and as a result it is said that 400 men will be ready to leave Lowell for Greece at short notice. Several Greeks have already withdrawn their money from the savings banks. Those who have not sufficient money to go will be supplied by others.

AFTER THE PLUMS

Office-Seekers Now Besieging the White House.

FEW, HOWEVER, SEE THE PRESIDENT

Headed Off by Private Secretary Porter, and Only the Invited Ones Allowed To Cross the Line---Some of the Probable Appointments.

Washington, March 9.—Place hunting is now on in real earnest at the White House. Most of the sightseers have left town and the strangers remaining are after the plums that the president has it in his power to distribute. This morning the place seekers swarmed to the executive mansion prepared to talk business. They came in force, a constant stream of them. Some carried big bundles of official-looking papers in their hands; others, more modest, looked suspiciously large about the pockets. In a few urgent cases only did the president discuss appointments. He will not be hurried and the word has gone out that applicants could do just as well by going home for a couple of months before pressing their claims. In effect this was the idea carried away by a number of those who yesterday presented their applications in person. Those who had been invited to the White House alone managed to be heard and to hear with patience.

Visitors Came Early.

Nine o'clock found the up-stairs corridor in the public part of the mansion pretty well filled with men, and not a few women. A few minutes later, when the president entered his office, he found a score of visitors waiting his appearance. He saw many people in the ensuing hour, but not fast enough to make any difference in their continually increasing numbers. Right in the midst of the reception Secretary Sherman appeared and carried the president off to the cabinet room. When the president returned to his office the crowd there, in the reception corridor and in Secretary Porter's room had increased largely. Mr. Porter tried to relieve the congestion by personal talks with those seeking admission to the inner apartment and succeeded fairly well in this process of filtering in the face of overwhelming odds.

The More Important Callers.

Senators and representatives and those who came with them were more fortunate in getting the ear of the president than those who brought written credentials and endorsements. Senators Proctor of Vermont, Allison of Iowa, Wolcott of Colorado, Spooner of Wisconsin, Platt of Connecticut, Chandler of New Hampshire, and Cullom of Illinois were among the early ones, while from the ranks of the lower house came Messrs. Cannon and Hitt of Illinois, Grosvenor of Ohio, Bromwell of Ohio, Joy of Missouri, Hull of Iowa, Dolliver of Iowa and Taylor of Ohio, the representative of Major McKinley's district. The republican members of the Indiana delegation in congress came in a body to present the name of W. H. Elliott for assistant secretary of the navy. Ex-Congressman Guenther of Wisconsin was among a long line of other "exs." Mr. Guenther wants to be consul-general to Mexico. C. H. Conger, who was a member of congress from Iowa and later minister to Brazil, put in an application for his former diplomatic post.

Some Who Want Jobs.

A candidate for the commissionership of pensions presented himself in the person of ex-Congressman Pickler of South Dakota, whose term expired March 4. One of the few cases of appointments considered by the president was that of the mission to Greece, Roumania and Servia. The term of Mr. Alexander, the present minister at Athens, will expire April 7, and it is the intention to nominate his successor without delay. George A. Flooding of West Virginia, who is a candidate for the position, called on the president at the request of the latter, and his chances for what he wants are considered excellent. Another gentleman anxious for diplomatic preferment who saw the president was Gen. W. W. Thomas of Portland, Me. He came with Senator Hale. Gen. Thomas was twice the diplomatic representative of the United States at Stockholm, and is said to have been assured that he will be sent back to Sweden. Col. John Hay was an early caller, but the president was engaged and the reputed ambassador to England concluded not to wait.

Newark, N. J., March 9.—Leonard G. Spencer, Clyde Emerson and George E. It is alleged that they got away with several thousand dollars worth of records.

Ten Years for Blackmail.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 9.—Edward J. Russell, recently convicted of blackmail in trying to obtain $1,500 from ex-Corporation Counsel Jenks, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Hurd to Sing Sing for ten years. This is the extreme penalty.

Get all You can.

Some say that the hypophosphites alone are sufficient to prevent and cure consumption, if taken in time. Without doubt they exert great good in the beginning stages; they improve the appetite, promote digestion, and tone up the nervous system. But they lack the peculiar medicinal properties and the fat found in cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites are valuable, and the cod-liver oil is valuable.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites contains both of these in the most desirable form. The oil is thoroughly emulsified; that is, partly digested. Sensitive stomachs can bear an emulsion when the raw oil cannot be retained. As the hypophosphites, the medicinal agents in the oil, and the fat itself are each good, why not have the benefit of all?

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Just as Good is not SCOTT'S EMULSION.

A Story of the French Revolution.

At the time of the French Revolution, Houdon, the celebrated French sculptor (whose statue of Voltaire we have all admired in the foyer of the Theatre Francaise), was thrown into prison. Mme. Houdon, in despair, went to Barras, and with streaming eyes implored his assistance. Barras shook his head; he feared he could do nothing. Houdon was a man of genius, and, therefore, as David was one of the condemning judges, he feared there was little chance for his salvation. Mme. Houdon refusing to accept this opinion as final and using all the arts and beguilements of which an astute French lady is capable, Barras at last condescended to ask her if her husband had any statue for sale at that time in his studio. Madame replied that the only finished statue at present in his atelier was a figure of Saint Scholastice, holding a scroll of MS. in her hand.

On hearing this the wily Barras rang the bell and said to his answering secretary: "M. Houdon has just completed a splendid statue of 'Philosophy Meditating on the Revolution.' Hasten and purchase this sublime work of art, and have it placed in the Assembly." Barras's orders were carried out, with the result that not only was the sculptor's life spared, but he received more commissions for statues than he was able to execute. On such small issues did the lives of men hang in those tremendous times.—From The Gentlewoman.

Ill Directed Sympathy.

Belle—Oh! I had the worst shock this afternoon that I ever experienced. You know those flowers I was going to take down to the jail to that poor man who murdered all his first cousins? Well, I got into the wrong cell and gave them to a big blear-eyed brute who was there for robbing a banana stand.—Puck.

UNDONE BY HIS DOUBLE.

He Longed for Oblivion After Getting the Desired Description.

When you have been complimented—or when you think you have been complimented—once, about the best thing to do about it is to let it go at that and not try to make a serial story out of it.

Paul Wilstach, of the Columbia Theatre staff, was taught this at one time in his life. Mr. Wilstach was entertaining a theatrical friend and his wife—two persons whose latest venture had led them into the Southwest. One day in the course of the visit Mr. Wilstach and his masculine guest—call him Mr. Davis for short—were conversing about famous Western characters. The talk touched upon Frank James.

"I know Frank James very well," said Mr. Davis. "He's quite a fellow as you perhaps know."

"Yes, I rather imagine he must be considered as one of the stars of Southwestern life," said Wilstach admiringly. "It must be a great thing to be a famous man, even if your fame is of a peculiar sort. By the way, I don't remember ever having seen a picture of Frank James. What does he look like, anyway?"

"Well, do you know," Mr. Davis replied, "I don't believe I ever saw one man who resembled another so closely as you yourself resemble him. I have noticed it frequently, and have intended to speak to you about it."

Mr. Wilstach was delighted. To be the double of a man known probably all over the continent was some distinction.

But he could not be content to rest in his delight. He must press the limit of it. He wanted other people to know about it. For of what use was it to look like a famed character unless the fact was generally known? There was to be a theatre party of friends of the Wilstachs and Davises that night, and before the party had reached their boxes the proud Mr Wilstach had succeeded in conveying the story of his resemblance to all the members with the exception of Mrs Davis, wife of the man who had originally told him of it. Watching his chance when he was sure of attention of all of his friends, Wilstach said: "Oh, Mrs. Davis, you know Frank James, the eminent Western ex-bandit, rather well, do you not?" Mrs. Davis conceded that she did.

"Tell me what sort of a looking man he is. Whom would you say he resembles?"

"Oh," said Mrs. Davis, carelessly, "I should say like almost any old clod hopping-looking farmer—one of the kind, you know, who patronizes the gold brick industry and blows out the gas."

The curtain went up on the next act then, and Mr. Wilstach sat in silent and depressed pain, and no one in all that box had a tender word of sympathy for him.—Chicago Record.

Spring Medicine

Experience teaches the importance of special care of the health. And fixed among the important principles of hygiene and health is the acknowledged necessity of a good Spring Medicine.

Just as firmly established by the experiences of millions of people, is the positive fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is "far and away" the best blood purifier and spring medicine ever produced.

The necessity is found in the impure condition of the blood at this season, owing to the close confinement and breathing vitiated air in office, store, shop, house, schoolroom or factory; excessive eating and drinking too rich and hearty food; late hours and social indulgences. With the blood thus thick and impure, the machinery of life grinds hard.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, builds up and strengthens the nerves and tones the stomach. It oils up the machinery of the whole body; the liver takes up its work anew, the kidneys resume activity, the ache goes out of the back, the bowels are regulated, the appetite restored, the food is relished and assimilated.

Lock the door before the horse is stolen.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now as a preventive and it will pay you a thousand fold in health and strength through the coming summer.

"We always take several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family every spring as a tonic and blood purifier and we find that it overcomes that tired feeling gives new life, and keeps us well all summer." WM. RINGEL, 813 5th Ave., Peoria, Illinois.

Excellent Spring Medicine.

"For a number of years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring, not for any particular ailment, but on general principle, that the system needs a tonic at this time, and I have always found Hood's Sarsaparilla a most excellent spring medicine." HAKON HAMMER, Engineer, Pottstown, Pennsylvania.

That Tired Feeling.

"I was troubled with that tired feeling all the spring. I purchased three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken about half of it I was feeling well again. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic." MISS ORA E. MORGAN, Busey, Illinois.

Builds up the Health.

"We take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a tonic in the spring. Two of our children had tonsilitis and their blood was in a bad condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla built them up, and we have taken it again this spring with much benefit." MRS. P. H. CAHOON, Pleasant Lake, Mass.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. There is no substitute for Hood's.

THE LATE MRS. BEECHER.

Brief Sketch of the Life of the Famous Woman Just Departed.

Stamford, Conn., March 9.—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, who died yesterday at the home of her son-in-law, the Rev. Samuel Scoville, where she had hovered between life and death for many weeks, was Miss Eunice White Bullard. She was born in August 1812, in Sutton, Mass. Her father was Dr. Bullard, a physician, who, besides attending to a large practice, owned one of the largest farms in that part of the state. His children comprised seven sons and two daughters. Only one of her brothers is living—Ebenezer, a clergyman in Pennsylvania, whose twin sister is the wife of Dr. Jones of New York. Mrs. Beecher came of a family noted for longevity. Miss Bullard's marriage to Henry Ward Beecher took place at her home August 3, 1827. After the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Beecher started for Lawrenceburg, Ind. The experience and trials of herself and husband on the western frontier have been the theme of several interesting sketches from Mrs. Beecher's pen. They were three years in Lawrenceburg, six years in Indianapolis, and after that Mr. Beecher, as pastor of Plymouth church in Brooklyn, N. Y., and one of the most eloquent preachers of his time, made a world-wide reputation. It was at their home in Indianapolis, it is said, that Harriet Beecher Stowe, the preacher's sister, got the inspiration which resulted in the production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." In August of 1895 Mrs. Beecher went to Fort Townsend, Wash., unattended to celebrate her 83d birthday and visit her youngest son, Herbert Beecher. She stood the journey well, and returned in good health and spirits. It was just ten years ago yesterday, and almost exactly the same hour that her death occurred, that her husband passed away. Mrs. Beechers body will be taken to Brooklyn to-morrow afternoon and lie in state in Plymouth church. Services will be held and the remains interred at Greenwood.

Lexow Trust Report.

Albany, March 9.—The report of the Lexow trust investigating committee presented to the senate to-day is a document of the usual length of those written by Senator Lexow, containing about 10,000 words. It presents nothing especially startling or nothing new regarding the trust question, aside from what has already been known. The testimony taken before the committe is reviewed at great length, and while no special drive is made against any individual trust the committee, in treating the question, treats all of the combines investigated alike. They find that these combinations to restrict the necessities of life do exist.

Five Years for Mason.

Boston, March 9.—For at least five years and not more than eight Allison Z. Mason, the former president of the Globe Investment company must pass his time in the Charlestown state prison, where the former treasurer of the company, J. Lowell Moore, is also in confinement. This sentence was imposed in the superior court by Justice Fessenden. In imposing the sentence Judge Fessenden was greatly moved and it was with reluctance that he sent the men to state prison, but he said the enormity of the offense would not warrant his doing otherwise.

Death of G. T. Hammond.

Newport, R. I., March 9.—George T. Hammond, formerly proprietor and editor of the Newport Daily News, who died yesterday of pneumonia at his home in Middletown, carried the paper through the civil war and at that time was accredited with many enterprising feats in newspaper work. Of late years he has been employed on editorial writing to order, and was konwn in the majority of newspaper offices of the east as well as several of the west.

County Officials' Trials Postponed.

Gloversville, N. Y., March 9.—At the opening of the county court at Johnstown the trials of ex-city clerk F. H. Wilmarth on fifteen indictments for taking funds of the city of Gloversville, and ex-chamberlain A. J. Rodgers, for taking Johnstown city funds, were put over to the June term.

Seizing Officials in Cuba.

Madrid, March 9.—A band of armed men, who are believed to be Carlists, are traversing the province of Saragossa, seizing the officials of the various places through which they pass. A similar band is marching through the province of Valencia. Troops are in pursuit of both bands.

Young's Life To Be Spared.

Albany March 9.—Governor Black will commute to life imprisonment the sentence of death imposed upon Wm. Young, the Fort Hunter wife murderer, on the ground that young, who is weakminded, was under great provocation at the time of the commission of the crime.

Poolselling in Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 9.—In the senate last evening Mr. Gibson's bill amending the act prohibiting poolselling, so as to give certain associations the right to sell pools on certain days, was reported from committee and placed on the calendar.

French Wine Crop.

Washington, March 9.—Official figures of the 1896 wine crop of France have reached the state department from Consul Wiley at Bordeaux, showing a total production of 1,179,364,960 gallons valued approximately at $234,800,000.

Steel Works Resume.

Pittsburg, March 9.—The Spang Iron & Steel company and the Morehead Bros. & Co. Steel works, both located in Sharpsburg, have resumed work after an idleness of about two months, giving employment to about 700 men.

Friends Preparing a Petition to the President Praying for a Pardon and His Lawyers Will Carry the Case to the United States Supreme Court.

Philadelphia, March 9.—Friends of Capt. John D. Hart, owner of the filibuster Laurada, who was sentenced in the United States district court yesterday to two years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500 and the costs of the prosecution, which will amount to about $5,000, for engaging in a filibustering expedition, are preparing a petition to present to President McKinley praying for his pardon. Pending an appeal for a new trial to the United States circuit court, Capt. Hart's bail of $7,000 was renewed and he was released from custody. The severe sentence imposed by the court surprised even the prosecution and there is much sympathy for the unfortunate man. In refusing a new trial Judge Butler said the only question debatable in the court's opinion was whether Capt. Hart had furnished the Laurada knowing at the time that she was to carry a military expedition to Cuba to fight against the Spanish government, and whether he had a knowledge of the military character of the expedition. If the cargo was one not prohibited by our laws he would have had no reason to conceal his identity with the movement. In concealing his identity it was apparent to the court that it was the intention of the defendant to evade the laws of this government. His interest in getting the men when embarked on the Laurada together showed that he had a knowledge of the character of the expedition.

The Judge's Remarks.

In sentencing the prisoner Judge Butler said: "I am sorry to have to sentence you. As I have already said, I believe you have been justly convicted after a most fair and impartial trial. The offense is a very grave one. It involves national honor and national peace. You entered upon it with your eyes wide open, with a full knowledge of its gravity. You did it for the unworthy purpose of pecuniary gain. You took the risk for the price and you must now bear the consequences. I do not believe you belong to the criminal classes, and I am sorry I have got to punish you. At the time you committed the offense the law was well known, and it is the duty of the court to severely punish you. It is the sentence of the court that you pay $500 fine to the government, the cost of the prosecution, and undergo a sentence of two years in prison from to-day, and stand committed until the fines are paid."

To Reduce Jersey State Officers' Salaries.

Trenton, March 9.—Both branches of the legislature met at 8 o'clock last evening. In the house the judiciary committee presented two reports on the bill to reduce the salaries of certain state officials. One, the report of the majority, was adverse to the bill and the other presented by Mr. Borton of Burlington alone favored the passage of the measure. Several members said they did not intend to vote for the bill, but believed it should receive consideration at the hands of the whole house. A motion to substitute the minority for the majority report was agreed to by a vote of 37 to 14, and the bill went on the calendar for second reading.

Free Transportation for State Officers.

Albany, March 9.—The senate last night passed the bill which requires all railroads to carry members of the legislature, court of appeals judges, supreme court justices and state officers free upon the presentation of a certificate issued by the secretary of state, by the narrow majority of 27 to 12. Those who voted in the negative were: Senators Brackett, Coffey, Cantor, Charles Davis, Foley, Guy, Higgins, Krum, Nussbaum, Parsons, Stranahan and White.

Violent Outbreak in Brazil.

Paris, March 9.—A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says that an outbreak has occurred in Bahia, where a colonel, 200 soldiers and three civil officials have been killed by a band of fanatics. The dispatch also says that the offices of the monarchist newspapers, Liberade and Gazeradatarde, in Rio Janeire have been looted and burned by a mob.

COMING EVENTS.

THE BURGLARIES.

It is not to be wondered at that in this fair suburban section those of a timid temperament should feel an uneasiness, in view of the numerous and daring raids that are being committed by a gang of desperadoes whose proper idea of the world should be from behind grated doors and windows where striped suits have been, and will contiuue to be, the most popular style of attire. The numerous burglaries that have been reported every morning for several weeks past seem to be the work of an organized band who go at their nefarious invasions so systematically that they have as yet evaded detection and arrest—principally, no doubt, because they select fields for operation where there is but little police protection.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

The Republican leaders have about decided that is high time that the constitutional amendments should be taken up and discussed, and, although there is cousiderable other business of importance before the Senate, it is likely that the amendments will be made special orders for either today or tomorrow and that they will be repassed before the Legislature meets next week. The opponents of the sections relative to the judiciary have collected all the evidence they require and are ready for the fight, and Senator Voorhees, who favors the amendments adopted last year, is also ready, so that the discussion, once on, will certainly be carried to a speedy termination.

OPPOSED TO A REDUCTION.

Assemblyman Codington, as one of the committee to whom the bill of Assemblyman Wilde's making a reduction in the salaries of all State officials who receive more than $2.500 a year was referred, is adverse to the passage of the measure.

CLAMORING FOR SWIFTER JUSTICE.

Somerset County Taxpayers Fretting Under Expense of Murder Trials.

With two other murderers to try and two charged with atrocious assault with intent to kill, Somerset county's expenses this year will be heavy. The farmers are clamoring for swifter justice, and there have been threats of taking matters into their own hands. Electric lights have been placed on the four sides of the jail at Somerville to make it more difficult for the friends of the prisoners to communicate with them. Clawson, who has been so indifferent to his fate since his arrest, has maintained this spirit. Johnson, who is a local preacher, reads his Bible daily. Joseph Chabbi, who stabbed his wife to death, has periods of remorse, when he throws himself upon the cell floor and breaks forth into lamentations. The murderers were startled yesterday morning to find on the wall opposite their cells in large black letters the motto, "In God We Trust." It was done by one of the prisoners, who had been painting about the jail. It had a grim significance which made it all the more emphatic.

Loyal Legion to Entertain.

An entertainment by the Loyal Temperance Legion will be given this evening at 8 o'clock in the rooms of the W. C. T. U., at which there will be songs and recitations by the little ones, pretty motion songs, a sailor drill by children in costume, music by pupils of P. Ludwig Conde, and other attractions. Admission will be fifteen cents, and the superintendents hope that a large number will be present to encourage the children in their work. If the evening should prove stormy, the entertainment will be postponed until next Monday night.

A Picnic Social.

The Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church desiring to be social, have planned to give a picnic social in the parlors of the church on the evening of Tuesday, March 16th. An interesting programme will be arranged for the occasion and a general good time provided for all who attend.

A Reception to the Council.

Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, No. 193, I. O. R. M., will tender a reception and dance to Paughcaughnaughsinque Council, No. 34, Degree of Pocahontas, on Wednesday evening, March 10th, in their wigwam on West Second street.

PASSING COMMENT.

An amusing circumstance occurred at one of the city churches on Sunday evening when the man that pumps the organ went to sleep. It was found necessary to arouse him before the congregation could have any music to sing by.

On West Front street near Central avenue a stepping stone stands on the sidewalk in a very dangerous position for pedestrians. The Daily Press has called attention to the matter before but there does not seem to be anyone who has any authority to attend to the same. But a few feet away is another bad place where a large piece of flagging has been broken and is left in a dangerous position. These matters should be looked after before someone is injured.

* * * *

While it may be presumed that the appaling horror of Friday evening, which occurred at Netherwood, has no connection with the subject here presented, yet it is suggestive of the importance of some plan being devised in the interest of people—men, women and children living on the other side of the track from the station, but desiring to go to the depot or to walk from one side to the other—that they have some way besides crossing the track, the bridges at either side being too far for foot passengers. Life is constantly endangered by the rapid motion of the "Flyer." It is a common occurrence that even young men, and sometimes old men and women that we know, escape a horrible death (to use a common expression) by a hairbreadth. It seems to me that the railroad company should have a bridge for carriages or a narrow way for foot passengers under the track at this point, fence the road on both sides for 100 yards or more on each side of the station, and make it a heavy fine or imprisonment for all persons crossing on the surface.

"The Captain's dinner" given on the steamers of the North German Lloyd plying between New York and Mediterranean ports is a delightful event. It occurs the last night out when passengers and officers, after ten or twelve days companionship, have become well acquainted. This dinner is a little more elaborate than those of every day, while tables and cabin are decorated with flags and souvenirs. The steward's service is controlled by a bell and at a signal the final course but one is removed. At the next signal the electric lights are extinguished and the company is left in darkness. Soon the signal sounds again, the stewards return and march several times around the saloon bearing lighted lanterns of many colors, illuminated confectionery, blazing puddings etc., while the band plays again.

Selecting a Hymn Book.

Tomorrow evening there will be a special meeting of the congregation of the Crescent Avenue church, after the regular weekly prayer meeting, to hear the report of the committee which was appointed some weeks ago to investigate into the newly-proposed hymn book for the use of the church. A large attendance is earnestly requested as it is desired to ascertain the opinion of the majority of the congregation.

THEATRICAL.

In these days of scenic stage realism the author must be a mechanic as well as a writer in order to carry out perfection of effect, and in "A Bunch of Keys" one sees the fruition of all this implies. There is enough realism to make one wonder how such things can be worked on a stage, and they are so natural as to appear almost actual. The company presenting this skit is a strong one and the scenic effects are most novel and in harmony with the text. One soon tires of a too long drawn production of dramatic effort, no matter how well the story is sustained, and variety is always pleasing. Manager Bothner has secured a fine array of burlesque and novel features in the musical and dancing line for his "Bunch of Keys" Company which appear at Music Hall tonight.

—West End Park is experiencing a building boom just at present. Besides the several new houses put up during the fall and winter, cellars are being excavated for three more new houses on the north side of West Front street.

SAFE RULES FOR BICYCLING.

Things to Do and to Avoid, as Set Forth by a Physician.

1. In purchasing a wheel take as much care to have it fit you as you would in obtaining a gown or a suit of clothes.

2. Be sure that when sitting upright you do not have to reach to maintain the ball of the foot on the pedal during an entire revolution.

3. Adjust the handle bars at a level which, when the arms are fully extended, will keep the body in an almost upright position. In riding long distances, the handle bars should be dropped a trifle, so as to increase the leverage by a backward as well as a forward push.

4. Before purchasing a wheel make an arrangement with the dealer whereby you may be allowed to make trials of different saddles until you find one that is perfectly comfortable, for a properly fitting saddle is the most necessary element in safe and comfortable riding. No one saddle will fit all riders; sometimes many must be tried before the correct model is found. Incline to a saddle that is stiff and moderately provided with springs, and which is broad and short, rather than long and narrow. A soft saddle, whether of padded leather or inflated rubber, will always chafe when ridden a long distance. The pommel found on the majority of saddles is a very necessary adjunct; it cannot be dispensed with. There must be sufficient cut out at the sides of the saddle so that there will be no interference with the muscles of the interior and posterior aspect of the thigh on the downward stroke. This lack of common concavity to the sides is a common defect in the many so-called anatomical saddles. The most important object to be attained in the adjustment of the saddle is to have the pommel high enough to give the body a slight tendency to slip backward.

5. The average woman should never ride a wheel geared higher than 64 inches; the average man higher than 70 inches. Remember that the higher the gear, the greater the power required to move a given distance.

6. After having become accustomed to a bicycle, never take a ride so long that a good night's sleep will not entirely remove all traces of fatigue. Twenty-five to fifty miles a day, according to the surface of the country, should not be exceeded by the average rider.

7. Always walk up a steep hill; it saves your heart.

8. Never ride simply with the idea of arriving at the earliest possible moment at a given destination; ride for the pleasure that is to be gotten from it.

9. While riding use the same sense in drinking that you would in watering a horse. Also, like a horse, stick closely to water as a beverage. Remember that alcohol stimulates the heart and circulation in much the same way that exercise does, and that if you use it in any form while wheeling the reaction is speedy and long-reaching.

10. Never ride on a full stomach, it will interfere with the heart's action and respiration.

A SUGGESTION FROM PARIS

FASHION GOSSIP.

If a woman would have the latest elegance in silk petticoats she must avoid the rustling kind and wear dainty, soft brocaded silk skirts, ruffled with silk crepe.

Narrow fancy belts are quite as popular as ever, and the latest novelty is of white leather, with clasps of gold and turquoise. The belt clasps are all more ornate than ever, being studded with rhinestones, imitation jewels and pearls, and fashioned in rococo designs of both enamelled and plain gold.

The new spring coat will have variety in style to recommend it, but the one which is expected to lead is the "Watteau" sacque, with plain straight fronts and a plait in the back, and cut so that it outlines the figure at the side. Other jackets are on the order of the reefer, fit more closely in the back, and are either single or double-breasted.

PRINCE GEORGE OF GREECE.

How He Saved the Life of Nicholas II., Then the Czarwitch.

Prince George of Greece is the second son of King George. He was born at Corfu in June, 1869. The young Prince is a tall, handsome, broad-shouldered fellow of unflinching courage. After completing his studies at home he started to make a tour of the world. His companion through India and the East was the present Czar of Russia, Nicholas II., who was then the Czarewitch. While they were travelling through Japan the Czarewitch was attacked by a fanatical Japanese, and Prince George beat him off with a heavy stick. Prince George continued his travels alone and visited this country, accompanied by Admiral Loman of the Russian navy. He crossed the continent from San Francisco, stopping at the principal cities en route and arrived in this city on June 30, 1891. He received a hearty welcome from the Greek residents here. The young Prince inspected the Navy Yard and the torpedo station at Willet's Point. He was especially interested in naval affairs. He travelled incog as the Count Folstor, and his courteous manners and unaffected disposition made him popular everywhere. While on the trip to Willet's Point he drank beer in the cabin of the United States launch Runaway, and when in town travelled around in street cars like an ordinary citizen. He always carried a white natural wood stick, which was said to be his mascot stick and the one with which he beat the crazy Japanese who attacked the Czarewitch.

After seeing the sights here, Prince George sailed for Europe on the Cunarder Servia, which broke a crank pin when two days out and was obliged to return. There was considerable excitement aboard, but it was said that the Prince was the coolest passenger on the steamer. When the Servia got back to this port the Prince immediately engaged passage on the City of New York and sailed the following day.—New York Sun.

Valuables Stowed Away.

In one of the old London banks a box was recently found, containing money and valuables, which had not been opened or called for in 160 years, and which now remains without a claimant. Incidents of like sort are not infrequent in banking history, though there is no other recorded instance of a package held in trust remaining so long unexamined. Some years ago the Merchants' National Bank of Baltimore discovered a box containing $10,000 in bonds of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the ownership of which could not at first be traced. The coupons for the preceding fifteen years were still attached. It was finally discovered that the bonds belonged to the Hagerstown (Md.) Bank, and had been deposited as collateral. The president of the Hagerstown bank died; the cashier was superseded, and the institution lost all traces of the transaction. The disappearance of the securities, however, always remained, an unpleasant mystery until it was thus happily cleared up.—New York Tribune.

In Trade.

Mrs. A. Quitt—So you cleared that poor Mr. Liftem from the charge of stealing that turkey? Well, I'm glad of it, but he's such a worthless character that I don't believe you will ever get a cent for your pay.

A. Quitt (the famous criminal lawyer)—I may not, but I've got a blamed good turkey out in the woodshed.

Old Gent (to beggar, to whom he has given a halfpenny): "Now, my man, what shall you do with that coin?"

"Well, I hardly know, guv'nor, whether to purchase an annuity or invest in railway stock. Which do you advise?"—Tid-Bits.

Where He Got It.

Householder—Hi, there! What do you want?

Tramp—Nothin'.

HOW THEY DID IT.

The Various Ways Presidents Received Chauncey M. Depew's Requests.

Chauncey M. Depew says that he has had personal experience in seeking office—not for himself, however, but for others—from every Republican President. He says that Mr. Lincoln would always listen attentively to what he had to say, and then tell a funny story. On his way back to the hotel he would think over the story, and finally see that it landed his candidate way out of sight.

General Grant always received an application for office as toasts to the memory of Washington are drunk—standing and in silence.

President Hayes listened for a while, then broke out into lamentations that the attention of the President of the United States should be diverted from the great affairs of state to distribute patronage. Then he would make a memorandum in a little red book, which was to remind him not to do it.

General Garfield would put his arm around your neck, tell you how much he loved you, and then forget what you had asked of him.

President Arthur would listen with polite attention to all you had to say, then refer you to some man in New York, whom you were never able to find.

President Harrison would sink down into his chair until you had presented the claims of your candidate, and then change the subject.

Major McKinley's methods have not been developed.—Chicago Record.

THE CUBAN "REFORMS."

Outline of the Measures Which Spain Will Inaugurate.

Canovas, the Spanish Premier, has decided to inaugurate reforms in Cuba without waiting for peace.

The plan provides for a Council of Administration of thirty-five members, of whom twenty-one are to be elected by popular vote. The others are to be selected by municipal and provincial corporations and by the Spanish Cortes.

GENERAL GOMEZ.

This Council will arrange the local budget and prepare a tariff schedule under certain restrictions, a most important one being that Spanish goods shall be given a decided advantage over goods of other countries. Spain will continue to administer the finances in the departments of war, navy and the treasury, including the payment of the Cuban debt. But these cover 97 per cent. of the total expenditures. The farcical character of the proposed reforms is still more apparent when it is stated that there are to be no changes in the elective franchise. With only one-ninth of the total population of the island, the Spanish hold political control in two-thirds of the provinces. The new Council of Administration would therefore be, not Cuban, but Spanish, and by an overwhelming majority.

No wonder the Cubans reject with contempt such empty shells of reform. Warned by the past treacheries of Spain, the patriots will listen to no proposals of peace short of entire independence.

He Objected to Soap and Water.

Some of the Red Indians are almost as reluctant to wash themselves as they are to do a hard day's work.

A gentleman who was descending the St. Lawrence once met a poor Indian who had just come out of a prison. A more woebegone and wretched-looking man could hardly be imagined. He was as limp as an old paper collar.

"Did they starve you in prison?" inquired the gentleman.

"No."

"Did they treat you cruelly, overtask you with labor, or torture you in the dark cell?"

"No; the great white chief did none of these things."

"Then why this tortured look, and why is my red brother so anguished?"

"They made me wash myself. Ugh!"

A Good Choice.

Uncle Jasper—"No, sah. De fac' is I'se so shabby dat I kinder hate t' 'pear 'fore 'spectable folks."

Dashaway—"Well, now, uncle, if I should offer you the choice between a good glass of whiskey and a pair of trousers I've got up-stairs, which would you take?"

Uncle Jasper (scratching his head)—"Well, boss, dat's a powerful hard nut to crack. But I 'spec' if I had dat glass o' whiskey firs', I'd be dat good I could elocute yo' inter givin' me dat pair o' pants, sah."

No Experimenter.

Perry Patettic—They say a man enjoys restin' a whole lot better after a good, hard day's work.

Wayworn Watson—Well, fer all I know it may be so; but I ain't round tryin' any dangerous experiments.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. olor. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Revelation For Women Who Are Weak, Nervous, Discouraged.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Always Gives Health, Strength and Vigor.

If there is any person who deserves pity it is the woman who, with all her work to do, suffers from ill health, female weakness and nervous prostration. She feels weak, tired and dragged out, her nerves are weak and unstrung, she suffers tortures with headaches, backache, unnatural discharges, does not eat or sleep well and wakes mornings as tired as when she goes to sleep. She feels like crying without cause and is blue, discouraged and altogether miserable. Such sufferers can be easily cured by using Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is the greatest restorative and health-giver womankind has ever known. Especially should it be used now, in the spring, when a spring medicine is necessary for everybody.

Mrs. S. Taylor, residing at 251 West Seventh St., New York City, writes:—"I was sick for years with female weakness, general debility, nervousness, sleeplessness, coldness of feet and limbs and suppression of the menses. I was unable to attend to my household duties, and in fact, was good for nothing. I began to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I commenced at once to get better and in a short time was entirely cured of every one of my troubles. My female weaknesses were perfectly cured and my menses returned. My nervousness, sleeplessness, coldness and other trouble all left me and my health was perfect. To-day I am a different woman, thanks to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It is a wonderful medicine. I strongly advise every woman to use it." Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the perfect pills for biliousness and constipation. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter

MISS SNYDER'S MURDER.

Two More Arrests Made in the Tragedy Enacted Twenty-eight Years Ago.

New Bloomfield, Pa., March 9.—When John Shull, a cousin of Hugh Smith and Samuel Smith, a brother of the prisoner languishing in the county jail at this place charged with the murder of Miss Melinda Snyder in Pleasant Valley were arrested last evening at their homes in the upper end of the county, the second chapter of this tragedy enacted twenty-eight years ago, was played by District Attorney Kell and Constable Beastline. Ever since Hugh Smith was lodged in jail all sorts of rumors were afloat as to the other parties interested in the case and only when John Shull was arrested did the name of the real informant make its appearance. Shull's arrest is made on the ground that he was an accomplice after the fact. Samuel Smith's arrest is also as an accessory.

TO GUARD SECRETS

Extension to the Sea-Coast Defense Regulations.

NO MORE INQUISITIVE INSPECTIONS

Neither Written Nor Pictorial Descriptions Will Be Made for Publication, and Only Officers of the Government May Visit the Defenses.

Washington, March 9.—Steps have been taken by the war department to further guard the seacoast defences from inquisitive inspection by persons who ought not to know what precautions the United States have taken for protection in time of war. The rigorous regulations already in force during the building of fortifications have, now that many works are approaching completion, been supplemented and emphasized by the following general orders from Maj.-Gen. Miles, commanding the army: "No persons, except officers of the army and navy of the United States and persons in the service of the United States employed in direct connection with the use, construction or care of these works will be allowed to visit any portion of the lake and coast defenses of the United States without the written authority of the commanding officer in charge. Neither written nor pictorial descriptions of these works will be made for publication without the authority of the secretary of war, nor will any information be given concerning them which is not contained in the printed reports and documents of the war department. Commanding generals of departments will see that this order is carried into effect and that the permission to visit the defenses referred to is only given for proper military reasons."

THE JEWISH SACRIFICES.

DR. BARNES LECTURES BEFORE THE PRIMARY TEACHERS UNION.

The Reverend Gentleman Explained the Meaning of the Various Sacrifices—The Festivals Were Also Described by Him

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of the Primary Teachers' Union held yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held at 3 o'clock, at which time the members enjoyed a blackboard exercise, which is a new feature. At 4 o'clock Dr. Barnes was present and gave an interesting talk on "Jewish Sacrifices."

The speaker said that the original meaning of the word sacrifice was an outward expression of reverence and faithfulness. The sacrifice under the Mosaic law was a means of grace with a sacrificial meaning. Continuing Dr. Barnes spoke in part as follows:

"There were sacrifices or offerings of four sorts. The expiatory, consisting of sin and trespass, which were for those who were out of communion with God. The sin offering was something that a man offered to God as an acknowledgment for his sin in a general sense.

"Then there was the burnt offerings, peace offerings, meat and drink offerings, which were for those who were in communion with God. For the latter class it was a sacrifice of love. The peace offering was a giving of self to God, and his love would increase as his love for God would increase. It is a source of joy to God when we are sorry for our sins. Each sacrifice or offering had a great significance and meant much to those who practiced them."

The last part of Dr. Barnes' talk was devoted to a discussion of the Jewish festivals which are so interesting. He explained as thoroughly as possible the meaning of them and told about the different festivals celebrated by Jewish people and how strict they were to observe them. The subject was divided into several parts and each one was spoken of in an entertaining way. The speaker said that there were many things that he would like to talk about but time would not permit.

At the close Mrs. Batchelor suggested a vote of thanks to Dr. Barnes for his talk and the members gave a rising vote.

The regular lesson for the afternoon was then taught by Mrs. Batchelor. The members entered into this part of the programme with zeal and earnestness. Next week the meeting will be held at 3 o'clock.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

City Judge DeMeza was in Jersey City yesterday on the Van Riper will case.

Charles Anderson, of Somerset street, has been ill at his nome for a few days with the grip.

Mrs. Elliot T. Barrows and her youngest son and nurse, of West Eighth street, left today for Thomasville, Ga.

Mrs. G. P. Armstrong is still confined to her room in the Jackson Flats, suffering from grip and pneumonia with which she was seriously attacked ten days ago.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Almost Drove Over the Brink.

A farmer driving home at a late hour last night turned into the new street just off of West Front street, near Elmwood place, for the purpose of crossing the brook. There does not happen to be a bridge over the brook at that place, and the man did not notice it until he had almost driven over the embankment, which is nearly ten feet high. Fortunately his horses did not make a break and step over. It was with the greatest difficulty that the man succeeded in returning to Front street.

Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had Inflammatory Rheumatism in every muscle and joint, her suffering was terribe and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed for six weeks and had eight physicians but received no benefit until she tried the Mystic Cure for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life," Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, cor. Park and North avenue, Plainfield.

"Shoot on stones."

"To shoot holes in your head Worse and worse. To kill you. What's the matter with you? Have you no sense? Mayhaps the divil is in you Come along home, I'll beat the divil out of you."

After Mr. Smith had offered to pay for the breakfast which the police had furnished his son, but which offer was refused, Chief Grant started for home with Mr. Smith and the boy. As they were going out of the door the father said: "Look out for that boy, Chief. He can run like a wild horse with the divil in him."

EDITH BEHR WANTS MILK.

Fair Prisoner's Request Ignored, She Resorts to "Tantrums.

Edith Behr, the young woman confined in the county jail at Elizabeth, for assault on her former neighbor, has earned the distinction of being the most unruly prisoner the present Warden has ever had charge of.

For a time it was thought she suffered from sickness and was not responsible, but the jail physician has finally decided that nothing is wrong with her physically.

Edith wants milk, but the doctor won't order it for he, as milk is not on the jail menu, and the Warden sorrowfully says that every time Edith thinks about milk she has "tantrums."

The "tantrums" are of frequent occurrence. When the fit comes on Edith shrieks and berates the attendants, declaring that she is in pain. When she tires of this her behaviour suggests that she never had an ache in her life.

L. A. W. Road Book.

The Secretary-Treasurer of the New Jersey Division L. A. W., announces that the supply of Road Books ordered for 1896 has been entirely exhausted and that the new 1897 book now in course of preparation will be issued as soon as possible, but it is hardly likely before May 1. It will depend greatly upon the interest manifested by the membership at large, whether the book can be issued at an earlier date than that. It is the desire of the committee to have the book ready without delay, and if the members will do their part in furnishing any information they have at their command, it will greatly facilitate the work and the likelihood of its being ready before the specified time.

SHAKERS AND DOCTORS TALK TOGETHER.

In his able work entitled "Longevity," published a few years ago, Dr. John Gardner, of England, predicts that a vegetable agent will yet be found that shall so retard those changes that bring about old age as to prolong human life much beyond its present limit.

Acting, perhaps, upon the impulse produced by this thought, many eminent physicians have called from time to time upon the Shakers of Mt. Lebanon to inquire of them concerning the secrets of medicinal plants, in which these sincere, simply minded and God fearing people are known to be wise and skillful beyond all other men.

The Shakers willingly told what they had learned, and in return received from their visitors much valuable information about disease; which they at once made practical use of. The most important point was that if a genuine and certain remedy could be found for indigestion and dyspepsia, and the ailments growing out of it, a long step would be taken in the right direction. Old age, said these physicians, begins in a failure of the digestion, and so do most diseases at any and all periods of life. The result of these consultations was the discovery by the Shakers of the desired specific, made wholly from herbs, and now known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. Its action is magical and worthy of its origin.

Where there is distress after eating, heartburn, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, biliousness, weakness and weariness, cold hands and feet, aversion to food, nervousness, or any other symptom of dyspepsia, the Cordial will prove its curative virtues. Behind it is the reputation of a people who have never defrauded or deceived their fellow men.

In order to test whether this remedy is adapted to your case, at practically no cost, you may procure a trial bottle for ten cents of almost any druggist.

Scranton Crematory.

The Scranton Times of last Thursday published the following about the garbage crematory system in that city, which is the same as it is proposed to establish here by the Plainfield Sanitary Company:

Messrs. H. C. Brannecke, member of the select council; D. K. Howe, of the Common Council, and Jacob Adams, member of the Board of Health of Altoona, Pa., a committee sent her to inspect our crematory, arrived in the city this morning. The city of Altoona contemplates the erection of a crematory, and the above committee are touring the State examining the best systems. F. A. Bissell, superintendent of the Vivarttas system odorless refuse destroyer, which company erected our crematory, met the gentlemen from Altoona and showed them the workings of our plant. The visitors expressed themselves as very highly pleased with the Vivarttas system, claiming that it was the best they had yet seen. Mr. Bissell afterwards showed them the city and they were loud in their praises of the evidences of growth and prosperity of Scranton. The visitors left for their homes on this afternoon's train.

A NOTABLE NEGRO.

HE SPEAKS TEN LANGUAGES AND IS AN ACCOMPLISHED FORGER.

Can Write Two Different Sentences at the Same Time—As Stump Speaker, He Seems as Though Inspired When Addressing an Audience.

There has been in the State coal mines of Alabama Nicholas Said, one of the most remarkable negroes that ever felt the sting of a lash. Said drifted into Choctaw county, Alabama, in 1874, at a time when Ku-Kluxism was at its height. It was during the days when Ben Turner, a former slave, was attempting to carve out a state of society to his own liking.

The day following the assassination of the entire family of Blakely Bass at Bladon Springs Said appeared upon the scene.

Somehow or other he quickly won the confidence of the whites. Intellectually he was so vastly superior to the others of his race that they at once became his willing listeners.

Said was master of ten languages. His English was perfect, and tested in Spanish, French and German, it was found that he was equally as good in these.

Of his life prior to his arrival at Bladon no one in that community knew anything. His own story was that in early boyhood he had been captured in Africa by Captain Simpson, who belonged to the British army, and that he had been made body-servant to the Captain and had followed him over all the civilized world.

He knew something of political economy; had studied the principles of law; possessed a smattering knowledge of physic and had read much on religious topics. I well remember the conspicuous part he played in the campaign of 1876. He took the stump in behalf of the Tilden electoral ticket, and preached to his less ignorant fellow men that the road to safety and harmony between the races lay in voting the Democratic ticket. It was determined to test Said's influence. So in that election there was a fair count. Of the 2,000 negro voters in the county less than 500 voted for Hayes. On the stump he seemed as one inspired. His sentences were short, clear cut and logical.

Said had more accomplishments than those mentioned above. He was an expert penman. He could write two different sentences at the same time, one with his left, the other with his right hand. It was his adeptness in the art of writing one's name so much like the owner of it that got him into trouble.—New York Sun.

Go Up One.

The sub-committe of a school, situated not a thousand yards from the city, were examining a class in a country school.

One of the members undertook to sharpen up their wits by propounding the folowing question:

"If I had a mince-pie, and should give two-twelfths to John, two-twelfths to Isaac, two-twelfths to Harry, and should take half of the pie myself, what would there be left?"

There was a profound study among the boys; but finally one lad held up his hand.

"Well, my boy, speak up loud, so that all may hear," said the committeeman.

"The plate!" shouted the hopeful fellow.

The committeeman turned red in the face, while the other members laughed aloud.—From Answers.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1897. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

MANY BOROUGH AND TOWNSHIP ELECTIONS WENT DEMOCRATIC.

COL. JOHN F. WILSON ELECTED MAYOR IN NORTH PLAINFIELD BY A MAJORITY OF NINETY-THREE.

He Was the Only Democrat Elected Across the Brook—Westfield, Scotch Plains, Piscataway and Warren Went Democratic—The Issues at Bound Brook Were Not Political, But Made a Hot Contest—The Vote in Detail is Given for the Several Places.

As a result of the election in North Plainfield yesterday there is a most peculiar state of affairs which confronts the people of the borough who are interested in her welfare.

Col. John F. Wilson, the Democratic nominee for Mayor, was elected by a majority of 93. His total vote in both districts was 422 while Mr. Place the Republican nominee received 329 votes. The great fight was made on the Mayoralty, and there was lots of scratching on the part of the Republicans. There was a large number of Democrats who voted for the Republican nominee and vice versa. In all there were 760 votes cast and of this number 292 were Democratic and 468 Republican. The latter gave the former great support for Mr. Wilson and this is what made his majority so large.

During the evening while the votes were being counted there were many Republicans who made the remark that they would show their fellow Republicans that the latter could not afford to bolt the ticket in the primary. On this score there seemed to be a great deal of satisfaction for those who were helping to elect Mr. Wilson.

On the other hand the bolters, so called, evidenced a smile and said that they could stand it if the rest could, and they were willing to stand by the election. As the votes were being counted, and it was seen that the Democratic nominee was sure to be elected, it was thought that the majority would be about one hundred.

The greatest cut for Mr. Place was in the first district where the voters of Washington Park cast their strength against him with great force. In this section he received 173 against 237 for his opponent. In the second district the former received 156 and the latter 185.

The rest of the Republican ticket was elected with good majorities. T. J. Carey for councilman, received a majority of 104, and Murray Burtis for the same office was given a majority of 147.

E. T. Douglass, the Democratic nominee for councilman, was given a vote of 329 and his running mate, G. W. Bird, received 299.

There were a few scattering votes as usual. Rudolph Spiegel, J. K. Arnold and William Fries each secured a vote for poundkeeper, and Peter Matthews and John Goodwin received two votes for the same office in the First district.

Below will be found a detailed account of the vote which will prove interesting reading for the political workers:

	1st Dist.	2d Dist.
For Mayor.
John F. Wilson, D.	237	185
Charles Place, R.	173	156
For Councilmen.

James Line, R.	255	214
David J. Carney, D.	147	130

The full amounts were voted for the appropriations, and there was no cutting.

After the result had been announced several bon fires were lighted in the streets, and a quiet celebration was enjoyed on the part of those who were glad that Mr. Wilson was elected.

ELECTION AT BOUND BROOK.

Mayor John B. Coddington Re-elected by a Handsome Majority.

Unusual interest was manifested in the annual borough election at Bound Brook yesterday. This resulted from the recent agitation concerning the trolley question, both the New York and Philadelphia Traction Company, and the Brunswick Traction Company having applied for franchises, and having attempted to outdo each other in the way of inducements. The former company had given out that they intended to locate their power-house and offices in the town, and asked particulars for the use of the recently completed undergrade crossing; while it was rumored that the latter company had offered to macadamize Main street from curb to curb, its entire length, and to forego the privilege of the underway.

Two tickets were in the field; the Regular, which was nominated at a caucus held on the 27th ult. and was headed by Mayor John B. Coddington, and the Independent, which was headed by Major J. K. DeMott, and which was slated by those, who considered the first nominees too conservative. In the set of resolutions, which were drawn up in connection with the Independent ticket, the granting of the franchise to the New York and Philadelphia Traction was clearly advocated, and the matter of further litigation concerning the sewer system was condemned, as was also the employment of outside counsel to manage the legal affairs of the borough.

Great activity was displayed by both parties, and carriages wese kept running throughout toe day to convey tardy voters to the polls. The result was in doubt until the votes were nearly counted, when it was found that the regular ticket had won by a substantial majority, Coddington having received 233 votes as against 180 for DeMott for Mayor, and James McNabb 234 votes and David Hastings 236 votes, as against 179 for James Vosseller and 174 for L. A. Riffert, for Councilmen. Isaac McCord and David Taylor were elected pound keepers and Benjamin Billian, commissioner of appeals.

DEMOCRATS WON AT PLAINS.

L. W. Miller Defeated for Town Committeeman by Theo. Bruchman.

The fight at Scotch Plains centered on the town committeeman and great influence was brought to bear against the candidacy of L. W. Miller, Republican. As a result Mr. Miller was defeated by Theodore Bruchman, the Democratic candidate, and in his defeat Miller carried the rest of the Republican ticket to oblivion. There was not much excitement at the polls. The vote was as follows:

Town Committeeman: L. W. Miller, R., 111; Theodore Bruchman, D., 140. Assessor: John Robison, R., 109; Charles French, D., 145. Collector: Norman Dunn, R., 114; John L. Darby, D., 140; Com. of Appeals: A. D. Osborn, R., 139; Charles Haberley, D., 115. Overseer Poor: August Klemser, R., 146; John F. Miller, D., 105. Constables: Robert Walpole, R., 3 years, 144; Wm. Traynor, R., 1 year, 143. James H. Gurrier, D., 3 years, 108; Thomas Emery, D., 1 year, 103. Surveyor of Highways: Andrew Schaffer, R., 147; Charles Brown, R., 149; Thos. Lee, D., 105; George Vanderbilt, D., 106. Pound Keepers: August Klemser, 139; Henry S. Little, 140; Edward Terry, 141. Appropriations all carried. Total vote cast 259.

PISCATAWAY RESULT.

Democrats Gain a Partial Victory at the Polls.

There was a hot consest in Piscataway township, the polls being located at New Market. As a net result of the voting it is called a "people's victory." The first Democratic collector in seventeen years was elected, the principle fight being over that office and the assessorship. The Democrats were also victorious with the assessorship candidacy. The vote was as follows:

Assessor: Charles E. Kelly, Democrat, 222; Myron J. Whitford, Republican, 188. Collector: William J. Nelson, Dem., 217; T. H. Brantingham, Republican, 194. Town Committeeman: John M. Dayton, Republican, (no opposition) 251. Surveyors of Highways: Samuel S. Giles and Albert L. Boice, Republican, (no opposition) 236 and 237 respectively. Commissioners of Appeal: Cornelius S. Boice, Republican, 234; Alexander Manning, Democrat, 181. Constables: Luther Mundy (three years) Republican, 238, Robert L. R. Pierce, (two years) Republican, 207; Lawrence Burke (two years) Democrat, 184. Justice of the peace: Walter Harris, Republican, 225; Bethune Dunham, Democrat, 188. The appropriations were as follows: For support of poor, $1,000.00; for working roads, $4,000.00; for small bridges, $550.00; for ice and snow, $100.00, hand and team, 35 cents per hour; hands, 15 cents per hour.

MAYOR BRAKELY ELECTED.

There Was no Fight at Dunellen—The Exact Vote.

The Dunellen borough election yesterday was a very tame affair, inasmuch as there was no opposition to the regular citizens' ticket. Of course there was the usual amount of electioneering, but it was altogether unnecessary. Many complimentary votes were cast, and many of them were for persons who never ran for office and never even aspired for any political honors.

The total vote polled was 180, out of a total regristration of 315, showing that the voters took little or no direct interest in the result. Had another ticket been placed in the field, the interest would have been greater and a larger vote polled. The individual vote follows:

Mayor, Peter W. Brakeley, 169; Councilmen, Arthur Gaston, 3 years, 177; Henry C. Gaskill, 3 years, 176; Frederick K. Wilcox, 2 years, 175; John W. Moynihan, 2 years, 167; Frank R. Wynkoop, 1 year, 144, Lewis Schneider, 1 year, 173; Assessor, Charles A. Coriell, 164; Collector, George W. Day, 164; Freeholder, Firman H. Gise, 176; Justice of the Peace, Thomas J. Todd, 167; Commissioners of Appeal, Henry V. Dunham, 3 years, 178; Samuel Luckey, 2 years, 176, John P. Apgar, 1 year, 177; Overseer of Poor, William H. Cole, 174, Surveyors of Highways, William R. Larkin, 178, Ruliff J. Swackhamer, 178; Constable, Charles Wyhuskey, 177; Poundkeeper, Charles W. Blaine, 176.

The appropriations, $1,500 for borough purposes and $300 for the support of the poor, each received 177 votes. Two votes were rejected.

One entire citizens' ticket was voted yesterday, with the substitution of the name of "Mat" Agency for Mayor, in place of the regular candidate.

REFORM CITIZENS' AT FANWOOD.

George C. Miller Elected Mayor by a Majority of Fourteen.

At Fanwood there were four tickets in the field, Citizens' Reform, regular Republican and two Independent tickets. The election was hotly contested throughout. The fact that almost all of the old nominees were turned down has caused quite a stir among the people. The Citizens' Reform ticket was elected and the head of the ticket was carried with a majority of fourteen. Below will be found the ticket elected:

Mayor, George C. Miller; Councilmen for three years, L. J. Ellis and H. L. Hall; Councilmen for two years, H. C. Christianson and H. Proal Robinson; Councilmen for one year, A. D. Beeken and C. W. Ten Broeck; Assessor, W. R. Stanbery; collector, O. B. Lightowler; Commissioners of Appeal, J. H. L. Todd, E. C. Kieb and Anthony Farley; Overseer of the Poor, George Edward Hall; Justice of the Peace, W. H. Hoar; Surveyor of Highways, Peter Frazer; Constable, Dennis C. Crane; Pound Keeper, Jacob Sell.

TOWNSHIP ELECTION.

The Citizens' Ticket Won Over the Republican Nominations.

The election in North Plainfield Township yesterday was even a greater surprise than the one in the borough, for the Citizens' ticket was elected with one exception. Thomas Taylor, for collector, was defeated by Worth Coddington, Republican, by a small majority.

For Freeholder: Augustus Mobus, Citizen, 61; G. W. Bullman, Republican, 54. Town Committeeman: Chas. P. Sebring, Citizen, 62; W. H. Morris, Republican, 54. Assessor: Robert M. Clark, Citizen, 65; A. P. Voorhies, Republican, 52. Collector: Thomas H. Taylor, Citizen, 56; Worth Coddington, 60. Constable: Francis Bartel, Citizen, 65; Alex. Wolf, Republican, 50. Overseer of the Poor: Thomas McGann, Citizen, 61; Geo. Steward, Republican, 55. Surveyors of Highways: Ephraim S. Acker, Citizen, 116; Hiram Trust, Citizen, 61; Alex. Wolf, Republican, 52. Commissioners of Appeal: Philip Acker, Citizen, 116; Goldstein Smalley, Citizen, 62; Chas. Mooney, Republican, 54; Amos Vail, Citizen, 116. Pound Keepers: Edward Allen, Citizen, 61; Oscar Liebe, Citizen, 116; Thomas McGann, Republican, 55.

There were sixty-one Citizen and fifty-five Republican tickets cast. The full ticket was voted for the appropriations.

WARREN GOES DEMOCRATIC.

The Whole Republican Ticket Went Into Oblivion.

At the annual township election in "Old Warren" the sturdy Democrats were out in full force. To those who remember "Old Warren" when it was only separated from Plainfield by the brook, the scenes of yesterday would remind them of "Old Warren" in her palmiest days, when Dan Cory was the

ALL-AROUND SWINDLER.

EVEN TRIED TO BEAT A MAN ON A GRAVE STONE DEAL.

L. L. Manning was on to His Tricks, Though, and Defeated the Fellow's Intention to Bunco $10 From Him.

A clever swindler came to this city last week and selected L. L. Manning, the well-known monument dealer of West Front street, as a victim. It takes two to make a bargain, however, and Mr. Manning had heard of men of his stamp before so the bunco man departed no richer than he came. His scheme was a clever one and many men would have fallen into the trap that was so cunningly set for them.

Last Thursday morning a stranger walked into the office of Mr. Manning on West Front street and inquired for the proprietor. Mr. Manning introduced himself and the stranger proceeded to tell the cause of his visit. He wanted to buy a monument for a friend, so he said, and he had been recommended by the people of the City National Bank, of this city, to come to Mr. Manning. He presented his card which read as follows:

SHAPERO, ROSE AND HAND.
BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING.
36-38 East Broadway, New York.
I. HAHN.

He explained that a friend of his wanted to buy a monument and had asked him to purchase it. He wanted to pay about a hundred dollars, he said. Mr. Manning showed him several stones. Then the bland stranger wanted to know what he could buy for $90, explaining that he thought he ought to make something on the purchase. Mr. Manning exhibited another stone at the required price and Mr. Hahn, if such was his name, declared that it would suit. He then gave the inscription that he wanted carved on the stone, which was as follows: "Benjamin, son of Louis and Rachael Greenberg. Born May 9th, 1891. Died, August 5th, 1893."

The stone was to go to Perth Amboy and be placed in the cemetery there, in the south plot, east end, grave number six. Mr. Manning was to learn all the details about the laying of the stone from S. Meitner, who, the stranger declared, was the leading grocer.

The came the question of pay. Mr. Hahn suggested that Mr. Manning take his friend's check for $100 which he had and give him $10 in change. The plan sounded plausible, but Mr. Manning did not bite. He suggested that Mr. Hahn keep his friend's check and give to him, Mr. Manning, his personal check for the $90. The swindler demurred at first, but as there was no reason for not doing so, he finally gave Mr. Manning his check on the Liberty National Bank, of New York, for $90.

Then Hahn showed the contents of his sample case which contained several children's suits. He offered one to Mr. Manning for $2 and the latter bought it for his grandson. The suit was a good one. Mr. Manning suggested that the price of suit be taken from the price of the monument but the stranger objected very strongly and Mr. Manning finally paid cash for it. The suit was no swindle but probably only a blind to cover up the other scheme.

Mr. Hahn departed and Mr. Manning took the check to the City National Bank for investigation. Inquiry was made in New York and the Liberty Bank sent out word that the check was worthless and the whole affair a swindle. Of course, Mr. Manning cancelled the order and is congratulating himself that he escaped the clutches of the bunco man. The New York detectives are now looking for the man.

Mr. Hahn visited several other of the merchants in town and swindled them out of small sums of money. He purchissed a number of articles which he paid for with a check, asking a small commission which was paid in several instances in cash. In Dunellen, he also visited several of the dealers but as far as has been learned, no one was swindled. He signed his checks as Ivan Hahn.

Mrs. Tier Surprised.

A surprise party was given to Mrs. Josie M. Tier, of Bank place, last evening, by the teachers of the primary department of the Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. E E. Anthony, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall. Mrs. Tier is the efficient superintendent of the primary department. The party met at the store of J. H. Leggett and went to the house in a body. The surprise was a complete one.

—A fair will be held in the parlors of Trinity Reformed church, Thursday, March 25th, afternoon and evening, for the benefit of the carpet fund of the church.

THE NEW CYCLING CLUB.

THE OLD CRESCENTS TO HAVE A COMPETING ORGANIZATION.

Cleveland Cyclers to Rent the Old Board of Trade Rooms and Participate in Social and Up-to-Date Sporting Matters

For several years the Crescent Wheelmen have held undisputed sway as Plainfield's only cycling organization of any importance. The decay and final breaking up of the old Plainfield Bicycle Club left the Crescents as the only club with a club house of their own. This year the Crescent Wheelmen have an enterprizing rival in the shape of the Cleveland Cyclers, which was organized last fall. There have been a number of bicycle clubs beside the Crescents, but they have been clubs merely in name and played no important part in the local cycling world.

The Cleveland Cyclers have begun their first year very actively. When the club was first organized rooms were secured on North avenue and there the members met several times a week and planned for the future. Now some of these plans are becoming realities. The quarters of the club on North avenue in the Woolston and Buckle building were merely temporary and now the club has decided to move in new rooms. The new club rooms will be in the Ulrich club house, the building formerly occupied by the Crescent Wheelmen. The Cleveland Cyclers will occupy the second floor of the building and will have the privileges of the wheel room and the bowling alleys down stairs.

The rooms of the club will consist of reading room, card room, meeting room and parlor. All the rooms are to be furnished in first class style by the club and the members will enjoy all the privileges of a commodious club house. The duty of furnishing the rooms has been left with a committee composed of William J. Kiely, chairman, Fred Hargraves and Gilbert Sutphen.

The Cleveland Cyclers now has a membership of thirty members, while five applications remain to be acted upon by the club at the next meeting. The officers of the club are as follows: President, George Babcock; vice-president, William Shaefer; corresponding secretary, William J. Kiely; financial secretary, Gilbert Sutphen; treasurer, G. M. Macintyre; captain, Fred Harrold.

The club will take possession of their new quarters on April 1st, when it is their intention to give a house-warming to which a number of their friends will be invited. Considering the short time in which the members have been together, the progress that they have made is remarkable.

REV. S. F. CUSTARD DEAD.

Dunellen Methodist Minister Dies After a Long Illness.

By the death of Rev. S. F. Custard, Dunellen loses a most highly educated citizen and an honored member of the Divinity. Born as he was near Stroudsburg, N. J., and educated in the University of Pennsylvania, he spent most of his time at home. For several years he taught school in Clinton, Hunterdon County, and it was not until 1891 that he entered the ministery. His first charge was at Milford, Pa., and from there he came to Dunellen. He was thirty-six years of age, and leaves a wife and one daughter, Letia, and a son, Stewart Franklin.

Rev. Mr. Custard was a whole souled man; he loved his neiggbors as himself. He studied in no college for the ministry, but he felt his calling and took up preaching because the Lord had called him, and he was very successful in his work and was instrumental in making many converts:

Funeral services will be held on Friday at 3 p. m. Presiding Elder G. W. Smith will officiate. Interment will be at Easton, Pa.

ARDENT SUFFRAGE ADVOCATE.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall Working Among the State Legislators.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall visited Trenton yesterday in the interests of the pending school suffrage amendment. A number of prominent senators expressed themselves in favor of the measure, and said they thought it would certainly pass, if the other amendments do so; but it will necessarily be delayed a year, should this fate overtake the other amendments. In a word, the school suffrage amendment is expected to keep pace with the other constitutional amendments.

Struck by a Train But Not Hurt.

Ephram Randolph, of Piscataway Township, was run into by a Lehigh Valley train at the crossing near Piscataway, last night, and his wagon was upset and he was thrown out. Fortunately, however, he was not seriously injured. The train was moving slowly at the time.

TROLLEY CAR COLLISION

A MULE AND A HORSE STRUCK WITH TERRIFIC FORCE.

Motorman Foreman Could Not See Far Ahead in the Heavy Mist Last Night and the Accident Resulted Thereby.

A trolley car, a mule, a horse, a load of hay and several human beings were mixed up in a conglomerate mass on the tracks of the street railway near Clinton avenue as the result of a collision last night at 9:30 o'clock, and for a time it looked as though the accident had been a very serious one.

The trolley car, in charge of Motorman Foreman and Conductor Pierce, was going west at a lively rate of speed. The heavy mist prevented the motorman from seeing very far ahead and before he realized his danger he found himself mixed up with a mule, a horse and a load of hay, in charge of Harry Rhyne who drives for W. O. Baldwin, of West Fourth street. It is said that previous to the collision Rhyne yelled loud and long to the motorman, but apparently the latter did not hear, for he paid no attention to the warning.

Rhyne was coming toward Plainfield and the car was so near to him that he was unable to turn out of the tracks to escape the blow. The force with which the car and wagon came together was so great that the mule was thrown over the fender and partly into the car, while the horse was thrown under the wagon. Both animals were bruised and scratched considerably.

The wagon pole struck the front of the car and then grazed the stomach of the motorman, inflicting a contused wound. He was laid out for awhile and unconscious. Later he was removed to the hospital, where he is now doing nicely. His wounds are not serious.

Rhyne was scratched and bruised slightly. He was treated by Dr. Fritts today.

The car was completely wrecked in front and the fender was put out of use. The wood and iron work was smashed as was also the glass in the front windows. There was one passenger on board and he escaped injury. He was treated to a severe shaking up and the conductor did not fail to receive the same treatment.

It was reported that the man driving the horses was asleep but this is denied by people who claim to have witnessed the accident.

The accident will be investigated and the blame will be placed where it belongs.

STOLE HARNESS.

Burglars Made a Raid on William Titus Barn.

Thieves were at work in the borough again on Sunday night and visited the barn of William Titus, the proprietor of the Golden Rule Bakery on Somerset street, during that evening.

Mr. Titus returned from a drive Sunday evening at about eight o'clock. His horse was too warm to feed at that time and so he put him in the stable in the rear of the bakery. Two hours later he returned to feed the animal and found the door open. An investigation proved that some one had walked in and helped himself to the harness which hung in the barn. Several sets were missing. So far nothing else has been missed. There were no traces of the thieves.

Justice Newcorn's Court.

There were a number of cases to come before Justice Newcorn this morning, but all were, for some reason or other, settled or adjourned to another date. The case of Hetfield vs. Jartin, landlord and tenant, was adjourned for one week. The contract case of Thatcher vs. Thorn was discontinued and new summons issued. The contract case of Anderson vs. Davis was laid over for another week. The case of Schorb vs. Berthon, on contract, was settled by the payment of the amount of the judgment. The contract case of Runyon vs. Curtillo wss also settled. Summons were issued in the landlord and tenant case of McDermott vs. McDonald, returnable on the 15th.

Helplessly Drunk.

John Burns, of Elm place, has gone to Elizabeth to spend sixty days. It was at the request of City Judge De Meza that he went. He was found helplessly drunk in the gutter near the Y. M. C. A. building on East Front street and arrested yesterday. He was arraigned before the City Judge this morning and sent down to Elizabeth as he had not the necessary funds to pay the $20 fine. He has been there several times before charged with drunkenness and non-support of his wife. He paid a sixty day visit to Elizabeth some time ago.

—The contract case of Griffin vs. Huff will be tried before Justice Huff in Dunellen this afternoon.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Many Prominent Callers on the New President.

NAMES MENTIONED FOR OFFICES

Some of the Applicants Who Will Probably Be Successful---The President and His Assistants Not Behind With Their Correspondence.

Washington, March 10.—President McKinley started work this morning with a clean desk. He and his clerical assistants were up with the mail. What this means can be appreciated only by those who have an acquaintance with what has heretofore taken place at the White House at the opening of an administration. For months the president and clerks were fairly swamped under the wagon loads of letters dumped on their desks every day. Nearly all of these epistles related to appointments, and each, according to custom, had to be answered. It was not until the first half year or more of the administration had passed that the White House clerical force began to get a breathing spell. While at Canton Major McKinley took time by the forelock. Every letter relating to an official subject was answered from there, with the result that when he entered the White House he did not have a mountain of correspondence to clear away. That is the reason the White House clerical force is very happy to-day and looks forward to the future with some satisfaction.

Callers at the White House.

Among the president's latest callers were Senators Allison, Hawley, Cullom and Elkins. Clark E. Carr of Galena, Ill., who has held office, with brief intermissions, since the days of Lincoln and who wants to return to Denmark as minister, and J. D. Elliott, candidate for district-attorney of South Dakota, saw the president. Gen. Powell Clayton of Arkansas, who will probably be minister to Mexico, had the president's ear for a while. Senator Mark A. Hanna was the most interesting visitor to the White House after the luncheon recess. He saw the president for half an hour. Senator Foraker also had the president's ear for a while. The names of three Illinois republicans were presented by Senators Cullom and Mason during the brief duration of their conference with Mr. McKinley. They were, in addition to Clark E. Carr, ex-Congressman Murphy, who would like to be an assistant postmaster-general, and Thos. Needles, an applicant for the position of internal revenue collector for the southern district of Illinois. Congressmen Dalzell and Huff of Pennsylvania introduced Dr. Hugh Pitcairn of Harrisburg. He is endorsed by Senators Quay and Penrose for the Berlin consul-generalcy and is said to be the most promising candidate. Major C. W. F. Dick of Ohio, who ran the republican bureau at Cleveland during the campaign, came late in the afternoon. Mr. Hanna is very friendly to him, and it is reported that Major Dick will be the next fourth assistant postmaster-general, the "headsman" of the administration. The name of C. J. A. Erickson, a state senator of Boone, Ia., was presented to the president by Messrs. Dolliver, Allison and Gear of the Iowa delegation in congress, for the mission to Norway and Sweden.

Exportation of Beef.

Washington, March 10.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has issued order No. 3 concerning the exportation of beef. It directs that after March 15, 1897, all beef offered for transportation to European ports, whether fresh salted, canned, corned or packed, being the meat of cattle killed after the passage of the act under which this order is made, shall be accompanied by a certificate issued by an inspector of this department, showing that the cattle from which it was produced were free from disease and the meat sound and wholesome.

Population of Hawaii.

Washington, March 10.—The results of the official Hawaiian census just completed, which are furnished the state department by Consul-General Mills under date of Honolulu, February 8, show a total of 109,020 persons, of whom 72,517 are males. Among the nationalities native Hawaiins head the list with a total of 31,017, the Japanese colonization coming next withe the Chinese a close third, the American contingent being comparatively insignificant in numbers.

ENGLAND'S POSITION.

The Government Will Not Consult Parliament in the Greek Matter.

London, March 10.—As the house of commons was on the point of adjourning last night Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, the leader of the liberal party, arose and, while disavowing any desire to embarrass the government in the negotiations necessarily arising from Greece's reply, said he desired an assurance that the British forces should not be employed against Greece before parliament was given a chance to express its judgment on the matter. (Opposition cheers). Continuing Sir William said he believed that a situation had arisen in which an amicable settlement of the question was possible. He was confident that the government would do its best to ensure such a settlement. He did not base his request on constitutional right, but on a policy of the highest description, really involving the issues of peace or war. Arthur Balfour, the government leader, in reply to Sir William, said that the course demanded by the opposition was extremely inexpedient and absolutely contrary to precedent. The government, he added, could not be guided by the practice of France, to which Sir William had referred. He recalled the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882, and the blockade of Greece in 1886, when Sir William was a member of the government. He could not believe that any strong action, and hoped that nothing as strong was now likely, but in neither case to which he referred had any notice been given to parliament beforehand. The government was most anxiously desirous of an amicable settlement. It was in every way conscious of its resposibility, and was acting in the firm belief that it was pursuing a policy that would bring liberty to Crete and preserve the peace of Europe. It was not prepared to imperil either by a pledge which might hamper its action at a critical moment. (Unionist cheers.) In reply to a question asked by Sir Charles Dilke, Mr. Balfour said he did not think that negotiations now in progress would be terminated by Thursday, enabling a statement of the intentions of the powers to be made on that day, as had been promised by M. Hanotaux, the French foreign minister.

TO EXPEL THE FRENCH.

Their Occupation of British Territory May Involve the Two Countries in Trouble.

London, March 10.—A dispatch from Brass, on the west coast of Africa, says that the news recently received there of the occupation of Boussa by a French force of 400 men, commanded by white officers, is confirmed. This incursion into territory long recognized as being within the British sphere is resented by the officials of the British Niger company, who are considering the question of expelling the intruders. Should this be done France and England may be involved in serious trouble, although actual war is not expected.

Terrible Ocean Voyage.

St. Johns, N. F., March 10.—The Danish steamer Island, from Stettin for New York, arrived here this morning. She reports experiencing terrible weather. Her decks were swept by heavy seas and she lost two of her lifeboats. Her second officer had two of his ribs broken and a seaman's leg was broken. She had burned all her coal on the passage and had been compelled to burn her woodwork in order to reach port.

Work for Several Thousand Men.

Baltimore, March 10.—It is authoritatively stated that the work of the Maryland Steel company at Sparrows point will start up in all departments in a few days, thus giving employment to over 2,000 men. The steel rail mill of the company is also being fitted up and will be ready for operation by May 1. It closed down on Jan. 1, 1894. It has has a capacity of making 1,200 rails per day.

Democratic Senatorial Caucus.

Washington, March 10.—The democratic senators held a caucus last evening on the subject of the reorganization of the senate, but to no conclusion. A committee was appointed to confer with the other silver factions in the senate. The only gold democrat who attended the caucus was Senator Lindsay of Kentucky.

Mrs. Robert Treat Paine Dead.

Boston, March 10.—Mrs. Paine, wife of Robert Treat Paine, who died yesterday of pneumonia, was a daughter of George Williams Lyman, a son of Theodore Lyman, a distinguished Boston merchant at the beginning of the century. She was largely interested in philanthropic work.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR ICE.

Skating Parties May Now be Held in a Ball Room.

A step toward skating in summer has been made by the inventor-manufacturer Villard, of Paris. This inventive genius has been seriously considering for some years the fact that skating tournaments are the most uncertain things in the sporting world. No reliance can be placed upon ice.

Aside from the uncertainties of the ice in cold weather, there are a great many latitudes that never have weather cold enough for skating.

To obviate all this, Villard has completed a substance which makes skating easy not only in winter, but in summer. It is hard upon the surface, glassy and smooth in texture, will float like a cork, and resists the heaviest blow and it neither flakes nor breaks at the strokes of the skates.

The composition is a mixture of ozokerite, stearin and paraffin. The proportions are kept a secret, and also the manner of mixing.

The advantage of the composition is that it can be used upon either a hard or a soft surface. For use in cold weather it is allowed to harden. It is then cut into blocks and laid upon the ice. The blocks are melted together into one sheet by having liquid wax poured between them. Finally there is one smooth, broad, flawless surface presented.

The beauty of this arrangement is that the wax preserves the ice from the sun and keeps it hard. Ice can scarcely melt except in case of a persistent thaw. Even should it do so, the wax blocks float and there is no danger from the water beneath. A slight sinking of the surface along the edge of the lake is the only indication of the melting of the ice beneath.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Typewriter Prism.

The connection between typewriting and political science may not be very clear, but one clever inventor has joined them in a useful invention. By means of it the writing of a typewriter is made continuously visible to the operator. The principal part of the device consists of a prism of pure optical glass as long as the line to be printed. It is carefully ground and polished, and is fastened to the carriage of the machine beneath the impression roller. Two of its three sides are flat, and the third is a strong cylindrical convex curve. The curved side is in view of the operator, and the writing is visible on its surface. Not only is it perfectly reflected, but the writing is presented right side up, and in a normal position to the eye, magnified to any desired extent. A metal pointer shows the exact spot on which the next character written will appear.—New York World.

The Baked Banana as Health Food.

Bestow a boon on humanity and help to popularize the baked banana as an article of food for rich and poor especially the poor. No poor child need go to school hungry. One cent will buy a good sized banana, which, when baked in its skin in an oven for fifteen or twenty minutes until it is quite soft and bursts open, alone makes a full meal.

Bananas should never be eaten raw; they are very indigestible. Youngsters fed on raw bananas nearly always suffer from diseases of the intestinal canal and convulsions. Physicians call such children "banana babies."

Baked bananas are also the ideal food for nervous persons and anaemics, also brain workers.—New York Sun.

Bridget Settled the Matter.

A lady had been ill and under medical treatment for a long time. As she grew no better all the while, she became distrustful of her physician's skill, and did not wish to see him and yet she was not bold enough to tell him so. She communicated the state of her mind to her maid.

"L'ave 'im to me, mum, I'ave 'im to me!" said the girl.

By-and-by the doctor came to the door, and Bridget opened it about an inch.

"Sorry, sir," said she, "but ye can't come in the day, docthor."

"Can't come in? How's that?"

"The mistres do be too ill for to see ye the day, sir."—Tid-Bits.

Postmaster for Fifty-six Years.

The oldest postmaster in continuous service in the United States lives in Central Pennsylvania. His name is Joseph Strode, and he lives at Strode's Mills, a pretty village in Miffin county.

This old pioneer postmaster, says the Cressen Record, has held the one position since 1845. As a recognition of his long and faithful service for the government, the Post Office Department at Washington had his picture on exhibition at the World's Fair, and it was considered one of the most interesting features of that great department.

A lady walked into a Boston bookstore in search of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps' Burglars in Paradise; but what she asked for was Smugglers in Heaven.

Much in Little

Is especially true of Hood's Pills, for no medicine ever contained so great curative power in so small space. They are a whole medicine chest, always ready, always efficient, always satisfactory; prevent a cold or fever, cure all liver ills, sick headache, jaundice, constipation, etc. 25c. The only Pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills

One Minute Late

It makes no difference whether you were one minute or one hour late, if you missed the train. Better get there on time, even if you have to wait. One hour early is better than one minute late. Delay costs thousands of lives each year. "Neglected colds" is the beginning of the story; and consumption is the end. Few remedies, and but little of them, cure in the beginning. Later, many remedies long continued, and tedious journeys, too frequently end in disappointment.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

TWO DEAD; TWO MAY DIE.

Result of a Supposed Incendiary Fire in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 10.—A fire in this city yesterday afternoon, supposed to be the work of an incendiary, caused the death of two persons and injured two others so badly that it is thought they will die. The dead are Charles Goddard, 40 years old, and John Duncan, 18 months. The latter was thrown from the fourth story window by his mother, Annie Duncan. She followed herself a minute later and is now in the Homeopathic hospital suffering from a fractured skull. Mrs. Goddard also jumped at the same time and received internal injuries that the doctors at the City hospital say may result in her death.

SMITH MURDER CASE.

Another Arrest Made---Prosecution Confident of Convictions.

New Bloomfield, Pa., March 10.—The only new development in the Smith murder case was the lodging in jail last night of Samuel Smith, brother of Hugh. Samuel is charged with aiding Hugh to dispose of the body of the murdered girl. It was thought best not to arrest other parties said to be implicated and no other arreste will be maile at present. The district attorney now claims to have conclusive evidence that the girl was killed on March 14, 1869, and claims to have no doubt that the guilty men are now in jail.

WEIGHED 400 POUNDS.

Death of a Woman Who Gained 300 Pounds in Three Years.

Pittsburg, March 10. — Mrs. Ruth Hollar, who weighed 400 pounds, died at her home in Allegheny last evening of fatty degeneration of the heart. Within the last three years Mrs. Hollar has increased in weight from scarcely 100 pounds to over 400 pounds. During the past six months she has lived in the second-story of her home being unable, on account of her enormous size, to get either up or down stairs. She was only about four feet five inches in height.

Bram Sentenced To Be Hanged.

Boston, March 10.—Thomas M. Bram, the convicted murderer of Capt. Nash of the barkentine Herbert Fuller, was late yesterday afternoon in the United States circuit court sentenced to be hanged on Friday, June 18, in Charles street jail, this city. Sentence was pronounced by Judge Colt. Bram said in court: "In the presence of Almighty God, I am innocent of the crime of which I am charged. But not my will be done, but God's will, as it is done by His angels in Heaven."

Uncle Sam Sued for $100,000.

Toronto, March 10.—A leading law firm of this city, acting for Sidney Slocum of Hamilton, Ont., formerly of Peoria, Ill., has entered suit against the United States government for $100,000 for false arrest and imprisonment. Slocum was arrested at Hamilton about a year ago and extradited on a charge of attempted murder at Peoria. He was tried and acquitted after lingering in jail for several weeks. Slocum was put to big expense in fighting the case.

Philadelphia, March 10.—The remains of Arthur Biddle, the well known lawyer of this city, who died at Atlantic City, N. J., arrived here last night. Mr. Biddle was 44 years old and had long been a sufferer from heart disease, which caused his death. He was a candidate last year on the democratic ticket for city solicitor of Philadelphia.

BOMB IN THEIR RANKS

Office-Seekers Told That There Are Few Positions Open.

PROMOTIONS WILL BE THE RULE

Notices Posted in the State Department Explain the Situation---Little Can Be Expected Even from the Consular Service.

Washington, March 10.—Posted conspicuously through the corridors of the state department where office-seekers can scarcely avoid being confronted with the information are neat placards decipherable at a considerable distance setting forth the fact that but nine positions in that department are excepted from the civil service regulations, namely, three assistant secretaryships above classification, four mere laborers below classification, one private secretary to the secretary of state, and the right to appoint one additional confidential clerk without examination. This list, which fills the man out of a job with dismay, has already dwindled down to two places, the first and third assistant secretaryships, for the mere laborers are capable men of long standing, the private secretary has already been appointed, the authorized confidential clerk has never been and is not required, and Mr. Adee has been continued indefinitely as second assistant. The notices, although dated June 10, were printed March 1 and signed by Richard Olney, but Secretary Sherman has ruled that they are to stand, so the office-seeker departs disconsolate.

Promotions Now in Order.

A similar condition of affairs applies in the war and navy departments, where the information is vouchsafed that no vacancies are apt to occur in desirable places, but if they do promotion from the next lower grades is the sole method of appointment. Under these circumstances the rush for places has already ceased in those departments, and a strong contrast is presented to the conditions which usually prevail with changes of administration. Twelve years ago, when the democrats first appeared for twenty years and the slogan was "turn the rascals out," the business of these departments was interrupted for months by the terrific onslaught of victors after spoils. Eight years ago the effort was almost as general, complicated by the efforts of the "outs" for reinstatement, and when Cleveland returned in 1893 hundreds of applications for places were vigorously and personally pressed for a few weeks. Now, however, the ineffective rush has come and passed altogether within three days and the machinery of the departments is grinding away as usual.

Blue for Place Hunters.

The only vacancy in the navy department, that of chief clerk, has been filled by the promotion of a man whom Senator Don Cameron assisted to a $1,200 clerkship sixteen years ago and his old place is to go to a naval stenographer of ten years' service, the latter position permitting the civil service commission to designate a shorthand writer of merit without political consideration. An assistant secretary of the navy to succeed Mr. McAdoo is Secretary Long's only patronage concern for months to come, perhaps throughout his administration. In the war department Gen. Alger has taken as private secretary the stenographer of the fortifications board and the assistant secretaryship now filled by Gen. Doe is all that is left at his disposal. The only possibility in these three departments for rewarding political workers lies in the improbable action of President McKinley by executive order abolishing the extension of the classified service to clerical positions.

Even the Consular Service Shut Out.

The consular service, to which the party workers have hitherto looked for compensation, is also included in the class to which examinations are prerequisite as far as concerns all consulates or commercial agencies the salary of which is not more than $2,500, including fees, or less than $1,000, these amounts including nine-tenths of them. Elaborate circulars detailing all the orders and regulations affecting the permanency of the consular service and the restrictions to entering it are being distributed freely by the state department through congressmen and those who claim to have influence, with the effect of totally deterring the greater portion of applicants who have had dreams of foreign travel and sojourn, and those who personally seek Secretary Sherman learn additionally that he intends not only to enforce these regulations, but gradually to extend them above and below their existing limitations.

Passed Partly Submerged Wreckage.

Philadelphia, March 10.—The British steamer Robert Harrowing, here from Boston, reports that on March 8, when ten miles southeast of Barnegat, she passed a submerged wreck with two masts extending out of the water about eighteen feet. In the wreckage was seen what appeared to be a second sunken craft of larger dimensions and with jibboom extending five feet above the water.

COMING EVENTS.

March 11—Meeting of the Parliamentary Club at the Y. M. C. A. hall.

WHAT WILL BE THE RESULT?

In view of the fact that the borough now has a Democratic mayor and a Republican council, the question naturally arises, "What will be the result?" Some people have said that the hands of the Mayor will be tied and that he will of necessity have to stand by the decision of the council. This is not altogether true. It must be remembered that some of the present councilmen voted for Mr. Wilson, and if that is the case, what is there to prevent them from voting with him in councilmanic matters. It only requires 3 votes with that of the Mayor to decide a question, and it is believed that Mayor Wilson will have no trouble in getting three of the councilmen to stand by him.

ENCOURAGING TO DEMOCRATS.

The township elections throughout this particular section, as the reports published in the news columns of today's Press show, are decidedly in favor of the Democrats, for in nearly every place where there was a contest the vote ended in a victory for them. Of course, the issues were not strictly partisan, but nevertheless the general result cannot but help encourage Democrats to further activity and aggressiveness, qualities that they have been sadly in need for sometime past.

MAYOR WILSON.

To those who watched closely the drift of political sentiment in the borough after the candidates of both parties had been nominated, the election of Col. John F. Wilson as Mayor was not unexpected. The Colonel as a business man always made a success of whatever he undertook, and there is no reason why as the chief executive of the "local Canada" he should not evidence the same ripe judgment.

INDUSTRIAL HOME.

Chairman Frost, of the Councilmanic Alms Committee, has termed the city poor farm as the "Industrial Home." Mr. Frost believes that the name will relieve any odium that might attach itself to the place if called the "poor farm." As a matter of fact, the new name is quite appropriate inasmuch as the occupants of the place are to be made to earn a portion of the living which the city will provide for them.

THE NEW BOROUGH OFFICERS.

The new Mayor and Council of the borough will meet next Monday evening at which time the new officers will be installed and an organization will be effected. The Mayor will make his appointments at this time. The first regular meeting of the Council will be held next week, Friday evening.

SHE DIED FIRST.

Woman Killed by Train Tried to Collect Insurance on a Live Husband.

Hannah Moleske, killed by a train at Netherwood last Friday night, two weeks ago claimed her husband was dead and asked a Newark life insurance company to pay her $190 insurance on his life. The company investigated and decided that he was not dead.

Mrs. Moleske had not been heard of since until she was identified as the woman killed at Netherwood. She lived in Neck Lane, Clinton Township, and leaves property there worth nearly $2,000. Her husband spends most of his time wandering about Union county. It is thought they were not altogether responsible.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

THEIR AIM IS MISSIONS.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF A PRESBYTERIAN SOCIETY

Sketch of the Earnest Workers for the Cause of Christianity in Foreign Lands Since 1872—Very Encouraging Reports.

In the spring of 1872 a number of women in the First Presbyterian and Crescent avenue Presbyterian churches, who were interested in mission work, formed themselves into a woman's foreign missionary society. Woman's work for woman had only been inaugurated by the Presbyterian Board of Missions two years before, so this society was one of the first of the kind. Yesterday afternoon the society celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary in the First Presbyterian church. A large number of the members and their friends were present and the occasion was a very pleasant one.

As the ladies entered the church, they were greeted by the word "Welcome," fastened upon the front of the organ. At one side of it was the date, 1872, at the other, 1879. The president, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, was in the chair; at her right, the first and second vice-presidents, Mrs. James Petrie and Mrs. Silas Yerkes, and at her left the secretary, Mrs. Harriet Burton Ford, and the treasurer, Miss Addie Dietrich.

The meeting was opened by a missionary hymn, led by Miss Josephine Petrie at the organ, and a choir of women. The Scripture lesson was read by the president and a prayer was offered by Rev. C. E. Herring, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs Ford. The treasurer's reports for the past year and for the twenty five years of the society's life, were read by Miss Dietrich. The secretary then gave a very interesting account of the work done by the society during the past year; the money given for the support of a worker in Brazil, the meetings held from month to month and the missionaries who had addressed them, and the missionary library formed for the use of the women of the two churches.

Miss Bessie Blair now sang a very sweet solo, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," after which a historical sketch of the society was given by Mrs. Wm. Scribner, one of the organizers. She told the story of the formation of the organization, its early meeting in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A., the tremors of the women who had never presided at a meeting before, the work done by the society and its auxiliaries, between $21,000 and $22,000 having been given by all the bands together in the twenty-five years, the different ones who had held office, and the spirit of deep interest shown by the members.

After the singing of a hymn, reports were given from the different bands under the direction of the society: the Young Ladies' Mission Band, by Miss Tracy; the Earnest Workers, (the boys' band of the Crescent Avenue church), by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller; the Sunshine Mission Band, composed of little girls, by Mrs. Frank S. Martin; the King's Messengers, of the First Presbyterian church, by its little president, Miss Marion Englehart; the missionary committee of the First Presbyterian church Christian Endeavor Society, by Miss Abbott; the committee from the Crescent Avenue Endeavor Society, by Miss Mary Howe Miller; the First Presbyterian Junior Endeavor Society, by Miss Mabel Pruden, and the Crescent Avenue Junior Society, by Miss Helen May Cahoone.

An exquisite trio, "Lift Thine Eyes," from "Elijah," was sung by Mrs. Clawson, Mrs. Asa Collier and Miss Julia J. Ketcham Then followed the election of officers for the coming year. They were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Samuel Milliken. first vice-president, Mrs. James Petrie; second vice-president, Mrs. Silas Yerkes; secretary, Mrs. Harriet Burton Ford; treasurer, Miss Addie Dietrich; superintendent of collections for Crescent Avenue church, Mrs. D. N. Groendyke; for First Presbyterian church, Mrs. W. L. Remsen; secretary of literature, Miss Sarah Hayes.

After the president had been welcomed by Mrs. Halloway, Rev. W. R Richards, D. D., gave a very interesting account of the work of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, including a short history of its formation. At the close of this address several notices were given, after which Dr. Richards offered the closing prayer and pronounced the benediction. Those present then adjourned to the parlors of the church, where tea was served by the King's Messengers, of which band Miss Marion Englehart is the president and Mrs Olssen the superintendent. A very pleasant social hour was enjoyed, and many congratulations were given the society that has so successfully reached its silver anniversary.

A Desirable Possibility.

There is a possibility that at the next meeting of the Freeholders of Union county something will be done in the matter of placing a bridge across Greenbrook near Tier's dam.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. E. Garretson has moved into the Messler building on Front street.

Edward Herlich, of Front street, is suffering from a monster boil on his arm.

Clifford Emory, of Front street, is very ill with a cold, which threatens pneumonia.

Ernest Peters is confined to the house with a severe cold, which threatened pneumonia.

Owing to the death of her husband, Rev. S. F. Custard, Mrs. Custard was yesterday stricken down with nervous prostration.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Egbert, of Prospect avenue, have returned from their trip to Washington and the inaugural ceremonies.

Central engine 460 eastbound sprung a leak in her steam chest at Dunellen, at 11:20 o'clock, last evening, and in consequence the train was delayed for quite a time.

Everybody in Dunellen who had a breech-loader or an army musket, had it loaded with buckshot, last night so as to be ready for a second invasion of the house breakers.

From seven o'clock, when the polls closed, last evening, until eleven, four hours, the election officers were kept busy counting the 180 votes cast, and they didn't stop for supper, either.

The late and lamented Rev. S. F. Custard was a member of William G. Holton Council, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., and his death is the first loss the council has had since it was organized.

George Schenck, for a long time past head clerk in Adam Dealaman's grocery store, severed his connection with the store on Saturday. George was a very popular clerk, and he is now about to open a store of his own in the rooms just vacated by the W. C. T. U.

People in Dunellen have been hoping that the Central Railroad Company would remove the roundhouse to point not so near the centre of the town. At night the puffing and snorting of engines is most hideous to most persons, and especially to the sick. But the authorities have no such intentions, so the taxpayers must gine and bear it.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Orange and Scotch Plains came together in a cocking main at Garwood, Saturday night. Orange worsted the Plains to the tune of 4 to 2.

The live bird shoot announced to take place at Benner's shooting grounds yesterday, was unavoidably postponed to a date not as yet announced.

The election at the Plains yesterday brought in many of the ruralites from the surrounding country. They tied their horses under the hotel sheds and made a tour of the town on foot.

Miss Marion Blimm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blimm, is still in an uncertain state. While the attending physician does not pronounce her case as dangerous, yet much care must be taken to bring the patient around all right again.

The road leading from Scotch Plains to Fanwood is now in great demand by bicyclists, and it is being utilized pleasant afternoons by many out-of-town riders. Those from Newark and Springfield are said to be the most numerous just now, but there are many riders from Elizabeth, Rahway and other towns.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Ellen Marah died at her home in South Plainfield, yesterday. She was in her sixty-first year. She has resided in this region for a number of years and was well-known here. The funeral will be held from her late residence tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Francis church, Metuchen, at 10 o'clock. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

In Dispair.

If you are in dispair from loss of vitality, weakness and nervous prostration and you have no interest in life, write to Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, and all you have lost will be restored. Dr. Greene is the most eminent specialist of his time, the most successful physician today. His cures are wonderful and unequalled by any other physician. You can consult him personally or by letter, free. If you are sick from overwork or any cause, write to Dr. Greene and ask his advice. He will cure you.

ELECTION IN WESTFIELD

THE DEMOCRATS WERE VICTORIUS AFTER A HARD FIGHT.

N. B. Gardner, the Head of the Republican Ticket, Had too Many Enemies in His Own Party and Was Thus Defeated.

Westfield, March 10th.—The election is over and was just as it has been predicted in The Press. The three Democrats heading their ticket were elected after a bitter fight from start to finish, as both sides did more or less cutting. Early in the day the Republicans gave up all hope of carrying ex-Town Committeeman N. B. Gardner, the head of the ticket, to victory, and confined their efforts in a vain endeavor to pull ex-Collector A. K. Gale out of the mire. But it was useless. He, too, was snowed under. There were many causes, it is said, contributing to the defeat of those heading the Republican ticket, which were that the voters objected to the high-handed primary, the sewer and the heavy assessments. And it was also alleged that Mr. Gardner in previous elections has worked for Democratic candidates. Especially at the polls last spring when he assisted in the election of I. I. Ross, Democrat, for town clerk, who defeated the Republican candidate, J. H. Cash. The votes were cast as follows: For Town Committee, Christopher W. Harden, D., 376; N. B. Gardner, R., 271; Assessor, John M. C. Marsh, D., 389, Wellington Moorehouse, R., 266; Collector, Addison H. Clark, D., 362, Augustus K. Gale, R., 294; Constable, Gustave H. Koester, D., 209, Eugene W. Chamberlain, R., 383; Justice of the Peace, James R. Patterson, D., 308, Walter B. Toucy, R., 341; Surveyors of Highways, John Darsh, D., 276, David E. Miller, D., 276, J. N. Wilcox, R., 380, Sherman Cooper, R 382; Commissioners of Appeal, Henry C. Sargeant, D., 272, Benjamin H. Woodruff, D., 276, Isaac P. Whitehead, 267, William W. Connolly, R., 389, John J. Coger, R. 385, Charles A. Smith, R., 381; Pound Keepers, Jonas S. Miller, D., 274, Simeon W. Lambert, D., 269, S. H. Willoughby, R., 379, Oliver M. Pierson, R., 389, N. B. Gardner, R., 2. The appropriations went through as recommended, and are as follows: Roads, $5,000; street lighting, $2,700; poor, $500; fire department, $600; hydrants, $700; maintenance of sewer system, $1,500; township expenses, $2,500. The election passed off quietly, though there was more interest shown than at the National election last fall. Only at one time did there appear to be a fracas and that was when one Burke got up on the railing in the second district polling place and wanted to make a speech. Howard Manning, one of the judges, hurried him out doors, and he called for the men to come out and hear him. They didn't seem anxious, and Mr. Burke put off in the dark. The officers will qualify before Friday and the town committee will hold its first meeting of the new year next Friday evening.

Dr. Stearn's to go to India.

It will be a source of regret to many that Dr. Stearns, who has been teaching the Sunday-school lesson in this city for sometime past, is going to India. Last Monday evening he bid his friends farewell and he announced that his place would be taken by Rev. G. C. Needham, the evangelist, if it was so desired. A vote was taken and those present decided to have Mr. Needham come to Plainfield every other Monday evening. Mr. Needham is a deep Bible student and a thoroughly interesting talker, and while all are very sorry that Dr. Stearns is going away they are grateful that so able a man is to take his place.

CONSOLATION.

O heart of mine, we shouldn't
Worry so!
What we've missed of calm we couldn't have,
You know!
What we've met of stormy pain,
And of sorrow's driving rain,
We can better meet again,
If it blow.

We have erred in that dark hour
We have known,
When our tears fell with the shower,
All alone,
Were not shine and shadow blent
As the gracious Master meant?
Let us temper our content
With His own.

For, we know, not every morrow
Can be sad:
So, forgetting all the sorrow
We have had,
Let us fold away our fears,
And put by our foolish tears,
And through all the coming years
Just be glad.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

AILEEN.

In the year 188— I was traveling salesman for the firm of Smith, Briggs & Company, New York, and late one Saturday evening, toward the latter part of October, found myself stranded in the rather more dead than alive little town of Corningsburgh, with no prospect of leaving that place until the following Monday.

My enforced stay there promised to be anything but a pleasant one, for Corningsburgh was a typical inland village, more than a quarter of a century behind the progress of civilization.

Apparently, the only ripple of excitement that had broken the dead calm of this existence since the last burial was the announcement of a church wedding that was to take place there the following day. Weary of hearing this discussed and re-discussed at the grocery whither I had disconsolately sauntered, I returned to my hotel, and the first words my landlady said to me, as I sat down to supper, were—

"Heard about the wedding?"

I assented gruffly.

"It'll be a grand affair," she continued. "It's the first wedding in the family, and it'll be the last, for the bride is an only child, and a pretty penny she'll bring her husband! Not that Dr. Berndt cares for that, for he has enough for both and to spare, but he has never been the same since his first trouble. You heard of that, sir?" mysteriously.

No, I had not.

"I thought as much!" triumphantly. "I doubt if any one about here knows the ins and outs of that story as well as I do, for I'm no hand to blab, and it all happened away from here—over in Bel Air, and I was right there at the time. Let's see, it's been eight year ago, easy. The Berndts were then the biggest land owners in that county, and Phil was as likely a young fellow as you'd find in a year's travel. He was an only child, and had been petted and humored all his life, but he had only one fault: he was given to fits of jealousy. They burst upon one suddenly, without any warning whatever, but were always soon over, when he would be his old merry self again.

"Well, it was a great day at the Berndts' when Phil brought his young bride home. I was there helping with the decorations, and she was as pretty a young creature as ever you saw. But for all her winning ways, sweet smile and velvet eyes, I could see that she was proud as Lucifer. It was in the very pose of her head, flash of eye and tread of her footstep. She was a dainty little thoroughbred, proud and high-spirited.

"Aileen Cairnmoor was her name. She came of a proud old blue-blooded family of Kentucky. The Berndts worshipped her—father, mother and son—and she worshipped them in turn. There never was a happier family, and all went well till one day when Phil's old spirit asserted itself, and his mad jealousy burst upon Aileen with ungovernable fury.

"She listened to his rash accusations with widening eyes and paling lips, then, without a word, went directly to her room and locked the door.

"Phil's mother and I were by and heard it all. We were both frightened and begged him to go at once and apologize, but he wouldn't; his anger wasn't over; so he dashed from the room, ordered his horse and rode away.

"Mrs. Berndt worried considerable after he was gone, but knowing Phil as well as she did, never gave a thought to any further trouble coming of the affair. She knew he would be all right when he came back, and it never occurred to her that Aileen might not make the same allowances for Phil as did his mother, who had known him all his life.

"I never passed such a night. Mr. Phil did not come home, and Aileen did not come down to supper. I carried a tray of tea and toast to her room, but the door was locked, and I could get no response. Mrs. Berndt herself went to the door, but concluding that the girl was asleep, came away without disturbing her.

"And the next morning she was gone! No trace of her could be found. The door stood wide open, and the contents of the room had not been disturbed. All her costly dresses, dainty trinkets and jewels, gifts from her husband, lay scattered about, just as she had left them.

"Mr. Phil came home early, pleasant as a May morning and ashamed of his previous bad temper; but he was in a towering rage when he found Aileen gone, and wouldn't look for her—expecting her back every minute. But she did not come, and when he did look for her no clue to her whereabouts could be found.

"Well, they never rallied from that blow—none of them. Phil's mother and father died a few years later, and Phil himself wandered about like a ghost for a while, and finally settled down to his practice. He would never give up the old home in Bel Air; 'peared like he thought maybe she'd come back. And now he's going to be married again!

"Some do say that he first took to Lucilla Barnes because of a fleeting resemblance between her and his first wife. Don't know how that is. Never could see any likeness myself, though Lucilla isn't a bad looking girl—but fly. It's her doings that they're to be married in the church."

At my landlady's suggestion I went early to the church, in order to secure a front seat and watch the incoming crowd.

Some were looking preternaturally sad over the affair as if it were a burial, while others seemed to consider it the best joke of the season. But the two who must stand by it for aye had not yet appeared, and soon I forgot their existence altogether in the contemplation of the loveliest vision it had ever been my good fortune to behold. This was a woman who might have been thirty or seventeen, for any trace of time or memory upon her smooth, clear-cut features.

Such a contradictory face as it was—fair, calm and sweet, with never a touch of gladness or sorrow in its pure features, but a whole heart history in the intense velvety depths of the liquid dark eyes.

By her side sat a child—a lad of seven or eight years—her child, without a doubt, for the same shadow in the mother's eyes lay darkening and brightening in his, and the sweet young face bore a striking resemblance to hers. But it was a grave face, too—unchildlike in a quiet gravity that spoke of strength and self-reliance.

So engrossed had I become in watching them that I almost missed the entrance of the bridal party, and had only time for a hasty inventory of the bride and groom as they took their positions in front of the altar; the former, a fair young girl, in billows of lace and tulle adorned with sprays of orange blossom—the latter, a man of splendid physique, with a strong, dark, handsome face, tempered by a wistful patience in its stern lines, and having "a touch of time in his raven hair."

As the first words of the marriage service reached us, the man chanced to glance across the church, when his gaze fell on the lady in whom I had so lately been interested. In an instant his face had blanched; he staggered forward, and with an inarticulate cry, fell in a deathlike swoon near the altar.

In the confusion that ensued the fair unknown quietly arose and left the building. Her way led past that prostrate figure, and her fur-edged cloak brushed the man's white face as she glided by him.

The child half paused, with a longing backward glance at the still form. But the lady's slender gloved fingers closed firmly over the little hand as she hurried away.

My eyes followed them to the door, where I saw the boy pause gravely, and clinging to the lady's soft draperies, make some pleading request which she reluctantly granted. Then he darted away up the aisle, where the crowd was swaying back and forth about the altar.

I arose and followed him as he threaded his way to Doctor Berndt's side and knelt by him, his fingers caressingly smoothing the white brow, till, seemingly under the magnetism of that touch, the man opened his eyes and arms and drew the child close to his breast.

The little fellow soon disengaged himself from that embrace, and in reply to what must have been a whispered entreaty from Doctor Berndt for him to remain with him, said,—

"I cannot! I must go to mamma. She has no one to take care of her but me."

Then, cap in hand, he passed down the aisle, a ray of sunshine from one of the windows touching his silken curls and bringing out golden threads of embroidery in his velvet blouse. Arrived at the church door he found the lady gone; but that fact did not seem to disconcert him. Setting his cap firmly on his glossy head, he marched toward the hotel—my hotel, for there was no other in Corninsburgh—and as the carriages were leaving, and an usher had informed me that the ceremony was postponed, I followed him.

As for Doctor Berndt, the first words he uttered after the child left him in the church were,—

"She is my wife and that is my child, though God knows I never thought of such a thing!"

The sight of his first love's face was like a breath of hope on the smouldering fires of his old love, which flamed into being once more. He hurried to the hotel and demanded an interview with his wife, which, though none of us could ascertain how, was readily obtained.

An excited crowd was gathered on the ground floor of the hotel, all impatiently awaiting the result of the interview, though there could be small doubt of what it would be; for the strong will and pride which had separated the pair when love was in its prime could not be expected to bring them together now that the snows of time and silence were piled high upon the dead love in Aileen's heart.

Was it dead? I had not seen a change in the calm, sweet face, even as she passed him in the church. Not only was the ghost of the dead past between them bue the other fair living woman—a new love! The pride of the Cairnmoors could not forgive that.

Eagerly we waited for the crumbs of news doled out to us by our landlady after surreptitious trips upstairs.

"It would break your heart to see them," declared that worthy woman, wiping her eyes vigorously upon her apron, and giving me the place of honor by her side. "She sits there as indifferent-like as a marble image, with her big soft eyes looking far away out of the window, and every little while she says something soft, pleasant and natural-like in answer to his passionate pleading as he kneels there at her feet. And that child stands by his mother's side, one hand on the arm of her chair and the other thrust into his velvet blouse, while his face—so like them both—is grave as a preacher's as he watches Doctor Berndt."

We were all seized with such a thirst for information, and became so clamorous for more after this that she again left us—though not the bravest of our number dared hint that all her tight on the subject came through the keyhole of the door.

This time she stayed so long that our excitement reached fever heat ere she again joined us, still weeping, yet speaking fast and excitedly.

"I never want to live long enough to see such a pitiful sight again," she vowed vehemently. "Aileen just said something to him in that sweet, lofty way of hers, with a faint little smile, and he made no answer except to lean his head against the arm of her chair, where he remained still as death. His hair was blown against her arm; but she never noticed it nor him, but just sat there with that careless smile on her lips and far away look in her pretty eyes. But the child—standing opposite Doctor Berndt and looking so grave, wise and sad—it would have broken your heart to see him! I can't tell how long they remained that way, but presently the boy slipped like a shadow from his mother's side, and going around to Dr. Berndt, put his arms about him and kissed him, and whispered something, but still Mrs. Berndt never moved, nor seemed to notice either of them till the child put up his arms and drew her face down against his father's, and that touch seemed to warm her into life. At once, as though she couldn't help it, she kissed Phil again and again, and he just put his arms around both mother and child, as though he never meant to let them go!"

Still the woman talked on and on, in answer to the numberless inquiries from the crowd, and I learned that Aileen Cairnmoor had gone directly West on leaving her husband, eight years before, and in not attempting in any way to conceal her flight, had utterly escaped notice. There she had made friends, and "taught by tears and calmed by time," in the solemn grandeur of the majestic scenery, by the wash of the Western seas, she had learned that love was stronger than pride, and so was willing to take up the broken threads of her life and weave them into shapeliness again.

The crowd broke into a rousing cheer a while later, when Dr. Berndt drove away with his wife and child. The latter waved his tasselled cap in reply, and a burst of music, a chime of bells and a shower of flowers pursued the long-parted husband and wife into the new future opening before them.

As for the bride to be—well, she was young and would outlive this. Besides, in this busy, workaday world of ours, somebody's heart is aching every day. It may be mine tomorrow—or yours. Who can tell?

One True Ghost Story.

This is a true ghost story of an unconventional kind. A young lady arrived late at night on a visit to a friend. She awoke in the darkness to find a white figure at the foot of the bed. While she watched the bedclothes were suddenly whisked off and the apparition vanished. After an anxious, not to say chilly, night, the visitor went down with little appetite for breakfast. At the table she was introduced to a gentleman, a very old friend of the family, who had, she learned, also been sleeping in the house. He complained of the cold.

"I hope you will excuse me," he said to his hostess, "but I found it so cold during the night that, knowing the room next to mine was unoccupied, I took the liberty of going in and carrying off the bedclothes to supplement my own."

The room, as it happened, was not unoccupied, but he never learned his mistake.

Fattening Hogs on Horseflesh.

Every imaginable kind of a horse save a good and serviceable one, is brought to Georgetown on court day to be traded off. Frequently trades are made for 25 cents to boot, and many amusing sights are witnessed on "jockey row," as it is called.

In connection with this trading in worn-out horses a new industry has sprung up. A man from Woodford county bought all the horses he could get for $1 per head. He kills them, feeds the flesh to his hogs, sells the hides and bones, and finds it profitable. Whenever he buys a horse for a dollar, and he can sell it for two, he lets it go, otherwise it is fed to the hogs.—Courier Journal.

His Real Motive.

Storekeeper—Did yew ride way in here jes' ter buy that gallon uv whiskey, Abner?

Abner—W'y, consarn yer hide, Silas! yew orter know I wouldn't leave my farm right in the middle uv plantin' and' ride way in here jest ter buy a gallon uv whiskey. I kem ter town ter day pupuss ter buy my wife a spool uv white cotton thread, an' gol darn my buttons ef I hadn't clean forgot all about that thread until you spoke.—Judge.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the origina. color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Helpless as to the Bread.

Captain Bliss was like all seamen, a strict disciplinarian, and his crew respected him beyond measure. Not one of them would have dreamed of interpreting a command otherwise than according to the strict letter of the law; things must be done "shipshape" under his rule.

One day, while the ship was in a certain port, the captain gave a dinner to some town acquaintances, and as the resources of the ship were not great, some of the sailors were deputed to wait on the table to reinforce the insufficient number of stewards.

As these men were not used to such work, each one was told exactly what service would fall to his share.

The hour came and the dinner went merrily on. Presently, however, one of the ladies wanted a piece of bread. There was none very near her, and the finely disciplined stewards seemed to be quite oblivious to her need. She turned her head and spoke very softly to the man at her elbow.

"Bread, please!" she said.

He looked regretfully at the bread, and then at her. It was evident that he would fain have helped her if it had been in his power. He saluted in fine naval style.

"Can't do it, ma'am," said he. I'm told off for 'taters."

Butler on Evolution.

Two or three mornings after the arrival of a new butler the mistress of the house took the opportunity of asking the cook how she liked her new fellow servant. The report was an excellent one. "In fact, ma'am," said the cook, "the servant's hall is quite a different place now." Not unnaturally the mistress pressed for further particulars. "Well, he talks so cleverly," said the cook. "Last night, for instance, he explained things to us for an hour and a half." "Explained things—what things?" said the mistress, now really interested. "Well," was the reply, "he was telling us how we are all descended from Mr. Darwin!"—Nashville Gazette.

The Origin of the Foolscap.

When Oliver Cromwell became protector after the execution of Charles I, he caused the stamp of the cap of liberty to be placed upon the paper used by the government. Soon after the restoration of Charles II, having occasion to use some paper for despatches, some of this government paper was brought to him. On looking at it, and discovering the stamp, he inquired the meaning of it, and on being told, he said, "Take it away." Thus originated the term foolscap, which has ince been applied to a certain size of glazed writing paper.

Economy is Wealth.

Lady of the House—"Did you mail my letter, as I told you, Susan?"

Hired Girl—"Sure, mum, I did; but I had it weighed first, and as it was double weight I put another stamp on it."

Lady of the House—"That's right; only I hope you didn't put the extra stamp on so it would obliterate the address."

Hired Girl—"Indeed, I didn't mum; I just stuck it on the top of the other stamp so as to save room."—New York

TO COERCE GREECE

Russia Is Now Said To Be Firm in That Policy.

ITALY WILLING TO TAKE A HAND

After a Meeting of the English Cabinet Premier Salisbury Sends Telegrams to the Several European Governments and British Admiral.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—A firm resolve is manifested in government quarters to adhere fixedly to the policy of coercion towards Greece, should the Greek policy necessitate such a course. It is stated that the admirals commanding the foreign fleets in Cretan waters have decided, in addition to blockading the Piraus and the coast of Crete, to fire upon any Greek torpedo boat that approaches the foreign warships.

London, March 10.—An extra meeting of the cabinet to consider the new Cretan situation arising from Greece's practical refusal to accede to the demands of the powers was held last night in one of the private rooms of the house of commons. After the meeting Prime Minister Salisbury went to the foreign office where he was visited by Count Deym, the Austrian ambassador. Later Lord Salisbury sent telegraphic messages to the foreign capitals and to Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean squadron.

Rome, March 10.—It is stated that the cabinet, although hoping that a peaceful solution of the question will be arrived at, decided not to abstain from taking part in the coercion of Greece if the other powers were unanimous on this point.

Vienna, March 10.—The Greek reply to the identical note of the six great powers has been received at the ministry of foreign affairs, where it has been most carefully considered. It is not deemed at all satisfactory, as it is evasive, Greece apparently being desirous of dodging the very points upon which the identical note was based.

Christian Homes Pillaged.

Canea, March 10.—Advices received from Retimo on the north coast some thirty miles from here show that the pillaging of the houses and shops of the Christians there is still going on. The insurgents at Hierapetra, who were fired upon yesterday by an Italian cruiser, were commanded by the Greek leader Korakas. During the fighting at Akrotiri the Turkish positions were at one time so threatened by the insurgents that the warships made preparations to fire upon the Christians. This was averted by the latter retiring.

Cretan Question in the French Chamber.

Paris, March 10.—In the chamber of deputies last evening M. Millerand, socialist, again interpellated the government regarding the Cretan question and the action to be taken by France in view of the refusal of Greece to heed the ultimatum of the powers. Prime Minister Meline and M. Hanotaux, minister of foreign affairs, asked that consideration of the subject be deterred until to-morrow, and it was agreed to.

The Kernel of the Eastern Situation.

London, March 10.—The Chronicle to-day publishes a dispatch from Athens saying that the kernel of the situation is that Russia is pursuing Greece with terrible vindictiveness in order to humiliate her and transfer to the Russian church the allegiance of millions of Christians in the east who now owe obedience to the Greek patriarch at Constantinople.

Greeks Destroy Railway Bridges.

Athens, March 10.—Several Greek transports have landed great quantities of war material and large numbers of horses and mules at Volo, Thessaly. It is reported that Greek bands have destroyed a number of bridges on the railway between Monastir, the present headquarters of the Turkish army, and Salonica.

The Greek Force in Thessaly.

Vienna, March 10.—The Political Correspondence professes to have reliable information that Greece has only 8,000 troops in Thessaly, while the whole army effective there is only 14,000 men, and mobilization of the available force will realize barely 30,000 untrained troops.

Massacres in Crete.

London, March 10.—A dispatch from Candia, Crete, says: "News from the interior shows that massacres of Moslems by Christians are of almost hourly occurrence. Out of 167 Moslems in the village of Cykia only one person, a child, escaped slaughter."

Death of John L. Sawyer.

Cherry Valley, N. Y., March 10.—John L. Sawyer, for the past twenty-five years editor of the Cherry Valley Gazette, is dead at his residence here. He was graduated from Trinity college in 1851 and was principal of the Cherry Valley academy. Mrs. McKinley, wife of the present president of the United States, was one of his pupils.

Anti-Saloon Campaign in Maine.

Waterville, Me., March 10.—The police have begun a campaign of enforcement of the prohibitory laws. Hotels and saloons have generally closed their bars. This action is in line with the policy outlined in the mayor's inaugural. It has been many years since any attempt at a strict enforcement of the law was made.

Sheldon Murder Trial.

Auburn, N. Y., March 10.—The Sheldon murder trial, which has occupied the time of the court for seven weeks, will go to the jury to-morrow. Counsel are summing up to-day.

HE RETURNS TO LAW

Ex-Secretary Carlisle To Practice in the South.

CHIEF COUNSEL FOR A RAILROAD

His First Case in Connection with the Big Fight Now Being Waged Between the Governor of North Carolina and the Southern Road over Land.

Lynchburg, Va., March 10.—Hon. John G. Carlisle, Cleveland's secretary of treasury, arrived in the city yesterday on the Florida special from Washington, and after remaining here for two or three hours, left on the Washington limited for Greensboro, N. C. On reaching Lynchburg he was met at the depot and driven up town. He was accompanied by J. E. McCarthy, trainmaster of the Southern railroad. It transpired later that Mr. Carlisle's mission here was in connection with the big railroad fight now being waged between the governor of North Carolina and the Southern railroad in regard to a lease in Carolina held by the Southern. Mr. Carlisle came here as special counsel for the Southern to see Judge Simonton of the United States circuit court. After hearing Mr. Carlisle's argument Judge Simonton granted the necessary papers for a rule against the directors of the North Carolina railroad to show cause why an injunction should not be issued against any attempt to break the lease made of that road to the Southern road. It is understood that Mr. Carlisle has accepted the position of chief counselor for the Southern Railroad company.

PROBABLY A FILIBUSTER.

The Bermuda Said To Be Off Charleston Awaiting a Cargo of War Supplies.

Charleston, S. C., March 10.—The filibustering steamer Bermuda is supposed to be somwehere off Charleston, and it is understood that an attempt will be made to-night to put on board a cargo of arms, ammunitions and provisions from this city in lighters. A lighter-load was expected to be carried out early last night, but the presence of the monitors Amphitrite and Terror just off the bar using their searchlights is supposed to have caused a postponement. Two men claim to have seen the Bermuda early in the day, and another reports the presence in the city of Capt. Murphy, formerly of the Three Friends.

Spool Cotton Makers Combine.

New York, March 10.—Representative manufactures of spool cotton in this country met at the Manhattan hotel and formed an association, to be known as the American Spool Cotton Manufacturers' association. Among the firms represented were the Kerr Thread company.

Boston, March 10.—The house, by a vote of 64 to 31 rejected the resolutions asking the national government to take action in the case of Sylvester Scovel, the newspaper correspondent, who was confined in a Cuban prison. The senate had previously passed the resolutions.

The Stallion Acolyte Sold for $3,000.

Drink the Cause of J. M. Oakley's Death.

San Francisco, March 10.—The coroner's jury in the case of John M. Oakley, the Pittsburg millionaire, who died at the Palace hotel a week ago under sensational circumstances, has returned a verdict giving the cause of his death as "excessive use of liquor."

A NEW CHURCH UNION.

ORGANIZED BY THE CONGREGATIONALIST OF NEW JERSEY

It is Aimed to Promote the Welfare of the Society in New Jersey—Perfected at Annual Conference Held Yesterday

The Congregational churches of Northern New Jersey held their annual spring conference in the First Congregational church at Bound Brook yesterday. At the morning session reports of the past year's work were presented by each of the thirty-six church in the Conference.

The most important business was the report given by Rev. Dr. A. H. Bradford, of Montclair, for the committee appointed at the last conference to organize the Congregational Union of New Jersey. The report says: "This society, organized in Novem-1896, in connection with the fall meeting, at Montclair, aims to assist in the organization, maintenance and reinforcement of Congregational church in New Jersey, and in the promotion and extension of other Christian work. There are two classes of members: Any Congregational church joining the society is entitled to two annual members, one of them the pastor. For the payment of every $25 in addition to the annual dues of $5, a church is entitled to an additional member and vote, and individuals upon the payment of $50 may be made life members by the vote of the executive committee.

The management of the affairs of the union is entrusted to an executive committee of nine. The committee is endeavoring to do its work thoroughly and comprehensively. Thus far the committee has voted to endeavor to raise this year $1,200 for the mission work of the Jersey City Tabernacle and $582 for the part payment of the mortgage of the Waverly Congregational church of Jersey City, upon condition that the church raise a like sum. The committee is in correspondence with several other important enterprises which make a strong and most worthy appeal for the union's aid, and it is hoped that the liberality of the churches and of individuals will enable the committee to respond to these calls.

The officers of the new organization are: President, Rev. Dr. A. H. Bradford; vice-president, Martin Welles; secretary, Rev. H. S. Bliss; treasurer, E. F. Meyers. Twenty churches have joined the union, among the number being the First, Belleville Avenue and Third, of Newark; Trinity and Grove Street, East Orange; First, Morristown; Highland Avenue, Orange; First, Chatham; First, Montclair, and St. Paul's Congregational church, Franklin.

At the afternoon session addresses were made by Rev. Lyman Abbott, of Brooklyn, editor of The Outlook; Rev. Dr. John L. Scudder, of Jersey City, and Rev. James A. Chamberlin, of Newark.

MARRIED AT NEW MARKET.

Clara Pierce and Nelson Giles Joined in Wedlock Last Night.

The marriage of Miss Clara Pierce to Nelson Giles, both of New Market, was performed at the home of the bride last night by the Rev. Mr. Fletcher, pastor of the New Market Baptist church. The house was prettily arranged for the affair and there was a large attendance of guests Miss Irene Day, of New Market, and Miss Cronk, of Corning, were the bridemaids, and Joseph Field and Albert Pierce were the best men. The bride was gowned in white and carried pinks.

After the ceremony a reception was held when the eighty guests present extended their congratulations. A wedding supper was also served. A large number of costly presents were received by the happy couple, among them a solid silver set from James Donnelly, superintendent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and also a full dinner set from Assistant Superintendent Ackerly.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McVey and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Coriell, of this city. Several were present from New York and Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs Giles left this morning for a wedding trip to Washington and through the South and on their return they will reside in one of the Miller flats at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street.

—J. D. Runyon and C. H. Hand will offer some valuable real estate for sale in the borough of North Plainfield, Tuesday, March 23d, at public auction. Now is the time for those who want to buy to get good property cheap. These places must be sold in order to settle up their real estate business.

TOLD OF A GREAT LAND.

DR. RIGGS LECTURE IN THE UNIVERSITY EXTENSION SERIES.

Speaker Explained the Greatness of Peter, Who Ruled Russia With an Iron Hand—Talent Not Generally Credited

The University Extension lectures are most certainly appreciated by the people of Plainfield. Despite the inclement weather of last evening the chapel of the Irving School was well filled with a most appreciative audience which enjoyed every word which came from the mouth of the speaker.

Dr. Riggs took for the subject of the lecture, "Peter the Great," the famous Russian sovereign. The lecture was substantially as follows:

"I have taken this subject," said Dr. Riggs, "because it seems to me to be one which we should consider during our short study of history as well as being one of the most interesting of all our subjects. We Americans are very apt to boast of our country and to think very little of the vast extent of some of the other countries which are equally as large as our own.

"Russia is three times as large as America. It is an enormous country, reaching from the Baltic Sea to the Pacific Ocean. One may travel from the Baltic straight eastward for seven thousand miles before reaching that large expanse of ocean water. It also reaches from the North Pole almost to the Equator, and covers a territory which we can hardly realize.

"This Russia is practically a modern thing, only dating in its present condition since the time of Michael, one of its rulers. It is a production of two great geniuses, one of them being the Empress Catherine and the other Peter the Great.

"In the time of Michael the country was comparatively small, and remained so for some time. It was confronted by three states, Sweden, Poland, and Turkey, all of which were by far much larger than Russia itself.

"When Peter was seventeen years of age his life was sought by his half-sister, who being very desirous of obtaining the power of the country tried to poison him. She failed, however, in her attempt and Peter the next year found himself the despotic ruler of the country. He was a very powerful young man and had a very fine physical body. He was very energetic and a great revolutionist; he had learned of the way in which the people of the west lived and he was very anxious that his people should live in a similar fashion, a thing which he accomplished by some very queer laws.

"Confronted as he was by the three powers before mentioned, his purpose was to strike a blow at each one separately and thus gain power over them all. He tried to transform his own people and to bring the surrounding states into subjection to himself. He not only tried to do all this, but he actually accomplished it to a very great extent. I call it transcendant greatness for a man to do all this.

"He was a man who wanted to make over everything and to transform his people. This is not an easy thing to do by any means; if you happen to think so just try to transform your neighbor, that one who persists in coming home intoxicated and who always sets his bulldog upon your chickens, and after you have given it a fair trial if you do not agree with me in saying that Peter's greatness was transcendent it will be very strange.

"The kingdom of Russia, as it now is, is composed of sixteen different States, all of which had their separate governments and each with its own king. All were swallowed up by Peter, the Great, and added to his kingdom."

A QUIET HOME WEDDING.

Marriage of Jessie B. Watters and Augustus Wilson.

A very pretty home wedding took place last evening at 7 o'clock, when Miss Jessie B. Watters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Watters, of Mariners place, was united in marriage to Augustus Wilson, of West Fourth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck in the presence of the near relatives.

The bride was unattended and wore a pretty travelling gown. After the ceremony congratulations were offered and the bride and groom left for Philadelphia where they will spend their honeymoon.

The very many presents received were both useful and costly. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will take up their residence in this city. Mr. Wilson is an employee at Rockfellow's grocery.

Funeral of Mrs. Miles.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Miles was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of George Bullman, Washingtonville. Rev. Cornelius Schenck officiated and spoke words of comfort to the bereaved ones. The gathering of relatives and friends was large and this gave evidence of the high esteem held for the departed. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTION.

leader who guided the Ship of State in many a hard-fought contest, when many of the staid old citizens of the borough were young men in politics. The surprise of the day was the discovery of spurious Republican ballots. A protest was filed against them and they were withdrawn. A messenger was sent to Plainfield to get tickets according to the party caucus, as it was found there were only six regular Republican ballots left at 11 o'clock. But six Republican tickets go a good ways in "Old Warren," and the clerk by entering the booths once in a while was enabled to keep supplied with regular tickets.

From the time the polls opened until they closed the contest waged. At the announcing of the result, only those who have witnessed such scenes in that township before its glory had departed, and North Plainfield become separated, can have a faint idea of it. A short speech was made by Freeholder Zegibald, and then Republicans and Democrats adjourned to where refreshments were awaiting them, and the political axe was buried for another year.

Assessor, Peter Newmiller, 209; collector, George Terrill, 75; chosen freeholder, Joel Codington, 90; township committee, Wm. H. Rogers. 187; overseer of the poor, George Bowers, 209; surveyors of highways, Peter Bowers, Jr., 147; Henry P. Williams, 147; commissioner of appeal, Wm. H. Stites, 147; pound keepers, Antone Ammon, 147; Jacob Koechline, 147; John Burnett, 147. For support of poor, $600; for repair of roads, $750.

Democratic Victory in Bridgewater.

The Democratic candidates in Bridgewater township, Somerset county, were elected by 500 majority. Heretofore the Republicans have carried the township by about 500.

CHILDREN AS ENTERTAINERS

A Pleasing Affair Given by the Loyal Temperance Legion.

The rain last evening held off until so late that the entertainment of the Loyal Temperance Legion, which was to be postponed in case of a storm, was held as originally intended. It took place in the rooms of the W. C. T. U. and was a very pleasant little affair, showing careful preparation on the part of the superintendents in drilling such a number of little children to go successfully through their parts.

When the curtains were divided, a tableau was formed by twenty children in red and white sailor costume. Those who took part were Mary Long, Anna Morrison, Ethel VanWinkle, Carrie Meyer, Sarah Head, Dora Wilson, Sadie Brown, May Weigman, Lottie Brown, Rose Hook, Fred Long, John McClellan, John Hensey, Stoney Vaiden, Harvy Morrison, Irvington VanWinkle, Harry Hook, Frank Weigman, Louis Mulford and Walter Wilson.

Next came a recitation, "I Am Only Six," by Olga Weigmann, followed by a sweet little song, 'Rockaby Baby,' by Edna Conde, a recitation, "The Fiddler," by Anna and Harvey Morrison, and a motion song, "The New Moon," by Gracie Fillmore. A Chinese motion song was sung by Caroline Fuller, Fannie Conde and Enid Fonda. Evelyn Varden gave a recitation, "The Two Kittens," after which nine little girls, Carrie Meyer, Sarah Head, Dora Wilson, Gussie and May Seader, Sadie Brown, Mary Long, Edna Barth and her sister, marched upon the stage and went through a lively motion song, "Happy Children We." A little duet, "The Little Artist," by Gussie and May Seader, followed, then the audience had the pleasure of listening to a violin solo, "Air Varie," by Dancla," played by William McKillop.

The programme closed with a night-gown drill in which eight little girls, in long white gowns and little caps, and carrying dolls and lighted candles, wound in and out across the stage and sang their good-night songs, and vanished two by two. Those who took part in this were were Sarah Head, Carrie Meyer, May Weigmann, Ethel Lorton, Lottie Brown, Josie Meyer, Sadie Brown and Ethel Van Winkle.

It has been decided by those in charge to repeat the entertainment on Monday evening in the same place.

The Eye.

The human eye seldom fulfills all the requirements of a perfect optical instrument. When, however, the error is slight it may be disregarded; but when sufficient to produce headache, pain in the eyes, or poor vision it should be corrected at once by wearing properly adjusted glasses. Inflammatory Rheumatism Cured in 3 Days
Morton L. Pleasantly Surprised.

Miss Catharine Webster, of East Second street, was most agreeably surprised last evening and so were Mr. and Mrs. David A. Zeagler, of Denver, Colorado, who were her guests. The gathering was arranged by Miss Mary Terry and about twenty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Zeagler assembled at the house and passed a most enjoyable evening. It is needless to say that the supper served was par excellence, and the general sociability that followed kept the guests in good humor until bedtime.

THE BOROUGH SCHOOL.

RECENT IMPROVEMENTS MAKES IT ONE OF THE BEST IN THE STATE.

The Experimental Stage Passed and Superintendent Warde's System is Now Recognized as Practical and Efficient.

For many years the public schools of Plainfield have been famous for their excellence, and graduates from he High School have been sent to the leading colleges of the country. The public school of the borough of North Plainfield has heretofore been merely a Grammar School at which a common school education might be obtained, but to secure a good education so necessary in business life at the present day, the citizens of the borough were compelled to send their children to the High School on the other side of the brook or else to some of the private schools in the neighborhood. Such was the case also with those who wished to enter college.

During the last year wonderful changes have been made in the North Plainfield school and it now appears as a High School, which promises to rank with the best in the State. The change has passed from the experimental stage and the benefits of the improvement throughout the school are apparent to those who have been there to see.

A Daily Press reporter called at the school one morning this week and was shown all over the building under the guidance of the superintendent, Dr. Warde, who, with the advice and consent of the School Board, has been enabled to make all these changes.

The session of the High School begins at eight twenty o'clock, continuing until one o'clock. The other grades of the school assemble at nine o'clock. Unlike the school of half a century ago, all is quiet and orderly from the moment the pupils enter their class-rooms, even if the session has not begun. The signal for the opening of school is given by a system of electric bells, which are operated and controlled by a series of push-buttons in the upper hall. It is the duty of one of the boys of the upper grades to ring the bells at the appointed time. All of the grades meet for morning exercises at nine o'clock. The building is so arranged that all but three or four of the class-rooms can be thrown together by pushing back the sliding-doors which separate them. In the room thus formed on the first floor, the primary and intermediate grades assemble. Devotional exercises are conducted by the teachers, and all the children unite in singing. In the large room on the second floor, the pupils in the grammar department and High School gather.

It was to this room that the Press reporter was directed. At a signal the pupils in the rear class rooms rose and filed quietly forward to the seats in front. Each boy and girl had his or her appointed seat, and there was no confusion or crowding. The teachers of the High School seated themselves on the platform, and the devotional exercises, conducted by them, followed. The song books had already been passed by monitors appointed for the purpose, and the pupils passed to their rooms in good order. The sliding doors were quickly closed by pupils assigned to the work, and all was ready for the daily routine.

A glance through the class rooms, showed the pupils hard at work One noticeable feature of the school under the new administration is the increase in the number of pupils who have taken advantage of the benefits of free education. For the month of February, the registration was 831, a gain of over a hundred over last year's figures. In the High School there were 81, in the grammar department 167, in the intermediate department 196, in the primary department 336, and in the kindergarten department 51.

Every bit of available space has been used. Two rooms were fitted out last fall and both of them are completely filled while in the other rooms every desk is taken and in several it has been necessary to place extra seats to accommodate those who have no desks.

A short visit was paid to each of the rooms in order, and The Press reporter had a glimpse of the regular work in each grade. In the kindergarten, the children were gathered around in a circle and listened interestedly to the stories which their teacher told them. The latest methods of kindergarten work are in vogue there, and the children all appeared to enjoy their first experience of school life. In all the grades, from the lowest to the highest, a spirit of industry seemed to prevail. The children were attentive and seemed to take an interest in their work. Modern methods, by which the different

HELPING THE SQUAWS.

RED MEN GIVE AN ENTERTAINMENT FOR DEGREE OF POCOHANTAS.

The Money to be Devoted for the Purchase of Paraphernalia for the Auxiliary Society—The Programme that Was Given

The entertainment and dance given by Paughcaughnaughsinque Tribe, Red Men, in the lodge rooms on West Second street last evening for the benefit of Paughcaughnaughsinque Council, D. of P., auxiliary of the above order, was a grand success. The large rooms were unable to accommodate the members and friends who were present, and this fact testified to the popularity of these two organizations.

The affair was arranged for the purpose of raising money to help the women purchase their paraphernalia, which they need very much. And judging from the way in which their friends assisted their treasury will be enriched considerable. The entertainment opened with an overture by Samuel Frazee, violinist, and Miss Laura Radin, pianist. This was followed with a recitation by Miss Try Mattox, and this young woman received hearty applause.

The next number was a vocal solo by Hannah Higgins, a little girl with a pleasing voice. T. Schaefer followed with an exhibition of Indian club swinging. This artist has appeared before many people in this city and his work last evening was considered to be the best ever witnessed.

A vocal solo, "Take Back the Gold," by Eli Odam, accompanied by Miss Cortright, was well rendered. A piano solo was then given by Miss Ada Nash in her usual faultless manner.

One of the best numbers on the programme were the recitations by Bessie Randall. Her work was certainly above the average and she was received with loud applause.

The entertainment closed with a phonograph exhibition by Thomas Schaefer, of this city. For nearly an hour the audience was amused with an entirely new programme of the best selections.

Following the entertainment all adjourned to the rooms on the opposite side of the hall where dancing was continued until a late hour. This part of the evening's amusement was thoroughly enjoyed by all and every one was sorry when the last selection was played by the veteran, Samuel Frazee. At midnight a pleasing supper was served after which dancing was resumed.

The committee who arranged the event consists of C. I. Young, Charles Stephens, E. M. Odam, Charles Conover, Mrs. Riker, Miss McLeish and Miss Ada Nash, and they deserve great praise for their able efforts in giving everybody a good time.

CLIMAX CLUB TO MOVE.

THE TRAPS LIKELY TO BE LOCATED AT THE CRESCENT OVAL.

R. B. Manning Elected President of the Club for the Ensuing Year—A Handicap Shoot Also Held Yesterday.

Considerable important business was transacted at the annual meeting of the Climax Gun Club, held at their shooting grounds in Fanwood yesterday afternoon. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, R. B. Manning: vice-president, Charles Smith; secretary and treasurer, Douglass Darby.

For some time past the matter of changing the location of the shooting grounds has been under consideration among the members, and yesterday a special committee was appointed to arrange for a change of location. It is quite probable that the Crescent Oval will be selected as the new place, as it is thought that these grounds are well adapted for the purposes of the club.

After the meeting a handicap shooting contest was participated in with the following score:

Reform Club to Hold An Affair.

This evening at Reform Hall there will be an address by Rev. Mr. Crampton, who spoke last Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. There will be cornet solos by Mrs. Anderson, and several vocal and instrumental selections. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in the work.

—Tomorrow evening at Trinity Reformed church the members of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society will give a missionary entertainment. Several novel features will be introduced.

GENERAL BOROUGH ACT.

A MEASURE PREPARED TO REMEDY DEFECTS IN EXISTING LAWS.

A Law Which Will Supplant the Present Mixed One and Define Just What Kind of Government There Shall Be.

Senator Voorhees yesterday introduced the General Borough Act, which is intended to remedy all the defects in existing borough laws and give to boroughs now temporarily existing under the act of 1896 a permanent form of government. It was prepared by Alfred F. Skinner, of Newark, who was chairman of the special committee appointed for that purpose by the Legislature of 1896.

Eight hundred copies of the measure were ordered printed by the Senate, in order that all persons interested might become familiar with its provisions prior to next Wednesday, when a public hearing will be given on the bill by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

So much confusion had been occasioned by the multiplicity of remedial borough acts forced through the Legislature to meet the constitutional objections to their existing laws that it was determined to have one general act prepared, flexible enough to meet all existing and possible contingencies. Several boroughs were at the time without any corporate existence because of decisions of the Court, and as the time was limited, a temporary act for their relief had to be passed. Since the Legislature of 1896 adjourned, Mr. Skinner has been hard at work on the preparation of the bill, and the present Legislature delegated him to complete it.

The bill provides that every borough shall have a Mayor, six Councilmen, an Assessor, a Collector, three Commissioners of Appeal, and in boroughs of 3,000 and over, one member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders. All these shall be elected, and other offices shall be filled by appointment by the Council. The term of the Mayor shall be two years, and the Councilmen three years.

The duties of the various officers are prescribed at length, and the organization of the Council is provided for. The Council shall have power to pass, enforce, repeal and alter ordinances; contract for lighting streets for a period not exceeding five years; may borrow money in anticipation of taxes, provide for making public improvements and issue bonds.

The levying and assessment of taxes is provided for, and the manner of procuring a new water supply and sewerage system is gone into at length.

PASSED SPURIOUS MONEY.

Shover of the "Queer" Duped Scotch Plains Merchants.

Counterfeit silver dollars were palmed off among some of the merchants at Scotch Plains by a pair of Italian sharpers, yesterday, and the counterfeit is fairly well executed, though easily detected, on account of the light weight and the greasy condition of the coin. Two fairly well dressed men, of less than middle age, went about the stores and hotels, and proffered the spurious money in exchange for drinks, cigars, cigarettes, etc., and the unsuspecting storekeepers scooped in the spurious "silver" dollars with an evident relish, but as soon as the fact became known that counterfeit money was being circulated in the town the two strangers were in great demand. In one or two instances the men simply called at the stores and asked the proprietor to change them a dollar, and their request was invariably granted. No one there has ever seen the men before. They are not of the ordinary rough Italian element, but were better clad and spoke with the Italian accent. The men were last seen climbing Cole's hill on their way to Plainfield.

A PENCHANT FOR CHICKENS.

Thieves Have Looted Westfield Coops of Great Numbers.

Thieves, last night, broke into Joseph Perry's barn, on Mountain avenue, Westfield, and stole all of his harness, blankets, lap robes and whips. They also visited the hen houses of Howard McDougal and E. H. Taylor, both on Mountain avenue and stole about sixty chickens. This makes over 1,000 chickens and 70 sets of harness stolen here this winter.

Brunswick Bowlers Won.

The bowlers of the Y. M. C. A. of this city went to New Brunswick Tuesday night to meet the team from the association of that city in a friendly contest. Three games were rolled by the contesting teams and the home club was victorious in all. The Brunswicks put up a strong game and won easily. The scores of the three games were as follows: 759 to 627; 328 to 728; 807 to 701. The Plainfield team was composed of M. Sutphen, Schloss, Brower, Bristol, and C. Sutphen.

A NURSERY HANGING.

BUT LITTLE JOHNNIE CAME NEAR CHOKING TO DEATH.

The Desire of a Mendham Minister's Youngsters to Have a Realistic Game Came Near Resulting Fatally for One.

One day last week Rev. Wiliam H. Morgan, pastor of the M. E. church at Mendham, was approached by his two young sons, Johnnie and Willie, five and six years respectively, who had found an old picture showing a gallows and the act of hanging a man. The youngsters applied a number of childish questions as to what the picture represented, and their father described the scene in all its details, telling them how bad men were sometimes hung to death.

After the explanation the youngsters went up stairs to a room set apart for their use to play in, and the father went out on some business matter. The little fellows had evidently become tired of playing with dolls, hobby horses, blocks and other nursery pastimes and sighed for something more realistic. The oldest one struck upon the idea of having a hanging. It met a sympathetic chord in the heart of his junior brother.

In some manner the boys secured a piece of rope about fifteen feet long and tieing a noose in one end they threw the other end over the top of an open door and tied it to the knob on the opposite side. Johnnie agreed to become the victim of the execution. With a reasoning really not expected in children so young they fixed the rope so that the noose ended about four feet from the floor. A chair was made to act as a platform and trap and little Johnnie ascended to the point of the mimic execution with a juvenile prattle. He fixed the noose around his neck and the older brother kicked the chair from under him.

If the sensation of having the rope gather tighter and tighter around his breathing apparatus was a surprise to Johnnie, his actions were very much more unexpected to his brother Willie. Johnnie pawed the air in a frantic manner with his chubby hands, kicked like a foot-ball fiend and gave vent to a series of yells that frightened Willie almost out of his wits.

"O-u-c-h! W-o-w! Oh! W-o-o-h! Ma-a-m-a-m-a-h! M-a-a-," but Johnnie's last appeal for his mother was cut short and only a gurgled "m-a-h" could be distinguished by Willie, who was standing aghast. Then Willie ran to a nearby bedroom and hid himself from fright.

Mrs. Morgan was busy about the house when she heard the screams of her young son. For a moment she was unable to locate them, then she hurried to the nursery and was startled to see Johnnie hanging limp with his face black and blue. She quickly lifted the little fellow up and released him from the predicament. A physician was called, but before he arrived the little boy revived. He was so weak, however, that it was some time before he was able to move around. Willie was found hiding and utterly unable to see any reason why Johnnie should have made such a fuss about playing hanging.

A CONSIDERATE MAYOR.

Col. Wilson to Establish an Office in the Centre of the Borough.

Mayor-elect Wilson was out bright and early this morning, and he received many congratulations from his friends. He called at the office of Collector Spencer and asked for the privilege of seeing the Council Chamber and also the chair he will occupy during the session of the Council. The Mayor said that he would probably establish an office in the Council rooms where people could see him at stated hours during the day. This he will do for the reason, he said, that he does not want to make people walk so far to his home. This action would be of great benefit to the boroughites, as it would be very convenient for them.

Pink and Green Luncheon.

A charming pink and green luncheon was given by Miss Violet Truell at her home on Central avenue, yesterday, in honor of her two visiting college friends, Miss H. M. Collins and Miss M. A. Reed. The table was artistically decorated in the prevailing colors. Those present from this city were the Misses Evelyn M. Lewis, Edith Boone and Helen Brainard.

To Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, of this city, will exchange pulpits with Rev. W. F. Junkin, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Montclai, on Sunday morning. The First Presbyterian church of Montclair is one of the largest in that city and Dr. Junkin is one of the leading pastors of Montclair.

—An Epworth League rally will be held this evening at Monroe Avenue church.

JUMPED TO HIS DEATH

A RUNAWAY BOY TRYING TO ESCAPE ARREST WAS KILLED.

His Two Companions Came to Plainfield Where They Sought Out A. C. Lazzie and Told Their Tale of Hardship.

The body of a lad, fifteen years old, was found at the base of the high embankment on which run the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad south of Elizabeth, last Thursday. The skull was crushed in. The police of Elizabeth found the body but there was nothing by which to identify it. The boy had evidently been struck by a train and thrown over the embankment or else had accidentally fallen over. The body was not mangled. It was held for identification and the police authorities of the neighboring towns notified.

Thursday afternoon, Anthony C. Lazzi, dealer in blue and sand stone, whose establishment is located at the corner of Somerset street and Linden avenue, had quite a surprise. Two lads, whom he knew in Philadelphia, marched into his store into a disreputable condition, almost barefooted, their clothes in rags, and a thick coat of dirt all over them. They were both about fifteen years of age.

They, with another friend, had run away and worked their way along the Pennsylvania railroad as far as Elizabeth. Thursday, they were riding in the bumpers of two freight cars when they saw a man coming in their direction. To them he appeared like a detective, and, fearing arrest, they jumped. The two had gone in one direction and their companion in the other. The instant the latter had jumped, an express train went flying by. Fearing arrest, they fled. They never saw their friend again and were almost sure that he had been struck by the express.

Mr. Lazzi fed and clothed the anxious boys and then started them on their way towards home. They arrived without further adventure and then had to break the news of the death of their comrade to his mother. Tuesday she went to Elizabeth and was shown the remains of the boy who, it is supposed, was dashed into eternity by the flying train. She identified the boy at once as her son, and took the remains home to Philadelphia for interment.

In the meantime, Lazzi had notified Chief Grant of the visit of the boys and the supposed death of their comrade. The chief readily saw the connection between the missing boy and the unknown victim of the train. He notified the Elizabeth authorities but they had already learned of the identity of the lad from his mother. His name was Martin Roberts, of 1233 Stevens street, Philadelphia.

ADOPTED A NEW HYMNAL

CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH MEMBERS TO SING NEW SONGS

The New Book Not Adopted Without Considerable Opposition, However, from W. W. Howland, in a Heated Discussion.

After the regular meeting held at the Crescent Avenue church last evening a congregational meeting was held for the purpose of taking decided action regarding the change of hymn book for the church. Samuel Kimball, for the committee, reported favorably on the change and suggested that the new hymnal recently adopted by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church be purchased for the use of the church.

W. W. Howland, a member of the committee, was adverse to such action and he thought that every member of the church should have a copy of the book to examine and in that way it could be ascertained whether the members desired to change or not.

After a very heated discussion the question was put to a vote and everyone present voted in favor of adopting the new hymnal, except Mr. Howland who voted in the negative.

The matter was then referred to the officers of the church for them to devise methods whereby the hymnals can be purchased and the change made.

Fell in the Street.

Hiram Kelly, a painter, living at the corner of Lincoln place and Duer street, stumbled on the walk today noon while passing Dr. Mattison's drug store. In falling he received several cuts about the face. He was carried into the drug store and treated. Later he was taken to his home in Michael Weber's wagon. He was unconscious only a short time, and it is thought he will recover.

—Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., will address the members of the Junior Epworth League of Monroe Avenue church on Friday afternoon.

POLITE HIGHWAYMEN.

OBTAINED MONEY FROM A MRS. HARRIS BY NICETY OF WORDS.

The Victim of the Gallant Holdup was Stopped Near Westfield—Acquiesced to their Demands and Gave Out a Dollar.

Mrs. James Harris, a plucky young matron of Dunellen, had an experience last evening that she will not soon forget. She started out to drive from Westfield to Fanwood, and taking the old mud road, North avenue, she was compelled to go through a hummock, just at the town limits, where there is a heavy wood and underbrush on each side of the road. She saw two men coming toward her, but paid no attention to them until they separated.. One catching the horse by the bit, said, "Whoa!" The other fellow tipped his hat, advanced to the buggy and said:

"Lady, we don't want to harm or scare you. We want money. We are out of work and must have some coin."

"By this time," said Mrs. Harris, "I had overcome my fright, owing to their politeness, and told them I would not give them any and would whip up the horse and run over them."

"I guess we can hold the horse," said one of them. "Come, now, lady, we don't want to be rough or cause you any trouble. If you will not give us some money we will unhitch your horse and turn it loose in the woods."

Mrs. Harris considered a moment, and then offered them a dollar.

"Is that the best you can do?" asked the spokesman, who still stood by the buggy with his head uncovered. Being assured that it was, they accepted the dollar, let go of the horse, and tipping their hats bid her good evening.

Mrs. Harris drove back here by the other road and reported the matter to Justice Collins and a constable. A lookout was kept for them, but they have not been apprehended.

SOCIAL GATHERING.

Plainfielders Journey to Dunellen to Have a Good Time.

A pleasant social gathering was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swackhammer, of Dunellen. The event was arrranged by Miss Mabel Van Middlesworth, of this city, and Mrs. Woolley, of Westfield. The guests were principally from Plainfield, and included Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Steiner, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Woolley, Mrs. Richards, Miss Jennie Ross, Miss Ella R. Fenner, Miss Ella Fenner, Miss L. M. Conover, Miss Minnie Zeisz, Miss Lillie Zeisz, Mrs. Zeisz, Miss Mamie Kohler, William MacLaughlin, S. H. Fenner, Horace Martin, Willard Martin and John Van-Middlesworth.

The evening was passed in playing games and dancing. At a late hour refreshments were served in abundance.

Telegraph and Postoffice Together.

There is every probability that the office of the Postal Telegraph Company, now located on Park avenue, will be established in the lobby of the postoffice before long. The postoffice fixtures will be moved back ten feet, and the telegraph office located in the window where the ladies' desk is now situated.

Naval Reserve Hospital Corps.

An effort is being made to recruit and instruct a hospital corps for the New Jersey Naval Reserve in this city, to be composed of Plainfield young men and to be permanently located here, providing enough interest is shown in that direction. The Press will contain further details tomorrow.

Change of Date of Mrs. Hall's Lecture.

Paper copies of the French plays, which Miss Caroline Minturn Hall will read on subsequent Fridays, may be obtained at Estil's bookstore.

Good Field for Rubber Business.

Any one thinking of going into the rubber business would find a good field at the corner of New and West Fourth streets, where scores of people have lost their rubber overshoes while getting into the trolley cars. It is deplorable the condition the streets are in at the western end of the city.

Over Four Score Years Old.

Mrs. Elizabeth Butler, aged 87 years, died at her home, 62 Sandford avenue, yesterday, after a short illness. The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the house at 3 o'clock.

SCOVEL'S RELEASE

The Washington Government Took No Hand in the Matter.

HAD BEEN WARNED TO STAY AWAY

The Newspaper Man's Freedom Secured Entirely Through Privat e Representations and Under Conditions Somewhat Humiliating.

Washington, March 11.—It is learned that the release of the New York newspaper man Sylvester Scovel by the Spanish authorities was secured through private representations and not by any application of the United States, either through Secretary Sherman or Secretary Olney. Soon after Scovel's arrest Walter J. Mullins, his brother-in-law, and John McSweeney of Wooster, O., his attorney, came to Washington to solicit the intervention of the government in his behalf. Secretary Olney declined to take any steps in the matter for the reason that Scovel had once been expelled from Cuba and had returned to the island in violation of his parole, under a false name and a false passport. Mr. Scovel's relatives then sought the good offices of the Spanish minister who promised to use his efforts to secure Scovel's release upon certain conditions which were: First, that it should be regarded as a personal and not a diplomatic matter, so that it might not be used as a precedent in the future; second, that the newspaper agitation in regard to Scovel's arrest should be stopped, and, third, that Scovel's father should make an appeal to the government of Spain for Scovel's release as an act of mercy, and not as an act of justice. Mr. Scovel's relatives accepted these conditions and have done their best to carry them out. The Rev. Mr. Scovel, who is president of the Wooster university, sent a very eloquent appeal on behalf of his son, which Dupuy de Lome, the Spanish minister, endorsed with a recommendation for the young man's immediate release without trial, and forwarded it to the Spanish authorities. There has been considerable correspondence on the subject between Madrid, Havana and the Spanish legation in Washington, but the intervention of the department of state has never been exercised or requested since the original interview between Mr. Scovel's friends and Secretary Olney.

Scovel's Parents Overjoyed.

Wooster, O., March 11.—The parents of Sylvester Scovel, who was released from prison in Cuba yesterday, with great joy received the news. Rev. Scovel, acting on advices from New York, cabled his son, begging him to leave Cuba at once. Rev. Scovel is president of Wooster university.

Villars Is Liberated.

Washington, March 11.—The secretary of state has received the following telegram: Cienfuegos, Cuba, March 9.—Antonio Suarez del Villar liberated. McGarr." All the information at the department of state was communicated to the senate by Secretary Olney on Jan. 25 as follows: "Case No. 43: Shows that Villars is a native of Cuba; naturalized; arrested at Cienfuegos, Sept. 5, 1896; charged with purchase and concealment of arms and ammunition; case sent to civil jurisdiction, Dec. 23, 1896; in prison at Cienfuegos; case pending."

WORSE THAN IN CUBA.

Spain's Troubles in the Philippines Assuming Alarming Proportions.

Madrid, March 11.—A dispatch from Manila, the capital of the Philippine islands, confirms the report that the situation there is very unsatisfactory, and that it will be necessary for Spanish troops to occupy the entire island in order to completely crush the rebellion. The rebels are becoming bolder and more vigorous in their action, and the approaching rainy season will still further hamper the operations of the troops. Gen. Polaviaja, the governor of the Philippine islands, will shortly return to Spain, his health having become impaired and his ailments greatly aggravated by the care and worriment of his being hampered in his operations by the government. It is feared at Manila that the war in the Philippines is worse than that in Cuba.

India Famine Fund.

London, March 11.—The India famine fund has now reached the sum of £411,000.

ALL MADE WELCOME

Distinguished Callers Still Flocking to the White House.

SOME OF THE LATEST VISITORS.

Numerous Applications for Office Presented to the President—Some Come in Person, Accompanied by Congressmen or Senators.

Washington, March 11.—The office-seekers, despite the fact that there are so few positions available proportionate to the number of applicants, continue to swarm into the White House at every possible opportunity. If the president is averse to receiving them he does not show his feelings, but has a cheery word and a cordial handshake for all who see him. For senators, representatives and other officials, and those who accompany them, he has a genuine regard. Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Nelson of Minnesota were the first of the senatorial contingent. With Senator Nelson was ex-Congressman Dunnell of Minnesota, who served in the house with President McKinley, and who wants to be one of the treasury auditors. Representative Heatwole of Minnesota was also an early caller. He was accompanied by Capt. Reed of Glenco, Minn., whom he urged for the position of deputy commissioner of pensions. Two other Minnesota men are being urged for office. They are ex-Gov. Hubbard, whose friends want him to be ambassador to Italy, and Tams Bixby, chairman of the Minnesota state central committee, who would not object to being commissioner of the general land office.

Callers on the President.

Senators Spooner of Wisconsin, Hoar of Massachusetts and Thurston of Nebraska had conversations with the president. Some democratic senators and representatives also came in to pay their respects. Among them were Senators Blackburn and Walthall and Representative McCreary of Kentucky. Senator Hanna made his way through the throng in the reception corridor to Secretary Porter's office, but came out in a minute and followed Mr. Porter to the cabinet room where the president was sitting at the time. They had quite a chat. Two colored men who formerly represented their states in the house of representatives were in the line of callers. They were Cheatham of North Carolina and Lynch of Mississippi. Ex-Representative Lynch wants to serve as fourth auditor of the treasury, the position he occupied under President Harrison. Col. John R. Mosby, the confederate cavalry leader, who is now a resident of California, dropped in to pay his respects and had a pleasant conversation with the president. It was the first time the two had met. "You used to give me a great deal of worry in the Shenandoal valley" said the president. "I think all the worry wasn't on your side, Mr. President," responded the famous guerilla. "I want to say that I supported you as vigorously in the campaign as I opposed you then." "I've heard of it," answered the president with a parting handshake. Senator Perkins of California and Senater Wilson of Washington dropped in to talk about Pacific coast matters. Ex-Congressman Pickler of South Dakota came again and shortly after he left Alvin G. Belt of Washington, D. C., left at the White House a petition signed by 15,000 soldiers for the appointment of Mr. Pickler to the position of commissioner of pensions.

Applications for Positions.

Senator Penrose headed thirty members of the Pennsylvania legislature who called on the president after luncheon. They were accompanied by ex-congressman John Robinson, in whose behalf the visit was made. State Senator Taylor and State Representative Foeht made short speeches urging the appointment of Col. Robinson as assistant secretary of the navy, and the president said he would consider what they said. Senator Mason had a long talk with President McKinley. With him was Judge Horce Clark of Illinois, for whom Mr. Mason asked the Brazilian mission. Representative Hitt of Illinois, Senator Platt of Connecticut, Senator Foraker and Senator Carter all saw the president. E. H. R. Green, a son of Mrs. Hetty Green and chairman of the republican state committee of Texas, headed a party of Texans, who urged the nomination of Dr. John Grant for some prominent position. Dr. Grant was urged before the selection of Mr. Gray as the southern member of the cabinet. Another caller was Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of Brooklyn. The public reception was short. Among those who took advantage of it were Senator Kyle and a party of his friends. Later the president had a conference in the private part of the White House with Chairman Dingley of the ways and means committee and Representative Grosvenor of Ohio.

Secretary Porter's First Official Order.

Secretary Porter issued his first official order yesterday. It provides for the transaction of business with the president, and fixes the cabinet days and the hours and times for public receptions. The order omits the rule in force during Mr. Cleveland's administration, providing that the president should be free from all callers on Mondays. It changes the hours of holding public receptions from 1 to 3 o'clock, and fixes Friday instead of Saturday as one of the days in which the public may shake the president's hand. Otherwise it is word for word the order issued at the beginning of Mr. Cleveland's last term.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Mrs. Watts—Isn't it a good deal of annoyance to get your meals at such irregular hours?

Hungry Jiggins—The irregular hours ain't so bad as the irregular days.—Indianapolis Journal.

Doctor (to Irish patient): "Do you sleep with your mouth open?"

Irish Patient: "Shure, Oi don't know, doctor; Oi've never seen myself whin Oi've been asleep, but Oi'll have a look to-night!"—Tid-Bits.

Gwendolyn—In case of a war between France and England, which side would you be on?

Cholly—Aw—I really believe I should prefer to be on this side.—Brooklyn Life.

A teacher, observing one boy coming in late, said to him:

"Now, then, sir, what are you late for?"

"School, sir," answered the lad, quietly taking his seat among the remaining boys.

A Fine Arrangement—"See here, young man," said the stern father, "if you don't come home earlier after this, I'll know the reason why."

"Glad to hear it, governor; that will save all explanations on my part."—Detroit Free Press.

Teacher—You know, Johnny, if you cut an apple in two each part is called a half.

Johnny—Not if my brother Dick cuts it. The part I git ain't never more'n about a quarter of it, ma'am—Chicago Tribune.

Pat—I tell you the ould frinds are always the best, after all, and I can prove it.

Dennis—How?

Pat—Where'll you find a new frind that has shtood by you as long as the ould ones have?—Cleveland Leader.

Jagson: "I tried to pay the New Woman a compliment last night in my speech, but it didn't seem to be appreciated."

Bagson: "What did you say?"

Jagson: "I said that the New Woman would leave large footprints on the sands of time."—Tid-Bits.

Cyclist: "I always get nervous when I see a woman crossing the street ahead of me."

Second Cyclist: "So do I. They have so many pins in their clothes, that if a fellow collides with them he is almost sure to puncture a tyre."—Tid-Bits.

Not Worth the Expense.

Judge Walton, who presides over a court at Washington, is a man of grim humor. Once, in the lobby, a member of the bar was seeking to convey the impression to a group of acquaintances, of whom Judge Walton was the centre, that his income from his profession was very large. "I have to earn a good deal," the lawyer said; "it seems a large story to tell, judge, but my personal expenses are six thousand dollars a year. It costs me that to live." "That is too much, Brother S.," said the judge; "I wouldn't pay it—it isn't worth it!"

Testing Diamonds by the X-Rays.

It seems that by their aid one can readily determine whether diamonds are real or false, for the rays pass quite through real diamonds, leaving them transparent, and not at all through false ones. A real parure, when photographed, would show only the mounting, but in a false one all the stones would turn out black.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

SENATE COMMITTEES.

Probability of an Agreement Being Reached as to Vacancies.

Washington, March 11.—While the members of both the republican and democratic senate steering committees are non-committal, it is understood that an agreement will be reached whereby the republicans will fill the vacancies in the committees caused by the retirement of men who were appointed as republicans and that the democrats will fill the vacancies in the committees caused by the retirement of men who were appointed as democrats. Mr. Burrows appears to be slated for the place of Mr. Sherman on the finance committee. This committee will be favorable to a tariff bill. Senator Jones, silver, Nev., will vote for a tariff bill without a free silver rider being attached. Mr. Platt of New York is making a strong fight for a place on the finance committee, but his long absence from the senate militates against him. Mr. Allison will remain as chairman of the committee on appropriations, with a good working majority behind him.

SENATE ADJOURNS SINE DIE.

But Little Work Was Transacted During the Special Session.

Washington, March 11.—The extra session of the senate which adjourned sine die yesterday afternoon had but little work for it to do. Last Friday it confirmed the cabinet, Monday the nominee to fill the vacancy existing in the office of pension agent at Detroit was confirmed and yesterday a postmaster at Danville, Ill., was nominated and confirmed. This was the sum total of all the labors of the senate.

Senator Hoar's Amendments.

Washington, March 11.—The amendments proposed by Mr. Hoar, in his notice in the senate yesterday, to the senate rules, if adopted, will work a radical change in the methods of procedure in that body which have prevailed almost since the formation of that body. One was to provide for the operation of the previous question after a subject had been debated one day, the demand to be seconded by a majority of the senate. The other proposes to authorize the vice-president to determine without the formality of a roll call when the point of no quorum is made whether or not one is present.

Greater New York Charter.

Albany, March 11.—The Greater New York charter was considered last night at the fourth and last hearing on the measure before the senate and assembly cities committees. It is expected that the charter will pass the legislature and be acted upon by the mayors of the cities of New York, Brooklyn and Long Island City, to whom it must be submitted by the first week in April. Once it is agreed upon by the cities committees of the two houses, it will have clear sailing in the legislature.

Woman Suffrage Efforts in Massachusetts.

Boston, March 11.—In the house yesterday afternoon the report of the committee on election laws, leave to withdraw on the petition of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance union, that women qualified to vote upon the school question may vote upon the question of granting licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors, caused a long debate. The bill was finally substituted for the adverse committee report by a vote of 83 to 82, Speaker Bates casting the deciding vote.

Baltimore Greeks Going Home.

Depositors Paid in Full.

Troy, N. Y., March 11.—The National bank of this city, which has been in charge of Bank Examiner Graham for several months, paid all its depositors yesterday afternoon. There were more than 800 depositors, whose claims amounted to about $325,000. The claimants were paid in full, with interest on interest accounts. The stockholders will receive about 75 per cent.

DAME AN ABSCONDER

Newburyport Bank Teller Short in His Accounts.

STEALINGS COVERED 12 YEARS

The Discovery Made During His Absence from the Bank Caused by Sickness. He Admitted His Wrongdoings. Whereabouts Unknown.

Newburyport, Mass., March 11.—A shortage running far up into the thousands has been discovered in the books of the Merchants' National bank here, one of the oldest, most careful and conservative banks in the state. The teller, Percy Dame, has confessed to the embezzlement, and his relatives and friends are endeavoring to make the bank's losses good. Dame has disappeared, no one knows where. The shortage was first discovered several weeks ago, while the teller was confined to his rooms by illness. It was the first time for years that Dame had been kept away from his duties at the bank for any length of time, and one of the minor clerks was put at work upon his books. He had hardly begun his duties before he discovered a shortage of over $5,000, and he at once reported results to the cashier. The directors were communicated with and an expert called in. The shortage began to swell. It was decided to confront Dame with the results of the investigation, and it was done, although he lay in bed and was reported as dangerously ill. He expressed no surprise, but it seemed rather a matter of relief to him. He admitted the thefts and said they covered a period of nearly twelve years. Up to date the amount of the shortage is said to reach $7,500. It is strange that Dame's manner of living did not excite suspicion. His salary was $1,300 and yet he was said to be paying $20 a week to his wife, from whom he had separated. Dame is about 34 years old. His father was a senator in the Massachusetts legislature, collector of internal revenue here at one time, a prominent member of the republican state committee and prominent politically and socially as well.

WILL SEE SHERMAN.

Mrs. Ruiz Is Pushing Her Indemnity Claims for Her Husband's Death.

Washington, March 11.—Mrs. Rita L. Ruiz, widow of Dr. Ruiz, who, it is alleged, was murdered by the Spanish while in prison in Cuba, is preparing to file her demand for indemnity against the Spanish government. Mrs. Ruiz, with her five children, is stopping with Cuban friends. To-day she will engage her attorneys, and later will try to get an interview with secretary of state John Sherman.

A Gift for the President.

Washington, March 11.—The Bible on which President McKinley took the oath of office last Thursday was presented to him at the White House yesterday by a delegation of bishops of the A. M. E. church. On one of the panels on the inside of the covers is printed an inscription reading: "Presented to His Excellency, William McKinley, by the bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church, on behalf of eight millions of redeemed Americans as a token of their high appreciation of his love for the Declaration of Independence, his devotion to the Constitution as amended, his loyalty to the Ten Commandments and Golden Rule, and his advocacy of protection to American institutions, industries and men."

Gen. Hastings' Injuries.

Washington, March 11.—Gen. Russell Hastings, commander of the 23d Ohio regiment, President McKinley's regiment during the war, who was knocked down and run over by a wagon opposite the treasury department yesterday afternoon, is resting quietly today, and the physicians at the Garfield hospital do not fear any serious results, although the fractured leg is the limb which was injured in the battle of Winchester. President McKinley, who called upon the injured general yesterday afternoon and spoke cheering words to him, is expected to call upon his old commander again this evening.

P., the historian.

Claims Against New York State.

Albany, March 11.—Two damage claims coming from Danube, Herkimer county, have been filed with the state court of claims, one for $270 and the other for $400. The damage was to premises and resulted from leakage and overflow from the Erie canal feeder at that place.

THE ABILITY TO READ AND WRITE.

Some significant figures given in the annual report of the inspectors of a Pennsylvania prison appear to have a bearing on the opinion expressed by ex-President Cleveland in his veto of the immigration bill that ability to read and write affords an unsatisfactory test of desirable citizenship. Of the 623 convicts received at the penitentiary last year, 492 had attended the public schools and 38 had attended private schools. Only 91, or less than 15 per cent., were illiterates, while four-fifths of the whole had enjoyed at least some of the advantages of the public educational system. Other significant figures show that of the 623 convicts, 72 only, or less than 12 per cent., had acquired trades, 38 by apprenticeship and 34 by other means; 549, or 88 per cent, had no trades. "It is possible to generalize too far from a few statistics," comments the Philadelphia Times, "but certainly these figures are significant, not of the uselessness of education, but of its insufficiency as a substitute for industrial training. It is to very little profit that we make laws to keep children out of workshops and factories if we are only helping them into prisons."

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT.

It is a matter of congratulation for every person in North Plainfield—because it is something every person is vitally interested in—that the public school system of the borough has reached the high standard of excellence that it has. No community can afford to neglect the work of educating the young in a manner practical and efficient, and it is therefore something of more than passing interest to know that under the present administration this duty is being carried out with a true conception of its intent. Superintendent Warde has made many improvements in the curriculum of studies and the general plan of study since he assumed control, a fact made evident in the article published in another column of The Press today describing the routine school work.

THE PRESS COMMENDED.

The Press is in receipt of the follow ing letter, which explains itself:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY PRESS:—The fair and clean conduct of your paper in political matters indicates that you appreciate the high duties of an editor, and that small, hateful and angry personalities must give way to the broad consideration of questions from the standpoint of unselfishness, of reason and of justice.

The gentlemen who serve the community without pay in the position of Mayor, Councilmen and School Trustees, are entitled to the highest regard, especially when progress and public good are the motives from which their actions spring. Those who are so quick to criticise and condemn seldom occupy public office, and run like mad when asked to fill a vacancy. The positions of Councilmen and School Trustees are honorable posts, but the wild gossiping and secret innuendo which passes from mouth to mouth makes it difficult to get good, competent men, to serve the people. This sly and mean method of attacking public officials who serve without pay is not confined to the ignorant, but extends to those who boast of their standing in polished society. For moderation and fairness The Press shows the way. Let others follow.

Yours truly,
North Plainfield.

SENATOR REED'S BILL.

Senator Reed has a bill in the Legislature which will enable certain boards of education to elect a treasurer where the duties are now performed by the township or municipal collector or treasurer. The bill affects Long Branch, Somerville, Princeton, Caldwell, Irvington, Ridgefield, Fort Lee and Englewood. The three quarters of one per cent. on the money now received by the township collector would go to the school board's treasurer. Senator Johnson opposed the measure. Senator Stokes was also against it.

INJURED EYE AFFECTS THE OTHER.

A Roycefield Man Goes to Muhlenberg Hospital for Treatment.

About a week ago George Brady, of Roycefield, was breaking some lumps of coal when a piece flew up and hit him in the eye. For several days he suffered great pain from the injury, and it not only closed up the eye but it affected the sight of the other. He was treated by local physicians, but he failed to get relief. Mr. Brady finally decided to come to Plainfield and enter the hospital where he could be treated by Dr. Arq.

He was admitted a few days ago and is getting along as well as can be expected. The injury is a very serious one and it is possible that he may lose the sight of the eye.

THE BOROUGH SCHOOL

studies are made as interesting as possible while still retaining all the instructive features, were in use throughout the school, and the teachers taught their pupils as well as hearing them recite.

With the changes in the school have come changes in the course. Modern methods were again in prominence Instead of confining the instruction of the children to the three "R's," they are given a glimpse of other important studies. While none of the most important branches have been neglected, science and languages were remembered. Latin, Greek, French and German now form a regular part of the High School course. Mathematics are followed to a farther point than ever before in this school. Algebra, geometry, and trigonomitry are also part of the necessary studies. It would be impossible to give the complete course of study in the different grades, as the space is too limited, but a glance over it by one who has enjoyed a public school education will show its excellence.

In the High School, three courses are open to the student, the Classical, the Scientific and the English. The first two require four years and the latter, which is a modification of the other two, three years. As this is only the first year of the High School the graduating class is, of course, small. It is composed of five, Miss Bessie Thompson Day, Edouard Loizeaux and Ernest S. Suffren, who are taking the Classical course, and Miss Edna Louise French and Miss Adah Woolston, who are taking the English course. The High School prepares its graduates for college and all the graduates this year expect to take advantage of that fact. Miss Day will go to Smith College, Mr. Loizeaux to Columbia and Mr. Suffren to Williams. The others have not decided what college they will enter.

The preparations for the close of the term are elaborate ones. On Tuesday, June 21st, a prize contest in declamation will be held in Music Hall. On the following Thursday, the Commencement exercises will be held in the same hall.

In closing; a word should be said for the building itself. Everything was clean and neat throughout the building. The improvements made during the summer made almost a new building of it and the good care it has received that time has kept it in the same condition.

How's This?

From Cripple Creek.

After the big fire in Cripple Creek, I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, both the cough and cold left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious cough remedy to do any good.—G. B. PASSING COMMENT.

Mrs. Colles T. Pond, who has an art studio in the Babcock building, is planning to give an exhibition the latter part of this month. Mrs. Pond is an active member of an art society in New York which is considered to be one of the finest in the country, and one of the requisites for membership is that a person must do original work. A visit to Mrs. Pond's studio would repay anyone interested in art.

Many of the so-called incendiary fires are caused by little four-legged marauders who are commonly called mice. One of these little rodents visited the undertaking establishment of A. M. Runyon, at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, Sunday evening, and finding some matches in a closet, proceeded to gnaw them. One of the men employed in the house was just leaving the building when he smelled smoke. He hunted about the house. As he opened a closet door, the flames burst forth but were soon extinguished with a pail of water. Investigation showed that Master Mouse was the incendiary who had been at work. The mouse trap was set and the poor little fire bug was caught.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Everbody seems glad that election is over and words of good cheer are heard for the officers elected.

Peter Merceroid, of North avenue, is improving his house by the addition of a new veranda and bay window. Contractor Walter Apgar is pushing forward the work to completion.

While there is little or no frost in the ground, a heavy fog rises over the swamp land late these evenings, which is considered unhealthy and detrimental to the public health.

W. H. Cole is experiencing great delay in getting his coal from the mines. Tuesday he did not have a ton of nut coal in the yard, but yesterday he received a small batch of order.

Samuel Merrill has his three horse team at work carting stone from the mountain to be used in the construction of the foundation walls for Eugene Runyon's new house on Dunellen avenue.

A handsome and costly business directory has been placed on the wall in the post office building. It contains the names of the most prominent business men in Dunellen, Plainfield and Bound Brook and is most beautifully framed.

A personal canvass among many of the more prominent business men, yesterday, drew from them the fact that their business had increased from twenty-five to forty per cent. since the presidential election. They do not assign any particular reason for the increase, except it be that public confidence is being restored.

One of the conductors on the Dunellen run of the street railway came to grief, last evening. He stood on the back platform making change for a passenger, when the car gave a sort of sudden lurch, and about three dollars worth of quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies were accidently strewn in the roadway. It was at a point near the Dunellen turnout, and at the time it was exceedingly dark, and no effort was made to recover the money last night.

A movement is said to be under way among some of the residents here to employ one or more private detectives whose duty it will be to patrol the streets each night and keep an eye open for strangers and suspicious looking characters. At the present time the borough is absolutely without any police protection, and the wholesale robberies and attempts of Monday night should serve as a lesson and at the same time show the necessity of at least some protection to the citizens. The people are as a rule up to the times in the matter of public improvement. They asked for a municipal building and lockup and they got them, then they wanted a fire alarm and it was granted. Now they are clamoring for police protection, and that, too, will come in the near future.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

J. D. Cleaver, of Newark, spent Tuesday with Dr. J. H. Parks.

Through Thomas Paff's agency, Mrs. Mary Raymond has leased Alexander Miller's house next to the fire department headquarters.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blimm are somewhat better from their recent indisposition, and their recovery is now almost assured.

Some of the Scotch Plains school boys, especially the older ones, are advocating the formation of a military company, but no definite action has yet been taken.

Rev. Father Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's church, took a spin through the Plains on his wheel yesterday, and he evidently enjoyed the good roads very much, judging from his smiling countenance.

There is little or no frost in the ground now, except in some shady places, and the Town Committee should go to work and clean out the gutters and improve the condition of the road beds.

After standing out in the elements, both clear and stormy, a considerable portion of the winter, the hook and ladder truck begins to look as though a coat of paint wouldn't hurt it one bit and the cost would be trifling.

The bicycle path between Plainfield and Scotch Plains is becoming well trodden, and it is in great demand by cyclers. In fact it is the only safe track for along East Front street there are holes in the gutters and road deep enough to bury a large object. Cole's hill was becoming so bad that immediate attention was necessary, so the street commissioner ordered a couple of loads of crushed stone deposited at that point.

THE TAX PROTESTS MADE.

VIGOROUS OBJECTIONS IN WESTFIELD TO SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

Several Objectors Represented by Attorneys—Commissioners Will Not Alter Rate But Simply Look at Possible Errors.

The Sewer Commissioners held an open session in the town rooms yesterday afternoon to hear the protests from the property owners. They were not disappointed. There were protests, and many vigorous ones at that. Not a few property holders were represented by attorneys. The Commissioners took no cognizance of protests as to the rate of .71 a front foot. They merely wished to learn if errors had been made, and why, if any, should not be assessed. A sample of the protests was the Ripley estate. The right of way had been given to run the trunk sewer through a twelve acre meadow to the sewer farm, forming an unsightly ridge in the meadow and obstructing the drainage, yet the estate was assessed heavily. Another was that the cellars in the lower side of Kimball avenue were six feet below the sewer, which made it impossible to connect with the sewer unless a hydraulic pump was used. One or two others were found to be assessed for more property than they really own, and and these will be corrected. When the Commissioners have finished its labors, it is said that a number of the property holders will carry the difficulties into the Circuit Court and test the matter there.

Mrs. J. E. Brittingham left today for Virginia for a visit.

M. A. L. Russell will move away from Westfield this spring.

Mr. Day has rented his Elm street house to a Brooklyn family.

Dr. W. S. Rice and daughter, Miss Nellie Rice, were in town yesterday.

The Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist church met at 2:30 this afternoon.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of the Presbyterian church met this afternoon.

There will be a birthday party in the Congregational church next Monday evening.

Thieves entered the barn of Joseph Perry Tuesday evening and carried off all his harness.

Friday evening Lenten services will begin in St. Paul's P. E. church and continue during Lent.

The Baptists will elect a deacon, in the place of John Ledger, deceased, next Wednesday evening.

A number of Westfielders went to Cranford last evening to attend a church supper in the Methodist church.

A horse belonging to Martin Snyder, the butcher, ran away yesterday forenoon, but was caught before any serious damage was done.

Captain W. H. Chamberlain entered a pigeon shoot at Fanwood, yesterday, and came off with first money in the first event and second money in the second shoot.

Town Committeeman, Charles Endicott, brother of Dr. Endicott, of Plainfield, will have an operation performed this week on his jaw, which he broke last Christmas eve.

The funeral of Allen Wrenneck will take place this evening at Mrs. O. Pierson's and the remains will be conveyed tomorrow to Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, for interment.

Reality is somewhat at a standstill just now due to the excessive sewer assessments, nevertheless there are a number of contracts yet to erect quite a few cottages this spring.

Union prayer meeting was held in the Congregational church last evening, after which the Rev. Mr. Elsing gave a stereopticon lecture on New York tenement life, for the benefit of the Children's Home.

The school houses here are fast becoming inadequate to properly house all the pupils. It has not yet been decided whether a new school building will be erected or additions made to the Prospect school.

More Golf Links Proposed.

The Board of Governors of the Park Club have appointed Samuel Townsend and E. T. Douglass a committee to consider the advisability of establishing golf links. The board have an option on suitable grounds and the matter will be reported on at a later meeting. At a meeting of the board last evening the resignation of W. N. Runyon was received and accepted. Mr. Runyon was obliged to resign on account of increasing duties.

—Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will meet in the Babcock building this evening and work the M. E. degree on three candidates.

Stop drugging yourself with quack nostrums or "cures." Get a well-known pharmaceutical remedy that will do the work. Catarrh and Cold in the head will not cause suffering if Ely's Cream Balm is used. Druggist will supply 10c. trial size, or 50c. full size. We mail it. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N. Y. City. Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

Bilious Colic.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic will be pleased to know that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and if taken as soon as the first indication of the disease appears, it will prevent the attack. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Borough Realty Changes.

The following real estate transfers have been recorded in the Somerset County Clerk's office from North Plainfield:

Flora A. Hawkes to Henry C. Kennedy, North Plainfield, $1; Henry C. Kennedy to Henry Hawkes, North Plainfield, $1; Alfred University to Annie Keller, North Plainfield, $525; Township of North Plainfield to Seth G. Babcock, North Plainfield, $190.20.

Funeral of Mrs. Mattison.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Charles Mattison were held today noon at 12:30 from Grace M. E. church. Rev. H. J. Johnston, pastor of the church officiated, and there was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Mr. Johnston spoke very tenderly and with appropriate words comforted the bereaved ones. Interment was at Flemington this afternoon.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A DOG NAMED DIMPLE

If ever there was a case in which the intentions of nature were quite set at naught, it was when my cousin Eugenia began to bring herself up after her own pattern without the slightest regard to the cutting of the cloth. Nature had meant her for a kitten-girl, or a dove-girl, anything that was made up of curves and softness, while she preferred to be a composition of angles.

Therefore, in place of dancing, flirting and enjoying life after the manner of a girl with big, blue, confiding eyes, whose dimples and freckles seemed made for kissing, she propped up a book to read as she swallowed her hasty meals, apart from the family if possible, studied from morning till night, frightened the men by her erudition, despised pets, played tennis simply for exercise, rode a bicycle so as to get quickly from one place to another, and made all girlkind feel themselves mere puppets and dolls.

But how had the mighty fallen! Eugenia had purchased a dog and given it the name of—Dimple. No wonder that, not daring to jeer, we were silent.

However, when the dog arrived, we were obliged to admit that he justified his name. Of all the dear, roly-poly little dog-babies that ever I saw, Dimple was the most fascinating, and the very first wag of his tail excused Eugenia's backsliding.

"When Dimple grows up," auntie had foolishly said one day, apropos of nothing, and Eugenia had turned upon her with lofty scorn and informed her that the engaging morsel, at that moment busy in the demolition of one of my newest and longest evening gloves, "would never grow any more," the man from whom she bought him having assured her that he had quite completed that part of his education. Which doubting, we were nevertheless silent.

Two or three days after this mistake of my aunt's, Dan came out to dinner and deeply annoyed Eugenia by picking up the soft mass of fur by his neck and remarking:

"When this fellow gets over being a puppy, he'll be quite a dog, Eugenia."

"He is not a puppy, Dan; he is full grown," our cousin responded, icily, and then added with some asperity, "I have no sort of tolerance for puppies—of any kind."

My brother threw back his handsome head and laughed low but heartily.

"May I inquire the age of your full-grown dog, my cousin?"

"He was six months old when I bought him, two months ago."

"Eight months old: You dear little goose, if he is one-half that I shall be astonished. These mastiffs—"

"He isn't a mastiff."

"Indeed! And what is he?"

"A Sicilian poodle."

"O-oh!"

The peal of laughter which greeted this dignified response was quite too much for Eugenia. She picked up her dog and departed, red with indignation, leaving Dan the only person in the world who ever dared to tease her, to apologize to auntie, be by her forgiven, and, I fear, encouraged to repeat his offense.

From that time we noticed that Eugenia was more or less uneasy. Once I caught her holding a yard measure suspiciously near Dimple, but she dropped it at once upon my approach. After a few weeks there was no use disguising the fact; that full-grown dog was rapidly increasing in size; indeed, he seemed to enlarge during his slumbers and wake up a full size bigger than when he went to sleep.

It began with his legs, which so extended themselves that, had you seen him in a collection of freaks, you would have suspected him of being on stilts; then the little round body, so absurdly mounted on its thin supports, began to swell out.

Eugenia grew very grave. She would sit for hours over her books, glancing furtively from time to time at Dimple dozing by her side—for he had grown much too large for her lap—as if they had never been introduced. One day she forgot to go to her lecture at the proper time, so busy was she trying to induce Dimple to crowd himself into the sumptuous basket which had been provided for his babyhood. So careworn did she become, indeed, that we never alluded to the dog's growth.

As the months rolled on, the singular inaptness of Dimple's name became positively embarrassing, for though auntie and I could have laughed over it, and made it a perfect godsend in the way of a spur to languishing conversation, Eugenia, feeling that she had been duped, regarded it as so keen a mortification that we avoided the subject with terror.

"What has become of your pretty little puppy, Miss Eugenia?" asked one unwary swain; and, as if in answer, the door was pushed open, and in stalked a great, lean, long-legged, big-bodied, solemn dog, wagging his tail slowly.

He walked up to Eugenia, laid his head on her knee, then turned and winked at her questioner. Oh, yes, he did, he winked deliberately, then raised one huge paw and put it down on Eugenia's shoulder, with an air of patronizing proprietorship that was positively maddening. It was too much for my cousin; she fled precipitately, but not in time to avoid the astonished exclamation:

"You don't mean to say that monster—is Dimple!"

That moment settled Eugenia's fate. The masculine nature had asserted itself, and Dimple— that absurd name—had practically said, mildly, but firmly,—

"Come Eugenia, I have had enough of this nonsense. You bought me, you took me, 'for better, for worse'; if you meant to have a plaything and have found a master, so much the better—or worse—for you. One thing you may understand, I do not mean to be ignored any longer."

Eugenia would shut herself up in her room to study. Dimple would come to the door and knock with his tail; Eugenia would take no notice of him. Then he would scratch, not a gentle, pleading little scratch, but a deep, determined gouging of auntie's pretty woodwork. Then Dimple would howl, such a howl! long and loud and oft repeated, and Eugenia would fly to let him in, a tragic expression on her pretty, despairing face.

After a week of these proceedings, on one of the daily walks on which her keeper conducted her, she bought a whip, which she smuggled home, hid among her laces and produced next morning when her door was being torn to pieces. From my room I saw her plunge desperately out, seize the dog's collar and lift the whip, but it never descended.

Dimple lifted his head, caught the weapon in his powerful jaws, closed them upon it, dropped the pieces on the ground, smiled indulgently up into Eugenia's face, took her dress in his teeth, and led her down stairs to make ready for a walk—which they took.

When Dan came home from Europe auntie and I met him at the steamer, and on the way home we told him the story of Eugenia's fall. How she had been obliged to give up her college work—to the great improvement of her health and temper—how she had grown brown and rosy from long, aimless walks with her guide, philosopher and friend. How we had sold him, sent him off to board, given him away, and how after each banishment he had returned so promptly and unfailingly that Eugenia had accepted the inevitable and begged us not to interfere again between them.

Dan laughed until there were tears in his eyes, and exclaimed, "Poor little girl!" more than once; but he readily promised that he would not tease Eugenia about her Old Man of the Sea, as he at once dubbed the dog.

Dan and Dimple were friends at once. When the dog first appeared, Eugenia paled and flushed and paled again, glancing rather apprehensively at my brother; but he seemed quite oblivious, spoke cheerily to the big fellow, patted his head, looked deep into the intelligent brown eyes, and man and beast understood each other perfectly. Such good times as we had that summer, auntie, Eugenia, Dimple, Dan and I! In previous years we had been obliged to count my cousin out of everything, for the resting time of summer had for her been full of work; but now she lounged and played and joined in all sports, as she never had before in all her sweet, self-willed young life, was among us and of us for the first time.

There had been three days of steady rain, and, tired of seclusion, on the afternoon of the third day, I wrapped myself in my mackintosh and went out for a walk, leaving Eugenia, housed with a slight cold, to look after Dan, auntie having gone into the town for the day. As I came home the sun broke through scattering clouds, lighting up the world with rosy glory. The storm was at an end, the fair promise of the morrow was in the soft air, in the twitter of the birds, in the fresh perfume of leaf and flower, in the golden beauty of sunset.

Eugenia and Dan had come out of doors to enjoy the loveliness of earth and sky, and stood with Dimple on the veranda. Suddenly the dog stretched himself to twice his natural length, took my cousin's skirt in his teeth and nodded to her that she was to come with him.

"No, Dimple, no, dear," she coaxed, bending over him. "Don't make me come to-night. I've had a cold, you know, I really ought not to go; you will have to wait, doggie, dear." But Doggie dear did not intend to wait. He shook his head and her dress and growled softly. I walked slowly toward the house and watched the conflict, Dimple ordering, Eugenia pleading for mercy, my brother smiling at the two beneath his mustache. At last Dan spoke.

"Dimple!" the dog raised his eyes but kept the skirts between his teeth. "Let that go, do you hear me, sir?" Then, as Eugenia put her hand out quickly. "No, I am not going to hurt him; he will understand in a moment; he has plenty of sense. Your mistress is not going with you, Dimple: she is not going now or at any other time. With you or any one else, unless I give her permission. She is going to be my slave now, old dog, you've had your day."

Eugenia had lifted an astonished, startled glance to his face as he spoke, but dropped her head low over the dog as he went on without break or pause,—

"She loves you very much Dimple, we all do; you have trained her well, and we are all very much obliged to you, but you needn't worry yourself about her any more—I'll take the engagement. You don't believe me, sir? See here," and right there, in the face of me and all the world—if it had been there to see, nursie always said he was a bold one" when we were children—Dan drew my cousin to him, lifted and kissed her sweet blushing face.

There was a long pause. Then Dimple loosened the skirt, rose to his feet, and with a reproachful glance at Eugenia and a submissive wag of his tail toward Dan, led Eugenia into the house.

"Oh, dear," she murmured, her bright face lovely with blushes, "from one slavery to another! Am I never to be free again?"

"Never," calmly answered my brother.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The horseless carriage—the kind operated by electric power—is no longer considered a freak in this city. It is now in practical use. A few years from now it is possible that a horse will attract as much attention in this city as did the first electric carriage. Even livery stable keepers admit that the horse must go.

A concern which has begun the manufacture of these vehicles on a large scale has established headquarters in this city. It is as yet only in its infancy, and has only about a dozen vehicles on exhibition at its salesrooms. These arrived from Philadelphia where the factory is situated, about two weeks ago. Since then they have been operated about the streets and have been inspected by members of the Board of Aldermen.

It is the desire of the Board to be thoroughly convinced as to their safety before voting on a resolution which has been introduced in the Board giving the Mayor power to license electric vehicles the same as those drawn by horses, and allowing cabmen who may in future abandon the old style of vehicles for the more modern to charge fares for rides in the latter. This will necessitate the passing of a special ordinance.

AN ELECTRIC SURREY.

There is a motor vehicle which, on September 11, 1896, made a five mile run at the Narragansett Park races, in Providence, R. I., in eleven minutes and twenty-seven seconds. The average time per mile was two minutes seventeen seconds, and it covered the distance at the rate of a little more than twenty-six miles an hour, establishing a record for motor vehicles.

The hansoms and surreys in use are fitted with two one and one-half horse power motors, both attached to the front axle, one to each wheel, and driven independently. The coupe is furnished with two two-horse power motors. After fifteen minutes' practice, say the manufacturers, a man who has never seen one before can operate one. They are fitted with pneumatic tires. The cost of the vehicles will not be much more than the price of a horse and an old style carriage and the charging of the batteries will be inexpensive.

The Greater New York Commission, having completed the business for which it was created and sent the charter to Albany, met in the private office of Mayor Strong and formally declared itself out of existence by adjourning without date.

The members of the commission present at the final meeting were Gen. Tracy, chairman; Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Mayors Strong, Wurster and Gleason, and ex-Mayor Thomas F. Gilroy, William C. DeWitt, Silas B. Dutcher and George M. Pinney, Jr.

Some time was spent in making the final audit of the bills for printing, stenography, and typewriting and clerk hire, which aggregated $21,988.94. This is well within the appropriation of $25,000 allowed by the Legislature last year. The Commissioners served without pay.

New methods in the instruction of theological students seem to be in favor at the Yale divinity school. The professor of sociology brought a lot of the students to New York last week to observe social conditions in that city so that they might have an object lesson in life. The young men were taken, not to the homes of the rich and the powerful, but into the tenement house regions, where men and women live huddled together so closely that they cannot raise their eyes on the earth, for fear of stumbling and being trampled under foot by the crowd. It is there that many of the social problems must be solved because it is in those regions that the skein of life is tangled. The men who are to be the religious teachers of the next generation cannot know too much of life, they cannot see too deeply into its sorrows or into its hardships, for it is only when they realize the nature of the task before them that they can go about it with intelligence. There is too much theoretical preaching and too much elaboration of dogma and too much apology for preaching at all and too little attempt to apply the fundamental teachings of Christianity to everyday life. There is talk about Jonah and the whale, while the widow and the fatherless are oppressed. There is debate on the possibility of the immaculate conception, while children are homeless and hungry. There is assertion of the credibility and authenticity of the Scriptures, while dishonesty in private and public life goes unrebuked. If the Yale instructors can convince their students that Christianity is a living force by bringing them to New York they will succeed in an undertaking which is worth while.

BLONDIN'S FEAT.

The Man Whom He Carried Over Niagara Falls Tells of His Sensations.

Blondin, who died in England recently at the age of seventy-seven, remained until the end the king of tight-rope walkers. Many imitated him, many performed great and wonderful feats; but there was only one Blondin. He stepped to the front rank in June, 1859, when he walked across the Niagara Falls chasm on a tight-rope, and did it handicapped with the weight of a man clinging to his shoulders.

But what of the man who clung to his shoulders on that awful head-whirling journey high over the boiling waters? He, too, it would seem, had some title to be esteemed a man of nerve. Harry Colcord is his name. He is still living and has a little studio up in the Auditorium Building, in Chicago, where he makes a little money painting portraits.

He recently gave this account of the adventure:

"The rope was 250 feet above the water at its lowest point, which was 50 feet below the highest—in other words there was a grade of 50 feet in each 1,000 feet. Blondin had coached me as to what I should do. I was to put my weight on his shoulders only with my arms and clasp his body about with my legs. But I could not put my weight on his legs, as that would encumber his movements. I had to keep all my weight on his shoulders.

BLONDIN'S PERILOUS FEAT.

"Everything being ready, I took my place on Blondin's back and we started across the rope. We began the descent from the Canadian side of the rope, by reason of the fact that I had to bear my weight on Blondin's shoulders and could only use my arms to support myself, frequent rests were necessary. I told Blondin I wanted to rest and then dropped down on the rope on one foot and waited until my arms were relieved, when I would spring up again, using my arms to hold and lift myself in place. There was a great crowd present, but I did not see it at first. From my place on Blondin's back I could look out to the American side and see below the stunted pines thrusting their sharp points up from the edge of the foaming, roaring waters, ready to split us in two if we fell. I remember that I was anxious to get over and recall, too, that the great rope before us swung alarmingly from side to side. We afterwards ascertained that the rope had been swinging forty feet in the centre. Below us, 250 feet, roared the river, and over it we swung from side to side. Blondin never trembled. When we had gone about ten feet on the middle span some one pulled the outer guy rope. Blondin stopped and swayed his pole from side to side, in a vain effort to balance himself. Failing in this he started to run across the horrible span and safely reached the point where the guy rope on the American side joined. To steady himself he put his foot on the junction and tried to stop, but the guy rope snapped, and with a dash of speed he ran twenty or thirty feet further and said: "Descendez-vous." The perspiration stood on his neck and shoulders in great beads. Presently he said "Allons," and we went on safely to the other side. The pulling of the guy rope that nearly threw us was done purposely by somebody who had bet Blondin would not get across."

Bringing the Men to Terms.

"After all," said the woman, "it is proper that men should have the seats in a car."

Her companion looked surprised.

"Do you really think so?" she asked.

"Oh, yes. Not all men, of course, but those who usually get them and hold them. It is really quite fitting and proper. Why, you must have noticed that the men who object to having to stand around for women in a street car are the ones who have to stand around for women when they are at home."

"Madam," said eight men at once, "won't you take this seat?"—Chicago Post.

Particular as to What He Eats.

"Sire," announced the head cook, "the sailor who was washed ashore last night proves to be a sad sea dog."

The cannibal king shifted uneasily upon his throne.

"That means," he muttered, "that I won't dare eat sausage again for a month at least."—Answers.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. "JUST GOOD FOR NOTHING."

That Is How Thousands of Women Feel. Here Is the Cure.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Is the Greatest Health Giver in the World.

"I feel just good for nothing, tired all the time, and so nervous that it seems as if I should fly to pieces." How many women there are whose bitter cry of discouragement echoes these words. They are suffering from weak nerves, physical exhaustion and female complaints. They need their nerves strengthened, their blood invigorated, and restoration from their female weakness and disease. They need Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the great female restorative and regulator, which has proved itself, by its wonderful cures, the greatest blessing to womankind the world has ever known. It gives the weak, languid, and tired out sufferer, renewed strength, energy and ambition, cures the female troubles, banishes mental depression and discouragement, and restores again bounding health, vigorous activity, bright eyes and elastic step.

Mrs. Allie Swisher, 111 So. 12th St., Richmond, Ind., says:—"For the past fifteen years at my monthly periods I never escaped a severe sick headache, nervousness and the other bad symptoms of womb trouble with all its attendant severe suffering, so that at times it seemed to me I did not care to live. I commenced taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and have not been troubled with headaches since, and my other troubles are also cured."

Remember that the spring months are the best time to take medicine and Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy should be taken now. Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills are the perfect pills for biliousness and constipation. Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful physician in curing diseases, can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

DEATH OF R. G. BLAINE.

Last Surviving Brother of the Late J. G. Blaine Passes Away.

Washington, March 11.—Robert Gillespie Blaine, the last surviving brother of the late James G. Blaine, lies dead at his residence in this city. He succumbed to paralysis, after an illness of a week. He was 65 years old, and of late years, after his hair and beard grew white, bore a somewhat striking resemblance to his distinguished brother. He inherited, however, none of his aggressive tendencies or striking mental qualities, but was content to occupy small official positions, first in the agricultural department and afterward in the congressional library. He leaves a widow, one son, a young man of 20, and five daughters, two of them married.

RULES FOR THE BIG FIGHT.

Referee Siler Presents the Pugilists with His Interpretation of Them.

Carson, Nev., March 11.—In Referee Siler's letter to Corbett and Fitzsimmons, interpreting the Marquis of Queensberry rules, under which the pugilists will contest on March 17, the only change of established precedents made by him is in reference to permitting hitting in clinches with one arm free and in all breakaways. While neither of the men will make any statement concerning this new ruling, it is evident that it is not relished by either of them and may cause some trouble. A conference between Siler, Stuart and the representatives of the principals is likely to be held before the matter of rules is finally settled.

Prince Bismarck's Illness.

Berlin, March 11.—The Hamburger Nachrichten announces that Prince Bismarck has lately been in poor health and is now suffering from chronic neuralgia which deprives him of the power of speech and renders it impossible for him to sleep. The exchancellor, the paper says, rather dreads the celebration of the eighty-second anniversary of his birth on April 1. Though he will not forbid the holding of the torchlight procession in his honor on his birthday, he will be a silent spectator of the parade.

Queen Victoria Goes Abroad.

London, March 11.—The queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and members of her majesty's court, left Windsor yesterday by special train for Portsmouth on her way to Cimiez. At Portsmouth her majesty embarked on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert for Cherbourg, where she took a special train for the Riviera. At Cimiez the queen will occupy the Regina hotel. She will return by way of Germany at the end of April.

London Bankers Again Confident.

London, March 11.—Leading London bankers now express their belief that there will be no war in the east and a general feeling of confidence is returning. Sir William Harcourt, the leader of the opposition in the house of commons, has moderated the pessimistic tone of his utterances and it is supposed that his change of front is due to his having learned that negotiations between England and France in regard to Egypt are being continued.

Rushing Work at English Dockyards.

London, March 11.—The entire staff of employes at the Devenport dockyards, numbering five thousand, have been ordered to work overtime for the purpose of hastening the completion of the fitting out of the vessels upon which they are engaged. The order is believed to have been issued in view of the crisis which has arisen over the Cretan question.

Fined Himself for Being Drunk.

Bowling Green, O., March 11.—There was a large crowd at the police court yesterday when Mayor Campbell imposed a fine of $5 and costs upon himself for being drunk and disorderly. The mayor was carried to the police station intoxicated and occupied a cell with the common drunks. Citizens are indignant, and he will probably be removed from office.

Steamer Vancouver Still Missing.

Halifax, N. S., March 11.—The overdue steamer Vancouver has not yet been heard from, but her agents think she has had bad weather or that she may have got caught in the ice while attempting to take a short cut across the Newfoundland banks and had her propeller broken.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER WAS AVERTED

Details of Their Release by Foreign Marines from Kandamos — The Refugees Now Being Transported to Canea.

London, March 11.—The Daily News to-day publishes a dispatch from Canea saying that the Musulmans who had been besieged at Kandamos and who have arrived at Canea, were conveyed there on board the Italian transport Trinacria and that another vessel is expected to arrive shortly with more refugees. The force which relieved the beleagured inhabitants of Kandamos also assisted 112 Spanish soldiers who were besieged in the Spaniako blockhouse. The dispatch also says that the arrival of the Trinacria with her load of refugees has created a deep impression in Canea. One of the chief beys says it is impossible to express the gratitude felt by the Moslems towards England. The Turkish governor at Kandamos says the utmost is due to Sir A. Bilotti, the British consul at Canea, who managed the entire affair personally. Without him, the correspondent says, the besieged people could never have escaped. In the first instance he went alone to Kandamos after conferring with the Cretan leaders, who expressed doubt as to their ability to control their followers. The place was surrounded by 7,000 Cretans, who kept up a constant fusilade. Consul Bilotti entered the town and remained until after nightfall, when, having become convinced of the absolute necessity of employing a force of Europeans to effect the release of the beleagured ones, he returned to Selina, from which place he started on his return to Kandamos before dawn with a force of 250 British, 100 French, 100 Austrians, 150 Russians and 55 Italians, with four guns. This force was commanded by the captain of the British warship Rodney. Upon arriving at Kandamos the troops remained upon the outskirts while the consul entered the town to arrange for the sortie. Some delay occurred owing to the lack of beasts of burden. The Cretans had ceased their firing and consented that the Moslem soldiers should retain their arms, but when the latter emerged and a start was made for Selino a scene of the wildest confusion and one of great danger took place. The horde of Cretan insurgents surrounded the refugees and, wherever a gap occurred in the escort would dash in and tear their weapons from them. It was with the greatest difficulty that the Moslems were prevented from firing upon the insurgents, and thus bringing about a horrible slaughter. During the confusion one girl was kidnapped by the Cretans.

ENGLAND'S DUTY.

Salisbury Says It Is To Promote Freedom and Justice and European Peace.

London, March 11.—At the dinner of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, which was held here last night, Lord Salisbury delivered an address, in which he referred briefly to the crisis which has been reached in the affairs of Greece over the Cretan question. His lordship said it must be remembered that the British government could not be guided in their policy by personal sympathies or religious proclivities and sentiments. They were the trustees of a great nation's interests and obligations, which they were bound to maintain above everything else. If they manfully did their duty under the circumstances it would promote as no other course of conduct could do for freedom and justice, and, above all, European peace, upon which all commerce, industry and well-being must depend. The premier's remarks were received with loud cheers. The speech throughout was devoid of any expression of party feeling.

Greece's Finances.

London, March 11.—The correspondent of the Times at Athens criticizes in a very unfavorable manner the financial aspects of the mobilization of the Greek troops, and calls attention to the fact that the cost when the government in 1885-'86 mobilized the troops of Greece was 125,000,000 drachmas. The Athens Proia asserts that the national exchequer is abundantly able to meet all the extraordinary expenses from the ordinary revenue, owing to the "forethought of the government." The Times correspondent criticizes this assertion by remarking: "The budget in which such economies are shown is not specified. It is thought, however," the correspondent adds, "that the sympathy of England and France will prevent any coercive measures from being taken against Greece."

France's Attitude.

Paris, March 11.—The Temps publishes the announcement that active negotiations have been opened with a view to the organization of a new regime in Crete, and intimates that the French government is especially concerned in the giving of a satisfactory reality to the scheme for an autonomous administration of the affairs of the island.

Greece Appeals Against Expulsions.

Athens, March 11.—The Greek government has instructed its representatives abroad to protest against the expulsion of Greek subjects from Canea as an arbitrary violation on the part of the powers of international law.

CYCLING COMMENT.

To the thousands of visitors that attended the cycle show at New York last month, there was no exhibit that made a more favorable impression than that of the Wolfe-American high art cycles. The Wolfe American wheel has been on the market for several years but it will be represented for the first time in Plainfield, this year. The agency for that wheel has been taken by A. M. Griffen, the hustling hardware dealer of East Front street, and the Plainfield public will be introduced to the new arrival in a short time. The wheel is well known to many of the cyclists of this city and bears a reputation for excellence of material and construction that will make it a strong rival for the other first-class wheels already represented here.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Tuesday evening, the Newark Y. M. C. A. was well represented in this city. Twelve men, under the leadership of Leonard M. Smith, the physical director of the Newark Y. M. C. A., gave an exhibition of basket ball and gymnastatics. The basket ball players lined up against the first team of the local association. The game was very exciting throughout. The score keeping almost even, notwithstanding the excitement. The game was cleanly played. During the basket ball intermission the Newark gymnasts exhibited on the "parallel bars," and skillful and graceful moves were shown. Much credit is due to the one under whose supervison they work, he having served in the capacity of physicial director for fourteen years.

LECTURES BY MISS YATES

To be Given Under the Auspices of the Parliamentary Club.

The Parliamentary Club met this morning at the usual hour, and had for their class study a question box.

Mrs. Pruden acted as presiding officer, and had charge of the meeting.

The regular order of business was taken up, and arrangements were perfected for the course of lectures to be given by Miss Yates. There are three reasons why the people of Plainfield should hear Miss Elizabeth U. Yates in the two lectures to be given under the auspices of this club, in the Y. M. C. A. assembly room, March 24th, and 31st.

First, the subjects, "United States Congress," and "British Parliament," are both popular and interesting; second, Miss Yates is an exceptionally pleasing speaker. The manner and matter of her addresses alike charm audiences; third, the object is a worthy one, as the net proceeds devised from the lectures, will be donated to the Children's Home.

Mrs. W. B. Maxson, chairman of committee on Foreign Affairs read recent clippings concerning Cuba and Greece.

A special meeting was called for Monday afternoon, March 22d, at 2 o'clock sharp, when the members will receive their complimentary tickets for the above two lectures. The meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Tickets can be procured through the members of the club or at any of the drug stores.

An Aid For Cleaner Streets.

The Town Improvement Association have procured several wire baskets after an approved pattern now in use in New York State, Cold Spring, Hudson and Southampton, L. I., for receiving papers, banana skins, or anything of this nature that is usually thrown in the streets. The contents of these baskets will regulary be collected and disposed of by one appointed for that purpose. The baskets are placed in convenient places in different parts of the city and borough and it is earnestly requested that the citizens will second the efforts of the Association to keep the streets free from unsightly objects by making use of them.

Entertained Classmates.

The members of the class of '97 of the Plainfield High School and a number of their friends were entertained by one of the class, Miss Alice Jenkins, Monday evening, at her home on East Sixth street. The evening passed very pleasantly with games. Something novel and very effective in the line of ghost story-telling was told by Miss Edith L. Pruden. Refreshments were served toward the close of the evening. This was the first of a series of social gatherings which the class expect to hold before they graduate in June.

Investigating Road Making.

Street Crmmissioner Gavett has just returned from Newton, Mass., where he has been investigating the system adopted in making roads. The authorities of Newton have adopted a block system similar to that used by Col. Waring in New York, and the street committee in Plainfield are considering the advisability of adopting the same method. Mr. Frost is very anxious to secure for Plainfield the best roads possible and has under consideration several methods.

A Lively Runaway.

A horse being driven by Benjamin Scribner became uncontrollable at the end of Somerset street this morning and ran on to the sidewalk at Harmony street. He dragged the two wheel gig as far as Mrs. Hoerster's store at the corner of Somerset and Race streets and there broke loose from the vehicle. The animal continued and was caught in a vacant lot on Fairview avenue by George Flammer. Scribner was thrown out but not injured.

China Passports.

The lines on no two human hands are exactly alike. This fact is utilized in China in an interesting way. When a traveller desires a passport, the palm of his hand is covered with fine oil-paint and an impression is taken on thin, damp paper. This paper, officially signed, is his passport.—Tid-Bits.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Every one remembers the horrible weather on the days of the last two inaugurations, but with pleasure the beautiful day on which President Cleveland first took the oath of office. It must be confessed that the record of March 4 in Washington is not a good one, for as far back as Lincoln's time the day was wet and disagreeable. Gen. Grant was inaugurated for the first time on a gloomy day, when the rain fell heavily, although it did not interfere with the parade.

On March 4, 1873, when Gen. Grant took oath of office the second time, the thermometer stood near zero, and it was the coldest inaugural day in the history of the country. In the morning it was only four degrees above zero, and in midday it had risen only to 16. Hundreds of those who participated in the parade were nearly frozen, and many deaths resulted. The inaugural ball on that day was held in a temporary building, which was not heated, and the ladies and gentlemen attending wore their wraps and hats. Those who attended will remember how the supper was frozen solid, and how coffee was served in blocks of ice, and also how the assemblage had to leave the ball long before midnight on account of the cold.

President Hayes was inaugurated on a rainy day, although it cleared up before the President took the oath of office. The crowds that assembled to witness the induction into office of James A. Garfield were obliged to wade through snow and slush, although the day was mild, a circumstance, however, which only helped to make the walking more disagreeable. The day for the first inauguration of President Cleveland stands out as a model one in the long record, for it was clear and warm and beautiful, in direct contrast with the terrible weather which greeted Benjamin Harrison when he was inaugurated. The rain on that day fell in torrents and every one was drenched who braved the storm. At the last inaugural on March 4, 1893, the day was almost as bad, although it was snow instead of rain which greeted the inaugural ceremonies. The ground was covered with several inches of snow and slush, and the fiercest kind of a snowstorm raged until the very moment when the President appeared on the east portico of the Capitol to take the oath of office.

With this record it can be understood how dependent on the weather are the glories and beauty of the inaugural day ceremonies.

One of the most interesting and quaint figures at the inaugural ceremony was Mr. McKinley's aged mother, now completing her 87th year.

Mrs. McKinley wore in the evening a costume of black satin and a white point lace cap. She was a very pleasing and picturesque figure.

The bodice of her costume was made after the style of Louis XVI., being round cut and filled in with white chiffon, drawn diagonally across the front. A black satin ruching filled in with point lace finishes the neck and borders the soft, white chiffon front. Black folds of the satin extend from waist to end of the basque in front, while the back of the basque is made slightly full.

The gown which the President's wife wore was of a rich duchess dead white satin of the most costly texture, with real laces, which are most apropos. In addition to the lace garnitures, her gown is further enhanced with pearl embroidery, the yoke and sleeves being entirely of point lace.

As Mrs. McKinley never wears decollete costumes, the bodice of the silver brocade dress has a Medici collar of pleated mousseline de soie, fully twelve inches wide and edged with a narrow point lace about half an inch in width. This ruching stands up very high, and in the back reaches almost to the top of the hair, curving with considerable flare, and extends to above the ears narrowing down in the front part of the neck. A stock collar holds it in place. A magnificent pattern of duchess point lace extends from neck to bottom of basque in front and ends below the waist line in artistic tabs about six inches in length.

A unique girdle, studded with tiny pearls, forming a butterfly effect in front, extends around the waist and half way up the back. The lace is finished with a narrow garniture of pearl embroidery down each side of the front. The long sleeves, slightly puffed, have falls of pleating of the mousseline de soie (two rows), and are finished with a narrow lace edge. Each pleating of the mousseline de soie is twelve inches in width, and falls gracefully over the shoulders, giving a smart effect. The skirt is made very full about the feet, with stylish flare, and is finished at the bottom with a narrow pleating of the mousseline de soie, edged with the lace. The entire gown is lined with pink taffeta.

Mrs. McKinley's opera cloak is of brocaded satin, showing a white flower design on a groundwork of pale, delicate heliotrope, and is lined with heavy white velour with a satin figure. It is made with a long cape reaching nearly to the bottom of the dress, and a short overcape covering only the shoulders, both capes being finished at the edge with white Alaska fox, headed with heavy gold lace four inches in width.

To be entirely frank with your readers I have to admit that the description of the gown worn by Mrs. McKinley is the one given out by the modiste who made it, and no credit in that line is due

IS WOMAN A HUMAN BEING?

Decided in the Sixth Century by the Council of Macon.

In these latter days of the nineteenth century, when woman is struggling for an equality with man in the arts and sciences and in politics, it may be interesting to know that as early as the sixth century the woman question was a knotty problem confronting the sages of that period.

This startling inquiry was proposed by a bishop at the Council of Macon, and the reverend fathers were so liberal as to devote several sessions to the consideration of the subject They did not disdain the question as useless or frivolous, but gravely undertook the task of assigning to woman her proper place in creation.

With all her faults they loved her still, and, moved partly, no doubt, by affection, they generously decided that she did not belong to the world of muttons, beeves or goats, but was in truth a human being.

It must not be imagined, however, that this advanced theory was forced upon Christendom. The Council of Macon was not ecumenical, and so churchmen were not constrained to accept its decision.—New York Tribune.

A FLOATING SCHOOLHOUSE.

Professor Dychus' Philanthropic Work of Teaching.

While returning from a trip down the picturesque Texas railroad a few weeks since, I was surprised to see an oddly constructed and rakish-looking craft tied up on the Indiana side of the Ohio, just below Cloverport. I found upon inquiry that the boat was a "floating little red schoolhouse," whose owner's mission is as commendable as it is original.

The houseboat is the property of Prof. Dychus, a philanthropic Indiana citizen, who decided some time since that he could serve his people better if he became useful. He had the boat built and fitted up after the fashion of village school rooms, and started on his trip down the Ohio, teaching the poor children their "A B C's," and imparting such other information as will aid the worthy little ones. Prof. Dychus makes no charge for tuition, stops but thirty days at each town, and accepts such gifts in the way of eatables or provisions as the parents of his pupils feel able to offer him.

First American News Boat.

Doubtless few know that the New York Journal of Commerce originated what is popularly known as a newspaper extra. When this occurred times were troublesome in Europe, and the great revolution of 1830 was approaching. Naturally America was anxious for early news, and all the newspapers of New York equipped small boats that cruised about the harbor, waylaying the large packet vessels arriving from abroad to get the tidings.

The Journal of Commerce conceived the plan of sending out a small schooner to intercept the packets two or three days ahead of their arrival. The originators of the plan were laughed at, and told that it would in the end ruin them. Results proved otherwise, however, and when the semaphoric telegraph announced their schooner in the offing, and later, coming up the bay, the crowd would gather around the office of the paper. They had to wait until the extra evening edition was ready, and then one of the partners would sometimes read the news aloud to hundreds of citizens, while thousands of copies were sold. This schooner was the first American newsboat of any size.—Round Table.

MONROE AVENUE SOCIAL

SONGS, RECITATIONS AND DIALOGUE MADE UP THE PROGRAMME.

The Entertainment Given Under the Auspices of the Epworth League and a Pleasant Time to all Who Attended the Affair.

The monthly social held at Monroe Avenue church last evening, under the auspices of the Epworth League, was of more than ordinary interest, and the large attendance of both old and young people was gratifying to those who have charge of these affairs. The fact that the electric lights went out for awhile did not mar the pleasures of the evening. Friendly neighbors were called upon and several lamps were secured, which assisted in giving light until the current returned.

John Praed was master of ceremonies, and he announced the various numbers on the programme in his accustomed happy manner.

After the singing of a hymn and a prayer by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, the programme opened with a tenor solo by John Thompson, whose singing is always enjoyed. This was followed with a piano solo by Miss Charlotte Aldrich. She rendered the favorite selection, "The Palms," with variations, and her playing was a feature.

The next number was a recitation by Miss Rita Pond. This young woman is one of Plainfield's best elocutionists and her recitations received hearty applause.

A vocal solo by Bert Tallamy, accompanied by Miss Tallamy, was one of the most enjoyable features. Mr. Tallamy has a pleasing voice and his work is always well received. The able manner in which he was accompanied by his sister was marked. This number was followed with a finely executed piano duet by the Misses Graves.

There was another recitation by Miss Rita Pond and a vocal solo by John Thompson, after which an amusing dialogue, entitled "Dr. Cureall," was presented. The sketch affords many opportunities for a good hearty laugh and those that took part played well. Miss Aldrich assumed the part of the doctor in a most excellent manner, and she was ably assisted by the following: Miss Bertha Wenzel, Miss Smith, Miss Adams, Miss Lizzie Foster, Miss Anna Foster, Miss Daisy Brouard, Miss Whitley, Stephen Aldrich.

This concluded the programme, and those present were served with refreshments, after which a very happy occasion came to an end.

MRS. BLACKWELL TO SPEAK HERE.

She Will Speak on "The Limits of Self Sacrifice" to Unitarian Women.

On Tuesday next the women of Plainfield will have an opportunity of hearing again Rev. Antoinette Brown Blackwell, of New York City, whose address on "The Training of Children" was so greatly appreciated by those who heard her at All Souls' church a few years ago. Mrs. Blackwell has for years been a prominent figure in philanthropic circles and her efforts for the abolition of slavery, for temperance, and for the advancement of women have made her widely known. She was the first woman ordained to the ministry in this country, having become pastor of a Congregational church in New York State so long ago as 1853. Since then her ideas on theological subjects have changed, and she is now a Unitarian, and earnestly interested in the work of that denomination. During her busy and useful life she has, despite the household cares entailed by a family of six children, found time to write a number of books on scientific and philosophical subjects. She will speak on "The Limits of Self Sacrifice" at a meeting of the Alliance of Unitarian women to be held at All Souls' church next Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Admission will be free, and a general invitation to attend is extended to all who are interested in the speaker and her topic.

For Literary Purposes.

The Alhambra Club, which is a new organization in this city, being born only last winter, met at the home of the Misses Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, Wednesday afternoon, for their weekly meeting for literary study. The object of the club is purely literary, and the girls of the club, for of the fairer sex the club is composed entirely, do not allow anything which is not purely literary find entrance into their meetings. The club meets weekly on Wednesday afternoons.

An Endeavor Conference.

The presidents and chairmen of the various committees of the Local Union Christian Endeavor Society will hold a meeting Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the Y. M. C. A. building, for the purpose of arranging for a series of evangelistic services which will probably be held early in April.

BOWL AS WELL AS PEDAL

CLEVELAND CYCLERS DEFEAT THE PONDS ON THE ULRICH ALLEYS.

The Machinists Seemed to be Clearly Outclassed and Lost the Game by 303 Points—They May Not Meet Again.

The Cleveland Cyclers bowling team added another laurel to their already excellent record, on the Ulrich alleys in East Second street, last evening, when they played another game with the crack bowlers from Pond's. The two teams rolled their first game in the series on the same alleys last Friday night, and the Cyclers won by 45 pins. Last night the defeat was overwhelming, for at the close of the game the score stood 1529 to 1226 in favor of the Cyclers—a difference of 303 pins. From the start the Cyclers took the lead and kept it all through the game. Below is the individual scores:

Cleveland Cyclers.		Ponds.
Overbaugh, H.	192	Millington	96
Hand	155	Owens	80
Snowden	161	Wilcox	142
Frey	109	Reagan	198
Bittle	146	Shepherd	135
Overbaugh, W.	151	Gleason	116
Sutphen	178	Brown	169
Kiely	127	Shirley	115
Young	137	Cose	160
Tunison	173	Guinee	105
	1529		1226

The Pond players seemed to be outclassed from the start, and although the bowlers have good eyes and steady nerves, they could not seem to get there.

Whether or not the two teams will compete again this season is not yet known. Some of the bowlers are in favor of putting baseball nines in the field as soon as the weather becomes settled; others are advocating bicycle racing, and a few are talking up a series of aquatic pastimes on the New Market lake. But as yet nothing definite has been decided upon.

REFORM CLUB'S GOOD MEETING.

An Address Heard on the Temperance Question by Rev. Mr. Crampton.

The meeting held at Reform Hall, last evening, was of unusual interest and attracted a very large number of people. President W. C. Smith was in charge and after the devotional exercises he introduced Rev. Mr. Crampton who gave a highly instructive talk on Temperance. His interesting remarks were a source of great help to all, and especially to the large number of young men present. Following the address several short addresses were made by the members of the club along the same line.

Features of the evening were the cornet solos by Mrs. J. D. Anderson, instrumental selections on the piano by Miss Jennie Smith, and recitations by W. R. Mattox.

After the rendition of the programme several signers to the pledge were secured. The members of the American Volunteers joined heartily in the exercises of the evening and their assistance was of great benefit.

The membership of the Reform Club is increasing rapidly and the good work being accomplished certainly deserves the attention of every Christian who should be interested in the cause of temperance.

Orange Still Has Park's Whist Trophy.

The Park Club challenge whist trophy was contested for again on Wednesday evening but the Parks were not among the players who battled for the cup. It will be remembered that the Orange Club recently defeated the Park's in a match for the trophy and the silver cup was taken to the club house of the orange players. The challengers in the game on Wednesday evening were the team form the Ridgewood club. The Orange players won easily by fifteen points. On Monday evening they will meet the team from Roseville club.

Took Six Choice Fowls.

Thomas Honan, of West Fourth street, has a number of chickens and he takes a great deal of interest in raising them. On Wednesday night some mean sneak thief entered his yard and deliberately walked away with six of his choicest fowls. They put their hands through several panes of glass in their efforts to get the chickens. Mr. Honan has not the slightest idea who the guilty parties are. The police have been notified.

An Athletic Victory.

In the contest held in the gymnasium of the University of New York, last week, for the all-round gymnastic championship of the university, George F. Rose, formerly of Lincoln place, North Plainfield, was the contestant to secure the greatest number of points and the championship of the university. He was also made captain of the gymnastic team of the university.

Borough School Election.

On Tuesday evening, March 16th, a school meeting will be held in the North Plainfield Public High School, at which time three members of the school board will be elected and the appropriations for the year will be decided upon.

UNRULY SCHOOL BOYS.

POLICE HAD TO BE CALLED ON TO MAKE THEM BEHAVE.

Were Bound to Get Into the Cycle Academy Where Cadets Were Drilling—Broke Down Barriers to Keep 'Em Out

For sometime past the Plainfield High School Cadets have been troubled considerably with the disturbanee caused by a company of unruly boys who find great delight in watching the Cadets drill. The Cadets are not so proud of their drilling that they implore people to come and watch them, but still they do not object to having persons come to the drill when ever they feel so inclined, provided they do not make so much noise that the Cadets cannot hear the commands of their captain.

For several weeks past the company have tried to keep the onlookers quiet but they have sadly failed in their attempts.

At a recent meeting of the company they decided to place sentinels at the doors and prohibit any one passing into the hall without first showing the proper credentials.

Yesterday afternoon the onlookers came as usual but with a very much greater force. They were very much surprised when they found out that they were not to be allowed to enter the hall and some of them were not satisfied with being turned away peacefully so they endeavored to gain entrance by force. Seeing that they could not force their way past the sentinels they bore against the gate and broke it down, then they rushed on and finding that the door was fastened on the inside they bore themselves heavily upon it and soon the door gave way before the great strain, not upon its hinges but off its hinges.

No amount of persuasion could quiet the boys and it was not until the arrival of Captain Grant and Roundsman Frederickson, of the Plainfield police force whom the Cadets had sent for, that the boys ceased their malisiousness.

There is no doubt now but that the Plainfield Cadets will be much less troubled in the future than they have been in the past few weeks.

TRIBUTE OF WORDS TO THE MAYOR.

Councilman Lounsbury Praises Mayor Hegeman's Administration.

In view of the fact that Councilman Lounsbury, of Grandview avenue, was unable to attend the last meeting of the Borough Council, he desires to express his appreciation of the services given by Mayor Hegeman during his term in office. Mr. Lounsbury is the oldest member of the Council in point of service continuously, and he has been associated closely with Mr. Hegeman in the work of the borough. It is the belief on the part of Mr. Lounsbury that the Mayor has rendered the borough the best possible service, and he thinks that not a dollar has been expended but what the Mayor has secured full value in work. Mr. Lounsbury says that he knows of his own personal knowledge that Mr. Hegeman has sacrificed his own valuable time for the interests of the borough, and has attended to every little detail which has been brought to his attention. He also thinks that he voices the sentiment of every borroughite in commenting upon the excellence of Mr. Hegeman's service.

Important G. A. R. Meeting.

A very important meeting of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., will be held tomorrow evening at which time the members will decide whether they will give up their charter and join Post 73, G. A. R. A full attendance of the members is desired.

NAVAL HOSPITAL CORPS

IT MAY BE RECRUITED AND INSTRUCTED IN THIS CITY.

The Reserve Officers Have Felt the Need of Such an Adjunct to Their Service and Plainfield May be Called Upon for It.

The Naval Reserve of New Jersey is an organization established by State law for the defense of its sea coast and navigable water. It was established through a proposition from the United States Government to the various Coast States, and receives from the Government an allotment of money and the loan of vessels and arms, while the State generously contributes to its support. It has been an organization now since May, 1895.

Its members are required to perform the same amount of duty in each year as is required of the National Guard. In place of an encampment at Sea Girt as is expected of the Guardsmen, the Reserve has its tour of duty in a cruise along coast. During the summer of '96 the cruise was down Long Island Sound to Fisher's Island and return. During the coming summer the cruise will in all probability be more extended and have many additional features of interest.

One bright line in the log of the Reserves will be its late trip to the inaugural at Washington. From its ship, the Portsmouth, came 136 men and officers and the band; from its monitor, the Ajax, came 100 men and officers. They were conveyed to the Washington Navy Yard by the Pennsylvania railroad, carrying all necessary supplies in its commissary, quartermaster and medical departments and that without cost to individual or State.

They participated in the parade and were highly commended by Washington officials, navy officers and citizens for their perfect standing, equipment and conduct. The eyes of the authorities were opened to the earnest work New Jersey was doing in its State Navy.

To young men this service gives promise of a good, healthy training in a manly exercise that developes self-reliance. They are instructed in knotting, splicing, reefing, steering, handling small boats under sail and oars; in the use of rifle, revolver and cutlass; in the handling of modern rapid fire ordnance, great guns, torpedoes and the application of electricity thereto; in signaling by day and night, and in all naval matters.

Auxiliary to the Naval Reserve is the Naval Reserve Association composed of some of the best and wealthiest men of the State and deeply interested in its welfare. Its membership includes F. Wolcott Jackson, E. A. Stevens, Clark Fisher, A. C. Oliphant, James Randolph, Frederick Frelinghuysen, John P. Stockton, P. F. Wanser, Gen. Grubb, Thomas L. James, ex-Senator McPherson, J. Rogers Maxwell, R. Wayne Parker, Senator Sewell, ex-Governor Werts and our new Vice-President, Garret A. Hobart.

The First Division was enlisted in Jersey City, while Newark and the Oranges have largely supplied the men to the Second Division. The Third Division or Engineer Corps is composed almoft entirely of students and graduates of Stevens' Institute. It is now proposed to raise, instruct and drill the Hospital Corps in Plainfield if enough young men can be secured to do so.

They will be taught first aid to the injured, the proper care of sick or wounded ashore and afloat; the handling and methods of transportation of the helpless sick or injured; how to care for cases of apparent drowning, suffocation, sunstroke, hemorrhage, etc. They will constitute the surgeons's division and in landing parties will form the crew of the surgeon's boat. The apothecary is a petty officer and will have charge of the dispensary aboard ship and command the division while at drill.

Candidates for the service must have good moral character, sound physical condition and a general aptitude for the work. The time required is about one evening a week during the drill season, with two or three days instruction aboard one of the modern men-of-war, and one or two weeks on a cruise during the summer. Any who may wish to become members, either of the Hospital corps or of the other divisions, or desire further information, should apply to Dr. Simpson, who is the battalion surgeon.

Somerset Street Improvement.

Michael Powers, of South avenue, is about to make a big improvement in his Somerset street property. He is going to move the house which now stands on the latter street to the further end of the lot on Park place. The vacant property on Somerset street will then be sold for building purposes.

HIT BY A BIG DERRICK.

DOUGLASS DARBY SERIOUSLY INJURED AT FANWOOD STAT ON.

Supervising the Work of Loading Poles on a Car When a Guy Rope Broke and the Derrick Fell Down.

Douglass L. Darby, the well-known trap shooter, who was elected secretary and treasurer of the Climax Gun Club on Wednesday, met with an accident at Fanwood yesterday afternoon of such a serious character that he lays at his home near that place in a precarious condition.

Mr. Darby had a gang of men at work loading poles on a car at Fan wood and was supervising the work. A derrick, composed of heavy timber, was used in the operations. The strain on the guy ropes as the poles were hoisted in the air was very great and one of the ropes gave way. The derrick commenced to topple. Mr. Darby was warned to get out of the way, but he was not quick enough and the heavy timber fell on his back with terrific force. Mr. Darby was knocked senseless. His helpers ran to his side and extracted him from under the derrick, it taking several minutes to do this. As soon as possible he was removed to his home, a hack being secured for that purpose at the depot.

Dr. Westcott was called and found Mr. Darby in a critical condition and suffering great pain. An examination showed that several ribs had been broken, and the whole upper part of the body severely bruised. The doctor administered to his injuries and made him as comfortable as possible.

At first it was not thought that he could survive the shock and injuries, but during the night he rallied somewhat and this morning is a little improved. Still his condition is precarious.

Mr. Darby also runs a milk route in this city.

A NEW CITY TO BE BUILT.

Factories are to be Put Up Within a Few Weeks.

The New Orange Industrial Association, which a year or two ago purchased an immense tract of land between Cranford and Union, expects to boom things this year. Mr. Dennis Long, who has a big interest in the project, says that the company has already built a number of houses, and that as soon as the weather permits several faetories will be put up north of Cranford. Mr. Long says that an effort will be made to construct a trolley railroad from Elizabeth up Westfield avenue to Lorraine, and so on over Gallopin Hill to the new town which the company will at once commence to build.

Entertained at Euchre.

The members of the Thursday Evening Euchre Club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Marshall, of East Fifth street, last evening. The first prizes were won by Mrs. C. B. Clifton and David Krymer. Mrs. Clifton was tied for the prize by Mrs. Will F. Williams and won on the draw. The second prizes were awarded to Miss Mabelle Force and Harry W. Marshall. After the game was completed, the rest of the evening was spent in dancing and vocal and instrumental selections.

Garbage-Cart Provided by Women.

The garbage-wagon with which the ladies of the City Improvement Society of New Brunswick propose to aid the city Street-Cleaning Department in keeping the streets clean made its first appearance yesterday. The cart is painted red and has on each side the words "City Improvement Society." It is in charge of a colored man, who drives through the principal thoroughfares picking up sticks, papers and other unsightly objects. The expense of this innovation is borne entirely by the society.

Catholic Bowlers Met Their Defeat.

The bowlers of the Plainfield Catholic Club went to Orange Valley, last evening, to roll two games with the Y. M. C. L A., of that place. The Plainfield bowlers returned later in the evening minus their cheerful expression and victory. The home team won both games after a rather exciting contest. The visitors were beaten by about thirty pins in each game. None of the scores were particularly high and no records were broken for big scores.

Study of Nature.

The scholars of the Dalziel Manual and Training school enjoyed their first outing yesterday. Mr. Dalziel chaperoned the scholars and all had a pleasant time near Johnston's drive where the day was passed in studying different kinds of trees. These outings will be held frequently during the season and they will prove of great benefit to the members of the school.

—Another medical case was admitted to the hospital yesterday.

BADGE OF APPRECIATION

PATRICK CASEY HONORED BY THE ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS.

Presented With a Past Officer's Medal for Having Been at the Head of the Society for the Past Twenty-five Years.

There has been no one more thoroughly identified with Division No. 4, A. O. H., than Patrick Casey. He has worked hard in the service of that organization and from its start in this city in 1874 until last January he has been the efficient president of the division. Then he refused re-election and took a back seat so as to give the younger members a chance. At that meeting a banquet was given in his honor and it had been planned by his friends in the order to present him with a past officer's badge.

Through some unavoidable delay, the medal did not arrive until the day after the meeting. It was not exactly satisfactory and was sent back for some alterations. It again arrived in Plainfield two weeks ago and was presented to Mr. Casey at the regular monthly meeting of the division, last evening.

The presentation was kept a secret and Mr. Casey had no idea, when he came to the meeting, of the surprise that awaited him.

Eight candidates were initiated and four propositions received. Then Edward Ryan, vice-president of the division, stepped to the front of the platform and made the presentation. He spoke feelingly of the time and labor that Mr. Casey had given to the order in its early days in his efforts to advance its interests. He told something of the history of the Division and how closely Mr. Casey had been identified with it from the first. Then in a few well selected phrases he handed the handsome gold medal to the astonished Mr. Casey.

The surprise was a complete one and Mr. Casey was well nigh taken aback by it. He spoke a few words to his friends, however, and thanked them with all his heart for their kindness, and said that he did not need anything to make him remember them. He referred to his love for the order and all his fellow-members, and said that it was his intention to remain a Hibernian as long as he lived. His remarks were received with loud cheers.

Everybody was then invited to partake of a collation which had been arranged by some of the members, and an enjoyable hour was passed.

STREET WORK.

Sun and Wind Dried Up Mud and Now Rain Brings It Back.

The roads of this city had assumed quite a respectable appearance yesterday ere the rain set in, and the work of the street commissioner and his men were greatly assisted by the sun and wind which rapidly dried up the mud on the streets. The men of the street department have been hard at work during the past week under the direction of Street Commissioner Gavett. The last of the frost was coming out of the ground, and it was expected that the unmacadamized streets would soon be in a condtion to have the superfluous earth removed from their surface. Such is the intention of the officials of that department as soon as the roads are in any condition to be scraped.

The macadamized streets are being cleaned at present and the entire force of the street department is kept busy putting them in something of the condition that they were in the fall. Then, when this part of the work is completed, the other streets of the city will be put in respectable condition. It is expected that it will take the department until the last of May to complete the thorough cleaning of the streets which is planned.

There are some of the supposed macadamized streets, one of which is East Fifth street, between Watchung avenue and Richmond street, that will need some extensive repairing to put it in condition.

Finished Fourth.

At the indoor games of the Berkley School, held in New York last Saturday, George Proctor Smith, of the Plainfield High School, finished fourth in putting the shot out of over twenty contestants. In the games of the Barnard School tomorrow afternoon, he is entered in the pole vault. He has been compelled to give up putting the shot for sometime owing to a sprained finger.

Honored by Daughters of Liberty.

Mrs. W. W. Stratton, of East Third street, who attended the State convention of the Daughters of Liberty held at Jersey City last Tuesday, was elected alternate representative to the National convention which will be held at Pittsburg, Pa., next August.

City Judge DeMeza is in Jersey City today on business.

M'KINLEY VERY BUSY

The President Engaged To-day in Preparing His Message.

LITTLE TIME TO RECEIVE CALLERS

Noticeable Diminution in the Office-seeking Force, But Many, However, Continue Their Efforts to Secure an Audience with the President.

Washington, March 12.—There was a noticeable diminution this morning in the office-seeking forces that have marched on the White House since the new president entered it. Bright sunshine and balmy air made it comfortable to spend one's time outdoors rather than in and this may have had some effect on the people who want to serve their country. Many gentlemen were willing, however, to sit for hours in the closely filled corridors that lead to the president's room, in the hope of getting his ear. But the real reasons for the slump in attendance undoubtedly are the new rules for the reception of visitors and the hints the president has given that he will not give much consideration to the smaller offices until the tariff bill is in a fair way toward final disposition. Then again he has had little time to write the message to be presented to congress next Monday and that is a matter that cannot wait while office-seekers can. Several men of prominence who had nothing to ask and nothing to expect from the administration, dropped in to pay their respects. Among the latest callers were Senator Stewart of Nevada and Representative Catchings of Mississippi, one of the democratic leaders in the house. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage came with his daughter and was followed by Archbishop Chapell of Santa Fe, escorted by Delegate Catron of New Mexico. The venerable Senator Morrill of Vermont was among the early visitors. Others who came were Senators Cullom and Mason of Illinois, Spooner of Wisconsin and Platt of Connecticut. The two Michigan senators Messrs. McMillin and Burrows came to ask the president to re-appoint Gen. Spaulding of Michigan to the position of assistant secretary of the treasury, formerly held by him.

A Distinguished Trio.

A distinguished trio called on the president yesterday afternoon. It consisted of John Hay, the coming ambassador to the court of St. James; John W. Foster, formerly secretary of state, and Senator Frye of Maine, senior member of the committee on foreign relations. Their business was presumably in connection with the appointment of Mr. Hay. Senator Hanna came later and had a talk with the president. Other callers were John E. Milholland of New York, ex-mayor W. R. Grace of New York and Henry W. Blair, ex-senator and ex-representative from New Hampshire. The president went out walking again last evening and responded to frequent salutations from people along the way. He was accompanied as usual by John Addison Porter, secretary, and their route lay through the fashionable residence section of the town.

Mrs. McKinley Visits Gen. Hastings.

Washington, March 12.—Mrs. McKinley, accompanied by Miss Mabel McKinley, again left the White House in the president's private carriage this morning, and were driven to the Garfield hospital to visit Gen. Russell Hastings, the president's old regimental commander, whose leg was broken Wednesday. Mrs. McKinley carried another bouquet of flowers for Gen. Hastings, and personally gave them to him. She inquired closely about Gen. Hastings' condition and requested that all possible be done for his comfort. Gen. Hastings is resting comfortably and is grateful for the attention shown him.

Dinner to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Washington, March 12.—Colonel and Mrs. James R. Nutting of Davenport, Ia., gave a dinner last night at the Cairo, in this city, to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. Among those present were Senator Allison, Senator and Mrs. Gear, Gen. and Mrs. H. B. Henderson, Prof. and Mrs. Willis L. Moore, Robt. Couzins, Geo. M. Curtis and wife, and Col. Letts of Governor Drake's staff.

No Plums from Alger's Office.

Washington, March 12.—There is absolutely not a single office at the disposal of Secretary of War Alger, even his confidential secretary being subject to civil service rules governing appointments. Notwithstanding this nearly 3,000 applications for office have been filed with him.

Confidential Clerk to the Secretary of State

Washington, March 12.—Secretary Sherman has appointed William B. Gaitree of Marietta, Ohio, as his confidential clerk at a salary of $1,200 per year. Mr. Gaitree was assistant secretary to Governor McKinley for several years.

Dawes in New York.

New York, March 12.—Charles G. Dawes, the republican national committeeman from Illinois, who is to be the comptroller of the curreney under President McKinley, called on several New York bankers yesterday.

Place for H. Clay Evans.

Washington, March 12.—It is reported that H. Clay Evans of Chatanooga., has been informed that he will be appointed commissioner of pensions.

Attorney-General McKenna's Secretary.

Washington, March 12.—J. Walter Blanford of the District of Columbia has been appointed private secretary to Attorney-General McKenna.

Carter Harrison for Mayor of Chicago.

Chicago, March 12.—Carter H. Harrison was nominated for mayor by the democratic city convention last night.

MILLS STARTING UP

Big Revival in the Woolen Trade in New England.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK IN RHODE ISLAND

One Firm Reports More Orders on Hand Than Can Be Easily Filled—Connecticut Mills Also Resume or Increase Their Forces.

Woonsocket, R. I., March 12.—The removal of the rubber stock and shoe department of the National rubber factories in Bristol, to the Alice mill of the United States Rubber company in this city has been going on until the removal is nearly finished. It looks as though the making of aretics and gum shoes at Bristol would cease entirely. That work employed 800 hands in Bristol, and if it is to go on at this rate there will be a big jump in the production of the Alice mill. There is further talk of abandoning the Bristol plant entirely, but this is doubtful, as the facilities in the tennis department there are superior to any other factory The following reports come from woolen mills in Burrellville, which have lately been idle or partly so: William Orrelle, Glendale—More orders than he can fill within reasonable time; running full time; about 150 employed. William A. Inman, Graniteville, has twenty-five looms in operation, full time, and employs sixty. John T. Fiske, jr., Pascoag, is running two sets full time and employs 150. William Tinkham & Co., Harrisville and Whipple, are running full time and employ 150. Wilcox & Wells, Oak Valley, running in part, and will shortly be in full operation, employ 100. The United States Rubber company's Alice rubber shoe mill in Woonsocket started to-day, after a ten days' shut-down, and will run eight hours a day—the same as before the shut-down.

WOOLEN TRADE IMPROVING.

A Number of Connecticut Mills Resume Operations or Increase Their Forces.

Rockville, Conn., March 12.—Leading woolen manufacturers of this city in interviews assert that there is marked improvement in the woolen business, many new orders being received at the mills. The Hockanum and Springville mills have resumed running nearly full time, the American and Rock mills have started up their carding and spinning departments on full time, the New England mill has a number of rooms on full time, the Vernon mills have resumed running five days a week after being shut down for some weeks, and the Belding Bros. silk mills have been on full time for some weeks.

Benham Indicted for Wife Murder.

Batavia, N. Y., March 12.—The supreme court grand jury has found an indictment for murder in the first degree against Howard C. Benham upon four counts. The first charges that he murdered his wife by administering hydrocyanic acid to her. The second charges that he administered some poison, the name of which is unknown to the grand jury. The first and second counts charge premeditation and deliberation. The third and fourth counts make the same charges as to the administration of hydrocyanic acid, and of an unnamed poison, and the form of the fourth count is the old common law indictment for murder in the first degree.

Declined an Appointment.

Washington, March 12.—Hon. Wm. Cumback of Indiana, who entered congress at the same time that Secretary Sherman did, being then the youngest member of that body, has declined an appointment tendered him by Secretary Sherman and President McKinley to represent the president in the arbitration of the claim of Signor E. Cerruti, an Italian, against the government of Colombia. The president's representative in the matter will be required to visit Columbia and investigate the circumstances of the case and upon his report the president will base his award.

Commencement at Carlisle.

Carlisle, Pa., March 12.—Yesterday was commencement day at the Indian training school. The exercises were held during the afternoon before an audience of 5,000 persons. Captain Pratt delivered an address to the graduates. After music by the Indian band, addresses were made by the graduates. Gov. Hastings, Auditor-General Mylin, Secretary Reeder and many other prominent persons were on the stage.

Rev. J. J. Monaghan's Consecration.

Wilmington, Del. March 12.—Rev. John J. Monaghan, of Baltimore, recently appointed bishop of the Catholic diocese of Delaware, to succeed Bishop Curtis, resigned, will be consecrated in this city on May 6. It was expected that the ceremony would be held in Baltimore, but St. Peter's procathedral here has been decided upon.

Anticipating Higher Duties.

New York, March 12.—Loans to the amount of about $4,000,000 have been obtained from New York banks within a week to pay duties on goods held in bond in anticipation of higher duties under the new tariff. One loan for $500,000 was secured to-day.

Accident to Steamer Illinois.

London, March 12.—The American steamer Illinois, Capt. Broomhead, from Antwerp for Philadelphia, which anchored off Hansweerd, Holland, with a broken shaft and cylinder broken, has been towed back to Antwerp for repairs.

180 Workmen Killed.

Tangier, March 12.—By the falling of a section of the old wall of the old town of Fez 180 workmen have been killed and many wounded.

SIX KENTUCKY MARRIAGES.

And a Mixed Relationship that is Difficult to Unravel.

At the village of Roley, one day not long ago, there were six couples married. In the morning there was a triple wedding in the church. In the afternoon three other couples were wedded, within an hour of each other, at the homes of the respective brides. All six of the couples were entertained at the home of "Uncle" Bob Tucker, who after the different marriages, was closely related to all the principals thereto. Now come some of the singular features of the case. Uncle Bob, before the wedding, had in the lot of twelve individuals a daughter, a son, three granddaughters, one niece, and one nephew. In the twelve there were a brother and sister, two sisters, two brothers, three cousins, two uncles, an aunt, four nieces and two nephews, and yet no one of the twelve persons married any one related to him or herself. Another funny feature is, that before the weddings there were two named Hopkins, two Dunbars, two Chelfs, two Tuckers, two McWhorters, one Pendleton, and one Hood. After the omelet was done, the Dunbars and Hopkinses had gained two; the Pendletons, Chelfs, and McWhorters had been exterminated; the Hoods had been increased by one, and the Tuckers had held their ground. Ever since the wedding day the gossips have been figuring on the probable kinship between the several brides and grooms and their mutual relative "Uncle Bob Tucker."—Columbus, Ky., Spectator.

BIBULOUS HENS.

They Imbibe Refuse from a Distillery and Annoy the Neighbors.

Hens that become addicted to the use of spirituous liquor, that are maudlin in their cackling, that sleep at unnatural hours and have blue Mondays, seem to be something rather new under the sun. Such a hen was produced in court at Fort William, Scotland, a fortnight ago, says the Buffalo Commercial. She belonged to a poultry breeder, who complained that his live stock has been seriously injured by drinking at a brook polluted by the refuge of a distillery.

The refuse was spirituous; the poultry got drunk, and what they gained in excitement they lost in appetite and condition for the market. They moped on Sundays because there was no whiskey in the water on that day, and on Monday would touch no food until they had been to the burn and had a "pick-me-up." On week days they alternately slept and fought, and broke the eggs of the few sober ones who attended to their work.

The hen that was brought into the court in support of the plea looked so impudently at the sheriff that it had to be ordered out. Whether the eggs and flesh of a hard-drinking hen acquired a high, sporty flavor that might recommend to the state of epicures deponent saith not.

Asked Too Much of Friendship.

A neat little correspondence took place between David Roberts, the artist, and a friendly art critic with whom he was in the habit of hobnobbing. Roberts had painted a number of pictures into which he put all his genius, and upon placing them on exhibition, much to his surprise and mortification his friend the critic severely attacked them. In due time, however, a note arrived, addressed:

"My Dear Roberts,—You have doubtless read my remarks upon your pictures. I hope they will make no difference in our friendship.

Yours, etc., ——."

This had a tendency to slightly increase the painter's wrath, and he couched the following:

"My Dear ——,—The next time I meet you I shall pull your nose. I hope it will make no difference in our friendship. Yours, etc., D. ROBERTS.

It is not recorded whether they met afterwards, but it is safe to say those erstwhile friends bobnobbed no more.

Consoled.

It is possible to find occasion for thankfulness under the most adverse circumstances. A good story is told of an old organ-blower who was dying. The curate was visiting him.

"Would you mind, sir, asking our organist to play the 'Dead March' over me?" asked the sick man.

"Certainly I will, Chapman," said the curate.

"Thankee, sir; none of that ere tweedledum Beethoven, you know, sir; only Handel's."

"I am sure he will do it," responded the curate.

The old man lay placidly for awhile, and then exclaimed, with fervour:—

"How thankful I be that I shan't have to blow for him when he plays the loud part at the end."—Tid-Bits.

Heartless.

Your Idea

is that oatmeal is oatmeal—there can't be much difference.

But there can!

Even in ordinary oatmeals there can be a difference—good oats and good milling are better than lean and shrivelled oats and poor milling.

But oatmeal may be something more than a matter of fat groats and smart millers.

The oat in its natural state is the most nutritious of grains, but it must be adapted to man's physical needs. The starch cells—the indigestibility—must be broken.

Steam cooking will break the cells, change starch into sugar, make the indigestible digestible.

And there is such an oatmeal, steam-cooked.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says, that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. REBELS SACK AND BURN.

Insurgents Enter a Strongly Fortified Town---The Ruiz Matter.

Havana, March 11, via Key West, Fla., March 12.—Monday night a band of well-known Cuban patriots entered the strongly fortified town of Bejucal, in Havana province, sacking all the stores of the place and burning fifteen houses. Details are lacking. It is also reported that another party of rebels, commanded by Castillo, captured the town of Quivican and burned several houses of the place. The Ruiz incident is still occupying the attention of Consul Lee. As already reported, Spain has ordered a new investigation of the facts which led to Ruiz's death, but Consul Lee is quoted as saying that he does not clearly see how the investigation can be properly carried out, or how an impartial trial can be held since no witnesses will testify against Major Fondeviela or the warden of the jail. Personal friends of General Lee affirm that as soon as he shall have settled all the pending matters he has on hand and got them in proper shape, he will resign and return to the United States.

Scott's Arrest Sanctioned.

Havana, March 12.—The judge of the court at Guanabacoa has ratified the action of the Spanish authorities in imprisoning Charles Scott, the American citizen, who was arrested on Feb. 9 last on the charge of having Cuban postage stamps in his possession. This means that the case will continue under the ordinary procedure until it is finally disposed of. The Matanzas district court has suspended proceedings against Francisco Larrieu, an American citizen, who was arrested at Cardenas on May 15, 1896, and he will soon be released.

The Bermuda Heard From.

Washington, March 12.—A dispatch has been received at the treasury department from the collector of customs at Fernandina, Fla., stating that the steamer Bermuda had applied for clearance papers from that port. FITZ BALKS ON THE RULES.

Corbett, However, Is Satisfied with Siler's Decision---Sale of Tickets.

Carson, Nev., March 12.—Bob Fitzsimmons has balked on Referee Siler's interpretation of the Queensberry rules. His specific objections are not stated, but he emphatically declares that he will not stand for any such a conception of the rules as that outlined by the referee. Corbett, on the contrary, is perfectly satisfied with Siler's decision. "When two men are sparring," he said, "they invariably forget their promise not to hit in breakaways, and one or the other usually gets the worst of it. Sullivan nearly reached my jaw with a right swing as we parted from the first clinch in our battle at New Orleans. It never occurred to me at the time that he had committed a foul, and I smashed right back at him in the next breakaway regardless of my promise to the referee." Tickets are selling like hot tamales, and this morning the total sales amounted to a little over 7,000.

Betting on the Fight.

St. Louis, March 12.—Betting on the big fight is slow here. Three days ago a few bets were placed at 7 to 5 on Corbett, but now 6 to 5 finds no takers. At the "Brooklyn" pool room an offer of $1,200 to $1,000 on Corbett has stood on the blackboard for four days without acceptance. Fitzsimmons' stock is improving, and it is believed even money will be the figure here on the 17th.

PLAN OF THE POWERS

Consent Given for Italy To Land Troops in Crete.

THE ISLAND ALSO TO BE BLOCKADED

Active Military Preparations in Turkey---Horses and Mules Belonging to Christians Seized for Use in the Army.

Rome, March 12.—Admiral Canevaro, the Italian who is in command of the combined fleets in Cretan waters, insists upon the necessity of landing troops to quell the rebellion in the interior of the island. The Italian government, after conferring with the governments of the other powers, has therefore decided to send a force of troops to Crete.

London, March 12.—A dispatch from Vienna says that the powers practically have agreed to blockade Crete in order to compel the retirement of the Greek troops from the island.

Turkey's Active Military Preparations.

London, March 12.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from Salonica confirming the report of the unceasing military preparations that are being made by the Turks. The officials in Salonica, Macedonia and Kassandra are seizing for the use of the army all the horses and mules belonging to the Christians in those places.

British Consul in Disfavor.

Canea, March 12.—It cannot be denied that the actions of Sir Alfred Biliotti, the British consul here, during the present disturbances, has created a deep feeling of animosity against him among the Christians everywhere in the island, and it is believed that whatever may be the outcome of the struggle his usefulness as British representative has come to to an end. His efforts towards the rescue of the endangered Moslems at Kandamost and elsewhere in the Selino district, while admired by even his opponents, will have no effect upon the attempts that will certainly be made to obtain his removal from his position. Sir Alfred returned to Canea from Selino last night, bringing with him the remainder of the Moslems who were brought here by the Italian transport. The entire Selino district is now clear of Moslems, a total of 2,500 natives and 600 soldiers having been brought here. The refugees are very desirous of leaving the island, and have urgently requested that means be furnished to enable them to reach Smyrna. Sir Alfred Biliotti is in favor of this and has advised that vessels be furnished to carry the refugees to the desired port. Sir Alfred speaks highly of the conduct of the leaders of the insurgents, who, he declares, acted most honorably and several times actually risked their lives to compel their followers to observe the pledges they had given.

GREECE IS GRATEFUL.

The United States Senate Thanked for the Resolution of Sympathy.

Athens, March 12.—M. Skouzes, minister of foreign affairs, has sent a message to Washington, thanking the senate for the resolution of sympathy with Greece, adopted a few days ago by that body. The publication of the senate's resolution here caused much satisfaction.

British Government Still Reticent.

London, March 12.—In the house of commons last evening Sir William Vernon-Harcourt asked the government if it was true that Greece was prepared to recognize the autonomy of Crete under the suzerainty of the sultan. The Right Hon. George N. Curzon, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, said in reply to Sir William that Greece had made a communication to the government on the subject of Crete, and that communication would be laid upon the table to-day.

British To Assist the Italians.

London, March 12.—The Times says to-day that the British barbette ship has been sent to assist the Italian warship at Hierapetra.

Indianapolis, March 12.—Five children in the family of Wm. Stureman, La Porte county, were poisoned by eating patent pills which they found during the absence of their parents. Serious Ending of a Quarrel.

Pottsville, Pa., March 12.—William J. Parfit of Shenandoah, aged 19 years, is dead of hemorrhage from the nose, caused, it is alleged, by a blow struck with the fist by Charles McHale. The boys quarreled at a business college at which both were students.

ANTI-CIGARETTE LEGISLATION.

The anti-cigarette war has broken out again. Senator Miller, of Salem, has introduced a measure in the making it a misdemeanor, punishable with a fine of $100 or six months imprisonment for any company or individual to manufacture or sell within the State cigarettes made wholly or in part of tobacco. This is practically the same bill which was introduced in the House last year by Pieree Fleming and brought to that gentleman a finely engrossed encomium from the Women's Christian Temperance Union. It passed the House after a debate, which gave all the funny men of that body ample opportunity to spread themselves, but met with a decisive death in the Senate. This bill is no stranger in the Legislature and in the old days was considered in the light of a "strike," but the standing of Mr. Miller is of such a high order as to exclude the thought that he introduced it from any other motive than to stop if possible the great evil of cigarette smoking. Unless the Senate has undergone a marvelous change of heart since last winter the bill has no chance of becoming a law.

CONSUL DEMAREST TO FARE WELL.

President McKinley's sentiments as regards the members of the U. S. Civil Service indicate that no changes will be made in its ranks. This very proper disposition of affairs will indefinitely preserve to Brockville our good friend United States Consul J. A. Demarest, and smooth out all wrinkles of anxiety and foreboding upon the alabaster brows of himself and his numerous friends.—Brockville (Can.) Times.

PASSING COMMENT.

"Bulletin—Warning—A Tornado is Coming." Hundreds of placards containg these words, with the Weather Bureau's storm signal flag, distributed through St. Louis, caused a panic among the citizens, who have not yet forgotten their experiences of a few months ago. Schools were dismissed, business men hurried home to their families, and the police stations, the Weather Bureau and newspapers were overwhelmed with inquiries before it was discovered to be the work of a theatrical advance agent. He has disappeared, but alas for his company when it reaches St. Louis. It will be remembered by the theatregoers in this city that similar placards were posted around town when "The Tornado" was presented at Music Hall early in the season.

* * * *

Election officers and others are wondering what was the proper action for the election officers of Madison Township, Middlesex county, to take when, while counting the ballots, they came across something that probably never was encountered by an Election Board of this or any other State. There was but one ticket in the field, so the vote was light, and the count last night was progressing rapidly and without incident when, upon opening one of the envelopes, a member of the board drew out a one-dollar bill. At once the question arose what should be done with it. One member thought it must be taken as a rejected ballot and strung as such. The other members thought differently, and after some discussion it was decided to create precedent and spend the dollar for cigars and other things. Whether the action was legal or not is a question.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Edward Reusch, of South Orange, visited his brother Paul, yesterday.

William Hamilton, of East Millstone, is visiting among Dunellen friends.

Mrs. S. Z. Dixon has returned from a two weeks' visit at her old home, on Deer Island, Maine.

Mrs. Charles Dodwell has returned from a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Van Houghton, at Manasquan.

C. A. Maltby, of West Dunellen, is up and doing. Yesterday he planted his potatoes and other garden vegetables.

Rev. Father Bogard, of Somerville, conducted devotions in St. John's church, last evening, and the attendance of parishioners was unusually large.

It is reported that burglars had been about the town again, last night, but by a careful inquiry, no additional robberies were reported to the chief of police.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Fredricks, of Dunellen avenue, are the happy parents of a young son. The little fellow came to Dunellen, yesterday, and he has already proclaimed that he has come to stay.

Things are lively about the postoffice about closing time each evening. Many persons wait until the last moment to go for their mail, and the result is the postoffice clerks are overtaxed just at this time.

The members of the Dunellen Gun Club are taking a rest from trap shooting at present. It is quite likely, however, that a shoot at both live and inanimate targets will take place on Decoration Day, weather permitting.

At the recent borough election provision was made for a dog pounder, but no provision was made for a dog catcher. It's an acknowledged fact that during the evening there are more dogs on the streets here in Dunellen than there are people, and with few exceptions the canines are of the mongrel breed, and worthless.

A farmer from Millstone, who had been to Plainfield shopping yesterday, struck a snag in the roadbed just as he was entering town on his way back last evening, and the result was that one of his hind wheels was dished, rendering his vehicle useless for the time being. He borrowed another wagon and left his in town for repairs.

A surprise party was given to Miss Maude Wilcox at her home last night, at which the following were present: Edna Baldwin, Ethel Fenner, Edna Coriell, Bessie Milliken, Bessie Vail, Eva Schneider, Grace Hardingham, Willie Dealaman, Carrie, Nettie and Frank Haffner, Maggie Van Arsdale, Adam Coriell, Adrian Reed, Enoch Hardingham, Charles Lake, Arthur and Rob Bagardus, Frank Fletcher, Fred and Hudson Wilcox.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

John H. Blimm is about to improve the premises, adjoining his hotel. He will begin today to macadamize the yard and the two driveways leading thereto.

Ernest L. Humes, son of Jacob Humes, has secured a lucrative position with the New York Hardware and Steam Fitting company, and he entered upon his duties on Monday.

Woolston & Buckle, of Plainfield, are painting and papering the two houses left by the late Henry F. Stites to Muhlenberg Hospital. One house is on Westfield avenue and the other on Forrest avenue.

The Press has before stated that the prospect for a boom in real estate at the Plains this spring is very flattering. Real estate agent Thomas Paff had several applications yesterday and one or two of them were from Plainfield. Most of the applicants want good-sized houses and grounds for the summer. They have evidently heard of the healthy condition of this locality and they are anxious to locate their families here for the summer.

The dozen or more children at the Italian rookery on East Front street, now that pleasant weather has arrived, are a source of much annoyance to drivers of vehicles these days. The little tots run out and cross and recross the street directly in front of fast going steeds, and their parents seem to pay no attention to them. If the youngsters are not kept off the street, an accident will inevitably be the result, and some one may probably be held for manslaughter.

The two Italians who "shoved the queer" money here a day or two ago, were back in town Wednesday evening, and tried to work off a few more greasy feeling silver dollars. As soon as it became known that the sharpers were in town again the authorities were looked for but they were not around, and the two men strolled leisurely down the road toward Fanwood. One or two of the merchants are keeping the spurious silver dollar the men passed on them, as a sort of memento.

WESTFIELD.

MOUNTAINSIDE TO FIGHT

THEY ARE AVERSE TO HELP PAYING FOR WESTFIELD'S SEWER.

A Tax of About $25,000 to be Levied on the Former Borough, From Which They Claim No Benefits of Any Kind at All.

The borough of Mountainside will make a vigorous fight when the matter gets before the court, as under the law which the commission acted, there is a tax of about $25,000 to be levied on the township. This provision the borough people will fight, they say, to a standstill. They refuse to aid or abet Westfield to construct a sewer, which does not, either directly or indirectly, benefit Mountainside. A. A. Drake, the Woodruff estate, the Ripley estate and about fifty other property owners will make a big fight when the matter gets before the court.

There has been so many burglaries in an around here this winter that Westfielders are becoming alarmed. The hardware dealers have been doing a rushing business, furnishing new locks for everything, from chicken coops to bedroom doors. Not a few are having electric burglar alarms put in and various devices to trap the night prowlers after booty. There is scarcely a store in town but has a man sleeping in it all night, having all manner of firearms under the pillows, or in reach. The residents too, have a gun or revolver near the bed for emergency.

The Town Committee will meet tonight.

Miss Hazel Wallace is substituting for Miss Halsey, a teacher in the Prospect School.

There are several cases of diphtheria in Central avenue. The place was qarantined today.

Miss Adele Bogert is entertaining her friend, Miss Grace Russell, a belle from Oakland, this State.

Miss Georgie Bogert gave The Social Club a dancing lesson last evening. There was a large attendance.

Miss Stella VanDerveer, a talented and handsome young woman from Harlem, is visiting Mrs. Davison.

It is W. I. Russell who will remove from here this spring, instead of A. L. Russell, as stated in The Press yesterday.

The Westfield Gun Club held a meeting in the parlors of the Park Hotel last evening. The club will have a live bird shoot tomorrow.

Tonight will wind up the pool tournament which has been conducted at the W. A. C. H. C. Piker plays Coombs this evening for second place.

The case of Turrill against Hann which was to have been tried yesterday before Judge Collins and a jury, was adjourned by consent until next Tuesday afternoon.

The sewer commissioners have held their last only public hearing, and as soon as they readjust some of the assessments, they will make their final report and recommendations to the circuit court.

The funeral of Allen Wrenneck, the young man who died of consumption last Tuesday, took place at the residence of Mrs. O. Pierson, at eight o'clock last evening. The funeral was strictly private and the remains were conveyed to Brooklyn this morning and interred in Greenwood cemetery.

Some paper-hangers at work in the flat over Gildersleeve's dry goods store carelessly threw a pail out of the front window, just as Miss Sara Brow and a lady friend were coming out of the store. The water in its fall just missed them, but they were not so fortunate as to the splashing of the dirty water.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William Johnson, of the West End, is ill at his home.

D. P. Hicks, of West Third street, is very ill at his home.

Michael Coleman, of the borough is laid up with an attack of the grip.

Fred Searles, of West Fifth street, is confined to his home with an attack of the grip.

Mrs. J. W. Yates, of West Seventh street, is detained at home by an attack of grip.

Miss Stella Shotwell, of College place, has gone to New York to spend a few weeks with friends.

Miss Evelyn Watt, of Brooklyn, is the guest of her friend, Miss Ida Spicer, of West Fifth street.

Enos W. Titsworth, of West Front street, has been confined to his home for several days with the grip.

Mrs. William Randolph, who has been visiting relatives in Newark, is expected home on Sunday next.

Mr. and Mrs. Bulmer, of Stone street, will entertain the Friendship Social Club at their home this evening.

Miss Ella W. Rider, of Jamaica, L.I., who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Mary Adelaide Luckey, of East Sixth street, for the past few days, has returned to her home.

Henry, one of the most successful minstrel managers of the day, will present his new, up-to-date minstrel attraction at Music Hall, on March 17, and if glowing endorsement from the best journals of the leading cities go for anything this attraction is among the foremost in its line. Bilious Colic.

Persons who are subject to attacks of bilious colic will be pleased to know that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Colera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and if taken as soon as the first indication of the disease appears, it will prevent the attack. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from LaGrippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, Apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

FRANCE'S JUDICIARY.

PRISONER'S TORTURED IN ORDER TO FORCE A CONFESSION.

All Sorts of Devices Resorted to With the Accused—One Man's Nose Broken, and Others Fed on Salt Fish, With Little Water Given Them to Drink.

The widespread scandal in France created by the dismissal from office of the Juge d'Instruction, M. Duc, at Bayeux, for having pommelled prisoners into confessing the crimes of which they were accused—in one instance actually breaking the nose of a man—has served to fix the attention of the public on an almost incredible abuse of power by the magistrates who conduct the preliminary investigations into criminal cases.

Recruited from among the lawyers who have failed to secure remunerative practice, miserably underpaid and with their prospects of promotion dependent entirely upon the number of convictions they secure, the French Juge d'Instruction literally stop at nothing to obtain admissions of guilt from the accused.

The methods which magistrates of this class adopt savor of the old system of torture. Some of the Juges d' Instruction adopt methods of persuasion to compel confessions that are suggestive of the Inquisition. They will have a prisoner fed almost exclusively upon salt fish and given only a minimum ration of water. Then the poor wretch is introduced into the presence of the magistrate; a bottle of clear spring water is placed temptingly just beyond his reach. He begs for a drink. "Not before you have answered my questions," replies his tormentor.

Another method is to hint that the prisoner's wife, whom he may not have seen for months, is waiting in a private room of the court, and that if he is amenable to "reason" he may be permitted to see her.

There is literally no limit to the powers which the Juge d'Instruction possesses over unconvicted prisoners. The unfortunate Marquis de Nayve was kept for two years in solitary confinement, and subjected once or twice each month to examination by the magistrate before the latter finally consented to send him up for trial, which resulted in his acquittal.

Perhaps the best known case is that of the celebrated Radical leader, Raspail, who was falsely accused of being implicated in a conspiracy to upset the Government. The examining judge, unable to obtain a particle of evidence at length summoned M. Raspail to his private office and addressed him as follows:

"My dear Mr. Raspail, try to forget for a moment that I am a Judge, and let us talk freely like two men of the world. Supposing I were to attempt to upset the existing Government and you were in my place, what would you do with me?"

"It would be such a hare-brained attempt," remarked Raspail, "that I should at once have you locked up in the lunatic asylum at Charenton."

The Judge broke off the conversation there and then, and on the following day Raspail, without being allowed an opportunity of explaining matters, was esntenced to two years' imprisonment for having insulted a magistrate while in the exercise of his judicial functions.—New York World.

Smoke for Wounds.

The smoke of woolen rags is a cure for the most dangerous wounds. A lady ran a machine needle through her finger. She could not be released till the machine had been taken to pieces, and it was found the needle had broken into three pieces in the flesh. The process of extraction was most difficult, the pain reaching the shoulder, and danger of lockjaw was feared. Woolen rags were put on burning coals, and, by holding the finger in the smoke, all pain was driven away and never returned, though the finger took long to heal.

The smoke and smell of the burning rags may be unpleasant, but that is a slight drawback compared with the danger of lockjaw, or great pain and consequent fever. Another instance was the cure of a wound inflicted by an enraged cat, which tore the flesh from the wrist to the elbow and bit through the fleshy part of the hand. One ministration of the smoke extracted all the pain, which had been frightful.—Answers.

No Doubt About It.

A man owned a parrot for a long time, and all that it could say was "There is no doubt about it." At length the owner, being tired of this song, resolved to sell it. He took it to the market at Huddersfield, singing out: "Twenty pounds for my Poll."

A gentleman who was passing the market heard the price, and went to the parrot and said:

"Art thou worth £20?"

Polly's reply was, of course: "There is no doubt about it."

The gentleman was much pleased at this, and readily bought the parrot.

After some time the gentleman found out, to his surprise, that Poll was all "No doubt," and he, full of rage at his twenty pounds' worth of disappointment, exclaimed to the Poll:

"What a fool I was to give £20 for a thing like you!

Poll then most decidedly replied:

"There's no doubt about it!"—From Answers.

He Got It in the Back.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Subject for March 14—Saul, the Persecutor, Converted. Acts ix., 1-12, 17-20 Golden Text: "This is a Faithful Saying, and Worthy of All Acceptation that Christ Jesus Came into the World to Save Sinners." I Tim. i, 15.

1, 2. We last heard of Saul making havoc of the church at Jerusalem after the martyrdom of Stephen. We still find him in the same spirit of enmity against Christ and His followers, but now he is reaching out to other cities even to Damascus, with authority from the high priest to arrest and bring to Jerusalem all such disciples of the Lord as he might find. They are spoken of as men and women of the way (see margin), reminding us of Christ's own words, "I am the way" (John xiv, 6). God thus far suffers Saul to be satan's agent in purifying His church. When the adversary is allowed to try the people of God, either directly of by human instrumentality, we are to see only the hand of God and remember Rom. viii, 28, 29. See Ps. xvii, 14; lxxvi, 10; Dan. xi, 35; xii, 10; Rev. ii, 10, as very helpful.

3, 4. "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me?" Thus far and no farther is heaven's decree for Saul, and now He who loved him in all his sin and who had suffered him thus far in his devilish work arrests Him as he is about to enter Damascus. The light from heaven smites him to the earth, and the voice from heaven enters his soul. The light was brighter than the sun at noonday, and the voice spake in the Hebrew language (chapter xxvi, 13, 14). All the party saw the light and fell to the earth in fear, but Saul alone heard the words which were spoken for they were only for him.

5. "Who art thou, Lord? I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." In one of Saul's accounts of this he gives the Lord's answer as "I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest" (chapter xxii, 8). In all Saul's life he had never heard anything so startling or upsetting as this. He verily believed that he was doing right in the sight of God in persecuting these followers of one whom the highest authorities had put to death as a blasphemer. See his own testimony in chapters xxii and xxvi.

6. "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" He is full of trembling and astonishment, but in a moment he sees that he has been all wrong, and the persecuted ones have been right. He seems sincerely humbled and by the spirit confesses that Jesus is Lord (I Cor. xii, 3). He is told to go on to Damascus and await orders. The "What wilt Thou?" of this verse and the "Where wilt Thou?" of Luke xxii, 9, when sincerely addressed to the Lord, will not fail to obtain sure guidance.

7. It is evident that those with Saul heard a sound of words, but it is also evident, from chapter xxii, 9, that they heard not the words spoken. Something of the same kind is written in Dan. x, 7-9. It is sometimes asked if those who are left when the church is taken shall hear the Lord's voice or see the event.

8, 9. Three days in Damascus, blind and fasting and awaiting a further message from the Lord! What remembrances, what persistence, what searchings of heart, what humbling before God, what light from heaven must have shone in his soul during those days of outward darkness! How he would think of what Stephen saw and said and of the patience and faith of others who had suffered for Christ through him!

10. "The Lord knoweth them that are His, and He knoweth them by name" (II Tim. ii, 19; Isa. xliii, 1). He could send an angel to do his bidding, as He often has done, for they excel in strength and do His commandments, hearkening unto His word. They are His ministers who do His pleasure (Ps. ciii, 20, 21), but He sees fit to use human instrumentality and calls a Philip in Samaria or an Ananias in Damascus to do His bidding. If we hold ourselves ready for any manner of service wholly at His commandment (I Chron. xxviii, 21), He will surely show us His way for us and guide us into the good works prepared beforehand (Eph. ii, 10).

11, 12. Ananias is sent to the street and the house, and the person is named to whom he is to go, and his occupation at the time is also mentioned. Ananias is also told what Saul sees as he prays. Let us not forget nor fail to believe that God is thus intimately acquainted with each of us. Our ways and words and thoughts, both in the darkness and the light, are all known to Him (Ps. cxxxix, 1-12; Ezek. xi, 5); therefore let our honest prayer be, "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me and know my thoughts."

17. It must have been another new experience for Saul to have a disciple of Jesus put his hands upon him and address him as "Brother Saul," but I am sure he did not feel like knocking him down for thus addressing him, though I once heard a minister of the gospel, in good standing among men, say that he would like to treat a man that way who would call him "brother." True humility is never vexed nor irritated, but is at rest when nobody praises, or even when blamed or despised.

18. He received sight, he was filled with the Spirit, and confessed Jesus as Lord in baptism. He is a new man, a new creation, old things are passed away, and all things are become new (II Cor. v, 17). He is crucified with Christ to a new life. Although he still lives, but is no longer Saul of Tarsus, but Christ Jesus who now lives in him as Lord (Gal. ii, 20). He has become blind to all but Jesus Christ. He knows no other master.

19. He partook of food and was strengthened and continued some days with the disciples at Damascus. Every disciple would soon hear of it; it would spread far and wide that the great persecutor had become a disciple of Christ.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Parting one's name in the middle is not a common American custom, but parting it one sided or in two places is worse. The man who is named R. W. John R. Pope could afford to drop a few of his initials or twist the John in front of the rest of them.

English statesmen hiss English sailors and their own government. Right enough, too. The firing of English shells into a camp of Christians who are struggling to free themselves from a Moslem power that is hated by all Europe was a shameful performance, for which no excuses are possible.

After denouncing the politicians for a season or two the Populists have proved themselves to be the most oppressive politicians their states were ever burdened with. In Kansas it is said that they have multiplied place holders until they can hardly get around the offices, and they are all as keen for a dollar as if they had voted for honest money instead of silver. It is an exhibition that will decrease the popularity of Populism if there is any popularity left.

One may be a pauper and yet have pride. Since Hi Wang was admitted to the almshouse in Flatbush there have been grumblings. The guests of the institution said that the social tone of the place was lowered by having a Chinaman in it, and some of them felt so badly about it that they went to board elsewhere. So it is kind of Wang's fellow countrymen to form a fund for his removal and maintenance, and the almshouse will once again become a select resort.

Some kinds of men may be more willing than heretofore to serve on a jury. Down in Kentucky a juryman learned so much about counterfeiting from the testimony in a case that he helped to try, that he became a counterfeiter himself and might have made money in the usual sense of that term, if the inevitable had not happened to him. And now his neighbors will sit upon him. The new journalism does not make it necessary to go to court in these parts to study modes of crime.

The X rays burn, though you do not feel them at the time. One victim of the exhibition of the cathode ray apparatus in Baltimore has almost lost the use of his hand for a while. The skin has reddened and peeled, the arm is swollen and hot, the bones have become painful and are thickened at the joints, the nails are falling out and movement is difficult. It is to be known, however, that he let the light through his flesh for four hours a day for three weeks, and his case is no inducement to stop the use of the rays for medical and surgical purposes.

The Court of Appeals of New York has made a decision in a breach of promise case which seems to extend considerably the legal limitations of flirtation. Formerly, the opinion of the Court says, the rule was that an engagement could be inferred from circumstances. Under this rule mere "keeping company," if continued long enough and assiduously enough, might imply a betrothal and afford a basis for a suit for breach of promise. But it appears that this is changed by the statutory permission to the parties to testify, and that now a specific contract must be "expressed or disclosed."

It has passed into a proverb that the pursuit of the almighty dollar is the chief occupation of the American citizen. Then, why is he so keen in the pursuit of unremunerative public office? All the wires that converge at Canton are throbbing with appeals for place. Petitions for appointment to Consulships and Postmasterships and Collectorships are going round, and possessors of actual or supposed influence with the next Administration are every day importuned for "indorsements." Literally hundreds of thousands of capable Americans are hoping and praying and begging for offices that will not in four years yield them as large a money return as an energetic business or professional man with fair opportunities ought to earn in one. The proverb about the almighty dollar must be at fault.

Cycling is not good for everybody, and if abused is good for nobody. Within the last two years people of all ages have rushed into cycling in the most haphazard way. They have regarded neither age nor previous habits nor their physical condition. Small wonder then that many have found evil rather than good come from an exercise which inevitably demands a heavy expenditure both of nervous and muscular force. Probably just the same outcry would have arisen if the same class had suddenly taken to running or rowing or mountain climbing without any previous preparation. It is easy to preach moderation, but it must be remembered that moderation is a term varying with the individual, and every one finds for himself how much he can do. There is no need to make a bicycle a very wheel of Ixion, especially with a "safety," for it is easy to get off and equally easy to remount; therefore the cry "You must go on or you will fall" seems to us to ignore the fact that we are reasonable animals.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

SHAKERS AND DOCTORS TALK TOGETHER.

In his able work entitled "Longevity," published a few years ago, Dr. John Gardner, of England, predicts that a vegetable agent will yet be found that shall so retard those changes that bring about old age as to prolong human life much beyond its present limit.

Acting, perhaps, upon the impulse produced by this thought, many eminent physicians have called from time to time upon the Shakers of Mt. Lebanon to inquire of them concerning the secrets of medicinal plants, in which these sincere, simply-minded and God fearing people are known to be wise and skillful beyond all other men.

The Skakers willingly told what they had learned, and in return received from their visitors much valuable information about disease; which they at once made practical use of. The most important point was that if a genuine and certain remedy could be found for indigestion and dyspepsia, and the ailments growing out of it, a long step would be taken in the right direction. Old age, said these physicians, begins in a failure of the digestion, and so do most diseases at any and all periods of life. The result of these consultations was the discovery by the Shakers of the desired specific, made wholly from herbs, and now known as the Shaker Digestive Cordial. Its action is magical and worthy of its origin.

Where there is distress after eating, heartburn, sick headache, bad taste in the mouth, biliousness, weakness and weariness, cold hands and feet, aversion to food, nervousness, or any other symptom of dyspepsia, the Cordial will prove its curative virtues. Behind it is the reputation of a people who have never defrauded or deceived their fellow men.

In order to test whether this remedy is adapted to your case, at practically no cost, you may procure a trial bottle for ten cents of almost any druggist.

DEATH OF GEN. G. J. MAGEE.

He Was on His Way to Egypt in Search of Health and Expired in France.

Corning, N. Y., March 12.—Gen. George J. Magee, president of the Fall Brook Railway company, who died at Nice, France, yesterday afternoon from a complication of diseases, was on his way to Egypt, accompanied by his family in search of improved health, and at Nice, on Saturday, was suddenly taken seriously ill. He grew worse until death claimed him. Gen. Magee was born at Bath, N. Y., and was 57 years old. He graduated from Princeton in 1860. Upon the death of his father, John Magee, he assumed the presidency of Fall Brook and Blossburg Coal company, which owned big tracts of bituminous coal lands in Tioga county, Pa. The development of these fields and the increase of the Fall Brook railway from a local 15-mile line to a great connecting line between the New York Central and Philadelphia & Reading railway has been his life work. He was paymaster-general on Gov. Hoffman's staff. Gen. Magee was a director or the Knickerbocker Trust company of New York and was a member of the New York university, Lawyers' Manhattan and Princeton clubs. He is survived by a wife and five children.

FUNZ YUNG'S MISSION.

Says His Visit to Washington Is To Bid the Chinese Minister Good-bye.

Washington, March 12.—Funz Yung Hand, the Chinese consul-general at San Francisco, said yesterday in explanation of his presence here at this time that Yang Yu, the Chinese minister, was an old friend of his and that he desired to see him and bid him good-bye previous to his departure for St. Petersburg, and also to talk over certain matters in China in which both were interested. Since arriving here, however, he had heard that members of the See Yup society at San Francisco were on their way to Washington to lay certain matters before Yang Yu, and he had decided to prolong his visit until their arrival, or as long as the minister might desire to consult with him. Funz Yung Hand does not speak English, and therefore had brought with him Vice-Consul King, who was educated at Yale university, and has a large circle of friends in America. The consul-general and his suite will return to San Francisco whenever the business in hand is concluded.

PIERCE AN ABSCONDER.

The Reading Railroad Cashier Skips Out with $5,000 of the Company's Money.

Philadelphia, March 12.—John F. Pierce, chief cashier of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad company's business at the Port Richmond coal wharves, has disappeared, and $5,000 with which he was intrusted to pay employes is also missing. Pierce, who has been in the employ of the company for a number of years, on Saturday informed the other office employes that he would wait at the office to pay seamen who would arrive on vessels in the evening. The office safe, in which was $5.000 in cash, was left open for his convenience, and the clerks left the office at the usual closing hour. The money is missing and Pierce has not since been seen. His wife states that she has not seen nor heard of him since he left home on Saturday morning.

Extradition Papers for Iasigi.

Boston, March 12.—The requisition papers for Joseph A. Iasigi, the Turkish consul general of Boston, wanted in Massachusetts for embezzlement, were the most voluminous papers seen at the state house within the recollection of any one connected with the executive department. Their bulk is accounted for by the unusual length of the indictment, which is in fifty counts. Inspector Collins has gone to Albany to get the approval of Governor Black of New York, and will proceed to New York city and bring Iasigi to Boston.

Twenty Years for Stealing Forty Cents.

White Plains, N. Y., March 12.—For robbing a man of forty cents William Jeffrey has been taken to Sing Sing prison to serve a sentence of twenty years imposed upon him by County Judge Lent for this crime. Jeffrey was in Peekskill a month ago, and while in a restaurant kept by John H. Garrison he assaulted Garrison for the purpose of robbery. Jeffrey, who is a powerful man, knocked his victim down and robbed him of forty cents.

Race Track Bill in Jersey House.

Trenton, March 12.—The introduction in the house of the race track bill by Mr. Armbruster of Hudson is believed to be only for the purpose of testing the sentiment of the legislature on the question. It is not thought that the race track people entertain any hope of the passage of a bill this year. The bill is a copy of the Grey racing law now in operation in New York state.

Madagascar's Queen Exiled.

Port Louis, Mauritius, March 12.—A dispatch from Tamatave says that Ranavalona III., queen of Madagascar, who has been only the nominal ruler of the island since it was made a French colony last June, has been exiled to the island of Reunion, and started for that place on March 7.

RAINES LIQUOR LAW

Important Changes Proposed in New York's Excise Measure.

ALL CLUBS MUST PAY SALOON TAX

Regulations for the Wiping Out of the "Fake" Hotels Also To Be Enacted. The Number of Special Inspectors May Be Increased.

Albany, March 12.—The Raines special committee which investigated the operations of the Raines liquor tax law will submit its report and proposed amendments to the present excise law to the senate to-day. The bill providing for the amendments is very voluminous. The amendments proposed by the committee to the liquor tax law cover the following propositions: A sale of five gallons of liquor, to be exempt from the tax and to constitute a sale of five gallons at wholesale must be of the same kind and quality of liquor, and it is provided that the distribution of liquor by, between or on behalf of members of a corporation or association in quantities of less than five wine gallons to a member thereof or to others is "trafficking in liquor." This is the amendment which covers the sale by clubs. It is also provided that on a sale of five gallons or more, if the liquor sold is to be delivered or agreed to be delivered in a less quantity than five gallons at one time, is a sale of less than five gallons and is taxed.

Change in Pharmacist Tax.

The discretion of the state commissioner of excise in requiring bonds from his subordinates is abolished. Each official is required to give a bond. Specific provisions are made requiring certain reports from the state commissioner of excise. He is also given power to remove at will any subordinate. The number of special agents is proposed to be increased to one hundred, in the discretion of the commissioner. Special agents are given the powers of a constable or other peace officer to make arrests for a violation of the liquor tax law. No change is made in the amount of taxes levied except as regards pharmacists. For New York city the tax on pharmacists is $35; Brooklyn, $30; Buffalo and cities over fifty thousand, $25; cities less than fifty thousand but more than ten thousand, $20; cities and villages having less than ten thousand but more than five thousand, $15; villages of less than five thousand but more than twelve hundred, $10; other places, $5.

Local Option Clause.

The local option clause is amended to give more certain effect to the result of the votes cast at the town meetings on the several propositions submitted, as for instance, if the proposition for a hotel is carried, and the proposition for a store license is defeated the hotel keeper can only sell to be drunk on the premises. The section in relation to applications for liqur tax certificates has been largely amended to make the same more definite and to require specific answers to the several questions which applicants are required to answer. In measuring the distance of a place selling liquor from a church, schoolhouse or dwelling, it is provided that the measurements shall be made on a straight line.

What Constitutes a Hotel.

A hotel is more specifically defined, and it is required that it should comply with the laws, ordinances, regulations and rules relating to hotels and hotelkeepers and the same as affects the building, fire and health departments and that they shall contain at least ten bed rooms above the basement, exclusive of those occupied by the family and servants; each room properly furnished to accommodate lodgers and separated by partitions at least four inches thick, extending from floor to ceiling with independent access to each room by a door opening into a hallway; each room having a window or windows with not less than eight square feet of surface, opening upon the street or open area, and each having at least eighty square feet of floor area and at least 600 cubic feet of space therein. The dining room must have at least 300 square feet and be suitably furnished. A guest is defined to be a person who in good faith occupies a room in a hotel as a temporary home and pays the regular and customary charge for such occupancy, but who does not occupy such room for the purpose of having liquor served therein, and a person who during the hours when meals are regularly served therein, resorts to the hotel for the purpose of obtaining, in good faith, a meal therein.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Now is the time to purchase your cycle suit for this summer. If you are looking for anything in that line call at the store of the Plainfield Cycle and Sporting Goods Company on North avenue.

Cyclists are delighted over the prospects for an early spring. The winter has been one of the most distressing that wheelmen have encountered in a long time. The severe cold and heavy snow storms have made outdoor riding almost impossible for several weeks. Three New York Athletic Club cyclists, however, have kept up their task of riding at least five miles outdoors right through the winter. These men are competing for a valuable cup offered last May to the member of this swell club who should be the last to remain in a contest requiring that at least five miles ne ridden every day, no matter what the weather conditions migt be.

EDITH BEHR AGAIN UNRULY.

She Creates a Scene When Relatives Visit Her in Jail.

Edith Behr, who is in the county jail for assaulting two men, created another scene yesterday. Her sister, Carrie, and her aunt from New York, who is to sail for Europe on Saturday, called at the jail to see her. The prisoner became greatly excited when brought before them, and wanted to know what they were doing to secure her release.

The prisoner became so frenzied that she had to be put back in the woman's ward, where the uproar she made could be heard all through the jail. The two visitors fell to sobbing violently over the girl's actions, and declared she was becoming insane. A couple of hours previously Edith's father called on her, and she ordered him to leave the jail.

RACING BILL IN JERSEY.

Mr. Armbruster, of Hudson County, Introduces a Measure in the House.

When in the debate on the constitutional amendments in the Senate Wednesday Senator Johnson, in speaking of the anti-gambling amendment, which is intended to forever stop horse racing in New Jersey, said there was no immediate necessity for passing the amendment, as there was no danger of any one introducing a race track measure this year, he was mistaken. Mr. Ambruster yesterday afternoon threw a bomb into the House by introducing a bill which was entitled "An act for the incorporation of associations for the improvement of the breed of horses and regulating the same and to establish a State racing commission.

Mr. Armbruster's bill is a copy of the Percy-Gray Racing law, now in operation in New York State. It provides for the establishment of a State Racing Commission, to be appointed by the Governor, and prohibits gambling at the tracks, but further provides that when cards are posted on the grounds calling attention to the fact that gambling is forbidden and police are appointed to see that the law is obeyed no officer of the racing association shall be liable to prosecution for violation of the law. The other provisions regulating the tracks are similar to those in the laws of other States.

The race meetings must be held on mile tracks during the period extending from April 15th to Nov. 15th, but not more than forty days on any one track. Five per cent. of the gross receipts are to be be paid to the State. It is believed that the bill is introduced only for the purpose of testing the sentiment of the Legislature on the question. It is not thought that the race track people entertain any hope of the passage of a bill this year.

SOMERSET COUNTY RETURNS

Van Fleet Again Elected Collector of Bridgewater Township.

Returns from the ten townships of Somerset county show small gains for the Democrats in the local elections.

The interest at the county seat centred in the election of Collector of Bridgewater Township. Voorhees I. VanFleet was the Republican candidate, and Ferd VanDerveer was nominatkd to succeed himself as Collector by the Democrats. VanDerveer during his term of office had enforced an almost obeolete State law which empowers the Collector to hold the body of a delinquent taxpayer until he pays up. The list of delinquent taxpayers filled about six columns in the local newspapers when VanDerveer first began to issue warrants for their arrest.

There was much hustling on the part of the delinquents to escape imprisonment, and there were also many threats of vengeance at the polls. Vanderveer's scheme was a success. The delinquent list melted from six columns to less than one. The army of would be tax-jumpers that was arrayed against him at the polls Tuesday was simply swamped by the taxpayers. He was re-elected by 500 majority.

BLIZZARD DAY TODAY.

This is the Ninth Anniversary of the Big Snowstorm.

Today is the ninth anniversary of the big blizzard of 1888, which paralyzed business for a week in the metropolis.

Forecaster Dunn says that the storm which developed yesterday in the Southwest has moved northward and is now central over the lake regions and is threatening to become powerful.

A second storm is developing over Texas and an area of high pressnre and a gold wave is coming down from the Northwest.

The cold wave is pushing rapidly southeast and is causing steep temperature gradings in the Southern States. It is slightly warmer in the Atlantic States and the lower lake regions.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Thomas Quinn, of City Judge De-Meza's law office, is confined to his home on Park avenue today with illness.

Miss Mary Leahy, who for the past two years has been the efficient clerk for John F. McIntyre, the real estate agent of North avenue, has just secured a lucrative position with the New York Life Insurance Company as a clerk. She will enter upon her duties next Monday.

—The badges for the officials at the coming ball of the A. O. H. have been received and they are very handsome. The ball is to be held next Wednesday evening.

BRIEFLY PUT.

Two Instances of Napoleon's Rewarding Those Whom He Could Trust.

Though the great Napoleon was not accustomed to tolerate "talking back" on the part of the people about him, several instances are on record in which he not only forgave but rewarded a certain degree of bluntness of speech from persons whose loyalty he had no reason to suspect. Victor Hugo tells a story of Monseigneur Myriel, in which Napoleon asked, "Who is that little man who is staring at me?" and was answered by Myriel himself—"You, sire, are looking at a little man, and I am looking at a great man, and it may be to the advantage of us both." The story is declared to be true. The emperor made the little priest a bishop the next day. It is related in a recent volume of Napoleonic reminiscences that, as Napoleon was one day reviewing some of his troops, he rode by an old and faithful officer, who—perhaps from want of brilliancy on the man's part—had never been advanced beyond the grade of captain, though he was well enough known to the emperor. The emperor was passing at a slow trot. As he came directly in front of the old captain, the officer saluted, and said loudly, but without any apparent movement of the muscles of his face, "Fifteen campaigns—private, captain!" The emperor, without turning his head or slackening his pace, said, "Colonel, brigadier, baron!" Then he was gone. There had indeed been no time for a word more than had passed; but those had sufficed for the captain to communicate a long story and a reproachful complaint, and for the emperor to set matters right with a military and social promotion.

A COSTLY CURL.

The Duke of Orleans Paid $1,000 for His Flattery.

Mr. G. A. Sala, in his Autobiography tells the following story of Lady Harriet D'Orsay and the Duke of Orleans "Lady Harriet D'Orsay was really the heroine of a story which has been told in at least twenty forms of twenty different ladies of fashion. She was presiding at a stall at a bazaar, held in aid of the funds of some asylum or another, when there came up the young Duke of Orleans, son and heir of King Louis Philippe. The Duke, after some polite small-talk, began to extol the beauty of her hair; and indeed her Henrietta-Maria coiffure had never looked glossier and softer than it did this day. 'Oh,' said his Royal Highness, 'if I could only possess one of those enchanting ringlets!' 'How much would Monseigneur give for one?' asked Lady Harriet gravely. 'Five thousand francs?' 'Five thousand francs! ($1,000)' repeated the Duke 'A mere bagatelle!' 'Six thousand francs?' 'Anything so charming a lady chose to ask.' 'I will not be extortionate,' pursued Lady Harriet; 'we will say five thousand.' And then she very composedly produced a dainty little pair of scissors, snipped off the adorable Henrietta-Maria ringlet, wrapped it in silver paper, and handed it, with a smile and a curtesy full of graceful dignity, to the Duke. His Royal Highness looked very straght down his nose, and, returning Lady Harriet's salute, stalked somewhat gloomily away. But his Privy Purse duly forwarded the money the following day."

BAPTIST ENDEAVORERS.

A REVIEW OF THEIR WORK FOR THE PAST YEAR.

Though a Portion of Their Energies Were Devoted to the State Convention, They Did Good Work at Home.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church was held last evening in the parlors of the church with J. Henry Crane in the chair. In the absence of the recording secretary, Miss Alice Needham, her place was filled by W. O. Chapman. The first business was the receiving of the reports of the various Endeavor committees. The report of the prayer meeting committee was called for and S. P. Case, a member of the committee, stated that the chairman was absent and no report had been prepared. J. Herbert Case, chairman of the lookout committee, reported that during the past year eight members had been added to the active list. The committee urged that greater efforts be made to secure members for the associate list and then the society would have some object to work for.

Miss Alice Woodland, chairman of the missionary committee, reported that three meetings had been held and that $5 had been contributed for missionary purposes. For the social committee, S. P. Case reported that there had been no socials held and that the work of the committee had not been very laborious.

L. H. Piglow, Jr., reported for the music committee. He said that an effort had been made during the year to have solo work at the meetings of the society, but the committee had not been very successful. He stated that new books were needed; also a new piano. The latter had been suggested, and he thought that the society could put forth efforts and purchase an instrument. It is quite likely that the society will secure a new piano before the year is out.

J. G. McLoughlin, for the press and welcome committee, stated that he had no report to make. President Crane supplimented this report by stating that he had only missed one meeting during the year and that he had made it a point to welcome strangers at every meeting.

Miss Bertha Needham, chairman of the flower committee, reported that flowers had been supplied for the pulpit nearly every Sunday during the year, and that for this purpose $6.75 had been expended.

The report of the treasurer, Miss Susie D. Woodland, showed that there was expended during the year $19.15, and that the receipts had been $45.59, leaving a balance on hand of $26.44. She also reported that $184.22 had been collected for the Christian Endeavor Convention fund and the amount had been turned over to the proper authority.

Owing to the fact that the corresponding secretary, Miss Emily Coriell had been ill she did not make a report. A motion was adopted that a vote of thanks be extended to her for the excellent work accomplished in this department. A bill of $3 for topic cards was presented and ordered paid.

Mr. Crane stated that the officers of the Local Union had asked that the society contribute $1 a year as their share toward assisting in the payment for postage and correspondence. On a motion the members decided to contribute that amount. A circular letter was read from State President French in which the latter asked the society to assist in raising $800 which is needed this year for the State work. This matter was laid over until the next meeting.

Mr. Crane said that President Anthony, of the Local Union, had asked him to appoint a committee whose duty would be to visit each society in the union at stated times. Robert Love, S. P. Case and Miss Margaret Harold were appointed as the committee. Mr. Serrell said that he questioned the right of the president to appoint such a committee at an annual meeting and the matter was dropped for the present.

At this time the report of the secretary for the year was read. It stated that there were seventy-eight active members now on the roll and that four members had been dropped during the year. The society lost no members by death, for which there was a feeling of gratitude on the part of all. The secretary stated that the society had great cause for thankfulness and she hoped that the coming year would bring larger blessings.

President Crane said that he felt the most discouraged of all, for he really did not think that the society had accomplished all that it should during the past twelve months. This he thought was due to the fact that a great deal had intervened to take up the time and attention of the mem-

HE IS WELL-BACKED.

PLAINFIELDER MAY CAPTURE AN OFFICIAL PLUM UNDER M'KINLEY.

Theodore F. Swayze a Candidate for Chief Clerk of the Treasury Department—Backed by Senator Platt.

Theodore F. Swayze, who has resided in this city for the past three years, and now lives at the corner of Ninth street and First place, is a candidate for the appointment of chief clerk of the United States Treasury Department at Washington under the administration of President McKinley. At present Mr. Swayze is the private secretary of Senator Thomas Platt in the office of the president of the United States Express Company in New York. Inasmuch as Mr. Platt is the leader of New York Republicanism and is one of the most influential men in Washington, and is backing Mr. Swayze for the appointment, it is considered that the Plainfielder's chances are very good for capturing the official plum.

Mr. Swayze held office under the Harrison administration and is very popular among Washington officials. He is a personal friend of H. S. Thurber, private secretary to ex-President Cleveland, and also an intimate acquaintance of Congressional Librarian Spofford. Mr. Swayze's father-in-law filled the latter office for several years and therefore he is well-identified with Washington life in every respect.

Mr. Swayze is not in any respect a politician, his participation in political affairs only going so far as a lively interest in the cause of Republicanism carries him to exercise the right of voting. At the present time, however, it is his good fortune to be closely identified with one of the moving factors of the National life for four years to come.

Personally, he is a cultured gentleman, whom it is a pleasure to know as an acquaintance. He is greatly devoted to his family and is one of the most substantial of Plainfield's commuter element. The announcement of his candidacy and the probability of appointment will be a source of many congratulations from his numerous friends.

ROSELLE BOWLERS WON.

CAPTURED THE CUP OFFERED BY THE ELIZABETH JOURNAL.

The Last Games Played Last Night at Elizabeth Between the N. J. A. C. and Roselle—Park Club Not Represented.

The contest in the Central Journal Bowling League came to an end last evening on the alleys of the Elizabeth Athletic Club. There were about three hundred people present including a large number of enthusiastic women who were interested in the windup of the contest.

The first game was between the N. J. A. C. and the Cranford Country Club. The former made a score of 785, and the latter scored 769. In the second game the Roselle team and the N. J. A. C. rolled a close game. Again the N. J. A. C. team was victorious with a score of 838, while their opponents made 828. In the last game the Roselle team scored 844 and the Cranford team 750. The aggregate score for the former team was 1673, while the N. J. A. C. won two games and only made a score of 1623. The Roselle team won the contest by fifty pins and they secured first place which entitles them to the Journal cup and $30 in money. The N. J. A. C. won second place and received a prize of $10.

There were no representatives present from the Park Club and in fact the only persons from Plainfield were S. P. T. Wilbur and Harry Coward.

The bowling throughout was very close and the enthusiasm ran high. There were about fifty persons present from Bayonne and they did all that was possible to help their team win the trophy. The other teams were well represented and received good support. It can be said that the contest has been very successful and will be continued another year.

Foresters Have a Smoker.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. F., at their meeting last night initiated two candidates. After the ceremony a smoker was held and a fine programme was rendered by several of the brothers. There was a large attendance including a number from out of town. A pleasant and harmonious evening was spent.

March.

Now fickle the days: we are wooed by the sun, and ere night we opine a new winter's begun; at the dawn vernal kisses awake us from sleep, and at even, we allow in slush a foot deep: which is why the wise citizen doesn't forego his orders of fuel from Stevens & Co.

TO HIS ETERNAL REWARD

LAST OBSEQUIES OVER THE REMAINS OF REV. S. F. CUSTARD.

The Funeral Services Attended by a Large Number of Friends and Clergymen—Sermon by Rev. G. W. Smith.

The funeral services of the late Rev. S. F. Custard were held yesterday afternoon from the Methodist church at Dunellen, of which he was the pastor, and the attendance of relatives and friends was so large that all were not able to gain admittance to the edifice. The services were most impressive and there was a deep feeling of sadness evidenced on the part of everyone present. Among those present was about 100 members of William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which the departed had been a member.

Rev. G. W. Smith, of this city, presiding elder of this district of the Methodist church, had charge of the services, which were opened with a selection, "Blessed Assurance," by the choir. Rev. Mr. Peterson, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of New Market, read the 90th Psalm, and the lesson from 1st Corinthians.

This was followed with prayer by Rev. C. R. Barnes, of the First M. E. church of this city, after which Rev. Mr. Smith made a few appropriate remarks. He spoke of the uncertainty of life and compared the Christian life with the life of a scholar in school, who was often given problems by his teacher and was not always able to solve them until the key was furnished. The pupil has the advantage of the discipline, and so it is with many things in life which we cannot understand.

Mr. Smith spoke of the sturdy honesty and straight-forward manliness of the departed and of his forgetfulness of self and devotion to his church up to the time of his death.

Rev. A. I. Martine, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Dunellen, then followed with a few words. He said in part: "The gathering impressed upon his mind three groups, First, the congregation, made up of men, women, friends, citizens and neighbors, and it reminds me of the necessity of preparing for death. In the second place, I am impressed with the group of ministers before me. One of our number has fallen and naturally there comes to us a sense of increased responsibility, of added burdens and the fact that we must close up our ranks. The last group is the bereaved ones, the father, mother, sisters and brothers. I sympathize with you in deep sorrow from out of my own experience, and I know that God's grace is sufficient for everyone."

Both addresses were full of feeling and eminently fitting. Following the above prayer was offered by Rev. J. W. Dally, of the Methodist church, of Bound Brook. The choir then rendered "In the Homeland," after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the New Market Baptist church.

The remains were removed to the late home and will be taken to Easton tomorrow for interment. The pallbearers were classmates of the departed. The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful. They consisted of several pillows and bunches of choice flowers.

The following served as pall bearers: Charles Waldron, Newark; E. E. Roberson, Metuchen; W. J. Hampton, Dover; A. C. Covey, Asbury Park; John McMurray, Finnesville; W. C. O'Donell, Plainfield. The very handsome pillow presented by the Jr. O. U. A. M. was made by Miss Lincoln the florist of this city.

Coming Entertainment.

By reference to the advertising columns it will be seen that a very fine entertainment is to be given on Friday evening next in Vincent Chapel. Miss Mary P. Allen has never appeared in public in this city, but she has been heard in a parlor entertainment to the great delight of all who were present. Her position in the Hackettstown Seminary is a guarantee of her proficiency. The other names will be recognized as among the best of local talent, which is of a very high order and needs no introduction to the lovers of fine music. The price of admission has been placed very low, and the chapel ought to be crowded.

Real Estate Inducements.

Among the many inducements now being offered to home seekers none of them are more worthy of attention than those offered by the Plainfield Real Estate Company. Their property is beautifully located, convenient to school church, electric and steam cars. City water and electric lights are on the property. There can be nothing objectionable, as every lot is restricted. This property is advertised in today's issue.

ENGINE OF LIVE PARTS.

NOVEL SORT OF AN AFFAIR GIVEN BY JUNIOR ENDEAVORERS.

Each Part of the Iron Horse Was Represented by a Child Illustrating Some Portion of Christian Service in Missions.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by those who attended the missionary concert given last evening by the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church. Many of the older people were present and before the evening was over they were given good reason for being exceedingly proud of their Juniors.

The programme opened with a chorus of welcome, sung by the society. It was entitled "A Welcome to All." Then with bowed heads the society listened to a prayer, offered by Bulah Van Winkle.

The third piece on the programme was the building of the "Missionary Locomotive," by the Juniors. The welcome to the new instrument of religious progress was given by Bessie Randell. Clarence Van Doren was the next Junior upon the stage, and acted as leader and superintended the building of the iron horse. Every part of the engine was represented by different characteristics of Christian service and was illustrated by a member of the Juniors. The various parts and what they represented and those who represented them were as follows: Love, the boiler, Luther Sheppard; Strength, the driving wheels, Elmer Bohan; Service, the truck wheels, Cornelius Schenck, Jr.; Courage, the smoke stack, Anna Holder; Prayer, cylinder and connecting rod, Lena Bohan; Patience, sand box, Violet Van Winkle; Mercy, the bell, Clara Martin; Joy, the whistle, Raymond Martin: Meekness and Purity, the oilers, Anna and Hattie Randall; the Head Light, Clyde Slayter; Friendship, the tender, Bulah Van Winkle; Faith, the fuel, Mildred Caleen; Righteousness, the water, Herbert Van Doren; Wisdom, the engineer, Bertram Legget; Zeal, the fireman, Freddie Smith.

Then the leader asked what they were to call the newly constructed machine and all responded "Home Missions."

Leader: "But it does not move," and all responded again. "His command is: 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel,' and His promise is, 'And lo! I am with you always.'"

Leader:—"And how is the locomotive to cross the ravines?" The answer was given by Mable VanDerhoof in the words, "Every valley shall be exalted and every mountain shall be laid low."

Leader:—"But what classes are awaiting its arrival?" and in response several children entered one by one, dressed in the various costumes which belong to the nation or tribe which they belonged to. They were as follows: New Mexico, Hattie Randall; Alaska, Everett Righton; Mormon, Dora Wilson; India, David Wikoff; Mountain White, Lucy Coriell; City Waif, Crissie Mobus; Negro, Albert Yaeger. The children then in costume sang a very appropriate version of the missionary hymn "From Greenlands Icy Mountain," and the children not in costume responded with the hymn "White are the Fields to Harvest."

This exercise was followed by a recitation entitled "Christians Can You Sit Still in Silence." Then the whole society sang a chorus, "Over the Ocean Wave."

Before the second part of the programme was taken up the offering was received which before the evening was over amounted to a pleasing sum.

The second part of the programme opened with a piano duet by Lucy Coriell and Hattie Randall, then a recitation entitled "A Plea for the Indian." Miss Bessie Ten Eyck then rendered an autoharp solo which was greatly enjoyed by all. This was followed by a recitation by May Anthony and the very pleasant evening came to a close with the final chorus, "This is Our Endeavor."

In the will left by the late Mrs. Stout, $500 is bequeathed to the Children's Home and $500 to All Souls' church of this city. Mrs. Stout was a relative of the late Job Male, and when living she was interested considerably in the above two institutions.

SLEPT ON INTO DEATH.

A GERMAN FOUND IN BED WITH LIFE EXTINCT.

August Spitzel Was Suffering From a Heart Ailment From Which He Was Unable to Recover—Newark His Home.

August Spitzel, known as "Gus," was a bologna maker living in Newark. For the last two months he has been ill with heart disease, but when A. G. Vogeler proprietor of the Union Market in this city, wanted another man in that line, Spitzel took the job and came to Plainfield Monday and began work. His wife and three children remained at their home in Newark.

Spitzel could speak but very little English, and so had little to say to the other men in the shop. It was plain to see, however, that he was very ill. He tried to accomplish his task but he had to remain every night until late to do it. Last night he did not leave the store until after 11 o'clock, he was so weak.

Mr. Vogeler secured board for Spitzel with Charles Ficke, the upholsterer at 128 West Second street. Last night he went to his room at a late hour. He did not come down this morning and Mr. Vogeler came over at eight o'clock to see what was the matter. Ficke went upstairs to Spitzels' room and found the man lying on the bed with his head hanging over the side. A glance at him showed that he was dead. The boarding house keeper notified Chief Grant and the latter notified the police in Newark who told the sad news to the family in that city. County Physician Westcott was also notified of the death by the Chief.

Spitzel was a man of about forty-five years. A German by nationality, once robust and broad shouldered. The traces of the fatal illness were evident in his face. There seems to be no doubt regarding the cause of his death. It was heart disease.

Mrs. Spitzel arrived here on the 12:45 train from Newark. She took charge of the body and will have it interred in this city. County Physician Westcott granted a burial permit. The interment will take place tomorrow afternoon. Witzel leaves three children.

READ HER OWN FARCES.

MRS. FLORENCE HOWE HALL'S CLEVER RECITAL YESTERDAY.

Original and Filled With Many Delicate Jests They Pleased the Audience of Cultured Women Who Were Present.

The first of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall's course of parlor entertainments took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Francis Wood. Despite the threatening weather, a large audience of ladies well known in Plainfield's social and literary circles were present, and expressed themselves as much pleased with the programme which was a varied one.

Mrs. Hall began with giving an account of Democrities, "The Laughing Philosopher," so-called by the Ancient Greeks, and then proceeded to read several farces of her own composition. The first of these was "The Judgment of Minerva"—a hit at the remonstrants who do not want the suffrage themselves and wish to prevent other women from voting. The other two sketches were entitled "Moving Day" and "The Quiet of the Country," all three provoking much laughter.

The next of the series, will consist of an account (in English) of Moliere, his life and works, with recitations (in French) by Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, Mrs. Hall's daughter, at the home of Mrs. Rowland Cox on Friday afternoon next.

Among those present yesterday were: Mrs. Orville T. Waring, Mrs. Warren Ackerman, Mrs. Charles Hyde and Miss Hyde, Mrs. J. K. Myers, Miss E E. Kenyon, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Miss Tweedy, Mrs. David Neill Rowland, Mrs. Samuel Kimball, Mrs. J. H Ludlum, Miss Sarah Hayes, Mrs. Clapp, Miss Clapp, Miss Reinhart, Mrs. M. H. Eaton, Mrs. De Forest Thomas, Mrs. L. W. Miller, Rev. and Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. S F Krom, Miss Julia Scribner, Mrs. Maxson, Mrs. Grace, Miss Josephine Randolph, Mrs. Ruth Leonard, Mrs. Francis Wood, Miss Wood and many others.

A Lecture on Architecture.

On Thursday evening next, the 18th inst, Dr. G. A. Audsley will deliver an instructive lecture on the rise an progress of the mediaeval church architecture of England, illustrating his remarks by a large and fine series of stereoptieon views. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Plainfield Camera Club, and its stereopticon gallery will be used for the occasion, the large room in which the club held its recess exhibition of works of art.

SMALL BOY BUT A TERROR

HIS MOTHER SAYS HE PLAYS HOOKEY AND SMOKES CIGARETTE BUTTS.

Frank Hart Says That He Was Stealing Pigeons but the Youngster Tells How He Was a Victim of Circumstances.

A lad of thirteen summers appeared before City Judge DeMeza, this morning, and told a remarkable story. The lad either had an imagination of unusual size or else he was the victim of a chain of circumstances of particularly unpleasing nature.

Patrolman Higgins was strolling along his beat on Park avenue last evening, when Frank Hart, a resident of West Fourth street, appeared on the scene, leading a very diminutive prisoner by the arm. He turned the boy over to the officer with the request that he be locked up. The lad, he said, had been stealing his pigeons. The lad was so small that the officer was doubtful whether the cell would hold him, fearing that he might slip out between the bars, but at last he locked the youngster up for the night.

This morning the lad was brought before the City Judge accompanied by his mother. The lad's name was John Snediker and he lived in Battle row.

His story was that he had been walking on West Fourth street, last evening, when his friend, Tom Kelly, came by and snatched his hat and ran up the alley. John Snediker followed and recovered his hat. Again it was spirited away and again recovered. The third time Kelly captured it Snediker went up the alley, where he found it lying on the ground. Then Snediker said that he picked up his hat only to find that there was a pigeon under it which flew away when he took his hat. Then, according to the lad's story, he felt the grasp of the angry owner of the pigeons who marched the youngster down town.

Hart said that he saw the two lads at the pigeon loft and that they had run when he appeared. He had pursued one of them and captured him.

The mother of the youthful prisoner said that her son had not been going in the ways of the good little boy but had been smoking cigarette butts, playing hookey from school and running out late at night. The Judge severely reprimanded the lad and told him to appear next Saturday morning when the other boy would be there too.

A Talk About Indians.

The meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the church was of unusual interest. A paper entitled "The Vocation of the Indians, Tribes and Their Differences, and Their Legal Rights," was read by Miss Grace Emmons. Another paper entitled "The Manners, Customs and Religion of the Indians," was read by Miss Grace Nevius. The papers were exceedingly interesting, and awakened many new ideas about the Indians. The next meeting of the Band will be held in three weeks.

NEW AMBASSADORS

At Least Four Names Decided Upon by President McKinley.

TO BE SENT TO SENATE NEXT WEEK

John Hay to the Court of St. James, W. R. Merriam to Germany, W. E. Draper to Italy and Horace Porter to France.

Washington, March 13.—According to trustworthy authority President McKinley has decided upon at least four of the new ambassadors and their names will be sent to the senate for confirmation early next week, probably on Tuesday. John Hay of Washington has been chosen as ambassador to Great Britain; Horce Porter of New York to France; William R. Merriam of Minnesota to Germany, and William E. Draper of Massachusetts to Italy. Mr. Merriam was originally slated for the position of secretary of the treasury. He had the endorsement of Mr. Hanna for the ambassadorship. Mr. Merriam has ample means and is considered well qualified for the position at the foreign court. The Minnesota senators are pleased with his selection. His wife is of German origin and speaks the language fluently. Ex-Congressman Draper's selection for the Italian mission is different from what was first contemplated. He preferred the German embassy, and he was strongly indorsed by men of great influence for that post.

The Public Reception.

Yesterday afternoon's public reception was largely attended. Between 1,500 and 1,800 people shook hands with the president in the east room. One of the callers was a very tall man—a veritable giant—who towered high above the head of the president. When the latter looked up in surprise at this remarkable specimen of humanity and the giant leaned down to grasp the president's hand, the people in the east room began laughing and kept it up for some time. The president saw the funny side of the meeting and joined in. Then everybody laughed again. Many little children came with parents or nurses and the youngsters each received a pat on the head in addition to the conventional handshake. One unconscious little girl walked past the president without seeing him, but Mr. McKinley drew her back and sent her away happy. Altogether the reception was a very pleasant affair, and no one seemed to enjoy it more than the man who had to do all the work. Senators Hanna, Foraker and Kyle and ex-Senator Brice were the principal callers during the afternoon. Capt. Julius A. Palmer, secretary to ex-Queen Liliuokalani, says that neither the ex-queen nor any member of her suite has been advised that she will be received in the line of the usual throng of visitors at the white house, and further that he has never asked to see the president. Capt. Palmer speaks in praise of the considerate treatment he has received at the white house under the present adimnistration and that of President Cleveland.

MOTHER M'KINLEY IN CANTON.

The Venerable Woman Said She Was Glad To Get Back to Her Old Home.

Canton, O., March 13.—The mother of President McKinley, who returned home last evening, is in good health and she said she had enjoyed the trip to Washington and the inaugural ceremony, as well as the trip to and from the capital, and was glad to get back to the old home again. Mother McKinley was accompanied by her daughter Helen and by Capt. Heistand, U. S. A., who has been detailed as military aid to the president. The trip from Washington was made over the Pennsylvania railroad in President Hugh's private car. Capt. Heistand will ship some of the personal effects of the president to Washington and store the rest of his goods. A tenant will take possession of the president's house on April 1.

The Case of Mrs. Ruiz.

Washington, March 13.—Attorneys for Mrs. Ruiz, who had an interview at the state department yesterday with Secretary Sherman relative to the collection from Spain of an indemnity for the death of her husband, a naturalized American citizen, in a Spanish prison in Cuba, are preparing a written statement of the case for the consideration of Secretary Sherman. Mrs. Ruiz speaks gratefully of the interest manifested in her story by both Secretary Sherman and President McKinley, and she is confident that the justice of her claim will be admitted.

The Wool Market.

Boston, March 13.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin says of the wool market: "The sales of the week have been 4,183,000 pounds domestic and 2,547,000 pounds foreign. The market is active. Boston dealers are still buying on speculation. The scoured cost of ordinary fine medium territory has advanced a cent to 33 cents. American purchases at the current London sales are expected to reach 60,000 bales

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Pottery and Woolen Schedules Now Under Consideration.

RECIPROCITY CLAUSES THE TROUBLE

The Committee Endeavoring To Reach Some Plan That Will Open German and French Markets to Our Meat Products.

Washington, March 13.—The republican members of the ways and means committ are still working over the pottery and woolen schedules of the tariff bill and endeavoring to arrange the reciprocity clauses so as to open French and German markets to American meat products and live stock. A good deal of trouble is being found in putting the woolen and pottery schedules in a form satisfactory to all interests. The committee is endeavoring to agree upon specific duties instead of the ad-valorem rates which formed a part of the McKinley law as well as the present law. The wool growers are very much dissatisfied with the rates on carpet wool, and the committee is endeavoring to adopt a graded scale of specific duties. The great variety of articles in the pottery schedule makes a specific system difficult to arrange, but efforts in that direction are being made. The McKinley schedules on both these articles are likely to be embodied in the bill introduced in the house next week, leaving changes to be made if they are found practical at a later stage in the consideration of the measure. The method adopted for compelling France and Germany to abolish their restrictions upon American live-stock and meat products is the offer of slight concessions in the duties upon mineral waters, champagnes, gloves, silks, chicoi and argol.

NEW YORK GREEKS MEET.

Big Gathering To Devise Means To Aid the Cretan Refugees.

New York, March 13.—An important mass meeting of the Greeks of this city was held last night in Chickering hall. The main object of the meeting was to express sympathy with the Cretan refugees in Greece, and it was called by Demetricus N. Botassi, the Greek consul general. One of the objects of the meeting was to devise means for the raising of funds to transport the Greek reserves in this country to the Levant. King George of Greece has ordered to Athens for active war service all the reserves in America under forty-seven years of age, but no appropriation was made to furnish transportation. Chickering hall was crowded with the sympathisers of Greece and there was great enthusiasm. President Seth Low of Columbia university presided, and in opening the meeting said that the primary object of the meeting was to arouse interest in the condition of the Cretan refugees in Greece. "It is hoped," he said, "that when the facts are fully understood, the American people will be willing to contribute liberally to help the people of Greece to carry their heavy and unusual burden. His blood must run cold indeed that has not been stirred by the heroic action of little Greece in rushing to the relief of Crete in the face of armed and protesting Europe. The civilized world has small confidence in a European concert that has been able to maintain the peace but has not been able to preserve the Armenians from being massacred by the thousands."

To Maintain Russia's Integrity.

Budapest, March 13.—In the lower house of the Hungarian diet last night the government was interpellated as to the outlook for a peaceable settlement of the Cretan imbroglio. Baron Banffy, the prime minister, replying to the question, declared that he believed that the great powers had everywhere shown their firm resolution to maintain the integrity of the Ottoman empire, and to render the chances of war impossible.

Foreign Troops for Crete.

Vienna, March 13.—The admirals commanding the European squadrons in Cretan waters have suggested to their respective governments the advisability of each power contributing 1,000 soldiers to be employed in occupying the towns in the northern part of Crete for the purpose of preserving order.

More Trouble Brewing for Turkey.

Berlin, March 13.—A report comes from Constantinople that large quantities of Gras rifles and cartridges are being smuggled into Chios, an island belonging to Turkey off the west coast of Asia Minor, and sold to the inhabitants at nominal prices. The arms are smuggled by the way of Smyrna.

Force the Answer to Greece's Note.

Vienna, March 13.—The Fremdenblatt, a semi-official organ, says that the view taken by the powers of the reply of Greece to their identical note is that it can only be answered by the employment of force to compel Greece to obey the will of Europe.

New York Greeks Sail for Home.

New York, March 13.—About fifty patriotic Greeks have sailed for home at their own expense to aid their king in the event of war.

No Boxing Permit for Yale.

New Haven, Conn., March 13.—Police Superintendent Smith has absolutely declined to give a boxing permit to the Yale Track Athletic association for the games at the Second Regiment armory this afternoon. He stated that he would grant a permit if the boxing events were limited to Yale men.

Gold Standard for Japan.

Yokohama, March 13.—The house of representatives has passed the bill establishing a gold standard in Japan.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN DOES NOT PAY ITS OWNERS.

A Chat With DeKoven While the Composer Was in a Reminiscent Mood—Success of the Girl from Paris Makes Clara Lipman a Star of a Certain Magnitude.

The handsome Madison Square Garden does not pay. It belongs to a stock company, with a capital stock of $2,000,000, divided into 100 shares, which have recently sold in the market as low as $9.00. The trouble seems to be that there is too much of the ground unprofitably occupied with restaurant, offices and minor exhibition rooms. The proposition has already been made to tear down the whole Madison Square front and erect apartment houses on the ground. It would be a great pity for the city to lose this spacious and popular resort, but it is altogether likely that the stockholders at their next regular meeting will either sell or remodel the property. One is forced to the conclusion that the locality is in some measure the cause of its failure. Had the Garden been on upper Broadway, doubtless the restaurant itself, in competent hands, would have been a gold mine.

CLARA LIPMAN.

Clara Lipman, who stars in The Girl from Paris, is one of the most pleasing figures engaged in extravaganza upon the New York stage today. The Girl from Paris has now been for three months at the Herald Square Theatre, and there is no announcement of its withdrawal. The one hundredth performance was recently given. More or less appreciated souvenirs were given out upon the occasion. This souvenir business is a cheap practice, good enough for Bowery play houses, but annoying when indulged in by up-town theatres of ordinary repute. Would that managers might so view it.

An interesting bit of history of Reginald DeKoven developed in my conversation with him recently. Mr. DeKoven was but 22 years old when he composed his first opera, and he was at that time assistant paying teller in a bank in this city. He was already the composer of a few songs, but had had nothing published. "Cupid, Hymen & Co." was the title of his first effort in the operatic line, and Mr. DeKoven was the author of the libretto as well as the composer of the score. It was first offered to McCaull, but was declined, and ultimately was sold to the Chicago Ideals Opera Company. Although the opera was in rehearsal for some time, it was never produced, owing to the fact that the Ideals disbanded.

It was shortly after this that Mr. De Koven made the acquaintance of Mr. Smith, and they have been collaborating ever since. About the first words which Smith ever said to De Koven were:

"You must feel awfully good to have an opera of yours in rehearsal."

An opera under the title of "Fort Caramel" was the first joint effort of these gentlemen, who have since become so prominent in their respective lines, but it shared the fate of "Cupid, Hymen & Co.," and was never seen from the front.

After Mr. De Koven's marriage he became very much interested in the choice selection of books on East India which Senator Farwell possessed, and the result of a careful study of them was an opera called "The Begum." Mr. De Koven says that much of the music of "The Begum" was taken from the scores of his previous efforts, because he felt that it was too good to be wasted.

A funny thing happened in connection with his offering it to the managers for their approval. The story, in his words, is as follows:

"I was told one day that I could play the score to two managers at Lyon & Healy's, and I went there to do so. I remember that I had just pared my nails, and that I had cut them too short, and th econsequence was that when I played the piano my fingers began to bleed, so that in a few moments the keys were covered with blood. My audience discovered it and stopped me, and I afterwards learned that I had been playing my score to the advertising agent and the bill poster of a local theater."

Mr. De Koven regards "The Mandarin," now in the Great Northern Theater, as the best of all his operas.

ROSE FANCHON.

A Scotch clergyman in Melbourne, Australia, they say, has arrayed his male choristers in Highland dress, while the women are attired in the costumes of the "Lady of the Lake." The hymns are sung to the strains of the bagpipe, and the church is crowded.

Spring Medicine

Experience teaches the importance of special care of the health.

And fixed among the important principles of hygiene and health is the acknowledged necessity of a good Spring Medicine.

Just as firmly established by the experiences of millions of people, is the positive fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla is "far and away" the best blood purifier and spring medicine ever produced.

The necessity is found in the impure condition of the blood at this season, owing to the close confinement and breathing vitiated air in office, store, shop, house, schoolroom or factory; excessive eating and drinking too rich and hearty food; late hours and social indulgences. With the blood thus thick and impure, the machinery of life grinds hard.

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, builds up and strengthens the nerves and tones the stomach. It oils up the machinery of the whole body; the liver takes up its work anew, the kidneys resume activity, the ache goes out of the back, the bowels are regulated, the appetite restored, the food is relished and assimilated.

Don't wait till you are thoroughly sick before you begin to take a Spring Medicine.

Lock the door before the horse is stolen.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now as a preventive and it will pay you a thousand fold in health and strength through the coming summer.

"We always take several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family every spring as a tonic and blood purifier and we find that it overcomes that tired feeling gives new life, and keeps us well all summer." WM. RINGEL, 813 5th Ave., Peoria, Illinois.

Excellent Spring Medicine.

"For a number of years I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla in the spring, not for any particular ailment, but on general principle, that the system needs a tonic at this time, and I have always found Hood's Sarsaparilla a most excellent spring medicine." HAKON HAMMER, Engineer, Pottstown, Pennsylvania.

That Tired Feeling.

"I was troubled with that tired feeling all the spring. I purchased three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken about half of it I was feeling well again. I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be an excellent blood purifier and tonic." MISS ORA E. MORGAN, Busey, Illinois.

Builds up the Health.

"We take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a tonic in the spring. Two of our children had tonsilitis and their blood was in a bad condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla built them up, and we have taken it again this spring with much benefit." MRS. P. H. CAHOON, Pleasant Lake, Mass.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. There is no substitute for Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. FATAL HOTEL FIRE.

Three Lives Lost at Buffalo and Two Persons Injured.

Buffalo, March 13.—The old Chicago house, at the southeast corner of Washington and Exchange streets, was nearly gutted by fire yesterday afternoon and so rapid was the spread of the flames, fanned as they were by a gale raging with the velocity of over seventy miles an hour, that three inmates lost their lives and two were injured. The dead are: Edward O'Donnell, Paddy Brennan and William S. Hanahan, all of Buffalo. The injured: William Wilson and Mrs. William Wilson, also of Buffalo. O'Donnell was burned to a crisp; Hanahan was suffocated while he lay in bed, and Brennan, the well known heavyweight boxer, met his fate by flame and terrible leap from the third story of the blazing fire trap. Nothing but the suddenness of the fire can account for the death of the men, for the chances for escape were numerous, had the terrified victims not been surprised and panic-striken. A dozen engines were soon at work, and in less than fifteen minutes the fire was under control and all danger of its spreading to the valuable property in the vicinity was over. Meanwhile tragedies were being enacted. On a window sill in an alley in the rear of the hotel stood a woman shrieking frantically and threatening to throw herself to the ground. A ladder was quickly run up and she was rescued without injury.

Brennan's Awful Death.

Just then a man was seen to leap from a window of the third story, landing in the street. He was recognized as Paddy Brennan, the well known ex-pugilist, and he was hurried to the Fitch hospital, where he died in a few minutes, death being due to oedema of the lungs, caused by inhaling the flames. The old fighter was a pitiable sight when his mangled form was laid on a cot at the hospital. Brennan must have been asleep when the fire started. When the firemen had the fire under control so that it was safe to enter it was soon learned that two dead bodies were in the smoking ruins, and that O'Donnell, at one time one of the best known members of the police department, was one of them. The corpse was burned to an ebony hue and the hair burned off, but he was readily identified. The body was found in room No. 14, seated on a trunk in the corner. The body of Hanahan, the hotel porter, was found in a bed on the northerly side of the building on the same floor. Hanahan's death was due to suffocation, the flames having passed him by. He must have been asleep when the fire started and met death without awakening. The hotel was run by Joseph Hart, who lost everything and had no insurance.

STORM AT BUFFALO.

Considerable Damage to Awnings, Signs and Windowpanes.

Buffalo, March 13.—A gale which reached the velocity of seventy-two miles an hour swept over this city last evening and did considerable small damage such as the wrecking of awnings and the breaking of windows. At Tonawanda the damage was much more serious. The rush of water was so great as a result of the high wind that the coffer dam in the canal, which had sprung a leak gave way in part and the state ditch was flooded. The steeple of the First Methodist Episcopal church swayed in the wind to such an extent that it was expected to fall at any moment, but it successfully resisted the force of the gale.

Wealthy 'Frisco Chinamen Who Must Not Return to China.

TWO BIG SOCIETIES ARE AT WAR

The Condemned Men Now on Their Way to Washington To Consult with the Chinese Minister—They Are Traveling in Grand Style.

Chicago, March 13.—A select party of Chinese merchants of San Francisco, including the wealthiest of the race in America, are now in Chicago enroute to Washington on a particular mission. In the party are Lee Chow, whose fortune is estimated at $3,000,000; Chan Lee Doon, a big rice and tea merchant; Wong Shai Shung, a native American, who is worth $500,000; Lee Fook, member of the cigar firm of Cabanas & Co. and credited with an estate worth $800,000; Fung Yow Kaing, president of the See Yup society; Moy Burk Fun, the interpreter; J. C. Campbell of Reddy, Watson & Campbell, San Francisco, counsel for the See Yup society in Amreica, and Private Secretary Keogh. The party traveled in a private car, which was the scene of concerts, lectures and dramatic recitations by some of the Chinamen and invited fellow-travelers. All the ten Chinamen are members of the See Yup society, which is at war with the Sam Yup society in San Francisco. Fung Yung Hang, the consul there, sent to the Chinese minister at Washington recently a list of charges against prominent members of the See Yups, accusing them of plotting against the Chinese empire. The minister sent the charges to Pekin as true. Lee Chow and President Kiang were sentenced to be beheaded if they touched Chinese territory and over a dozen relatives of the other members of the party were imprisoned and their property confiscated. It is to have these troubles removed that the See Yups are now on their way to Washington. The Chinese members of the party, arrayed in silken robes, were received in state by the leaders of Chinatown on their arrival and will be entertained until this evening. They are staying at the Auditorium hotel.

NEGLIGENT CONGRESSMEN.

Delay in the Filing of Their Certificates with the Clerk of the House.

Washington, March 13.—Congressmen-elect have been singularly negligent in forwarding to the clerk of the house their certificates of election so as to get their names placed on the roll which the holding-over clerk of the house of representatives will read at the meeting of congress in extraordinary session on Monday next. No one whose certificate has not been received can be placed on that list except by unanimous consent. This morning there are twenty certificates missing. This negligence is the more remarkable inasmuch as the representatives begin to draw pay from March 4, just as soon as their certificates are enrolled. Those who are not on the list cannot, of course, participate in the organization of the house, but it is quite likely that nearly all the present absentees will turn up on Monday and bring their certificates with them. They were all notified at the beginning of the week to have their certificates ready.

SPECIAL LICENSE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

It has always been a matter of aim and pride with the officials of this city and the borough that they protect home merchants as much as possible by compelling all itinerant peddlers or merchants to pay a license fee before being allowed to do business within the municipal limits. It is very interesting, then, to note that a recent decision handed down by Chief Justice Beasely, of the United States Supreme Court, declares that all agents, canvassers or salesmen, etc., are exempt from all special State, county or town taxes. All such special licenses are declared unconstitutional, and any law officer who attempts to enforce them is individually liable to damages.

SOME EFFECT ANYWAY.

Whether or not the Ellsworth bill in the New York State Legislature, prohibiting newspapers from using the picture of any person without their consent, becomes a law, it is certainly having a salutary effect on some of the New York newspapers that have been printing nightmare pictures for the past year to the complete disgust of every decent person. There has been a noticeable improvement in the class of illustrations in these papers within the last week or two, since the bill that was first considered as a joke has met with approval from unexpected quarters and stands a good chance of being enacted.

BOROUGH SCHOOL ELECTION.

A Correspondent Who Favors Continuing the Present Administration.

To the Editor of the Daily Press:—Now that the local political campaign is over the thoughts of all good citizens will be directed toward the coming school meeting. No one can successfully deny that the present administration has done a great amount of good and that the school is better and more advanced today than it was two years ago.

Personal matters are mere incidents when compared to the important questions of reform and progress.

That there is more or less dissatisfaction with the present Board every observant person must admit. Upon what grounds is the opposition based? Are those who criticise thoroughly familiar with the details of school work? Are they willing to serve as members of the Board and give part of their leisure time to the detail duties of finance, books and other small but important school matters?

Are they willing to run the gauntlet of abuse from their well-meaning, but hot-tempered townsmen?

It must be remembered that school trustees serve the public without pay and that their reward is apt to be like that of Robert Morris, the masterly financier of Revolution, public distrust and a poor house.

Let those who propose to attend next Tuesday's meeting for the purpose of objecting and of destroying give the subject calm, judicial inquiry and they will become firm, enthusiastic supporters of the present administration and its good, disinterested and patriotic work.

SANITARY COMPANY LICENSED.

Board of Health Authorizes to Proceed in Collecting Garbage.

The Plainfield Sanitary Company was last evening licensed by the Board of Health to collect the city garbage for the ensuing year. The proposal of the company contains very careful stipulations as to the manner of collection, which cannot fail to commend their methods to the public. Pending the construction of their plant, the work of collection will be done as of present, under the supervision of the company.

Sewer connections were ordered by the Board as fast as the house to house inspections are made, beginning in the heart of the city, and leaving the thinly settled portions until the last.

Various details of plumbing practice were considered, and it was ordered that no pan closets be allowed in buildings to be connected with sewers.
